An exhaustive search through the works of Western Christianity did not help very much. The number three may have come from the Epistle of the Trinity. The names first appear in the works of the Venerable Bede — many centuries later. In Bede's day, however, at least four other sets of names were current.

SYMBOLIC TRADITION

As for the gold, frankincense and myrrh of the Christmas carol, Prof. Plumptre thought they were symbolic: they symbolized Christ's royalty, the bitterness he was to experience, and, finally, his death.

A similar search through the traditions of the Eastern Orthodox Church and some evidence from the Roman Catholic Church did, however, throw more light on the matter.

Eastern tradition is much more explicit.

The wise men were three and they were oriental. They were Magi priests of Zoroaster and they were three of twelve who had been warned in a writing that bore the name of Seth to expect the birth of a great spiritual king. The twelve had been set to stand watch near a great stone in the desert and to watch day and night until a star appeared which would guide them. The tradition does not say, but since the pests would have been astrologers it is reasonable to suppose that the star would have "appeared" in an astrological sense.

Ultimately the star did appear. The chosen three were given an army of 1,000 men. With them they set out on a two-year march in the wake of the star. On the banks of the Euphrates, they left behind 6,000 of the men and proceeded with the other 1,000 to Jerusalem.

There the three went on alone, seeking advice from Herod and ultimately arriving at Bethlehem. Having paid their homage, they went back to await further ... d and it is believed they ... d where they had left the bulk of their army on the banks of the Euphrates.

When the disciples of Christ were sent out into the world to preach the new Gospel, St. Thomas headed East.

In Chaldea (a part of modern Iraq) and traditionally the birthplace of Abraham, he encountered the Magi whom he baptized. Allegedly, they were the first gentiles to become Christians and, after the baptism, they went forth to preach the gospel.)

This story was passed on by word of mouth and no factual evidence substantiating it appears until the fourth century church leaders in Constantinople became interested in the matter.

INAUGURATED FEAST

In the same century, Eutorgius, a clerical diplomat of considerable repute, visited Constantinople and, when he was appointed Bishop of Milan, received permission to have the bodies taken there.

The matter seems to have come to the attention of Pope Julius, who made his own inquiries, and was apparently also satisfied. In any case, he inaugurated the feast of the Three Wise Men in 336 A.D.

The bodies remained in Milan until 1164 when Frederick Barbarossa, Emperor of Germany and later Holy Roman Emperor, threatened the city. They were then taken to Cologne Cathedral for safety. They remain there to this day.

The difficulty about this story is simply that the contemporary evidence which satisfied Pope Julius and Eustorgius died with the possessors in Constantinople. Western tradition is incomplete because neither Julius nor Eustorgius seems to have made any exact note of the evidence. Eastern Orthodox tradition is mainly verbal.

he scholars, therefore, refuse to commit themselves. Prof. Plumptre, for instance, was clearly sceptical.

NOTED FOR SAGACITY

On the other hand, Eustorgius, who undertook many complicated missions, was noted for his sagacity. He is unlikely to have been taken in, and he arrived in Constantinople not so very long after the bodies had been found.

Relic-sellers would have received short shrift from him.

St. Matthew must be assumed to have written what he took to be the truth. Religious men from the East whom he described as Magi were almost certainly priests of Zoroaster and, if so, they would have taken their mission seriously.

They might well have waited 30 years in Chaldea for further word. There is no indication in the story of how long the twelve priests had watched by the rock in the dessert but the implication is that it was a very long time. Another 10 or 12 years would not have seemed too much.

As for St. Thomas, he certainly did meet with success. There is no evidence to suggest that he had help from men considerable authority. What more likely than that that help did come from the Magi of St. Matthew. Perhaps, of course, it did not but the record says they met, but their later disciples. No matter, it is enough.

Somehow, though, the story has the ring of truth.....

Unmistakable War Signs Seen Along Route Holy Family Took From Jerusalem to Bethlehem

Editor's note: The war look is everywhere in the Holy Land. Barbed wire, gun emplacements, munitions dumps and land mines of the Arab and Israel armies are never far from the road from Jerusalem to Bethlehem, where Christ was born nearly 2,000 years ago.

By WILTON WYNN

BETHLEHEM, Jordan (AP) — The olive trees of Palestine are age-old symbols of peace. But as Christmas approaches in 1956 olive trees on the road to Bethlehem camouflage anti-aircraft guns and munitions dumps.

All along the route the Holy Family took from Jerusalem to Bethlehem are sites connected with the birth of the Prince of Peace. But woven into all these holy scenes today are the unmistakable signs of war.

The road from Jerusalem forms a bastion for a modern army. Soldiers of Jordan's Arab Legion tread the stones where Roman legions stood guard in the time of Christ.

STILL TEND SHEEP

On the slopes of the Judean hills shepherds still tend their flocks and bed them down at night in limestone caves as they did the night Jesu was born. But many of their erstwhile pastures have been transformed into munitions dumps. And the shepherd must tread carefully lest they touch off land mines.

Arabs and Israelis have been at war in this area since 1948. An uneasy truce has kept the guns silenced most of the time. But this year savage fighting has broken out along the Jordan frontier, and Israel invaded Egypt to the south.

This outbreak brought the main force of Jordan's army to the heart of the Holy Land. Sites revered by the birth and life of Christ have become a background for heavy artillery and howitzers and gun emplacements, pillboxes and trench mortars.

TAKE LONG ROUTE

Inside the walls of Jelusalem's Old City near the tower of David is the Latin convent, where just inside the white - bearded Latin patriarch of Jerusalem, Arcadio Gori. On Christmas Eve the patriarch will travel to Bethlehem to officiate at Christmas mass at the Church of the Nativity, built on the site of Jesus' birth.

Ordinarily, the patriarch would leave through the Jaffa Gate on the western wall of the city. Since 1948, however, the gate has been closed because the wall on that side now runs almost on the line of no man's land.

Because of war conditions the patriarch now must take a circuitous route to east and south in order not to cross the military frontier. This road runs east of the walled city past the Mount of Olives and the Valley of Kedron, down into the Valley of Jehoshophat south of the city.

ON FLAG

In the distance, to the west, the blue and white flag of the United Nations flies over a building silting almost alone on a hill. This hill was known to the ancients as "the Hill of Evil Counsel," the place where the high priests and pharisees plotted the crucifixion of Christ.

A few miles beyond the Hill of Evil Counsel, the road comes within sight of Israeli territory. Looking up a slope from the road you can see Israeli troops manning gun positions while on the fields behind Israeli farmers work the land.

At the point where the old road from Jerusalem meets the longer road Jordan soldiers stand guard amid barbed - wire entanglements. This road is opened only once a year, on Christmas Eve, when the cupola of Jerusalem cross from Israeli Jerusalem to attend midnight mass. For centuries the tourists have been honored guests at the mass in Bethlehem.

CAUSE OF TROUBLE

Approaching Bethlehem on either road you can see clearly the basic cause of trouble in the Holy Land today. Here acres of tent camps cover the slopes. Inhabitants of these camps are Arab refugees, driven from their homes on the Israeli side of the line. A million refugees live around the perimeter of Israel and veer some day to return home. Peace appears remote until the claims of these people have been satisfied somehow.

Just beyond the refugee camps the Church of the Nativity sits on a hill on the edge of town of Bethlehem On the church are three bell towers representing the three great faiths who are the church—Armenian, Orthodox and Roman Catholic.

A massive star mounted above the bell towers is lighted on Christmas Eve. It can be seen for miles around, by Arab and Jew alike. And the star was an inspiration to wise men who first came from the East today it is the one hopeful sign that peace ultimately may come to the that divided Holy Land.

Christmas in Soviet Had Big Revival in Second World War

By ROY ESSOYAN

MOSCOW (AP)—Almost everybody celebrates Christmas in atheist Soviet Russia. They lump it with New Year holidays as everybody's happy.

There's a Christmas tree in practically every home, only it's called a New Year tree. Santa Claus reigns supreme for the kiddies, only he's called Grandfather Frost.

All the Christmas cards have New Year slogans of peace and coexistence but nobody minds too much — Moscow's frosty spires cannot down even the crunching snow are more like a Christmas card than the store-bought facsimiles.

REVIVED DURING WAR

Christmas underwent a revival in Soviet Russia during the Second World War. The government decided the church could play an important role in inspiring patriotism. And, presto, out came the Christmas trees.

The process of relative liberalization started after Stalin's death had little to do with popularizing Christmas. Christmas was safely back in style before then — it changed for better or worse, years, it is here to stay.

Christmas seems to mean most to the generation between parents and grandchildren. The generation that grew up in between, in the bitter 1920s and 1930s, has had to adjust to it but apparently goes along for the sake of the children and the old folks.

Despite the widespread observances, however, Russian Christmas celebrations lack the flavor of pre-revolutionary days when the churches trudged through the snow from house to house sining Christmas carols, and every village had its snow games and sleighing parties.

Today, over the Christmas-New Year holiday's the frosty night air is filled with the sound of song, but the songs are usually marching songs. Even at parties the boys and girls returning arm in arm from club dances and school dances.

Moscow has all the trimmings of a Christmas time-happy winter sar, crunching snow, bustling people. Department stores are crowded until the eleventh hour. Champagne corks pop fast and furious in retail shops equipped with special booths, the closest thing to bars in the Soviet Union. Streets and squares are filled with the smell of fir trees and resinous pine. The Christmas tree or two spread across his neighbor's lap.

But in other years the Kremlin, a forbidding fortress in Stalin's day, has been open each Christmas to the children of Moscow.

LIGHTER IN KREMLIN

Some 10,000 children troop through every day of the holidays. Inside, ancient halls and palaces echo with laughter and song, girlish squeals, massed cheers and the tinkling of piano music.

A brightly lit revolving Christmas tree 25 feet tall tickles the giant chandeliers of St. George's Hall in the grand Kremlin palace where the czars once held court in imperial splendor and the presidium of the Soviet government held their stateliest functions.

Clowns and mimics prance about and acrobats turn somersaults under the world stunning of balalaikas and the clash of Oriental cymbals.

Beside the widespread observances, however, Russian Christmas celebrations lack the flavor of pre-revolutionary days when the churches trudged through the snow from house to house sining Christmas carols, and every village had its snow games and sleighing parties.

ROYAL-NAME

The Strait of Georgia between Vancouver Island and the B.C. mainland was named for George III, who died in 1820.

LETTER to Christmas

"Wonderful weather for Christmas!" Timothy Rowan thought as he tramped home through the snow with an armful of mail from the post office.

But he was apprehensive, for in the bundle was a letter from Caroline, his daughter. Why, he kept asking, would Caroline be writing now, the day before Christmas, unless to tell her parents that she wouldn't be home for the holidays?

Timothy found himself shrinking from the room.

Noisily he stamped the snow from his overshoes on the back porch, then walked into the kitchen which was savory with the odor of his wife Rachel's Christmas cooking. Then, as Rachel approached the bundle of letters he had placed on the table, Timothy found himself shrinking from the room, fearful of how Rachel would take the news.

No Caroline for Christmas! Why, never, since in her 24 years had Caroline been away. But, then, she was building her own life in the city, now — new friends, new interests. And spending the holidays with two old parents was probably pretty dull.

But how would Rachel take it? If only someone, anyone, would spend Christmas with them to relieve the loneliness! Well, how about young Tom Wakefield, with whom Caroline had once been in love, a fine young chap who didn't have a home, and who probably would miss Caroline this Christmas as much as he and Rachel would?

A few minutes later Timothy was tramping downtown through the snow again, and into Tom Wakefield's garage.

"Merry Christmas, Tom!" he shouted, walking into the small office.

"Same to you, Mr. Stone!" cried Tom. "I'll be there!"

"Well, Tom," Timothy began, "you can make a couple of old people pretty happy if you'll come to dinner with us tomorrow. You see—I don't expect Caroline will be coming and, well, it would be nice if you'd join us."

"Gosh, thanks Mr. Stone!" Tom answered. He turned red, then pale. "I'll be there!"

Back home, Timothy was reprimanded. "Well, Mr. Stone, where have you been, leaving me all alone with this news about Caroline?" Rachel's eyes sparkled.

"I know, darling," Timothy said. "It's too bad she can't be here for Christmas, but I've asked Tom Wakefield to join us. It'll be kind of nice having him, you used to be so close. You know, I think that boy is still in love with her—"

Mrs. Stone smiled. "Well, we'd better get busy, since company's coming. Fix a fire in the hearth, will you?" And as Timothy went off on his errand, her eyes followed him, smiling.

The Stone household was a busy place Christmas morning. While Timothy tended his stock and pantry, Rachel fixed the turkey, set the table and then went upstairs to dress. And shortly after noon Tom Wakefield arrived, handsome young Tom, and the three of them sat down in the living room before the fire for a short visit before membering how he and Caroline dinner.

Then an automobile horn blared out front, and Timothy ran to the window.

"It's Caroline!" he shouted, beside himself. "Rachel, come quick! She must have come in on the noon train!"

Then she burst into the room, lovely Caroline, laughing merrily, tossing her bags on the floor and running to her parents.

Suddenly she saw Tom, standing white and tense beside the fireplace, and momentarily her mouth fell open with surprise.

"Oh, Tom!" she cried. "You here, too? This makes it perfect!" And she ran to his arms, while Rachel drew her puzzled husband into the kitchen.

"You may be a pretty smart man, Timothy," she explained quietly as she lifted the turkey from the oven, "but we fooled you that time! You just assumed, because Caroline wrote the day before Christmas, that she wasn't coming home. What she said in the letter was that she was tired of the city and was coming back to stay.

"Of course," she smiled, "I'll give you credit. Poor Caroline's heart was breaking for Tom, so your inviting him here today makes everything perfect!"

"Be Thou Well" On Christmas Day

Among the happy customs of Christmas is that of drinking a wish for health and happiness to the assembled guests — the early name used was "wassail."

The name "wassail" is a contraction of the middle English "wæs hæl," meaning "be thou well."

Wassail was usually prepared in a large wooden bowl. The base of the drink, which was cider, was placed in the bowl and cider ingredients added for seasoning. It was then set on the hearth in front of a log fire and apples were tied above. As the apples began to roast, the juice dripped into the wooden bowl.

Here is a recipe for wassail today:

1 gallon cider, dash of grenadine, 6 egg whites, separated and whipped. Add allspice, cinnamon, crushed cloves to suit and one pint of milk or cream.

TRADITIONAL FARE

No Christmas in Britain would be complete without roast goose or turkey, mince pies and plum pudding with rum-butter sauce. The pudding, made weeks ahead of Christmas is customarily stirred by each member of the family while making a wish.

HANGING THE Stocking

This custom originated with the Dutch. They used their wooden shoes instead of stockings.

When the Dutch came to New Amsterdam, this custom came with them — the wooden shoes being gradually replaced by stockings made for the occasion out of net-like materials. As nearly every home had a fireplace the usual place to hang the stockings was over the fireplace.

Christmas Day

On Christmas Day we repeat the old familiar greeting that, each year, in some mystic way rings fresh and true—"Merry Christmas." Like such words as "hello" and "good-by," there really isn't anything else to say that pulls at our heartstrings as do these old dear words. And so again we say:

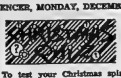
Merry Christmas — to the littlest one who skip downstairs in the gray dawn to explore their stockings and the wondrous tree and to look at Christmas with the special radiance of youth . . . who lend to the rest of us little glimmers of the real Christmas glamour.

Merry Christmas —to father who'll strain a point any day to give us all the things we want . . . who probably works much harder and yet keeps younger and more alert because of the responsibility at a family and the competition of business . . . who makes the gesture of tail-tatting all the fuss and feathers yet beams with affection and excitement.

Merry Christmas to mother who really calls the tune for the holidays and does the planning and pulling together . . . who flutters and bestirs radiantly for weeks ahead and undoubtedly has the best and busiest time of all.

Merry Christmas —to the butcher, the baker, the candlestick-maker, not to mention all those who sold us shoes and shirts and sealing wax . . . for what would Christmas be without them? For through them we've all been able to share our own little prosperity in the most wholesome way of all—by spending it.

Merry Christmas to dear friends far and near who've sent us greetings and gifts . . . most especially do we cherish the greetings because even more than gifts they express the true spirit of Christmas.



Merry Christmas —to the droppers-in who come with holiday cheer and friendship . . . who come to our parties or stop by to leave a glass of extra elegant jelly or an original private-ly invented relish.

Merry Christmas—to ourself, for that matter. But then we feel pretty sure that we'll have one for we've put so much work and excitement and loving getting ready for it. For of course we all get out of Christmas just about what we put in.

Christmas Trees, Cribs and Ceppi

Christmas trees and cribs, within respective spheres of influence, provide focal points for observances of the season.

Various legends claim to tell the story of the first Christmas tree; actually, evergreen decorations were so closely associated with pagan celebrations that they were banned by many ecclesiastics of the early church.

According to literature, the first Christmas tree was set up at Strasbourg, Germany, in 1604; even then the cry arose against heathen customs and, as late as 1831, the Rev. Henry Schwan was severely criticized for setting up a Christmas tree in his church in Cleveland, Ohio.

St. Francis of Assisi received special permission from the Pope to present a tableau of the Nativity scene. This first crib, set up at Greccio, Italy, in 1223, was an immediate sensation; the renaissance endowed the cribs with ornate pageantry and, modernly, the crib is to southern Europe and Catholic countries what the tree is to America and northern lands.

Eighteenth century Italians were fond of a fantastic decoration called the Ceppo. Pyramidical in construction, the Ceppi were made on a framework of lathes with transverse shelves rising to three or four stories, depending on the over-all size of the Ceppo.

The whole thing was covered with colored paper, tufts, tassels, fringes, tiny pine cones, and little flags; a manger scene was represented on the lowest shelf, while the upper ones were covered with small gifts, etc.; wax tapers were placed along the sides and a large gilt cone ornamented the top. Although the designer probably never saw a Christmas tree, the Ceppo — aided by a little imagination — bridges the gap between Christmas cribs and trees.

OLD CUSTOM

For hundreds of years families have observed the custom of placing in a pudding a silver coin (good fortune), a ring (for a wedding), and a thimble (a life of single blessedness), as well as other charms and trinkets. Generally the pudding is doused with brandy and served lighted.

EXPORTS TREES TO CANADA

Among Scotland's newer industries is the export of young Christmas trees. Already, more than a million have been sent to Canada by air but they will not have grown sufficiently for use before the Christmas festivities of 1960. In all, some 20,000,000 young trees are raised each year at West Craigs Nurseries, Furfar, Scotland.

With all the happy wishes
That come to you today

MERRY CHRISTMAS

This usually is a "Christmas wish" column, but after completing one of the trips "around the horn" with the McFarlands something dicked out that is deserving of mention.

This city can well be proud of its senior "A" hockey club. True, a lot of them are French-Canadian. What's wrong with that? One or two do not speak the Queen's English "as she is written."

On the big bus roaring homeward late Sunday night from a victory in Cornwall, the Maes were strangely quiet. Outside a storm was raging.

Somebody started to hum a familiar melody. It was "Holy Night." Another voice took up the words in English. Then another. The volume swelled until the entire club and others aboard had joined the chorus. Christmas had entered the bus. Then they sang it in French. Other familiar carols were sung in simple sincerity. Tommy Taylor, the Eastern Bus Line driver, who is possessed of a fine singing voice "soloed" several numbers, receiving rounds of applause.

Paul Payette, who speaks English with a decided Canadian accent, assumed the role of a negro blues singer and came up with a highly entertaining performance. Woe Willie Mennell, and to be outdone, added his quota of "rock-'n-roll" inclodion.

Belleville, we repeat, can well be proud of its senior "A" hockey representatives. They are gentlemen truly off the ice and on it when they have to be.

And now to all sportsmen and others. Also that other guy who reads this column. Have a wonderful, safe and merriest Christmas ever. And may the dawning year bring you "guys and gals" the things you wish for the most, especially "Peace on Earth, Good Will Towards Men."

All minor teams will no receive a short layoff, the squirts and midgets are playing until January 2nd while Peewees and bantams resume action on January 5th.

Neither team was able to score in the Leaf-Bruin encounter as the boys battled on even terms throughout.

Bill Bourette fired a goal for the Rangers in their 1-0 victory over the Browns. Larry Ward assisted on the play.

Paul Brown scored once and assisted on another for the Black Hawks in their 2-2 deadlock. Jim Chase also scored while Lyle Adams helped on one. Bob Jeffery led the Barons with a goal and an assist. Bob Blaker also scored while Eugene Yorke had an assist.

Bill Sutton tallied the deciding marker in the Habs 3-1 win with John Graham getting their other goal. Ray Jones earned one assist. Hub Pointer was the lone Wing scorer with Graydon Scott and Bob Duggan receiving assists on the goal.

Raps Home Winner Over Leafs Scores 'Evener' With Hawks; Habs, Wings Play Two Ties

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Larry Regan was a bargain-basement buy at $10,000. He's making Boston Bruins look like the sharpest player purchasers in the National Hockey League.

The Regan-cold whinger, picked up by Boston from Quebec Aces of the Quebec Hockey League this year for the $10,000 draft price has scored six goals in the 1956-57 campaign and most of them have been important ones.

He came up with two during the weekend. One gave Bruins a 3-2 victory over Toronto Maple Leafs Saturday. The other saved the Beantowners from a shutout as Chicago Black Hawks beat them 4-1 Sunday.

Meanwhile Montreal Canadiens and Detroit Red Wings clashed in a home-and-home series and ended up with two deadlocks 1-1 Saturday and 3-3 Sunday. On the other Sunday engagement the Leafs drove to their tenth triumph of the season with a 3-1 win over New York Rangers.

PURCHASED UNTRIED

Team manager Lynn Patrick and coach Milt Schmidt figured the one peek at Regan before buying him from Quebec.

"Regan got the big goal for us against Detroit," Patrick said Friday. "Then he scored Saturday. We tied Detroit 1-1. Regan has scored only two goals this season but all have been important goals. I think he'll do better for the rest of the season."

At Toronto, Regan, a native of North Bay, scored goal No. 5 at 7:25 of the third period to make it 3-2. Leo Labine had earlier scored twice for Boston before 12,590 fans. Leaf marksmen were wingers Bob Pulford and Ron Hurst.

It was a costly game for both teams. Bruins lost rookie centre Jack Caffery, who suffered a strained ligament in his right knee and will be out for possibly six weeks. Leaf forward Barry Cullen emerged with a knuckle-bone fracture that may keep him on the sidelines for three weeks.

ROLLINS STARS

Bruins weren't as sharp against the last-place Hawks before 7,982 customers at Chicago Sunday. They were down 3-0 before Regan got his goal. Jack McIntyre, a former Bruin, Forbes Kennedy, Eddie Litzenberger and Gus Bartleton tallied for Hawks.

Chicago goaltender Al Rollins was brilliant. He stopped 17 Bruin drives in the first period and went on to make 41 saves in all.

Rudy Migay, a defensive specialist, showed unexpected offensive power at New York Sunday as he led Leafs to their win over Rangers with two goals. A crowd of 15,169, one of the largest this season in New York's Madison Square Garden, saw Tod Sloan get Toronto's other goal. Gur Gerdeon was the Ranger marksman.

Bower was in the New York nets, subbing for the injured Gump Worsley. Worsley has an injured back but it is not known how long he will be out.

HALL HOLDS FORT

At Montreal, Detroit goaltender Glenn Hall performed brilliantly as the Wings and Canadiens battled to their draw before 13,928 fans. Hall was the target of 38 shots.

Both goals came in the first period. Ted Lindsay scored for Detroit and Bert Olmstead for Montreal.

The game at Detroit was a dilly. Gordie Howe scored two goals and Lindsay one as the Red Wings edged as Wings overcame Montreal's 3-0 lead.

Canadiens all but killed the Detroiters in the first period when they scored three goals on a barrage of 20 shots. Olmstead, Dickie Moore and Jean Beliveau were the Montreal triggermen.

The Wings were booed roundly by the 14,644 fans-largest turnout at Detroit Olympic this season —but came to life in the windup period.

District Attorney Takes Over Boxing Probe

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The district attorney here says he wants to talk to ex-gambler Mickey Cohen and boxer Art Aragon today to probe his "hunch" that "Cohen and Aragon may be linked together."

District Attorney William B. McKesson said Sunday he also will ask that Henry Maltman, fistiana manager at a Hollywood drug score, with whom Cohen had a recent tussle, be present.

McKesson said in an unusual Sunday session he is investigating a possible tie-in of these facts:

Aragon was suspended in Texas after his opponent Dick Goldsteir, a scheduled San Diego bout claimed Aragon offered him $500 to throw the fight. Aragon denied any bribe attempt. Goldstein was suspended for 30 days;

Cohen had a recent alteration with Maltman over what he described as a $500 loan he made Maltman;

Aragon knows Cohen and frequently dined at a cafe where Maltman once worked as a chef.

SEES CONNECTION

"I have a strong hunch," said McKesson, "that there is a connection between the recent fight fix in Texas and the scrap between Cohen and Maltman."

He expects to talk to the trio Sunday, Aragon went to McKesson's office with his attorney. Maltman showed up, but left before he talked to McKesson. Cohen never showed but said that he hadn't been told to appear.

The welterweight said he didn't know Maltman. Maltman's scrap with Cohen Tuesday in a drug store may come under grand jury investigation Thursday.

Cohen, 43, is a onetime fighter who went to prison for three years for income tax evasion. Prior to his conviction he was a prominent figure in sporting and gambling circles here.

UNLUCKY BETTORS RIOT

Several were reported injured when the rioting fans poured onto the track, overturned an official's automobile, wrecking the jockey scales, and damaging railings and the parimutuel booth.

An estimated 10,000 persons watched in general as the rioters erupted when officials announced the change.

Boxing Brass Takes Action After Probe

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)—State athletic commissioners planned a telephone conference today to put the finishing touches on an order revoking for life the California boxing licence of matchmaker Herman (Babe) McCoy.

And the commission chairman, Dr. Dan O. Kilroy of Sacramento, said the licences of "about a dozen" other California ring promoters or managers will not be renewed in 1957.

McCoy, if the commission disbars him, will be the first casualty in a cleanup of California boxing promised last June when Governor Goodwin Knight appointed his new broom" commission.

Kilroy said McCoy will have to go to Superior Court if he wants to get his licence back.

In Los Angeles, McCoy's lawyer said his client "is making no statement now. After the action is taken we may have something to say."

McCoy resigned last September as matchmaker for the Olympic Auditorium in Los Angeles but retained his licence.

The chairman said all commissioners took part in writing the order following five full days of hearings in Los Angeles during November and early December.

It contains nine counts against McCoy ranging from "fixing fights" to cheating boxers to associating with known criminals." Kilroy said, "any one of the nine would be enough to revoke his licence." The commission chairman declined to name the other fight figures whose 1957 licences would be withheld but he said the list covered those recommended for revocation last August in the report of a special governor's investigating committee.

The committee list included big names such as McCoy and promoter Cal Eaton of Los Angeles and promoter Jimmy Murray of Oakland.

Others at that time—mostly on charges of cheating boxers—recommended for revocation were: William J. Graham of Reno, Nev., Jackie King of Sacramento and Johnny Del Toro, Manuel Fine, Stephen H. (Sure) Welch, Melville Hinton and Abraham Nunez, all of Los Angeles.

Mickey Named Athlete of Year Biggest Thrill in Career

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP)—Just like hitting a grand slam homer run in the world series."

Mickey Mantle says that's the way it feels to be named male athlete of the year in the annual Associated Press poll today.

"This is a real big thrill," confides the Yankee star, "the biggest I've ever known off the baseball field."

Mantle dominated the poll as he dominated baseball. He piled up almost twice as many ballot points (323 to 168) as his nearest rival in the poll, Olympic triple gold medal winner Bobby Morrow.

In third place was world heavyweight boxing champion Floyd Patterson. Basketball star Bill Russell was fourth and the Yanks' new-ish, now-nix, anything pitcher, Don Larsen, ranked fifth.

Mantle was a long way from the scene of his baseball triumphs when the Associated Press located him here to give him the news. He has been here with the Bob Hope troupe that came to entertain U.S. servicemen at Alaskan bases.

He left Sunday by air, returning to the States and a number of speaking engagements.

One of these will be Jan. 21 in Milwaukee, where Mantle will receive the Sullivan Award of the Eagles-Frederick C. Miller Memorial Award as winner of The AP-sponsored poll. He was awarded for the first time last year and went to Howard (Hopalong) Cassidy, Ohio State football star.

A similar award will go to the feminine athlete of the year, whose name will be announced this week.

Mantle just about cornered baseball's honors this year. He won the "triple crown" of batting in the American League.

He batted .353, drove in 130 runs and also led the league in scoring with 132 runs and compiled a slugging percentage of .705 by hitting for 376 total bases.

Then, hobbled by injuries and with his legs tightly taped, Mickey played a leading role in the Yankees' world series victory over Brooklyn.

McFarlands Strengthen 2nd Place With Defeat, Victory Over Weekend

Score 4-1 Win Over Cornwall Drop 3-2 Verdict to Kings; Benoit Is Tower of Strength

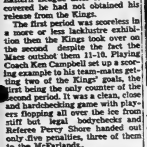
By GEORGE H. CARVER
Sports Editor

The Belleville McFarlands split honors with the Pembroke Lumber Kings and the Cornwall Chevrolets in their weekend bill, but strengthened their second position in the league standing as the Whalers' boys defeated the Chevies 3-1 on Saturday night.

The Macs lost a close one with the Kings in Pembroke by a 3-3 score Saturday evening but squared matters with a convincing 4-1 victory over the Cheviies in Cornwall on Sunday afternoon.

Apparently stung by their hairline setback by Pembroke the Macs ripped out with a sustained three-period offensive on Sunday that left no doubt as to the winner after the first period.

Moe Benoit, who played with his usual sterling game on defence, swept into the scoring records gaining five assists in the two games, Paul Payette helped himself to four helpers while Floyd Crawford got himself a couple of goals. Gordie Bell was outstanding in both tilts, especially in the Pembroke game. He had less to do in the Cornwall affair.



Minnie Menard and Bep Guidolin and Rene St. Hilaire were the other Mac goalgetters.

A nice gesture on the part of Marcel Raymond, a Cornwall businessman, was noted when he presented the members of both clubs with gifts of handsome boxed neckties.

The Lumber Kings were strengthened by the addition of Bob Maxwell who was a member of the 1955 squad and was suspended recently by the Charlotte team of the Eastern League after it was discovered he had not obtained his release from the Kings.

The first period was scoreless in a more or less lackhutre exhibition then the Kings went on the second despite the fact the Macs outshot them 11-10. Playing Coach Ken Campbell set up a scoring example to his team-mates getting two of the Kings' goals, the first being the only counter of the second period. It was a clean, close and hardchecking game with players flopping all over the ice from stiff but legal bodychecks and Referee Percy Shore handed out only five penalties, three of them to the McFarlands.

GORDIE BELL
. . . Stopped 'em.

A little over a thousand fans saw the fray that speeded up in the second frame with most of the excitement coming in the third heat. The Macs' shooting eyes were off and the game latterly developed into a battle of the goalies with Lorne Anderson and Gordie Bell pulling off some brilliant saves. The Macs outshot the Kings 32-29 on the night's play.

After Coach Campbell had put the Kings one up in the second period, Lucien Gilbert got it back with a hard drive that climaxed a three-man foray with Paul Payette and Moe Benoit.

Five minutes later Campbell scored his second goal of the night when he got spearheaded a drive that climaxed a goal-mouth pile - up with the Pembroke coach poking the puck past a tri-stop Gordie Bell.

The Kings had much the better of the play up to this point giving the Belleville defence some tough moments. Finally the Macs took matters in their own hands and following a powerful offensive, Lionel Bolley squared matters when he drove home a blistering slapshot from the point that Anderson hasn't seen yet.

Both teams turned on the heat in an effort to break the stalemate and the Kings finally clicked with a minute to go when Lorne Woodslashed the rubber home from an almost impossible angle from the left wing.

Coach Guidolin yanked Bell with 32 seconds to go but the hardhitting Pembroke defence thwarted the strategy and the game ended that way.

BELLEVILLE 4 — CORNWALL 1

Two travel-weary teams battled it out in Cornwall on Sunday with the McFarlands definitely demonstrating the better recuperative powers.

They outscored the Chevies 2-1 in the first period and added two in the second heat. The third chapter was scoreless.

The Cornwall scorer stated the Macs outshot the Chevies 31-29 but to the observer it didn't seem that way. Bell, while brilliant as usual, had not much work to do as with Gerry Devaney in the Chevies' fence Pelchat Heon Woods: forwards, Campbell, J. Giesebrecht, Bert Giesebrecht, Lonier, Bruce Giesebrecht, Maxwell, Marshall, Clark, Rowe, Jim Maxwell.

'Indian' Jack Signs Contract With London

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Indian Jack Jacobs, who led freshman London Lords into the Ontario Rugby Football Union Senior final last season, has signed a two-year contract with Lords, it was announced Sunday night.

Club president Ralph Duffus made the announcement after a windup telephone chat with Jacobs at his Oklahoma home. Terms were not announced. It is believed Jacobs received about $9,000 last year, his first season with Lords as playing coach.

Jacobs, former quarterback with Winnipeg Blue Bombers of the Western Interprovincial Football Union, had said earlier this year that he would like to retire from active playing if he returned to London. It was not known whether he was successful in negotiating an agreement as a coach only.

Whitby's Bob Attersley held his ten-point margin over Belleville's Minnie Menard over the past week, scoring a goal and three assists for a 48-point total. Menard had four goals and a total of 38 points, 25 of which are goals to top the league. Jean-Paul Payette of Belleville, climbed into a third-place tie with Whitby's Bus Gagnon, each with 34 points. Attersley's 31 assists is tops in that department.

Gordie Bell of the McFarlands climaxed an uphill battle for the top goalies' average by finally tying Ottawa's Gillis Boisvert. Each goalie has played 13 games, allowed 39 goals for a 3.25 average.

Rich Golf Tourney Set For West in '58

VANCOUVER (CP)—Jack Diamond, chairman of the city centennial committee, announced Saturday a $40,000 golf tournament — the most valuable ever in Canada — will be held here during the 1958 British Columbia centenary.

In a confirming letter, Ed Carter, gold trail co-ordinator for the United States Professional Golfers' Association, said the four-day meeting will be placed on the 1958 program.

No exact dates have yet been selected but Diamond said the committee understand it would prefer August when the weather should be good. The course will probably be selected next month. Top-flight international golfers are expected to attend and the entry list will be limited to 140. About 40 positions will be reserved for Canadian and British players.

HOCKEY PLAYERS INJURED

DEER PARK, Wash. (AP)—Four Canadian hockey players were injured Saturday when their station wagon ran in a ditch about seven miles north of here, apparently to avoid a head-on collision, police said.

The Macs were victory hungry after that clever 60 night previous and after Coach Guidolin's talk without chalk they went into production.

They were clearly the better team on the night's play and that was demonstrated early in the game. Moe Benoit sparked the Macs defence in a terrific effort with Bolley, Crawford and Lemonde earning well-deserved assists.

Paul Payette stood out with his play-making efforts. Three times he set up scoring plays, slipping well-placed passes to Guidolin, Minnie Menard and Floyd Crawford.

A little over one thousand fans saw the Macs score two goals, by Minnie Menard and Crawford midway through the first period. Rheal Savard scored the only Cornwall goal of the night with a minute to go in the initial heat, rapping home a beauty with Guy Henri and Ron Muir assisting.

After that the Cheviies couldn't do, or didn't do, very much. They threatened at times and gave Gordie Bell a moment or two but the Macs defence was solid and thwarted back their forays.

Moe Benoit set up Bep Guidolin after 12 minutes of play in the second period and the Macs' coach made no mistake. Minnie Menard was in on the deal.

Four minutes later victory was beyond the efforts of the Cheviies and again Payette set up Rene St. Hilaire for the kill with Benoit helping. That was it. . .

The desperate Cheviies battled gamely but they lacked the fire and go-get-'em that marked their Mac appearance here.

Referee C. Pranski of Ottawa had the game well in hand, dishing out twelve penalties, eight to the McFarlands. All were minors, some of them borderline.

Many Notable Features On CBC Yule Broadcast

Christmas morning, while bright eyed youngsters strew the floors of Canadian homes with gay wrapping paper and the enchanted smell of toy trains vies with the round of church bells, CBC radio will begin a day of broadcasting which, though technically spectacular, may leave the listener with less than the medium's made most since its earliest days.

After the news and a special introduction by director of programs Charles Jennings, the CBC will join arms with the BBC and other broadcasting systems in the world to present the annual Commonwealth broadcast. "Voices out of the Air" the Christmas title of this year's show, it's theme taken from the first annual Christmas message in 1932 by King George V.

The program will open with Canada's contribution, from six choirs across the country the Children's Choir, St. John's; the Shantymen, Halifax; Montreal Bach Choir; Songs of My People Chorus; Toronto; Ukrainian Male Voice Choir, Winnipeg, and the Elgar Junior Choir, Vancouver.

Other features of the show will be a visit, via short wave, with the Danish ship Magga Dan, en route to the Antarctic.

Willy Richardson will report on the scene in the British West Indies as eye of federation, and developments in West Africa, Nigeria and the Gold Coast. From Australia will be heard a report on what radio and the aeroplane have accomplished for the Islanders.

DUKE WILL SPEAK

"Voices" will also visit Rhodesia and the Far East — Hong Kong, Singapore, Malaya, Ceylon, India and Pakistan. The closing item will be a message from the Duke of Edinburgh aboard the royal yacht "Britannia" on its way to the Antarctic.

The annual Christmas message from Her Majesty, the Queen, will be heard from Sandringham in "Voices out of the Air." Her Majesty's broadcast will be followed by a casual from her home in Sandringham and will be heard in Canada at 10:00 a.m. The Royal Christmas will be followed by a recital by Robert Donnell, from the Peace Tower Carillon in Ottawa.

10:30 a.m. will see a choral program featuring the Cap'n Tapscull singers and chorus, with pianist Lloyd Edwards and organist Edgar Goodaire. The program will include selections from the Christmas sermonette of St. Leo the Great, adapted by Charles Feldini.

Superlatives are the first phrases which spring to mind when describing the next offering on the Trans Canada's network's Christmas Day broadcast, "Christmas Almanac," the five-and-three-quarter-hour program of music, entertainment and Canadiana for Christmas, was done last year with great success, in response to many requests that another edition will be presented this year starting at 12:15 p.m.

CHAIRMAN DUNTON

Howard Cable's orchestra and the well known voice of J. Frank Willis will be the order or an account on how Christmas is spent by the Governor-General, Vincent Massey, dean of Aklavik. From the north to Nortia, "Almanac" skips to Canada's southern extremity, Point Pelee, where Dr. William Gunn will tell the story of the Christmas Census. Listeners will also hear recordings of carol singing.

Will it be a white Christmas in your town? Shortly after 1:00 p.m. "Almanac" will report weather in Halifax, Edmonton, St. John's, Winnipeg and Toronto. Then it's back to the weather. When all points have reported the weather forecasters in Montreal and Quebec will present the "official" forecast for the Christmas Day.

After a short musical interlude from Quebec City, "Almanac" will cross the Atlantic via the Trans-Atlantic cable for a visit with the officers and men of the R.A.F. Bonaventure in Belfast, Northern Ireland. The Bonaventure is the new aircraft carrier now with replace H.M.C.S. Magnificent.

ANOTHER VISIT

Back in Canada, at 1:30 p.m., John Fisher will talk about the Christmas customs of various nationalities celebrate Christmas. His talk will be followed by another Happy Valley broadcast, to be confident to Sea Island. Vancouver, where Lt.-Commander (P) A. B. Sea Rescue Squadron, as the men and women of the squadron will be on Christmas Day (as on any other) for a possible alert.

Then "Almanac" will swing northward again, this time to Aklavik, 100 miles inside the Arctic circle. Ocean to listen to an unique concert of Christmas music — sung by a choir of Eskimos.

The 2:00 p.m. portion of "Almanac" was recorded in advance and sent to all parts of the world where Canadian servicemen are stationed. It is a variety show featuring some of Canada's top entertainers.

The success of this feature will be "old Rawhide". Max Ferguson can be relied on to persuade the boys and irrepressible "Granny" to attend. Contributing music and laughter to the Christmas merriment will be Shirley Harmer, King Ganam and the Sons of the West, Warren Shuster, Denny Vaughan, Terry Dale, The Glue Shirt Sextet and Les Collegiens Troubadours. The orchestra will be conducted by Lionel Hershman.

CANADIANS OVERSEAS

Next comes a contribution from Canadians overseas, from West Germany, a choir of Canadian school children will sing English, French and German carols. Also in West, Corporal Kenneth Fleming, R.C.A.S.C., Royal Canadian Regiment (2nd Canadian Infantry Brigade), with his wife, Mrs. Fleming, and little girl, will talk to their family in the Canadian suburb of Hamilton.

"Almanac" will look in next on three Christmas parties, at the Sacred Heart Home for Senior Citizens, Summerside, P.E.I.; at the Col. Newburn Pavilion (Canadian Church of the Nativity Hospital), Edmonton; and at the Halifax Protestant Orphanage in Halifax. This will be followed by a special Christmas message for children by Mary Grannan—"Petite and the Angel", about Ezra, a little angel, and a midget called Petite.

At 3:40 p.m., "Almanac" will visit the Christmas Nativity of Saint Benoit du Lac near Lake Memphremagog in Quebec's Eastern Townships. The service will include the Antiphonies and Vespers of Christmas Eve, as well as a short talk in English by a member of the Order of St. Benoit.

VISIT SEAWAY

After the concert at 4:00 p.m., listeners will join fellow Canadians at work and play. First they'll hear what's going on at Iroquois Lock of the St. Lawrence Seaway, where the Christmas Day as on any other day. Then it's over to Saskatchewan for a curling bonspiel in Regina.

There's more Christmas music at 4:15 by the St. Joseph's choir, a French college choir from New Brunswick, Mount Allison choir from Sackville, N.B.; and a children's choir from Sault Ste. Marie, Ontario.

Next will come an amazing contrast, the opening scene of the toy department in the Robert Simpson Store in Toronto as it was on Christmas Eve, crowded with mothers and children, with Santa Claus, Mrs. Santa and Santa Claus, then as it is on Christmas Day with only the janitor present.

At a time when most Canadians are just finishing their Christmas dinner in their homes, "Almanac" will take us to the men of the Furniss-Withy liner, Manchester Mariner as they sit down to dinner in the mess room of the Manchester. Then it's over to Winnipeg where the turkey dinner for passenger is loaded aboard a TCA Super Constellation about to leave for Copenhagen.

WINTER SPORTS

Winter sports next will be interesting feature—a trip to Mountain Lodge, a ski resort in the Laurentians near Ottawo. At 5:00 p.m. attention will again be focused on Quebec City, where the crib will be on display in the Basilica at Quebec City.

Then, some after five there will be another story for the young folk.

A fantasy by Morris Surdin's Orchestra, which will provide the music for the musical continuity of the show, will introduce a feature of last year's "Almanac" very successful—an audience response and is being repeated this year. Christmas Day will be an ada will ring out from coast to coast, first with one individual then with all together in a farewell salute.

The bells, in the order they will be heard, are: Carillon from Church Landing, Whitehorse (Yukon Territory; St. Alphonse Church, Windsor; Westminster Abbey, Mission City, B.C.; Christ Church, Quisic Vide; Stephenville; St. Luke's Church, Winnipeg; St. Mary's Basilica, Halifax; Basilica of Notre Dames des Victoires, Quebec City; St. George's Anglican Cathedral, Montreal; Our Lady of Lourdes, Toronto; Knox Church, Galt; Carillon, Ottawa. This was followed at 6.30 p.m. by "Carols from Many Lands," a Christmas program of carols collected by Edith Fowke.

Why "The Goons" for those versatile BBC comedians, should devote their special Christmas show to Robin Hood is hard to say, but they have, and listeners who have been following the goings on in Sherwood Forest to ask questions. The safest course is just to tune in at 7.00 p.m. tonight (Monday) for the benefit of the uninitiated. The Goons are Harry Secombe, Spike Milligan, Peter, and Wee Willie Sellers. ## Christmas Radio Program Will Range Far Afield

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The Commonwealth Christmas Radio program this year ranges farther afield than ever, with greetings from the Antarctic added to the messages from lands farther afield than ever, with greetings from the Antarctic added to the messages from lands facing territories next Tuesday.

Immediately before the Queen speaks from Sandringham Castle in Norfolk, the British Broadcasting Corporation will pick up a report from the Royal Yacht Britannia cutting across the icy Antarctic from New Zealand. The Duke of Edinburgh will deliver Christmas greetings from the yacht.

The Duke will be on the second and most distant part of his world tour. After opening the Olympic Games in Australia and visiting New Zealand, he is sailing on to visit a number of bases set up by scientists and explorers in the Antarctic.

This technically most difficult part of the world-wide program also includes greetings from various Common wealth scientists travelling to bases on the icy shore of the Weddell Sea aboard the Danish motorship Magga Dan.

HUMAN CONTACT

The theme of human contact runs all through this year's Christmas morning program. It starts with Canada's contribution, picking up choral greetings in turn from St. John's, Nfld., Winnipeg, Montreal, Toronto, Halifax and Vancouver to show how Canadians of many national origins celebrate Christmas in song.

The program leaps thousands of miles to bring sound-glimpses of Christmas from the Gold Coast, Rhodesia, Trinidad, Hong Kong, Singapore, Malaya, India, Pakistan and other places.

The Commonwealth program is to be heard in Canada from 9 a.m. to 10:15, EST. Queen Elizabeth's message coming at 10.

Canada itself is linked more fully in the CBC's Christmas Almanac, running from 12:15 p.m. to 6 with J. Frank Willis taking listeners on a continuous round of calls all over the nation, including Aklavik and Whitehorse in the far north.

The Christmas afternoon program also makes two overseas calls, to the 3rd Canadian Brigade in West Germany and to Belfast in Northern Ireland, where men of the new aircraft carrier HMCS Bonaventure will be visited.

More personal links will be afforded Christmas Eve, with greetings from Canadian servicemen overseas to their families at home. For its part, the CBC international service is broadcast ing messages from new immigrants in Canada to their folks in Europe.

WINS RICH STAKE

NEW YORK (CP)—Saga Gem, a disappointment early in the meeting, showed his heels Saturday to 13 other juveniles in the eighth and richest running of the $10,000-added Dade County Handicap, flashing home the winner by three lengths.

Writer Offers Annual Picks Of Leading Events in Hollywood

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — 'Tis the season not only to be jolly, but also to round up the year's events and pick the highlights.

Hollywood was a quiet year. There were scarcely any scandals to keep the gossipers busy. Few new stars came along to brighten the local scene. There were no untimely deaths such as those that marred 1955 (James Dean, Eli Wallach, Robert Francis, John Hoadik, Carmen Miranda).

The film industry seemed intent on survival. The result was harder work and generally better pictures.

MOVIES ON TV

This was the year the dam broke. The backlogs of MGM, 20th Century-Fox, RKO, Warner Brothers and Columbia were flooding the television market. Dire results were predicted for theater business. So far, it has managed to survive.

Now I'll take a deep breath and offer my annual picks of the leading events of the Hollywood year:

Best pictures—Around the World in 80 Days, Giant, War and Peace, The King and I, Moby Dick.

Best actresses—Deborah Kerr, Tea and Sympathy; Katharine Hepburn, The Rainmaker; Elizabeth Taylor, Giant; Ingrid Bergman, Anastasia; Carroll Baker, Baby Doll.

Best actors: James Dean, Giant; Paul Newman, Somebody Up There Likes Me.

Biggest publicity splash—Diana Dors.

Most promising newcomers—Anthony Perkins, Jayne Mansfield.

Best foreign picture—La Strada.

Biggest wedding—Grace Kelly, Prince Rainier.

Most memorable scenes—James Dean pacing off his property in Giant; French army charge in War and Peace; Shall We Dance? number with Yul Brynner and Deborah Kerr in The King and I.

Most notable return — Ingrid Bergman.

Sleepers of the year—The Brave One, The Young Stranger.

Turkey of the year—The Vagabond King.

The Greatest Gift

Those who give themselves grow richer.

The kindly word, the spontaneous smile, the thoughtful deed—those are outward expressions of the goodness inside the hearts and minds of men.

Those of us in the newspaper business must record the little things that make news day by day. Often we wish there were less of pettiness in the world and more of the spirit of Christmas scattered throughout the year. But the day that marks the birth of Jesus brings with it a rebirth of faith and hope and a realization that deep down inside each person there are Christ-like qualities of unselfishness, loyalty and devotion to the highest principles of God and man. It is those qualities which make Christmas the most joyous season of all.

Truly, there is "joy to the world" in abundant evidence of self-giving, of hands clasped in friendship, of hearty good wishes. How insignificant are the little troublesome things of the world in the light of the Christmas spirit that pervades the world!

And so we again join in the gladness of the season to wish all our friends and subscribers

A MERRY CHRISTMAS.

Wassail Bowl for Auld Lang Syne

The Wassail bowl goes around in Scotland—and elsewhere—at New Year's time.

The origin of the custom is really lost in antiquity; Saxon ancestors probably quaffed their ale from the polished skulls of defeated enemies, and the Rowena legend must be classified as "presumably fiction."

Rowena is reported to have offered her lecherous guest—Prince Vortigren—a bowl of wine with the salutation, "To Your Health." Draining the bowl with one draught, Vortigren fell in love with Rowena and they lived happily ever after.

Anyway, in time the bowl itself became an ornament of graceful design—decorated with branches of greenery which formed a canopy over the bowl. The mixture within was warm and included ale, sugar, spices, sweetened wine was added by hosts who could afford it, apples floated on top of the decoction, sometimes called "lamb's wool" or the "old man's beard." The poorer classes carried a bowl decorated with ribbons around the neighborhood, begging that it be filled, as they, too, might enjoy the Wassail.

The custom of making short calls on New Year's Day was in full swing throughout America about 1860. Newspapers carried columns of "at home" notices specifying the hours during which visitors would be received. A succession of "open houses" and punch bowls sometimes minimized the courtesy accorded to hostesses—receptions were often "crashed" by libulous strangers, hence, the publicly announced "open house" custom has fallen into decline and, New Year's calls now being practically dead by intimates, the Wassail bowl goes 'round in private.

Mistletoe Distinct As Yule Decoration

Mistletoe, that distinctive Christmas green so common in many parts of America, is usually thought of as merely good holiday decoration or as a creator of romantic moments 'neath its otherwise bashful swains.

Mistletoe did not always hold this legend which we live in. The Druids called it "all-heal," and thought it held many miraculous virtues. The Scandinavians dedicated it to their goddess of love, Frigg. Probably this goddess of love is responsible for the custom of kissing under the mistletoe.

The power to heal, to protect against sickness, to perform magic deeds—all these and more are the qualities ascribed to this plant in legends, traditions and even in ancient histories and literature.

Mistletoe is a parasite, which infests branches of various trees of both hardwood and conifers, but mainly—as hardwoods. One species is found, exclusively, however, on conifers.

Among the Celts and others mistletoe which grew from the oak was considered to have peculiar magical virtues not possessed by that from any other trees. Some even considered it so rare as to be only cut with a gold knife.

Another old tradition is that the mistletoe supplied the wood for the holy cross, as previous to that time it was a forest tree but after the crucifixion was condemned to exist only as a dwarf parasite.

Mistletoe was taken over into the Christian tradition, in due course and dedicated to the Christ Child.

An old rhyme reads:

The mistletoe bough
At our Christmas board
Shall hang to the honor
Of Christ our Lord.

Ornament Making A Cottage Industry

Those colored glass ornaments that we hang on our Christmas trees used to come from Germany, Czechoslovakia and Poland. A small number were made in Japan. When the war stopped these supplies, American glass manufacturers, who had never bothered with these products before, turned part of their facilities over to making the pretty geegaws. Mechanical methods were soon developed that could blow as many ornaments in an hours as a European glassblower could make in a month. Thus modern efficiency may doom this picturesque little industry, carried on in the mountainous towns

Christmas Poem

The time draws near the birth of Christ.
The moon is hid;
the night is still;
The Christmas bells from hill to hill
Answer each other in the mist.

Four voices of four hamlets
From far and near, on mead and moor,
Swell out and fall, as if a door
Were shut between me and the sound.

Each voice four changes on the wind,
That now dilate, and now
decrease,
Peace and good-will, good-will and peace,
Peace and good-will, to all mankind.

—Tennyson.

of eastern Europe.

Ornament making is a typical "cottage industry", in the little villages that cling to the steep mountainsides. Families specialize in certain shapes and designs, patterns that may date back for hundreds of years unchanged. The father, using a bunsen burner, carefully blows the thin glass tubing to the desired shape, with the aid of an iron mold. His son, acting as mold boy, removes the hot ornament to a cooling table. Next the mother silvers the inside, and finally the daughter applies paint and perhaps decorative designs.

BIG INDUSTRY

More than 300,000 men and women are regularly employed in forest industries in Sweden.

POOR EXCUSE

DERBY, England (CP) — A motorist told the judge here he was hurrying past trolley - car overhead cables because the interference blocked his car radio "and I wanted to hear the horse-race being broadcast." He was fined £30.

ENGINEERS JOIN UNIONS

NEW YORK (AP) — Professional engineers, once considered joining unions in increasing numbers. The national industrial conference board estimates that as many as 60,000 of the 300,000 engineers in the United States hold union cards.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Tuesday, March 25, 1956

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — An exciting day, perhaps, with Mars and Uranus in fine aspect. However, since the Moon is not auspicious, caution is advised in personal conduct; be patient, understanding. Vigorous matters favored.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — A stimulating day. Military interests, railroading, all strenuous activities have impetus, are freshly favored. The unique or unusual also honored. Be among the doers.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — A strong warning now: Do not rashly or make decisions without proper forethought. Much can be accomplished in your affairs, occupations if you take sufficient time to plan and act wisely.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Your Moon stresses a need for your best behavior now. Make no sudden, unpremeditated moves or promises, and proceed your day with needless undertakings. Be sensibly careful, but ambitious and industrious.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — It may not be easy to attain today. You may get few opportunities for new leads or advantages, but keep alert, hustling. Attention to important matters will eventually bring sound returns, satisfaction.

August 24 to September 23 — (Virgo) — It will take close scrutiny, some hard work to keep your schedule up to standard. Familiar matters, those things for which you have had training or practice, can do well. Have faith.

October 24 to November 22 — (Scorpio) — Mild influences encourage delicate and artistic matters, but stronger rays stimulate more strenuous activities. Military, government interests encouraged. Mars says act — but wisely!

November 23 to December 21 — (Sagittarius) — Don't be too conservative now. Among favored activities are construction work, all roading, engineering, mechanical interests encouraged. Push forward, but heed the rights of others.

December 22 to January 20 — (Capricorn) — Practical matters, work on essentials, new inventions to safeguard public welfare and humane institutions are honored, should be supported. Science, mechanics favored.

January 21 to February 19 — (Aquarius)—Concentrate first and fully on essentials if you would advance and achieve. Don't fall behind in any obligation. Intelligent aggressiveness favored.

February 20 to March 20 — (Pisces) — Some avenues may seem blocked now but they won't be for long if you show your fine skill and are decisive about your work and plans. Bypass trivial matters and concentrate on those which are urgent.

You born today are generous, charitable, purposeful; have great energy and a desire for knowledge. You can succeed in any honorable field whether it be industry, management, science, the arts, as a merchant, a teacher, religious. You have great assets. Use them only for good. Curb tendencies toward extravagance, carelessness, brusqueness. Continue to study and develop your talents. Birthdate: Edward MacDowell, Karl von Weber, musical composer.

Little Benny's Notebook

I was taking a walk with pop, and I saw something that looked like a cent, and I picked it up and it was, and I said, Oh boy, pop, I found a cent.

Pop says, pop said. When it comes to giving a person a feeling of time well spent, nothing beats finding money. he said, and I said. But gosh, pop, I dont feel so wonderful about it. Do you think that means I'm getting old, pop? I said.

I doubt it, pop said. You're getting older, perhaps, but not old. You can stop worrying for a few years yet, he said, and I said. But jimminies, pop, I remember the time when I thought I was grate if I found a cent. So why dont I now? I said.

I dont know for sure, but they're must be reasons, and we'd better find out what it is and cure your old age complex, pop said.

Nothing is wrong. You've been watching people on television shows being handed thousands of dolirs for knowing what explorer ate the first tomato and what tomato made the first ketchup, and your little lone cent seems almost embarrissing by comparison, he said.

No sir, I dont think that's the reason, pop, because I think I know what the reason is, I said. When I was much younger I used to be able to buy 2 sourballs for a cent, but now there's no pie making for less than 5 cents a werth. So what's a use finding a cent nowadays? I said.

The result being pop made it useful again by adding enough to it for an ice cream cone.

Mrs. Fred Sprague, treasurer, spoke of faithful service as treasurer, resigned. Mrs. Kernohan was elected the new treasurer.

The worship service opened with a medley of Christmas carols from Handel's Messiah. "Christ's Birthday," was the theme of the meeting. "Unto us a Child is born, unto us a Son is given," and the government shall be upon his shoulders and His name shall be called wonderful Counsellor, the Mighty God, the Everlasting Father, the "Prince of Peace." (Isaiah 9-6).

Mrs. Brown's prayer was a plea that all hearts would be attuned to hear the angels' message, to know the Christ and Peace, the Saviour of the world.

Mrs. R. Lewis and Mrs. G. Alvey brought the Christmas message in song, with Mrs. Brett at the piano.

A letter from Miss Bell telling of the work there by Allan Reech, was read by Miss Heslip. "As with gladness, men of old."

"As With Gladness, Men of Old," was sung and Mrs. Rev. H. W. Heslip closed the meeting with prayer.

All enjoyed a social hour and refreshments served by Mrs. Brett, assisted by Mrs. Alvey and Mrs. Skelton.

The auxiliary is pleased to have Miss Van Kleek, their president, once again from her visit to the Old Land.

NEHRU REAFFIRMS

He admitted that there were some important people in India who thought Commonwealth association was doing no good. But the governments of the Commonwealth association should continue. Despite differences, the Commonwealth was helping world understanding and promoting larger causes of peace.

Mr. Nehru was introduced by Edgar McInnis, president of the Canadian Institute of International Affairs.

Mr. Nehru said Hungarian resistance to Soviet domination has shown the way to greater national freedom for many countries.

"Passive resistance cannot ultimately be crushed," he declared.

The Indian leader said he finds an element of hope in the Hungarian and Polish situations.

The latter had shown that world opinion is starting to count for much and that it is difficult to revive old colonial methods.

PASSIVE RESISTANCE WORKS

He said what has impressed him most in the Hungarian "episode" is the influence of passive and peaceful resistance. This influence was greater than that of armed rebellion.

Both Saturday and Sunday, Mr. Nehru dealt with relations between the United States and Communist China.

At the press conference, he said he believed hostility between the U.S. and China eventually would fade away.

The U.S. and some other countries did not approve of Red China because of some tragic occurrences as the Korean War. But sooner or later they would have to recognize "the facts of life."

THE WORLD'S TROUBLE

JOHNSTOWN DISTRICT —The Sunday School was held at Johnstown church on Sunday afternoon with church at 3 p.m. The Scripture reading was found in Isaiah and Matthew. The Rev. G. A. Puttenham's topic was, "What's wrong with the world?" "One says it is communism, others say colonialism, Isaiah said what was wrong with Jerusalem was that they turned things upside down.

"Many of this day are not satisfied with the way things are going and try to take God's place. The rulers of Jerusalem wanted to use religion for their own ends. Some people refuse God as the Creator. God is really the potter as it were for without Him was nothing made that was made.

"What is wrong, is what is wrong in man's mind. The hope of the Russian people with Stalin came to naught. Atheist Communism has nothing, just frustration. We are about to celebrate the birth of Christ. Jesus came, that men might have a vision of God. There must be victory in the hearts of men, until nations are lifted out of their ignorance and want, so that the world will be right-side up. Unless God has the rightful place in the world, we can expect unrest. There is no hope that Christ cannot cure if we only let Him."

Talbert Plans to Use Flan In Davis Cup Opening Match

By MURRAY FROMSON

ADELAIDE (AP) — The draw for the 45th renewal of the Davis Cup challenge round will be held Tuesday for the Australians set for the American lineup still in big doubt because of Herbie Flam's recurring leg muscle pains.

Cup play begins Wednesday afternoon and ends Friday.

Flam will go a full up speed today in a brisk afternoon workout against pet tennis star who be Segar and Trabert, who are flying in from Melbourne to help the underdog Yanks.

American coach Bill Talbert said he still plans to use Flam along with veteran Vic Seixas in the singles play, barring a serious injury to the California's leg.

SUB SUBSTITUTE

If Flam tires quickly, or pulls up lame, Talbert may nominate big Sam Giammalva as the stocky University of Texas student from Galveston, Texas.

Flam, who appeared to have his backhand working well in Sunday's practice, gave no hint of pain in his leg until he returned to the dressing room where he told the trainer to treat it.

In the Australian camp, coach Harry Hopman has his boys razor edge sharp and tennis experts figure the Aussies are playing better and hitting the ball harder than he has been in years. Lew Hoad and Ken Rosewall are the key men expected to lead Australia to its second straight victory ahead the U.S.

The challenge round competition between the two countries is a long standing affair, dating back to 1900. The Aussies have won 10 times in the showdown for the cup.

SEIXAS BEST HOPE

The concensus here is that the well-conditioned 35-year-old Seixas and Mervyn Rose, another of the best tennis this year, is the best U.S. bet to get past the pair of Rosewall and prevent an Aussie sweep.

Davis Cup fever is building up in this quiet south Australian city, with crowds out in force for Christmas celebrations and tennis. Visitors from all over the country and overseas are flocking to Adelaide Hotel accomodating are impossible to find. Ticket sales, scaled from about $17 down, are becoming more readily available because of publicity.

A capacity crowd of 18,000 is expected for each of the three days of play, which probably will be played in grizzling temperatures.

Providence Reds Top American

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Providence Reds are solidly entrenched in first place in the American Hockey League today and all one of the reasons is their ability to beat Cleveland Spears field Indians. Another is the scoring punch of Camille Henry.

Reds, defending All, Charlestown, beat Springfield 8-4 Saturday night, their fifth in consecutive game without a loss to the Indians.

Henry, whose size (150 pounds) is all that keeps him from being a National Hockey League regular, scored two goals against Springfield and added a hobnobbing goal—as the Reds beat the Hershey Bears 4-3 Friday night.

Hershey defeated Rochester Americans 2-1 Saturday night. Johnny Bucyk scored the winning goal in a rough game that saw 21 penalties called. Ed Litzenberger scored earlier for the Bears. Gary Aldcorn tied it up.

Cleveland football League victory Saturday before taking advantage of Cleveland Browns' loss in the final 25 seconds to edge Washington Redskins 19-17.

Cleve, a line running out, rookie quarterback John Unitas heaved long pass to Raymond Berry, who bounced off the shoulder of Washington's Norb Hecker and into the hands of Cleve Carl Taseff.

Hutscheller took two steps and a hard tackle drove him into the end zone for a 33-yard touchdown with 25 seconds left to play.

Even with a tremendous advantage in first downs (28-8) and yards gained the Colts were hard put to win. Three Baltimore miscues were converted into touchdowns by the Redskins.

The game was the last of the regular schedule. New York Giants and Chicago Bears, conference winners, meet in the final at Yankee Stadium next Sunday.

Washington lost a chance for a second - place tie in the Eastern Conference (and a financial economy) by losing and wound up with a 6-6 record. Baltimore finished fifth in the Western Conference with a 5-7 mark.

No Friction In Tennis Troupe Says Kramer

By GILL GRIMSLEY

ADELAIDE (AP) — Promoter Jack Kramer said today there is no serious friction in his professional tennis troupe despite a weekend blowup by one of his star attractions, Pancho Gonzales.

"They got a little excited over in Melbourne after the tournament there, but everything is smoothed out now," said Kramer, here to sign up additional talent.

After finishing last in the Melbourne professional tournament and winning only about $500 compared with more than $2,000 for Gonzales' winner, Frank Sedgman, Trabert blew his top in the players' dressing room.

Trabert told Kramer that he had signed for a certain figure and that he felt he was getting the raw end of the deal. After a heated exchange Kramer managed to calm his young fireling from Oklahoma.

PLANS CHANGED

"It is true Trabert signed under a special arrangement," the promoter said, "but that was on the basis of regular exhibition style tennis. Trabert has changed his plans.

"He decided that we would put the tournament on the same cash distribution basis as the professional golf tournaments and voted to place of finish.

"If told Tony if he wanted more money we would have to play better tennis and win it. He was disappointed but I told him that there will be no lasting bitterness."

Trabert said today he is considering a private French offer to play tennis in Paris. The French Federation has offered a challenge round between 1925 and 1933 but has not got into a cup competition.

"I haven't given them an answer yet because I'm not sure how much free time the pro tennis tour will give me with the Security Banking Company in Los Angeles will allow me," Trabert said.

Kramer is here specifically to sign the Australian Davis Cup ace, to a professional contract immediately after the challenge round. Trabert's father, a grocerymen, is scheduled to arrive today to join his son here.

It is known that Rosewall definitely is committed to a professional career and will open his guaranteed $65,000 campaign in Australia, Jan. 1. Lew Hoad also will take place about Jan. 1.

Kramer confirmed today that he also hoped to sign Australia's Lew Hoad and Vic Seixas, the 23-years-old Davis Cup veterans from Philadelphia who has won both the Wimbledon and U.S. champion ships.

Colts End Sked With Win Over Redskins

BALTIMORE (CP) — Baltimore Colts almost fumbled away a National Football League victory Saturday before taking advantage of Cleveland Browns' loss in the final 25 seconds to edge Washington Redskins 19-17.

Cleve, a line running out, rookie quarterback John Unitas heaved long pass to Raymond Berry, who bounced off the shoulder of Washington's Norb Hecker and into the hands of Cleve Carl Taseff.

Hutscheller took two steps and a hard tackle drove him into the end zone for a 33-yard touchdown with 25 seconds left to play.

Even with a tremendous advantage in first downs (28-8) and yards gained the Colts were hard put to win. Three Baltimore miscues were converted into touchdowns by the Redskins.

Trois-Rivieres Lions and Montreal Royals scored upsets in Quebec Hockey League action Sunday as Montreal Canadiens, Quebec Aces 3-2 at Montreal, Lulu Denis, Ray Laplante and Andre Corriveau scored for Montreal, while Bill O'Bee and Skip Teal scored for Quebec.

The win left Montreal in a third-place tie with Quebec.

At Shawinigan Falls Pollock was ejected for slapping a hockey stick across referee Alex Baril's face after referee Alex Baril pointed a penalty to him in the protest starting lineup at the beginning of the second period while both clubs were playing four men a side as per rule.

Ottawa was penalized again at the start of the third period for the same reason.

League president George Slater announced later that Ottawa had protested the game.

Slater said he must await a report of the game from the official but the referee's club is "apparently right."

He declared that the rule was abolished by the league last summer.

Jean-Paul Denis paced Saguenees with two goals while Gerry Desaulniers, Conrad Poirier and Dick Bouchard got one each. Gerry Wilson scored for Ottawa.

Which Day Is Christmas Day?

DECEMBER 25 CHRISTMAS

By RICHARD HENRY

Theologians have always been in a predicament over the celebration of Christ's birthday: The New Testament nowhere says when it was.

The contemporary Roman regime was not very much concerned about recording births. Even Herod, who was furious, made no records which have survived.

For a time, it didn't matter much. For at least 300 years after Christ's death, no one ventured to make Christ's birthday an occasion of religious celebration or even to mark it by any special ceremonies.

In part the reason for the reluctance was theological. The significant event in Christ's life was His crucifixion and to follow St. Matthew or even St. Luke in glorifying his birth seemed out of place.

Moreover, early Christianity was in constant peril of being wiped out and its devotees saw no occasion for the sort of celebration which, later, was to become associated with Christmas.

Naturally, however, there was speculation on the date of Christ's birth.

A book written in 243 and ascribed to Hippolytus, then rated a scholar of outstanding repute, purported to lay down the date according to exact scientific principles. Other writings ascribed to Julius Africanus, another divine, followed his line.

ODD ARGUMENT

The general tenor of the argument seems odd to us today, but it was taken with the utmost seriousness at the time and for long afterward.

Hippolytus first calculated that, when the Book of Genesis said God created the world in six days, resting on the seventh, it meant that God created the world in 6,000 years — 1,000 years being reckoned as a day to God.

He then established that the beginning of creation would have been at the spring equinox when all things sprang to life. This, reckoned Hippolytus would, in the relevant year, have been the 28th of March.

Now the coming of Christ would have marked the end of a further period of a similar period — it being the final fulfilment of God's plan. Therefore, Christ would have been born on March 28 in a year which fitted the theory (about 3 B.C.).

Literalists then took over the argument. The day, they reckoned, could not actually have referred to the physical birth of Christ but to Christ's conception by the Holy Ghost.

By a complex calculation of physiology and theology, they reasoned that this must have taken place on December 25.

Other divines disputed this conclusion. They did not, however, question the basic principles. They asserted, merely, that the day of the beginning of creation would have been April 6 rather than March 25. That would have brought Christ's birth forward to January 6.

This they reckoned in terms of the traditional dates of Christ's resurrection after His crucifixion. This event they believed must have taken place, according to the Divine plan, on the same date as the date of the beginning of creation.

There were, therefore, two schools of thought: One which believed that Christmas Day must be December 25 and one which believed that it must be January 6.

There the matter might have rested with neither side achieving satisfaction, but for a quite extraneous fact.

The Church had begun to celebrate January 6 as the date of Christ's baptism. Most people held that Christ's baptism was synonymous with his birth, but those who held that His birth had taken place on December 25 did not seriously object to January 6 as a date for the baptism.

DELIGHTFUL WRANGLE

Then theologians began one of those delightful wrangles which, to them, involve questions of salvation and damnation but which, to the layman and even the ordinary clergyman, are virtually incomprehensible.

Some of them thought that Christ was not born the son of God but became the son of God upon being baptised. These were called Adoptionists. The rest — and the prevailing majority — believed that Christ was born the son of God.

The difference, in essence, was one between theologians who believed divinity to be a spiritual matter requiring some progress on the part of any human being and between theologians who took Christ's divinity literally as applying to Christ the man and not simply to Christ in His spiritual perfection.

The fact that His Baptism was celebrated while His birth was not was therefore repugnant to the ruling majority who had branded Adoptionism a heresy.

Mainly for that reason Pope Liberius proclaimed Christmas an official feast and declared it to be December 25. The suggestion appears to have been regarded as sound by Eastern Orthodox leaders and it soon was adopted there, too.

It does not, however, seem to have caught on immediately among the general public.

ESTABLISHED HOLIDAYS

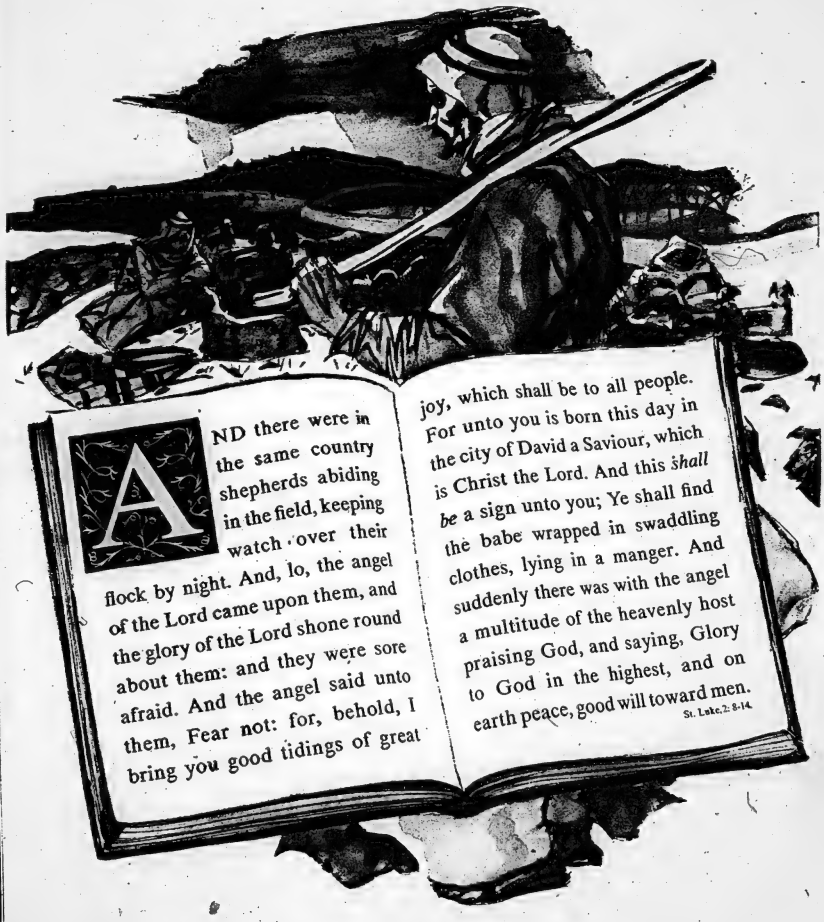
In 389 the Emperor Valentianus published a list of public holidays. Among religious holidays only Sundays and Easter appear.



In part, this refutes the theory that Christmas was timed for December 25 in order to compete with the old pagan holidays which had always marked the day on which days stopped getting shorter and began getting longer.

There seems to have been no immediate desire on the part of the public to adopt Christmas. (Indeed, in some Continental countries, January 6 — which is both Epiphany (the day of Christ's baptism) and the feast of the Three Wise Men is celebrated rather than December 25 — although December 25 is universally acknowledged to be the day of Christ's birth).

Christmas, indeed, was a late comer in the Christian calendar and, in the days of the Reformation, it was, of course, held to be highly suspect and a Papist invention.

It had become a holiday only gradually and no doubt it replaced pagan celebrations just as gradually. Unfortunately, history tells us little about its early growth.

For that, of course, there is a very good reason: The history of the period was kept by theologians and monks. They celebrated Christmas as they had been commanded to and they were more than a little averse to admit on paper that their success in persuading the populace to do likewise was limited.

UN Official Says Canal Clearance Operation Begun

Egypt's Government Agrees To UN Fleet Starting Work

CAIRO (CP) — Lt.-Gen. Raymond Wheeler, United Nations official in charge of salvage operations, announced today that the "Suez Canal clearing operation has begun."

The Egyptian government, he said, agreed that the UN salvage fleet should start clearing the 103-mile long canal at Suez, its southern entrance.

Cairo newspapers said Egyptian technicians already had started clearing channels at Ismailia, midway along the canal, and Suez, its southern terminus, "preparatory to conducting research about sunken ships." But this obviously referred only to the clearing of mines from the waterway by the Egyptians earlier this week.

A British ship and two French vessels also are expected to salvage operations in Port Said harbor, the canal's northern entrance. This work was begun by the British occupation force, which since has been handed a channel through the northern third of the canal.

REACHED AGREEMENT

Authoritative Egyptian information reported earlier that Foreign Minister Mahmoud Fawzi and Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold of the UN reached an agreement during their New York for the beginning of clearance operations.

Hammarskjold, meanwhile, said "powerful Soviet-made automatic machinery" has been shipped to Egypt for use in restoring Port Said and on "clearing the Suez Canal." The loaders were said to have been shipped from the Ukrainian port of Odessa. The radio broadcast gave no details of when they would reach Egypt or how they would be used.

Prospects of a long-range settlement of the canal's future, including fire since Nasser nationalized the waterway, appeared dimmed Wednesday with the statement from a reliable Egyptian source that Nasser's government would no longer consider negotiating with Britain and France.

Abdel Kader Hatem, Egyptian information director, meanwhile announced the ending of "defiance" of the UN by refusing to return the Gaza Strip to Egypt. He said in a statement that such a refusal violated UN resolutions calling for the withdrawal of all invasion forces from Egypt.

48 Canadians Going to Egypt

EDMONTON (CP)—Two planes carrying 48 officers and men from Canada's peacekeeping contingent left nearby Namao air base today for Rafiah, halting the men on the first leg of a trip to join Canadians serving with the United Nations force in the Middle East.

The men were selected from army units in Saskatchewan Territories, British Columbia and Alberta. They will be flown by RCAF Transport Squadron of Montreal are handling the airlift.

The planes were due at Montreal at 8:59 p.m. EST and at Halifax at 3 a.m.

Christmas Toll On U.S. Highways Record 706 Lives

CHICAGO (AP)—United States traffic deaths, which soared to an all-time high for any holiday during the Christmas period, may also hit a record toll during the long New Year's weekend.

Deaths on American highways from 6 p.m. (local time) Friday to midnight Tuesday, the National Safety Council estimates, may total 490. That would be 83 more than the record set during the New Year's period, established during a four-day span in 1953-55.

The 490 total is termed possible by the council "unless there is a sharp improvement in the driving habits that shocked the nation over Christmas." It said the toll for a similar non-holiday period at this time of year would be 420.

In the Christmas period, the council, traffic fatalities totalled 706, the first time during any 78-hour period in history that they climbed above 700. The council's pre-Christmas estimate was 650.

If the council's New Year's estimate is surpassed, the combined Christmas-New Year's traffic death totals may pass the 1,000 mark for the first time.

Eye Surgeons Await Results Of Transplant

MONTREAL (CP) — The transplant of the cornea of a dead man's eyes to a young near-sighted man last Thursday became known Wednesday. Eye surgeons at the Maisonneuve Hospital here are anxiously awaiting results of the operation expected in a few days.

The wishes of the dying man that some good be near-distant in less person benefit after his death were made known before Christmas. The man died Wednesday.

The transplant originally was to be made for a 15-year-old Montreal boy, Jean-Paul Du Bissonde, who is rapidly becoming blind. But it was found the boy's physical condition was not good enough for the operation being carried out at this time.

A patient at Maisonneuve Hospital was found by the Canadian National Institute for the Blind, which has been co-operating with eye surgeons in setting up a cornea bank.

PAINTINGS WRECKED

NEW YORK (AP)—Fire damaged or destroyed paintings valued at a total of $3,000,000 in Greenwich Village Wednesday day. The blaze broke out on the basement floor of Masterpiece Restorers, Inc., as a staff of artists worked on a collection of about 50 paintings. Five paintings were destroyed, including Thintoret's Birth of the Virgin, with an estimated value of $50,000.

It was generally mild with temperatures between 20 to 25 in the north.

As the weather system moves eastward the snow will stop except in those areas directly exposed to the influence of the lakes. A relatively minor outbreak of cold air is moving across the southern country where temperatures will likely drop some 10 degrees or so today and tonight following which the zero mark tonight. However the effect of the cold will be much less marked in the lower lakes region.

REVOLT LEADER INDONESIAN ARMY HAS SURRENDERED

Other Factions Rebuff Attempts to Negotiate

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — The leader of the Indonesian army revolt in North Sumatra was believed to have surrendered to his second-in-command early today after tanks surrounded his home. Lt.-Col. Djamin Ginting announced in a radio broadcast from Medan, the North Sumatran capital, that he had replaced the rebel leader, Col. Maludin Simbolon, as military commander of the area.

Ginting pledged to "obey President Sukarno" and called "traitors" on connections with the central government will carry on as before.

Sukarno earlier had ordered Simbolon to hand over his command to Ginting. Simbolon had supplanted the local governments named by the central regime of Premier Ali Sastroamidjojo and demanded Sastroamidjojo's resignation.

WILL NOT NEGOTIATE

Sukarno and several other rebellious army factions to which Sumatra were said to have rebuffed attempts by the central government to negotiate.

Reports of a government peace mission came today as other groups in the island chain showed sympathy for the rebel movement and joined in demanding Premier Sastroamidjojo's resignation. The government unusually is dominated by politicians from central island of Java, most pop-lous and politically advanced of the Indonesian archipelago's islands.

The Indonesian official likened the trouble to "the 13 original American colonies each one jealous of its rights, each one afraid of too much central authority." But he said the wanting to preserve our 11-year-old republic."

A government delegation sent to central Sumatra to confer with the military junta in control there returned Wednesday night reporting failure.

SPOKESMAN COMMENTS

Lt.-Col. Soedirman of the group, Criminal Investigation Chief Sulaiman, said the mission failed because of the unpreparedness of Sastroamidjojo's government, not President Sukarno. Sulaiman said the rebel would deal only with the president.

The military groups in north and central Sumatra, Indonesia's most populous island, apparently took over the civilian provincial administrations after the rebel army commander's coups. In nightly radio broadcasts since the uprising, they have reiterated their charges that Sastroamidjojo to go and the reunion of Sukarno's former Vice-President Mohammed Hatta, the latter a Sumatran.

The rebels have declared that they do not want to split from the republic but only to reorganize its forms and more autonomy for the provinces.

Hatta resigned as vice-president Dec. 1. He had held the post since Indonesia won freedom in independence from The Netherlands in 1945. Hatta is politically to the right of Sastroamidjojo, and has disagreed with Sukarno on the political and economic course Indonesia should follow. But the rebels appeared determined that Indonesia led again by Sukarno-Hatta team whether Sukarno likes it or not.

South African Scientist Claims To Have Discovered 'Missing Link'

WASHINGTON (AP) — A South African scientist maintains that the major evolutionary step between man and his ape-like ancestors is bridged by creatures called Australopithecines.

This claim is advanced by Dr. Raymond Dart of the University of the Witwatersrand at Johannesburg in an article written for the Smithsonian Institution.

The Smithsonian, in making the article public today, describes Dart as "one of the major workers in the fossil ape-man controversy of the African man - ape ancestry" and claims a little more than a decade ago.

Dart writes that the Australopithecines had a almost human brains and bodies, walked erect in human fashion, used improvised and used tools and weapons. He says erect walking capacity includes that their brains fill the gap between the fossil ape and the fossil man of ice-age Europe.

There is little doubt that they had an "adequate number of diagnostic features, particularly in manual, implemental and dentitional vocal, for communicating basic sensations. . . ."

Noting that a major distinction between man and the lower animals has been the manufacture and use of tools by humans, Dart continued:

"These extinct Australopithecines . . . customarily carried in their hands weapons, just as all modern apes habitually carried them since they became upright. Their weapons were not fashioned of stone, however, but bones, the shapes clubs . . . They flourished and left behind a prolific store of fossils, antelopes, zebras and giraffes, just as Sahara is reputed to have wielded the jawbone of an ass. . . .

"The fossil animals stain by the man-apes . . . were so big that it was all their strength and cunning lieving that only human beings of advanced intelligence could have been responsible for these fossilized men of ice-age Europe.

Russia Poured Million Prisoners Into Slavery Say Repatriates

MAIZURU, Japan (AP)—Russia has poured more than 1,000,000 prisoners into slave labor mining camps in the district of Siberia in northeastern Siberia, three Japanese repatriates said today.

Most of the prisoners—Ukrainians, Poles, Germans, Hungarians and some Japanese—are believed never to return, the repatriates told a Kyodo news service correspondent.

The repatriates described Kolyma as a "living graveyard for slaves."

Toshihan Ando, 33, of Kyoto and Takahiko Hase, 46, and Seiichi Sato, 37, both of Tokyo, said they were lucky to return alive and tell about it.

Hase said they spent 10 years in Kolyma and were released a year ago last October.

"Every morning," Hase said, "a Russian slave ship leaves once a week from Korsyktaya Gavan via Magadan for Kolyma."

Sovetskaya Gaven is a Russian seaport across the Tatary Straits from southern Sakhalin. Magadan is a Siberian seaport on the Sea of Okhotsk. It is the gateway to Kolyma and Siberian hinterlands.

Hase said they left Magadan September 8,000 prisoners were packed with 6 or 8 into a freighter ranging from 3,000 to 8,000 tons for the voyage to Kolyma.

Ando said each ship had four circular holds. Guards armed with clubs watched from the upper decks.

"In the bottom deck in the ship's centre were huge vats," Hase said. "These contained soup, some drinking water, and others were used as latrines."

"Life inside the ships was fight for survival of the fittest," Sato said.

Kolyma was about 2,000 feet above sea level, Hase said, adding:

"Most prisoners had to slave more than 10 hours daily in uranium, gold, and chrome, manganese mines.

He said every morning there were 10 or more sick or dead.

Suez Crisis, Hungarian Revolt Top World Stories for Editors

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Political significance with both heart-tearing human interest for top spots on the front pages of 1956.

Telegraph editors of Canadian daily newspapers were unanimous in the view as it break—were unanimous in viewing the Suez situation and the Hungarian revolt as the two top world news stories of the year.

They chose last spring's pipeline debate at Ottawa as top Canadian story, with the Hungarian refugee airlift second. Next came the murder and disappearance of Sarnia, Ont., mine disaster and rescue at Springhill, N.S., which touched the heart strings of Canada.

Voting in a Canadian Press poll to pick the six top world and six top Canadian news events, they published no clearcut consensus that either Suez or Hungary outranked the other. All picked the Hungarian revolt in late October among their six selections. All named the arrest of Soviet novelist Igor Gouzenko, defector from Russian espionage ring in Canada, and the invasion of Egypt by Israel, France, United Nations action in establishing an emergency peace force.

On the Canadian scene, all saw the pipeline debate or some facet of it—because, attempted cessation of the Speaker, his offer of resignation and the defeat of the government at a top story. All but five of 51 voting had the Springhill blast, with 18 the choice for the top story among their Canadian choices.

The selections:

World: 1, Suez and Hungary (tied); 3, Eisenhower's re - election; 4, Ruzier Kelly wedding; 5, Grand Canyon air collision; 6, Southern desegregation.

Canadian: 1, Pipeline debate; 2, Springhill disaster; 3, Orleans plane crash; 4, Diefenbaker resigns; 5, Uranium share in US Suez force; 6, Airliner disappearance over B.C.

Eisenhower's re - election as president of the United States was well ahead of the April wedding of Grace Kelly and Prince Rainier III of Monaco, fourth spot in world selections.

The Suez crisis was followed over Grand Canyon June 30 took fifth place, with the South's racial problems and Little Rock incidents mentioned included the Andrea Doria-Stockholm collision, Igor Gouzenko, Don Larsen's perfect World Series game, the Polish political upheaval, the share in US Suez force; 6, Airliner disappearance over B.C.

In Canada, the editors viewed the May 15 crash of a fighter plane into a Grey Nuns convent in the east end of Orleans, Ont., with 15 dead, as next in impact to the pipeline debate and the Springhill. Rcn. George Drew's resignation as Progressive Conservative leader edged out various aspects of Canada's participation in the Suez emergency force for fourth place, with the Dec. 2 explosion in British Columbia on an airliner with 62 aboard rounding out the six.

Five top editorial elections caught the eye of some editors. They were Sevilla's election of PC government, Oct. 30 regarded as newsiest.

'Beautiful Girl' Willing to Wed Proves to Be Man

GOEPPINGEN, West Germany (Reuters)—A "beautiful girl" willing to marry a bachelor in Canada from Toronto—if only he sent her money—turned out to be a man, police said today.

Police did not reveal the Canadian's name, but said the confidence trickster began answering an advertisement the Canadian had put into the Toronto newspaper, a German newspaper.

Letters went to Toronto, complete with photographs of a blonde Austrian - born film star named Hannerl Matz saying: "I am willing to marry you."

The answers the Canada were sent to Goeppingen general delivery and post office officials remember that the man was always collected by a man.

ASKED FOR MONEY

The letters from the "beautiful girl" asked for the passage money to Toronto and enough cash to pay off a bit-sized debt and even to buy a motorcycle. But the Canadian paid for the passage in Toronto and only sent the motorcycle money, police said today.

The Canadian complained to Goeppingen police and investigations into the trickster's activities began.

BOMB ROCKS OFFICE

ENDICOTT, N. Y. (AP)—Police say a bomb that exploded in a downtown office here Wednesday may have been the work of boys experimenting with a Christmas-present chemistry set. Officials of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. said the bomb blew a hole in the wall in a back door. The explosion caused minor damage. No one was injured.

MALIBU BEACH HOMES DESTROYED BY BUSH BLAZE

At Least 27 Expensive Homes Are Burned

MALIBU, Calif. (AP)—A gale-whipped brush and timber fire raged with new fury today as two new hot spots broke out and the fire-fighting forces grew to 1,000 men.

The fire, burning for the second day in a scenic area extending from the Pacific Ocean inland to the Santa Monica mountains, has now consumed more than 20,000 acres. A number of substantial homes have been destroyed and one man has died.

Winds up to 50 miles an hour harassed the crews in the lower lower levels and those higher up reported they were all but helpless in the face of gusts which frequently reached 70 to 80 m.p.h.

The flames are dotted with expensive homes, beach cottages, large and small trailers and ranches, is located where the California coastline runs east and west. It is 30 miles northwest of downtown Los Angeles and is traversed by the main Pacific Coast highway, U.S. No. 101, which runs from Los Angeles to San Francisco.

DESTROYS HOMES

At least 27 homes have been destroyed and an undetermined number of small outbuildings consumed.

Destroyed include a luxury beach house owned by Ralph Edwards, master of ceremonies. Edwards had returned to his Beverly Hills residence Wednesday after a beach house Christmas evening.

The flames today swept into neighboring homes of actor Raymond Burr, composer Harry Warren and producer Charles Erkine.

The home of movie producer Arthur Freed and its $150,000 archival surveys were spared when the wind shifted, but the adjoining $75,000 home of his brother, Hugo Freed, was burned by the fast-moving flames.

Burr, who encountered actor Jackie Coogan using a residential telephone in the Paradise Cove area Coogan said he and his neighbors were getting out, although apparently in no immediate danger at the time.

ANIMALS PERISH

Frightened deer, rabbits and coyotes have fled from the mountains, and many have perished. Scores of persons have horses and dogs, and the fire reports are filled with the names of volunteers risking their safety to untether pets and get them out of danger. Several hundred animals were evacuated Wednesday as flames neared deer and other wild life.

Many returned, however, after the flames passed through their particular area, leaving nothing more to burn.

The fire jumped the coast highway in several places, closing the artery to traffic.

Approximately 1,000 men are in the battle. The Red Cross has set up evacuation centers and the Salvation Army has sent out mobile canteens.

ILLEGAL DEALINGS

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Joseph W. Boyle of Houston was held here today under $100,000 bond after being arrested on a New York warrant charging illegal gold dealings. Boyle, 52, is charged with conspiracy to defraud the United States government in connection with laws regulating the importing and exporting of gold coin or secret bullion. Police said he has been in Mexico a year before being de-

Visitors From Space May Be One Of Greatest Barriers to Space Travel

NEW YORK (AP) — Visitors from space hit the earth 2,300 times a year, according to new calculations reported today by Canadian astronomers.

They are known as meteors or shooting stars.

They are so numerous that they might literally blast open a space ship long before it could journey to the moon or Mars. They would be one of the greatest barriers to space travel, if not the greatest.

The new calculations are that 200,000,000 shooting stars visible to the naked eye zing into the earth's atmosphere every day.

Most are small, the size of dust specks to BB shot or bigger. In total, the visible visitors weigh at least 10 tons. They travel at speeds from 30,000 to 180,000 miles an hour, and most perish in flashes of light.

Their brightness from friction with our planet's air.

The calculations were prepared for presentation to the American Astronomical Society and American Association for the Advancement of Science by Peter M. Millman and Miriam D. Hawkins of the National Research Council, Dominion astrophysical observatory.

The estimate is based upon the number of meteors actually seen over a 23-year period by groups of human observers.

How great a threat the meteor bombardment actually is will be measured within the coming year by the Canadian satellite project. If satellites are sent whirling in orbit by 1958 to 1,200 miles above the earth,

What is learned will help in designing space ships.

CPR Firemen Will Walk Off Jobs Next Wednesday

Union Says Walkout Will Tie up Entire Line

MONTREAL (CP)—Members of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen (CPR) have been ordered off their jobs with the CPR at 4 p.m. local time next Wednesday in a strike the union says will tie up the entire line.

Only about 2,800 firemen, 300 hostlers and 20 engineers are directly affected but union leaders say other railway brotherhoods will respect the picket lines and bring CPR trains to a halt. The CNR signed an agreement with the brotherhood earlier this year and is not directly involved in the strike.

The dispute is over a CPR proposal to eliminate firemen-helpers in freight and yard service. Railway officials estimate the position of about 200 firemen-helpers would disappear under the plan.

The proposal was approved by the majority report of a federal conciliation board. The board also recommended a seven-per-cent hourly wage increase retroactive to April 1 and a five-per-cent boost effective next June. The union has accepted for a 25-per-cent increase but the board's majority report of 4-1 relieved an issue in the dispute.

MET WITH HALL

The brotherhood's Canadian head of the brotherhood, met late Wednesday with Frank Hall, chairman of the negotiating committee of the railways' non-operating union to prepare for Thursday's meeting in the walkout. A meeting of the committee executive with the railways is to discuss the situation.

If the brotherhood brings about a complete tie-up of the CPR, approximately 75,000 employees would be affected over the company's 17,000 mile line. Also involved are two CPR subsidiaries, the Dominion Atlantic Railway and the Quebec Central Railway.

The Dominion Atlantic operates in Nova Scotia and its 29 employees are members of the brotherhood. The Quebec Central operates through the Eastern Townships to Quebec City.

The strike vote was taken among 26 local chairmen of the brotherhood across Canada. A similar vote among maintenance employees of Dominion Atlantic also voted.

Jordan Raiders Attack Israel

TEL AVIV (AP)—Israeli newspapers today said fedayeen (raiders) had set a bomb in Jordan village and made a series of attacks on villages in central Israel during the night and were repulsed by the guards and watchmen.

An army spokesman said he was investigating unofficial reports that the raiders tossed hand grenades into a restaurant in Ein Sarid and placed a time bomb near a house at Ein Vered, about five miles west of the Jordanian border.

Press reports said footprints led to the border near the Jordan village of Kalkilya.

Israel meanwhile officially opened a naval base today at Haifa, Israel's major port of Eilat, on the southern tip of the country.

MONTREAL (CP) — President N. R. Crump today sent a personal letter to the Canadian Pacific Railway's 75,000 employees outlining the company's stand in the dispute with the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen (CLC).

The union has called a strike for next Wednesday because of a company proposal to eliminate firemen-helpers from diesel engines used in freight and yard services.

Mr. Crump's letter read:

"Dear fellow employee: I am writing you this personal letter about the differences between the company and the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen which represents the 2,850 firemen on Canadian Pacific.

ACCEPTED REPORT

"We accept both sides the government appointed a board of conciliation and the board now has made its report. The company has accepted this report under which all firemen employed will continue to be employed and continue to be fairly treated. A fair settlement is of direct importance to every Canadian Pacific employee as well as himself.

"You should not overlook the following important points:

"1. There can be no dispute about firemen's wages or working conditions. The conciliation board recommended wage increases totalling 12 per cent. The company has agreed to these with other train service employees—and extra pay for six hours' overtime. The wage issue is

Explosion Rips CPR Tracks At Nelson, B.C.

NELSON, B.C. (CP) — An explosion ripped a 15 inch gash in rails west of here, ripped up a three-foot section of CPR track early Thursday morning.

Shoreacres is the centre of a farm area inhabited by Doukhobors, a people who came to Canada from Russia early in the century. A fanatical sect of the Doukhobors — Sons of Freedom—has been responsible for several bomb or bombings in the past.

It was believed here in the West Kootenay that the Christmas Day bombing was the work of Freedomites, though RCMP officers who investigated declined to single them out for blame.

Police said they presume the explosion was set off by dynamite.

The blast, followed by only a few days the destruction of two Sons of Freedom children to the British Columbia government's consolidated school at Krestova, B.C., about 25 miles north of here. Police said the explosion at Glade, B.C., in October for not attending school.

NEW SCHOOL

The Freedomites claimed to have started a school of their own.

The remote section where Freedomites is at Krestova, 23 miles west of Nelson, has been the scene of a few of the radicals in every Doukhobor community.

No trains were due in immediate vicinity when the blast occurred. CPR crews soon had the tracks cleared. Nobody was injured.

A CPR bridge about 300 yards west of where the explosion occurred is under construction. Bridges throughout that district have been guarded for years against the threat of Freedomite bombings.

Mr. William Houston, of Shannonville, gave birth to a girl in Belleville General Hospital at 10.55 a.m. on Christmas. One hour and 12 minutes later Mrs. Basil Hopper, Victoria Street, Tweed, presented the world with another boy in the same hospital.

These were the only babies born in Belleville General Hospital on Christmas Day.

J. and J. Cash Holds Annual Staff Dinner

The annual dinner of J. & J. Cash Social Club was held at the A.N.A.F. hall with over one hundred in attendance, including staff members and their guests. A delicious turkey dinner was served at 7:15, prior to which "The Queen" was sung, led by Tom Hood and Max Storey. The toast to Her Majesty was made by Marshall Day, the oldest member of the staff of J. & J. Cash. Grace was said by Mr. W. A. Mills, office manager. The tables were gaily decorated in the Christmas motif with festive hats, favors and souvenirs for each guest. Tom Hood moved a vote of thanks to the Ladies' Auxiliary of the A.N.A.F. who catered to the affair.

The program opened with a short address by Mr. Don Lee, chairman of the Social Club, welcoming the guests and introducing members of his committee responsible for the planning and preparations for the party.

E. H. Hall, general manager, spoke briefly, congratulating the committee on the very successful party, and extending the good wishes of the season. Mr. Hall presented the annual bonus cheques to all employees, and token gifts to Mrs. Gahlys Weeden and Mrs. Viola Carter on behalf of the Social Club.

At this point, bells heralded the arrival of Santa, who distributed gifts to everyone, much to their much merriment. Several draws were made during the afternoon and Tom Hood was the winner of the hamper of groceries.

The program concluded with a performance by the pupils of the Dorothy Dale Dancing School, which included tap, acrobatic, vocal and specialty numbers, all enthusiastically received by the guests. Gifts were presented to each of the participating performers by the Social Club.

Dancing concluded the very enjoyable evening, one of the most successful affairs sponsored by the Social Club, with music by Hugo Diggins and his orchestra and vocal numbers by Mr. Art Daby.

CHRISTMAS PARTY FOR CHILDREN

The J. & J. Cash Christmas party for the children of the employees was held on Thursday, December 20, at 5 o'clock. Santa arrived at 5.15 to the accompaniment of Christmas music, jingling bells and the squeals of the small fry. Santa handed out the gifts from his booth beath the gaily decorated tree and bags of goodies, candy and soft drinks and made his departure with a promise to be back on Christmas Eve.

Christmas Tree Lights Blamed For $4,000 Fire

Christmas tree lights which had been left on during the absence of the family were blamed for a Christmas night fire in an upstairs apartment at 18 Victoria Avenue, which caused loss estimated at approximately $4,000 to building and contents.

Occupants of the apartment were said to be the manager of the Silver Grill and his family.

The fire was discovered shortly before nine o'clock Christmas night when flames were spotted through an upstairs window.

Firemen were quickly on the scene and shortly had the fire under control, although at one time flames were billowing out through two upstairs windows. Fire and water damage to the five roomed apartment was set at about $3,000 with another $3,000 to contents.

Only slight water damage was caused to the beauty salon which occupies the lower floor at the front of the building. The building is owned by Garfi Dobbs.

Fire Chief Gerald Vance said the fire apparently started from Christmas tree lights which had been left burning when the family went out at about 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

Drifts Block Britain's Roads

LONDON (Reuters) — Six-foot snow drifts blocked country roads in many parts of Britain today, making rough going for motorists returning to work after the Christmas holiday.

The Automobile Association reported roads in some counties in England, Wales and Scotland block due to deep snow.

London, after its first white Christmas in nearly 20 years, was clear today.

Fog at Liverpool prevented the 34,000-ton Cunard liner Caronia from making her trials in the Irish Sea. She was due to test the air conditioning system extended throughout the ship for her world cruise from New York next month.

In Italy freezing temperatures gripped many parts of the country today, and Warsaw radio reported that heavy snowfalls and frost have dislocated railroad traffic in Poland.

BACK TO NORMAL

LONDON (Reuters) — London's subway system returned to full operation this morning after having been disrupted for more than eight hours by a fire 120 feet below ground at Marble Arch station.

Boy Carolers Raise Funds for Hungarian Relief

A bevy of Church St. youngsters, augmented by a "pair", braved the true Christmas spirit on the eve of the great festive season.

Three of the boys, James Hurst, David Hurst and Pete Carver are members of a sports organization facetiously called the "Church Street Clippers," while the fourth, George Anderson, lives in another part of the city.

They decided to go "a-caroling" on Christmas Eve and this they did, visiting homes in the neighborhood. They were well received and on their return home counted the financial returns of their venture.

It amounted to six dollars.

The boys will present the money to the Hungarian Relief Fund here.

Police Blotter

Although there were a number of minor mishaps there was only one motor accident of serious proportions in the city over the holiday, it was reported today by city police.

Christmas Eve, Harry Nelson R. Tripp, 207 Pine St., was driving on Bridge street when his car collided with a parked vehicle owned by Stan Wilkinson, 364 Dufferin. Considerable damage resulted to both vehicles, while police charged Mr. Tripp with careless driving.

This morning on Catharine St., a car driven by Joan M. Hayes, R.R. 1 Belleville, skidded out of control as she braked to avoid a child in front. Her car slid across the road and bumped a hydro pole doing about $200 damage to the vehicle. M. White, 23, passenger in the car, received a cut on the forehead.

Provincial police reported that Willow Cabins, near Trenton, had been broken into with a station wagon coat, hunting jacket, sweater, wrist watch, radio, cutlery set and $80 in cash being stolen.

All Over for Another Year

It is all over for another year. Christmas, the great festive season is over.

The turkeys, geese, ducks and other main items of the holiday fare have been assaulted and little remains but cold slices and soup.

The Christmas presents which based thousands of trees in the city and district now are memories of the great morning. The trees now revel in illuminative glory only.

It was one of those rare 'green' Christmases with the familiar snow, and snow-dressed trees replaced by the drab colorlessness of bare ground and gaunt, naked trees. Houses and apartments reflected the warm glow of the holiday with Christmas trees peeking through windows.

While tragedy on packed ribbons of main highways did not strike in the city, it was evident in Frankford and near Shannonville. A few minor accidents in the city limits were not productive of serious injury.

While the festive turkey, goose and ducks were apparent in many homes, a number of city residents took the opportunity of "dining" at hotels and restaurants.

With the weather conducive to travelling many took to the highway to visit relatives in the close-by and faraway places to share the holiday festivity.

In many churches mighty organs and choirs were heard in the joyous music of Christmas. Carolers braved the wintry but snowless air of Christmas Eve.

The air waves were filled with familiar Christmas carols, song and music. Her Majesty the Queen's message from across the sea in the morning and many listened to the message of Her Majesty. Greetings from all parts of the world were aired.

Most of the city industries, however, observed Monday to extend the weekend, and operated yesterday.

Father, Children Suffer Burns As 10 Left Homeless in Fire

TRENTON (Special) — Ten people narrowly escaped a fire that gutted their insul-brick cottage here on Christmas morning. All were left homeless.

Mrs. Gordon of Woodcocks living at 15 College Street managed to get out of the burning house after an oil heater exploded and flames raced from room to room unchecked.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Woodcock, their son Louis and daughter-in-law Bertha, and three more of their children, Mary, 18, Daisy, 15, and Sheldon, 13, were in the living room watching midnight mass on the TV.

Suddenly the oil burner appeared to be overheating and the father attempted to pick it up and carry it outside. Apparently he was to handle the heater fell to the floor and the tank full of oil spilled and caught fire, immediately the entire room was a seething inferno.

Mrs. Retha Woodcock's first thought after running outside was of her two small children sleeping in a crib in a bedroom at the back of the place. A wall of fire separated her from them. She ran to a window and looking through saw her babies huddled in a corner of the crib. Smoke billowed around them. Later she wondered why she didn't faint because she has been unwell and under the doctor's care for several months.

Finally, Mrs Woodcock smashed the pane of glass and was about to climb through when she heard the aged infants when her husband came along and pushed her aside. Then, without thought for his own safety, Louis Woodcock ran around to the back door and disappeared in the smoke and fire, looking for the children inside. While his wife waited, fearing the worst, her husband emerged through the only route of escape carrying both children in his arms.

ALL SUFFERED BURNS

Father and children suffered burns about the face and arms. They needed treatment in the Trenton Memorial Hospital. The children were permitted to go home but the father is still under the doctor's care.

Both families lost everything they possessed. They escaped with only the clothes they were wearing.

After the firemen brought the fire under control the families' Christmas turkey charred black in the roasting pan, remained as mute evidence of the-heat of the fire in the kitchen adjoining the children's bedroom.

Besides furnishings and personal belongings the Woodcocks lost $52 in foodstuffs acquired for the festive season.

The Woodcocks, taken in by relatives and friends, are being helped by the Salvation Army and philanthropic persons.

The loss, in spite of a few minutes of fire raging out of control, was only partly covered by insurance.

FIRST CHRISTMAS BABY

The first Christmas baby born at the Trenton Memorial Hospital arrived at eight minutes after midnight December 25. A bouncing baby boy weighing eight pounds, nine ounces, was born to proud parents, Mr. and Mrs. John McAlpine of 96 Princess Street, Trenton. Both mother and baby are doing well. Equally proud is Dr. E. W. Dow who made the delivery.

The parents are winners of a special Christmas gift donated by LacKaye's Leather Products, Brighton.

Kadar Planning To Seek Aid of Non-Communists

BUDAPEST (Reuters) — Hungary's Russian - backed government probably will take the first step toward opening its ranks to non-Communists "in the next few days," an official spokesman said here Wednesday.

A political program promised by the Communist Premier Janos Kadar as a basis for broadening his government to include leaders of other parties is likely to be published in about a week, the spokesman said.

The program already has been drafted but still is under study by individual ministers whose final approval of points within their respective spheres is necessary before its publication, he added.

He said the program will deal with "all the major political, economic and cultural issues before the country today and will form a basis for a broader national government including non-Communists."

Western diplomatic sources are inclined to regard Kadar's manoeuvres as aimed at attracting some more nationally known non-Communists into his government without making any basic concessions or departures from the "tough" line his government has adopted in quelling opposition and ending the strike that paralyzed the country.

EXPECT CONCILIATION

SYDNEY, N.S. (CP) — Union officials say a meeting today between the district executive of the United Mine Workers (UM) and Dominion Coal Company officials will probably result in a conciliation board being formed. ## REBUFF TO NATO

Those who have followed the deliberations of the NATO conference at Paris must be hard put to find in the attitude of the United States the kind of leadership and unity of purpose so necessary of the most powerful nation in the West if the Atlantic Alliance is to be a meaningful instrument for resisting Soviet aggression.

Mr. Dulles' sermon-like survey of world conditions, which warned that the danger of war had increased because of the unrest in the Communist satellite countries and the manifestations of instability in the Soviet Union itself, will hardly bring encouragement to those in Hungary and elsewhere behind the Iron Curtain who are ready to fight and die for freedom. For Mr. Dulles' words leave the impression that the United States frowns upon those in the satellite countries who seek to throw off the yoke of Soviet oppression lest in attempting to do so they precipitate a war.

Nor can the U.S. Secretary of State be said to have contributed toward western unity when he told the NATO Council that the United States reserved the right to act in defence of its own vital interests without consulting the member governments of NATO. Indeed, the tone of Mr. Dulles' remarks cannot help but convey a disquieting impression that the United States is abdicating its responsibilities in world affairs, and turning slowly towards something uncomfortably like the isolationism of the thirties.

RAILWAYS ARE NOT EXPENDABLE

The fact that transportation in Canada has become highly competitive does not mean, as some people seem to imagine, that the railways are expendable and that the nation's transportation needs can be met entirely by the trucks, air transport and pipelines. Given freedom from restrictive regulation, the railways still offer the cheapest form of mass overland transport of goods regardless of competition.

That the public does not fully enjoy the low cost transport services which the railways could provide under regulated powers, like in the fact that the freight rate structure itself is distorted by statutory and other restrictions which give special preferential rates to shippers of certain commodities.

The most striking example of such rigidities in the freight rate structure is found in the statutory rates on export grain. These rates, set at 1897 levels, enable farmers to move grain into forward positions for export at Lakehead and Pacific Coast ports for less than the actual cost of transportation. Yet the burden of shouldering the cost, unfairly it would seem, falls upon the railways and, through higher freight rates, on shippers of other commodities.

Most Canadians recognize that rail transport is not only essential but is of growing importance. That is why there is a growing conviction that, without prejudice to Western wheat farmers, some solution should be found to the present statutory grain rates and other restrictive measures which distort the freight rate structure.

NEW HUNTING HAZARD

Help!

The next world war will reach Canada nine months hence.

That is when the 1957 hunting season will commence.

And, if Canadian hunters are to believe a press story about Mrs. Muriel Brock of North Bay that may be the hunting season to end all hunting seasons. No fooling!

Mrs. Brock is one of Canada's few professional hunters. She may prove to be one too many for the survival of the male of the species.

Mrs. Brock was not content to take a gun into the woods but also had to drag along the customary feminine accessories including perfume. The perfume charmed the deer. Her bag rose.

There's a simple, scientific explanation for the results which may be attained by loading the woodland breezes with "Surrender" and "Temptation" and "Langueur".

Pleasing perfumes kill the human scent," explains Mrs. Brock.

She has already convinced hunters she guides of the truth of these statements. Around Nipissing Bay, apparently, it's fairly common for hunters to roam the bush doused in sweet scent. One hunter, apparently a Boy Scout character bent on doing his good deed for the day, carried a bottle of perfume and sprayed every other hunter he met.

Hunting casualties are already high enough, what with the way guns have of going off all by themselves and the mirages which the sun plays on a moving deer, and a red parka hood into a white deer tall. But imagine what is going to happen next year when the battleground is extended to the home-front. The man who strolls into the house after several days in the woods and has nothing more to show for his efforts than a lingering aroma of "Tropic Night" or "Dawn Passion" is going to have to do some fast talking.

BE YOUR AGE

To hang a stocking, I've been told
That I am really much too old.
But at what age should grownups drop
The joy of toys in every shop?

At thirty should a mortal shun
Electric trains that really run?

Where is the stopping place for things
Which Santa Claus at Christmas brings?

How old am I supposed to be
When trucks no longer interest me?

Must I give up at forty-four
The fun of rolling on the floor?

I know there are some grown-up boys
Who long have lost their love for toys

But does that mean, though just as old,
That I should let my heart grow cold?

And is that any reason why
I ought to pass a toy shop by?

"Oh, be your age!" the women say, . . .
"And read your books from day to day."

Find calmer pleasures to enjoy;
Remember, you're not still a boy.

We man who's lived as long as you
Should play with toys as children do."

I've read the calendars and found
No date when I must be around
On all before my frame is bent,
Like Patience on a monument.

"Oh, be your age!" and I reply:
"I will, but still a boy am I."

Headed CPR For One Hour

Fort Arthur News-Chronicle

When N. R. Crump, president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, was in the Lakehead recently to speak to the Queen's University Alumni association, local railway and industry minded citizens engaged in a discussion of the CPR story.

Possibly thinking of the distinguished line of men which Mr. Crump's name had recently been added, one member of the group asked if either they could name all the previous presidents of Canada's pioneer transcontinental railway. Most of them were able to do so with one exception. Somehow they remembered the names of Stephen, Van Horne, Shaughnessy, Beatty, Cole-man, Neal, Mather and now Crump. The exception, of which the group asked for a general lack of knowledge was Rev. Fa-ther Lacombe who, when the first trains were going through was priest in charge of the parish at St. Mary's at Calgary. He was a president of the Canadian Pacific Railway for one month and his name is now on the official list.

In this newspaper in referring to the circumstances appears to have been delayed somewhat in Lacombe's visit there early in November it is due to the time required for verification of the interests of historical accuracy which is always required.

A book entitled, as now available, Rev. Father Lacombe, an Oblate missionary and friend of the Black Robe Voyageur—his name is preserved as that of a Canadian National steamer rendered valuable services in smoothing the way for the pioneers and reconstruction gangs through the Blackfoot Indian reserves.

Soon after the arrival of the first train on August 10, 1883, Rev. Father Lacombe was called to lunch with George Stephen, the first president, and the company's chief directors, Donal Smith, R. B. Angus, Van Horne and the construction engineer-in-chief Fleming.

On the motion of R. B. Angus, Father Lacombe remained for one hour and the good Father was elected to the meeting. He was the outdone in courtesy and generosity, the new incumbent of the railway presidency made. Father Lacombe made Mr. Stephen rector of St. Mary's, which Mr. Stephen liked in the records which of the two might have made the better record in the pioneer railroading and colonization. But John Murray Gibbon has made Mr. Stephen look blushing out of the car window and saying "Poor souls of Calgary, I pity you."

'Tory' Now Respectable

Ottawa Journal

"Tory" like its opposite number "Whig", is an example of a word once used as a term of offensive reproach but which trundown its origin to be borne proudly by hosts of good men and true in Canada as in the United Kingdom.

In his new book about the English-speaking peoples Sir Winston Churchill discusses these words and how they came from usage. It was late in the 17th century, indeed, before either name had high, and there was no nlce-nellyism about what one called the other fellow.

Thus, says Sir Winston, "Whig" described "a sour, bigoted, canting, money-grubbing Scots Presbyterian" while "Irish Papist bandits ravaging estates and manor-houses had been called 'Tories'." And Sir Winston quotes one David Hogg who wrote a book about "England in the Reign of Charles II":

"A Tory is a monster with an English face, a French heart and an Irish conscience. A creature of a large forehead, no religious mouth, supple hams, and no brains. To one or a set of evil principles that would root out the constitution."

And the Whig comes out of Mr. Hogg's book no better:

"The Whig hath the head without but new light and prophecy . . . His language is a rhapsody of holy hickups, sanctified barkings, hallelujah-like apologies, sighs, sobs, yexes, gasps and groans."

But the words, born of scorn and hatred, "not only stuck," as Sir Winston reports, "but were cherished and vaunted by those upon whom they were thrown. They gradually entered into the whole life of the nation and came to represent main instrumental types, "Orators and famous writers of the Whig party, dedicated to them in terms of pride."

"Whig and Tory" came to the new Canada with its settlers from the British Isles. "Whig" did not survive in the new atmosphere, and "Tory" fell into disfavor though some people, indicating that the Conservative was really a Tory at heart with the feet planted firmly in the six-teen hundreds.

But now "Tory" has become respectable again, and though a Whig is uncommon there are more than a few Liberals around.

No Chance To Answer

Cornwall Standard-Freeholder

The telephone rings. Atop the ladder the do-it-yourself exponent hastily presses the paint from the brush and puts it down—just as the second ring comes.

He climbs down the ladder, careful not to upset the paint can. He wipes his hands as the phone rings the third time. By the time he gets over to the corner where the instrument clangs out impatiently it's sounding off for the fourth time. Then as he grabs it it goes dead.

In the summertime the same things happens to a man who is outdoors. He hastily stands at a pace the doctor warned him against, only to have the phone go dead just as he completes the dash.

People making calls ought to give a guy a chance to reach his phone.

Wrong Guess

Ottawa Journal

A Russian soldier asked a Swedish newspaperman beside a Finnish river: "Is this the Suez Canal?" Perhaps a hint of where he thought he was going.

'Ferrites' New Marvel

Stratford Beacon-Herald

Technicians from a dozen countries gathered in London, England, recently for the opening of a convention on "ferrites"—a man-made material which may revolutionize radio, television and tele-communications before many years.

Sir Gordon Radley, president of the Institution of Electrical Engineers, which sponsored the convention, pointed out that the discovery and development of ferrites had been essentially European, and that British industry had already really made a major contribution to the technology of the subject. The role that ferrites play, he added, would be almost as important as the transistor.

Ferrites are still almost unknown to the man in the street—have no "household" name—but owe success to the ancient lodestone on which navigators of old depended.

Actually, ferrites are the magnetic materials which have the unique property of being used for insulation purposes as well. The dictionary defines them as combinations of iron oxide with oxides of another metal, but to the average man they will spell smaller radios, less unsightly television aerials and viewing tubes which give pictures brighter and more clear-cut than ever before.

They also have a "memory" and when used in electronic "brains" will store information indefinitely. They could be used for storing information in an electronic telephone exchange of the future.

Extra Wives Big Asset

St. Thomas Times-Journal

In French Africa extra wives pay off as the Paris government gives the same family allowances for each wife. Even there, however, polygamy is allowed, as they do in metropolitan France. One native official in the Cameroons, whose basic salary is $70 a month, receives an extra $850 monthly for his children. Another minor official who has 71 wives, gets an extra $850 monthly. Add to that, it is doubtful of the husbands have any extra money for themselves unless wives and children are different there than they are here.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THE UNDEFEATED

There is a glamour in the very word—"undefeated." People gather about such an individual. They look him over as though a strange product from a foreign land. There is magic in that line—"the undefeated Champion of the world." Of course we must keep in mind that this is a big world and not all of the undefeated Champs have been given a chance.

We pay tribute, however, to the undefeated, regardless of how the honor has been earned. Many a person has gained the title of Undefeated without having to go through a series of tests. We look upon by a series of tests. We can be the judge in our own behalf. It can be undefeated in ourselves

Defeat of any kind has to be acknowledged. The Salvation Army has a line that is unforgettable —"down, but not out." It covers many a boxer knocked down, only to recover and win the contest. If you join the ranks of the Undefeated you will hold your head high, the vision ahead will be one of confidence, and your walk will be forward, each step in tune to the finale.

Nature seems to be well populated with the undefeated. In the forest you will note that it is the undefeated among the trees that have formed their way closest to the sun so as to get all the life possible from those golden rays. In the birds and squirrels, outside my window, in the cold and storm there is a spry and undefeated as if it were one of the most beautiful days of summer, with food abundant everywhere.

Stand on a crowded street corner and watch the people in a hurry to get on. You can easily pick out the undefeated as they pass by. We all carry the evidence of success or failure every-where we go. It's stamped all over us, from our feet to the tips of our heads! Be sure you are in the undefeated line.

Nomenclature Re-designed

Kingston Whig-Standard

It (technical jargon) all reminds us of the man who announced he was a barefoot convention recently that his firm was showing a machine which would re-edge de-structured cutting edges. "It works," he said, "by means of a pedal attachment to a fulcrum lever, which converts a vertical reciprocal motion into a circular movement. The principal component of the apparatus is a large disc revolving in a vertical plane. Power is applied through the axis of the disk and the operation is achieved on the periphery where, by lateral pressure, the de-structured edge may again be remolecuiedised.

The machine was known for centuries," he ended, "as a grindstone but we have brought the apparatus through and altered the technical nomenclature."

Personal Health Talks

By DR. WM. BRADY

Common Causes of Hemorrhoids

Whether the chicken or the egg came first is still a baffling problem. Let me hear from you if you find a solution.

Some medical authorities say constipation is an important cause of piles (hemorrhoids). Others say piles cause constipation. In such a quandary one can only ask how a medical authority gets that way? It is simple enough: He gathers his view in print, preferably in a textbook, but otherwise in a medical journal, and in one case at least by holding forth in the public prints—no boners, I have been cited as a medical authority when I happened to say something in this column that suited the purpose of some writer or speaker.

I side with the doctors who ascribe constipation to piles, and I have long held that hemorrhoids or piles are caused or aggravated by constipation.

Except in the morbid imagination of ignorant doctors and misinformed laymen, it is not constipation that causes or aggravates piles, but the home remedies the doctors prescribe or approve and such laymen take for constipation — laxatives, "purgatives", "liver pills", "regulators" of all kinds, particularly "vegetable" or "herb" "laxatives" phyles containing the familiar horse medicine, aloes or aloin. These irritants, like plain or fancy salts, mineral waters imbibed at the rate of from the bottle at home (if you are naive enough), are all more or less irritating, and in my judgment—if everybody in the business does not already hate me, he will now no such pyxie does anybody any good.

Besides the constant pelvic irritation due to poor bowel habit, another predisposing or contributing factor of hemorrhoids is the popular sitting, sitting.

A reasonable amount of sitting, lazing, lying around, provided one lazing is harmless and even good for everyone. But too many young people today carry it to extremes — sitting long hours at switchboard, typewriter, desk, lathe or tool and then, for recreation, sitting for two or three hours longer at the movies, ball game, television or bowl watching players get tired, and even sitting in bus, car or train to and from work, rather than taking a few miles of jogging on the hoof.

This sedentary habit makes for flabbiness, poor circulation, poetal congestion or overfilling of the blood vessels that carry blood from the digestive tract to the liver, stagnation in the splanchnic pool, and piles. There is no better way to prevent such a state or to correct it than that prescribed long ago on the hoof—a brisk walk—not a lackadaisical stroll of from two to six miles every day.

Take your daily ration of oxygen—exercise—deep breathing increases the absorption of oxygen—in one dose or, if you prefer, in divided doses of a mile or two twice or three times a day, or, if you must, before work in the morning, the second walking home at the end of the day's work.

Readjusting your way of living to provide good oxidation, good metabolism—is hard for the flabby individual with flabby character. The reports of those who have reformed indicate that it is very good medicine.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Within recent weeks, several of my friends and members of my generation whom I knew, have died. Some were in good company like that, it affords an opportunity to compare their lives and think of the good and bad in their lives. Some of this company of men known to me, have become all within a few days of one another, had distinguished careers. They "did a good job," as the saying is. Two or three at them received well-deserved obituary notices. Two or three others, while not serving in a public sense, built up important businesses as the result of lifelong devotion to their interests and their fortunes, and so contributed greatly to the prosperity of Canada and to the livelihood of their generation in all walks of life. From him the whole army of employee right down to the caretakers and humblest charwomen, found a friend in mind were all successful men, in the ordinary meaning of the word, whether serving in the public realm or entirely involved in their own personal enterprises.

In both groups there were those who had a good job but didn't have a very interesting experience of life, had few ups and downs, few crises, few "seen't in the wars, seldom travelled except on business, took formal holidays, getting, as they say, "a good rest," and moulded each day and each year of their lives to the demands of business, of community and of family.

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

A THIN VEIL

All four Evangelists record the baptism of Jesus.

It was fraught with great significance. His ministry among men began at this point. There was no apparent reason why He should be baptized, for John was baptizing men unto repentance and remission of sins, and Jesus never knew of John. John joined with Jesus, but Our Lord's reply was that it became Him to fulfill all rightousness—that is, to set a good example. He did not need baptism, but others did. He would submit to the rite to help others.

And after His baptism, He prayed and three remarkable things took place. The heavens opened. That is, the ve . which hides that the seen world from the unseen was swept away and the unseen world themselves standing in the realm of eternity. Again, we read that the Holy Spirit descended upon Jesus in the form of a dove. Last of all, there came the voice from "In Thee I am well pleased."

There is both a historical record and a beautiful spiritual parable. For we who you and I pray, the same thing happens. If we have really submitted our lives to the will of God, the heavens open, the Spirit comes down upon us and God speaks to us and assures us of His acceptance in us.

It is only a veil, indeed which hides from the sensible and of an unseen world. And a thin veil, at best.

Young Resident Of Reservation Instantly Killed

A young resident of the Tyendinaga Indian Reservation was instantly killed and his companion was critically injured early Christmas morning when their car went out of control on No. 2 Highway, two miles east of Millstown, crashed through a hydro pole and ended up in a farmer's field.

Killed was Edward Sero, 17. In Belleville General Hospital in fair condition is Warren Brant, 16, who was the driver of the car.

A slippery highway condition was said at least partially responsible for the accident. Bush's Ambulance, which took the injured man to hospital, was forced to proceed at a comparatively slow rate of speed both to and from the scene of the accident.

WEDDINGS

Mr. and Mrs. Francis Glenn Hill are shown following their marriage in the Tyendinaga Reserve. The bride is the former Miss Shirley Dwella Brant, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Brant of Shannonville, and the bridegroom, the son of Mrs. John W. Hill, of Point Anne, and the late Mr. Hill. (Photo by McCormick Studio, Belleville).

HILL — BRANT

Lovely, white chrysanthemums adorned the altar of All Saints' Church, Tyendinaga Reserve, for a recent pretty wedding when Shirley Dwella Brant, of Shannonville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Brant, became the bride of Francis Glenn Hill, of Point Anne, son of Mrs. John W. Hill, and the late Mr. Hill. The Reverend Walter Smith, of Desoronto, officiated. White satin bows designated the guest pews.

Mr. S. Alec Gordon, of Bridge Street United Church, Belleville, guest organist, provided the wedding music, and accompanied the soloist, Miss Helen Cook, of Belleville, who sang "Beloved, It is Morn," during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her father, Mr. John R. Brant, the bride was radiant in her bridal gown of white, embroidered satin, fashioned with fitted, torso-bodice on princess lines, enhanced by a bolero with Peter Pan collar, and long, sheath-like sleeves, lily-pointed over the wrists. The floor-length bouffant skirt fell in graceful folds. Her fingertip veil of tulle illusion, was held by a tiara, encrusted with seed pearls in cut-out design, and she carried a semi-cascade of red Sweetheart roses tied with white, satin ribbon.

The bride was attended by Miss Rosemary Hunter, of Belleville, as maid of honor, and by Miss Delores Jean Brant, of Shannonville, sister of the bride; Miss Marlene Brant, also of Shannonville, and Miss Janet Benn, of Port Credit, Ontario, as bridesmaids. All were similarly attired in street-length gowns featuring princess lines and high front necklines with straps extending over the shoulders caught in a bow to which floating panels were attached. The maid of honor wore gold-colored taffeta, and the bridesmaids were gowned in avocado green taffeta. The maid of honor carried bronze chrysanthemums intermingled with mauve in semi-cascade style, and the bridesmaids carried gold chrysanthemums. All wore matching headdresses and gloves.

The two little flower girls, Miss Margaret Maracle, of Shannonville, cousin of the bride, and Miss Carol Maracle, of Desoronio, were demure and sweet in their crinoline-styled frocks of avocado green and gold taffeta, respectively, fashioned with large scalloped collars and large, back bows in panel effect which extended to the hemlines. They wore matching headdresses designed in banding style, topped by large bows, and accented by tiny clusters of roses at the sides. Margaret carried a basquette of gold colored 'mums and Carol a basquette of bronze 'mums mingled with Sweetheart roses.

Mr. William Moreau, of Belleville, attended the bridegroom, while Messrs. Michael Brant, of Shannonville; Donald Brant, of Desoronio, cousin of the bride, and Mr. Arthur Brant, of Shannonville, cousin of the bride, were ushers.

The reception, which followed the ceremony, was held at the Council House, which was adorned with white bells and pink and white streamers, where 175 guests were received by the bride's mother, wearing periwinkle peau de soie in strength length featuring a sweetheart neckline accented by rows of pleated satin with bolero having three-quarter sleeves and collar satin trimmed, with matching accessories. Her corsage was of pink Delight roses.

She was assisted in the receiving line by the bridegroom's mother, who wore soldier blue crepe with dusty rose accessories and corsage of Briarcliffe roses.

The bride's table was appointed with white damask and centred by the two, three-tier traditional wedding cakes, the bride's topped by a miniature bride and bridegroom, and the bridegroom's by doves and tiny wedding bells. The bridal bouquets lent a lovely nuptial accent.

For travelling to Washington, D.C., the bride chose a charcoal black, fitted ensemble with grey squirrel collar, with pink accessories and corsage of pink Delight roses. Mr. and Mrs. Hill are residing in Shannonville.

Guests attended from Belleville, Toronto, Oshawa, Port Credit, Point Anne and Desoronio.

Previous to her marriage the bride was the honored guest at a surprise shower held at the home of Mrs. William Moreau of Belleville, with Mrs. Moreau and Miss Marlene as co-hostesses, when she was the recipient of many lovely gifts. As a presentation by the staff of the Income Tax Office, of which she is a member, a luncheon set of Irish linen from the 6th Belleville Cub Pack leaders. The bridegroom was also honored by the York Road ball club, of which he is a member, with the gift of a blanket, and by a cheque from the Lecithin Company, of Belleville, where he is employed.

BABBITT — WAGNER

Mount Hope United Church was the scene of a Christmas wedding at 3 p.m. on Saturday, December 22nd., when Shirley Anne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russel Wagner, Dobbinton, was united in marriage to William, Sherman, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. Sherman Babbitt, Belleville. The groom is a graduate of the Ontario Agricultural College while the bride graduated from Macdonald Institute.

The church was decorated with holly, evergreen and standards of white chrysanthemums. The double-ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. W. B. Woolley.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length white silk taffeta gown, styled with a portrait neckline, lily-point sleeves and a basque bodice merging into side and back panels appliqued with Alencon lace. Her finger-tip veil of French illusion was held in place by a headdress of matching lace, trimmed with seed pearls and sequins. She carried a cascade of gardenias, stephanotis and trailing ivy.

Miss Mary Wagner, Toronto, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. The two bridesmaids were Miss Carolyn Kelman of Vineland and Miss Helen Grant, Port Colborne, cousin of the bride. The attendants were identical waltz-length gowns of red shuttle velveteen fashioned with bateau necklines, basque bodices and bell-flat skirts. They wore white feather headdresses and carried white velvet muffs crested with white pompoms, American Beauty roses and holly.

Gordon Babbitt, Guelph, was his brother's groomsman, and the ushers were James Duffin of St. Thomas and Tom Allison of Belleville.

The reception was held in the Tara United Church parlors.

The bride's mother received the guests in an avocado green sheath dress, with parchment colored accessories and yellow rose corsage.

The bridegroom's mother assisted, wearing a brown ensemble with matching accessories and rose corsage.

For the wedding trip to Eastern Ontario and New York State, the bride donned a brown tweed suit, brown and turquoise accessories, muskrat jacket and an allore carnation corsage.

On their return, the couple will reside in Alymer, Ontario.

Cantata 'Song From The Sky' Thrills Alliance Audience

On Sunday evening the fine congregation at the Christian and Missionary Alliance Tabernacle was thrilled as the beautiful candlelight Christmas cantata, "Song From The Sky," unfolded the lovely story of the Nativity in solos, trios, and choruses from the 18-voice choir with the reverend Sackville Palmer, pastor of the church, as leader.

The softly-flickering white candles in the windows, and those in silver candelabra flanking a beautiful basket of white, mauve and red chrysanthemums — placed in memory of the late Norman Duetta, of Trenton, by Mrs. Duetta, completed the tall evergreens and the gleaming star, and the graceful scroll of John 3:16 provided a lovely setting for a most impressive and hallowed service.

The picture pertaining to each following chorus was read by Miss Lois Wright.

The ladies' trio, "Song of the Child," by Mrs. Roy Atyco, Mrs. E. Pickard and Miss Dorothea Atyeo, and that of "O Faulters Star," by Mr. Kenneth Soon, Mr. James MacKay and Mr. Wilbur Wright were delightful in their lovely tonal effects as well as the heart-warming messages they conveyed.

Miss Leonre Dixon sang sweetly "The Birthday of the King."

"Hallelujah Chorus," a piano duet by Mrs. E. Veley and Miss Grace Veley thrilled every heart with its joyfully triumphant notes, and "O Holy Night," by Mr. MacKay, with its powerful rendition, will long be remembered.

Other numbers by the choir included: "Hail Prince of Peace," and "Wonderful One," which brought the cantata to a close.

This --- and That

By HARRIET STEVENS

Going shopping?

The quick answer for most of us is a probable and emphatic — "Not if we can help it."

Going exchanging?

The great trade marts are not going to be the Toronto or Montreal stock exchanges, at least not in intensity. Depending on our temperaments imagine the excitement or plain impatience that will inevitably be expended when a tie has to be exchanged because Dad can't stand the color; or baby's shoes are lovely but won't fit; or because sister received at least three compacts from three different shops but all just alike; or because Johnny is really a young man now and Grandpop still considers him junior — he wouldn't (Johnny) be seen dead in that old fashioned shirt and anyway they're just for kids. Yes, the great bartering will be over the counters of Canada's stores from coast to coast and not according to bears or bulls pictured on the ticker tape of stock quotations.

T & T maintains that it is a column for men as well as women on a women's page, but we reserve our heartfelt and sincere felicitations for the Canadian housewife or mother who, in the next major crisis of wars will be the harassed trader who will have to lead this mighty army of battering appeasers in the interest of goodwill. As Tiny Tim would say, "God bless us, everyone" and may the joyful spirit of Christmas just past prevail to lend your spirits high and your patience inviolate.

Good Exchanging!

Boxing Day has been handed on to us from Great Britain. It is the day after Christmas day when it is the custom to give presents to postmen, delivery men and errand boys. We do not know how general it remains, but there was a time when Boxing Day was a day of rest for the help in homes which could afford them. It is said that after looking after the master's family on Christmas day, the help would box lunches and meals in order to have the next day to themselves. Hence, Boxing Day.

Boxing Day is for us a day of rest, a day to recover from Christmas overindulgence, an extra day of rest for the great band of people who serve and accommodate the public. Man's ingenuity has not arrived at a stage of perfection when he can make all things equal to all people. We doff our hats in salute and respect to the thousands who operate the trains, the planes, the power houses, the heating plants, the hospitals, etc. and etc.

For many Canadians Boxing Day may be a day of reflection. We do not know but we suspect that science, while it makes our entertainment or amusement so easy as to make us lazy, also contributes to the prevention of—Shame! selfishness. How simple it would be if the radio, the television, the news releases which flash events around the world in seconds, the jet plane, the newspapers, could be cut off to leave the Bay of Quinte to celebrate the bounty, the peace and the security that at present is ours. Then peace and joy might reign unconfined because we would not know that six hundred million out of nine hundred million of the world's children are hungry and without presents. Who desires to be a wet blanket? Who deliberately relishes being a killjoy? Who would consciously detract from our celebrating because everybody is not as fortunate as Belleville folk? The answer is surely "no one", yet science relentlessly reminds us to count our blessings and share them.

Boxing Day from Great Britain gives us pause to resolve to follow the Star of Bethlehem, the Star of CHRISTmas over the horizons of each new day for another year. Boxing Day is something more that is good and because of the place of its birth we trust no person will find that it has colonial purposes or something to be investigated at the UN. It is quite innocent having been conceived from a generous impulse.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

THE WEDDING INVITATION IS A LOVING GESTURE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Our daughter is to be married in February. Should we send a wedding invitation to the groom's parents? — M.L.

The wedding invitation that is sent to the groom's parents is not actually an invitation that is to be answered, for of course they would have been informed most intimately about the wedding details and plans. But the thoughtful bride-to-be customarily sends to the groom's parents one or two or often several invitations as they arrive first from the engraver. She encloses these in a large envelope and also encloses a loving little note, worded somewhat like this: "Here they are . . . and Peter and I want you two dears to have the very first ones, to keep, if you wish, as remembrances of "the" occasion. With them we all have send dearest love to you all there, and our high anticipations of seeing you on The Tenth!"

TODAY'S COURTESY TIP

When you say any greeting . . . a "Good Morning," "How do you do," "Hello" or the fashionable "Hi" . . . add the person's name to the greeting and it will take on a pleasant ring.

TOO MUCH PRESSURE HERE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am planning to give a bridal shower for my sister-in-law, and now a question has come up among our friends. We are in the middle-class bracket, and so are most of our friends. My sister-in-law had an engagement party in January, and we invited most of the people who will be invited to the wedding. Now I would like to know if it is proper for me to invite these same people to also be shower since most people cannot afford to give three gifts for a wedding — engagement gift, shower gift, and wedding gift. — B.

Since, as I take it, there seems to be some strong objections among your friends and/ or your sister-in-law's friends against being asked to give three presents for this wedding, I should think it would be wise and considerate of you not to give the shower you are contemplating giving. After all, it's really not very attractive or thoughtful to high-pressure for shower gifts from good friends who have already given engagement presents and who know they will be expected to give wedding presents. Also, it must be said that it is not considered proper or good taste for a sister-in-law to give a bridal shower. Aren't you putting friends in the awkward position of either having to overstep their budget or having to send regrets to your invitation?

AVERAGE NUMBER OF BRIDESMAIDS?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

What would you say is the average number of bridal attendants at a large formal wedding nowadays? — I.D.

I should say the average number of bridal attendants is six bridesmaids, and an honor attendant, either a maid or matron of honor. Of course this number varies, but somehow six bridesmaids seems a practical (as well as decorative) number, simple and easy to plan for. And today, very often, there is both a maid of honor and a matron of honor, or two maids of honor, or two matrons of honor.

MAILIN GFORMAL WEDDING INVITATIONS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

How far ahead of the wedding should the invitations to a large, formal wedding be mailed? I've been told three weeks ahead, and some relatives and friends advise four weeks. — Bride's Mother

Today, this busy today, invitations to a large, formal wedding are practically always mailed four weeks before the date of the wedding. A very wise and practical plan, this, particularly plan, this, particularly when the wedding is to take place in a busy social season.

SHE SHOULD HAVE GIVEN THE "PAGE" BOY A TIP

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I had a date to go to the movies with a boy friend of mine. Since he had a business appointment before our date, he was not able to pick me up at my home on time, so we decided to meet in the lobby of the hotel a couple of blocks from the movie. I had waited a few minutes when I was approached by a page boy asking me to say he would be ten or fifteen minutes late. When he arrived, he explained his lateness, and then he said, "Oh, I should mention you sent me up to the bellboy who paged you." Was my face red! I felt I realized that I should have tipped the bellboy, and my friend tactfully dropped the subject when he saw my embarrassment. So that I'll know what's what next time, please tell me if I should always tip a "page" boy? And, if so, how much? —R.H.

Yes, you should tip the "page" -boy or bell-boy who summons you to the telephone . . . ordinarily about fifteen cents. The tip usually is a quarter in a large hotel where the boy may have to page several public rooms, perhaps one or two dining rooms and a corridor or two.

TODAY'S "AT HOME" CARDS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I would very much like to know if it is absolutely necessary to mention the date—for example, "After the first of March"—on the At Home cards which I would like to enclose with my formal wedding announcements. We are not sending out invitations to our wedding since only the members of our immediate families, and our attendants, will attend the ceremony. However, we have already bought, and have nearly partly furnished our new house, and so of course it would be extremely convenient to include At Home cards with the announcements. — L.G.

Today, much more often than not, no date is given on the At Home cards that are to be enclosed with marriage announcements. Also, as a matter of fact, very often the phrase "At Home" is also omitted. This is, I think, very sensible and practical. So then these cards can be very conveniently used for many occasions . . . joint cards with just the name and address. For example:

Farm Surpluses Discussed at W.S. Guild

The problem of farm surpluses was the topic at the monthly meeting of the Women's Study Guild held at the home of Mrs. Varcoe, Humewood Drive.

Preceding the discussion a short business meeting was conducted under the president, Miss J. Tickell. A letter from the Italian boy, sponsored by the club under the Save the Children Fund, was read and a communication from the committee dealing with proposed revision of the Succession Duties Act-in relation to women's rights, was dealt with.

Mrs. William Hunter led the worship service, which was on a timely Christmas theme.

FARM SURPLUSES

Mrs. George Wishart and Mrs. R. C. Seldon tackled the prepared topic, stating that farm surpluses were used in the sense of the abundance of unused food existing in Canada and the United States, especially.

No solution has as yet been found for this vast problem, yet a solution must be found, for millions of human beings want and need the food, yet have no money with which to buy it. Thus there is an economic surplus only.

It must be approached "with hearts as well as heads." Because Canada has the ability to supply more wheat than can be bought, vast stocks are held by the government on a price support policy. In southwest Saskatchewan, 1953 wheat is still in storage, but the 1955 crop has all been sold.

BETTER TRADE POLICIES

Through government stimulation many European countries are improving. One proposition to solve this wholly economic and monetary problem is that better trade policies are needed to compete with United States, the Argentine, and other wheat-producing countries. More stable wheat prices may be needed, the Winnipeg Grain Exchange reopened or private grain brokers be permitted.

United States "tied sales" were explained, by which, though the United States appeared to give away products, a three-way trading was effected, thus paying for their foreign aid and making use of the Colombo Plan to rid themselves of surpluses, until underdeveloped nations can earn dollars. Canada has not been so smart.

METHODS OF HELPING NEEDY

Much thought needs to be given to the methods of giving to needy countries, for example, India, where long-term commitments and a more impersonal approach would be more acceptable, so that the needy countries can facilitate their methods of distribution and gradually become able "to walk on their own." After two or three generations some countries may be able to take the wheat surplus.

An article from the "Christian Century" by a Quaker writer, was used to sum up the conclusions, namely: Production everything can be overcome. They must be attacked with boldness and imagination. Each country and commodity needs to be studied separately. Now Communists charge that surplus food is permitted to spoil rather than used to feed starving children. This writer would advocate a flexible, non-government agency that can take initiative and disregard red tape. Even if foreign currency is not accepted — and it depreciates, the people of the world would be better fed and consequently, economic conditions improved on the whole.

At the close of the program and discussion the festive season was marked in the refreshments served by the hostess, Mrs. Beresford and Mrs. Maybee.

ADVICE To The LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

"TURN-ABOUT IS FAIR PLAY," MISS C. — REMEMBER!

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

I'm a young woman 26 years old and have a fellow 31 that I have been going with for something over a year. Off and on we have talked about getting married, and while I'm agreeable to getting married any time, this fellow always has a reason why we should wait a little longer.

Recently, his company sent him away on a business trip and he's been gone two months. We've written to each other often, and in his last letter I told him that I didn't want to go steady any more. You see, although I didn't tell him the real reason, I had met another fellow I like very much.

By the time my boy friend got back from his business trip, however, I had realized that the second fellow couldn't hold a candle to him, and I wasn't interested any more. I found I still loved my first boy friend, and I thought he still loved me, so I was very upset when, the second time we went out together after his return, he told me that he thought I was right about not going steady any more, and he wanted to take another girl out.

I now know that he's the most wonderful fellow I've ever gone with, and it would break my heart if I lost him, so I'd like to know how to get him to go steady again. — Miss C.

Dear Miss C:

Did you ever hear the old saying that "Turn-about is fair play?" Since you felt free to tell your boy friend that you didn't want to go steady any more, certainly you should be willing to give him the same privilege.

Now, as things have turned out, it's too bad that you were in such a hurry to take up with a new acquaintance, for it looks as though you had started something that gave your first boy friend ideas of his own. Except that it does seem as though he might already have gotten over being away on his own, since he had shied off on setting a wedding date.

In all fairness, I think you should be all ready to accept his change of mind as you expected him to be with yours. Perhaps, like yourself, he'll find that, after he has tried going out with other girls, you're the one who really means most to him. Your wisest plan is to assure him that he's free to do as he pleases; then wait and see what happens, being as friendly and understanding as you can in the meantime.

BEAUTY

By MME. QUI VIVE

PREPARE NOW FOR HOLIDAY FUN

It hardly seems possible, but here it is—Christmas! And, oh, the parties in store! There'll be good times ahead for everyone, of course, but we know you'll enjoy your festivities doubly if you know deep down in your heart that you are looking your very best as they proceed. So start planning now to keep in shape both health-wise and beauty-wise for the gay doings ahead.

To look your prettiest for this gala season here are a couple of suggestions:

While the holidays are in full swing, take specially good care of your skin. A thorough scrubbing every night with soap and water will help and, if your skin is inclined to be oily, the nightly use of astringents will also be effective in combating the beauty hazards of rich holiday and external cleanliness which is so necessary to a lovely complexion.

Get as much rest as possible—not only during the holidays, but now, in preparation. If you're dated up for a round of parties and just know you won't get in your eight hours of sleep nightly, try to make some time during the day for a nap. It will pay off in glowing complexion, sparkling eyes and the vitality that makes any gal the "belle of the ball".

And what about your figure? Of course, you know that you'll probably overeat in the days between December 25th and January 1st. So why not prepare ahead? Why not make up your mind today to watch your diet for a week? It won't be difficult and you'll still be able to do justice to holiday meals without gaining. Of course, we're asking for grapefruit when you're not too, too overweight now. After all, you can't expect miracles in a week. But, granting that all's normal in the weight department, you'll wind up the year with a soaring scale. Instead, promise yourself—and stick to it—that between now and Christmas you won't weaken even once when fats, starches, sweets and rich gravies are placed on the table before you. Limit your diet to lean meats, fowl, fish and eggs; plenty of fresh vegetables and fruits; salads and fruit juices, some cottage cheese and skim milk. You could have a pound or two on this diet between now and Christmas but, even if you don't, you will have brought your stomach somewhat and that in itself will keep you from overeating on Christmas Day—and all the gala days thereafter.

LEMON CHIFFON FILLING

Three large egg yolks, 6 tablespoons sugar, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon grated lemon rind, 1-4 cup unstrained lemon juice, 1-2 cup boiling water, 4 tablespoons lemon jelly dessert (packaged), 3 large egg whites, 1-4 teaspoon cream of tartar, 6 tablespoons sugar. Mix together yolks, first 6 tablespoons sugar, salt, rind and lemon juice. Cook stirring over low heat, until it just comes to boiling. Remove from heat. Stir boiling water into jelly powder. Add hot custard beating with rotary beater. Cool. When partly congealed, beat again until smooth. Beat egg whites with cream of tartar until foamy, then beat in sugar (second amount) until meringue is very stiff. Fold the beaten filling into it until it is smooth. Pile into cool nut shell. Chill thoroughly—preferably overnight. If desired, top with unsweetened whipped cream just before serving.

New Year's Dinner Menu

By Mary Moore

No more is one big cooking day over than we start to think about the next. How are you feeling? Strong enough to think about dinner on January 1st?

Have any of you girls made pie shells out of ground nuts yet? If not and if you pay any attention to my weighty words of wisdom you will be soon.

I'm going to give you today a menu for New Year's dinner with a dessert the like of which I doubt that you have tasted before. It is a lemon chiffon pie with Brazil nut crust. What is more, I am working on a Brazil and sesame crust for a banana cream pie and will give you that as soon as it passes all the testers (Pete, P.D., Doris, Danny me.). I like these nut crust pies because they improve by standing overnight. There's no greater comfort to a cook with a big dinner party ahead of her than posh dessert ready and waiting to be snatched from the refrigerator (unless it's a mink jacket in the hall cupboard—but you can't eat that).

Stir into them the sugar, salt and egg whites beaten just until foamy. Grease a pie plate measuring 8 1-2" (inside top) with butter; line bottom with wax paper and butter it. Press nut mixture evenly and firmly into lined pie plate, having top edge an even thickness. Bake at 375 deg. F. about 18 minutes. Cool then carefully loosen edges with pointed knife and lift out shell; remove paper, return shell to pie plate. Fill with

Christmas Concert

SCHOOL SECTION 2, 4

Mount Pleasant Rawdon church hall was attractively decorated with evergreens, red and green roping, tinsel stars, a lighted and decorated large tree with a merry Santa perched in the boughs, all aglow to welcome the crowd.

Messrs. Archie Bailey and Milford Wrightman were treasurers for the evening when approximately 150 adults and students paid their admissions. Some 75 children were admitted free.

Miss Doris Dunham and 22 pupils of the Williams School S. S. No. 4 and Mrs. Burton Morton and 15 pupils of the Allan School S. S. No. 3 presented an interesting and entertaining concert and every pupil of both schools was in attendance.

A large number of visitors were in attendance from Rossmore, Stirling, Hoards, Wellmans and other points.

The music director, Miss Betty McConnell, officiated at the piano and Kenneth Weaver manipulated the stage curtains. The pastor, the Rev. W. G. Fletcher, was master of ceremonies.

The pupils of both schools, in massed formation on the platform, sang "The Message of the Bells", and Betty McAdam gave a welcome.

Donna Potts recited "My Puppy", and Shirley Potts sang, "Santa's Helper"; Freddie McAdam gave a recitation, and Carolyn and Nancy Johnson sang, "Jolly Old Fellow". Barbara Hoard depicted, "Getting and Giving", and eight Juniors of the Allan school sang, "Christmas Bells are Pealing".

The Williams school pupils presented a play entitled "Hiding the Christmas Presents".

The Allan school sang, "Dear Santa Have You Had the Measles" followed by a drill, "The March of the Christmas Boxes", with 12 pupils each carrying boxes of various shapes, sizes and decorative effects.

Norma Hoard, dressed in an old fashioned costume, complete with long white apron, gave a recitation and Brenda Campbell contributed a tap dance number.

Suzanne Bailey gave a sorrowful recitation about "Her Dolly" while Linda Summers and Pauline Johnson sang "Punkinhead", with Freddie McAdam giving the various motions.

Ida Mae Bailey gave a recitation and Kalvin Sharp contributed an accordion solo; Jean Dunham recited "My First Gift", and a few pupils from the Allan school delighted with a comical "Upside Down Drill".

Sally McAdam and Jean Sharpe sang "Too Fat for the Chimney"; Gail Scott, a monologue entitled, "She Wanted to Write"; her completed poem was quite a masterpiece; Jimmy Summers, Douglas Potts and Freddie McAdam of the Williams school were heard in a trio, "Hardrock, Coco and Joe."

The Allan school presented a play in three scenes "Packing the Christmas Hamper." There were several tense moments but everything ended up happily and the group closed their play with, "Joy to the World."

Carol Sharpe and Mary Ellen David sang, "Will Santy Come to Shanty Town?"

Nancy David gave a recitation, while Gail Stott and Judy Cooney sang "The Christmas Story".

The story of the Babe in the Manger was depicted in pantomime style by nine of the pupils, Mary Ellen David and Carol Sharp sang the duet part.

The pupils of both schools sang the closing chorus "Go with Joyous News" and Dougie Potts gave the farewell recitation.

Appreciation was extended to teachers and pupils for the splendid concert which all had enjoyed.

During the evening various telegrams had been received from Santa Claus and at this time he finally arrived by car and each child received a bag of candy and gifts from the tree.

Suez Canal Crisis Dominated British Political Life in Last Half of Perilous Year

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—The Suez Canal dominated British political life in the last half of 1956—nothing else really mattered.

The turning point came July 26 when Egypt's ambitious President Abdel Nasser, angered by an abrupt United States decision to withhold funds for financing the Aswan Dam, nationalized the international waterway and in one stroke made the Middle East the focal point of world attention.

Nasser's decision, with its threat to the vital oil supplies of Britain and Western Europe, set off a chain reaction whose final course no one can still ascertain. For Britain, it meant one of the gravest domestic political crises the country has ever seen in peacetime.

MILITARY INTERVENTION

After weeks of fruitless negotiations, Prime Minister Eden's Conservative government took forceful steps. After Israeli troops marched into Egypt late in October, Britain and France delivered a 12-hour ultimatum to the warring forces. When it was ignored, Anglo-French air forces mainly based on Cyprus bombarded Egyptian airfields, paving the way for landings in the Port Said area.

At home, the political storm kicked up nearly as much dust as the fighting. Although Conservatives and Laborites alike at first seemed at first united on the need for vigorous action, divisions quickly became apparent. Labor-ites demanding that the dispute be taken to the United Nations.

The Anglo-French intervention unloosed wild scenes in the House of Commons. What was called the "great divide" yawned between the government forces on one side and a jeering opposition on the other. It was the first time since the Boer war that Britain had taken armed action in disunity, and the consequences soon became apparent.

Prime Minister Eden, who had succeeded Sir Winston Churchill at the helm in April, 1955, was booed by some of the large crowds which gathered in the crisis atmosphere outside Downing Street and the Commons. A stop-the-war meeting one Sunday early in November drew crowds in their thousands to Trafalgar Square. Two ministers resigned, and some backbench Conservatives expressed disquiet at a war—officially called a "police action"—which virtually all the uncommitted organs of opinion in Britain opposed. World opinion, as reflected in the United Nations General Assembly, showed itself overwhelmingly hostile.

BITTER INVEKATE

Eden, 59, made a radio address Nov. 3 appealing for support of his Egyptian policy. He stressed that "I am a man of peace" and drew doubted his sincerity. The next evening, in a similar address, opposition leader Hugh Gaitskell said that Eden was "utterly, utterly discredited" and called on Conservatives to depose him.

Then, surprisingly, despite press headlines mirroring adverse reaction in the Commonwealth and the world at large, public opinion swung behind Eden. The government rallied briefly, survived votes of confidence but finally was left temporarily without its leader when it was disclosed, in a sudden midnight announcement from Downing Street, that Sir Anthony was suffering from over-strain and would have to rest, on doctor's orders. A few days later he left for a holiday in Jamaica.

Sir Anthony returned to London declaring himself "greatly invigorated" by the stay in Jamaica. Among editorial comment on his return the right-wing Daily Express said there was a clamor for a "fresh, realistic policy, promptly evolved."

Recent rumors that Sir Anthony might give way to either of his chief lieutenants—R. A. Butler and Harold Macmillan — were treated with reserve. Politicians and Sir Anthony still commanded more support in the country and in Parliament than any other government minister.

Mr. Butler, Lord Privy Seal, has acted in Eden's place. As the year drew to a close, British troops were being withdrawn from Egypt, an action many Conservatives considered as an abject surrender and a humiliating defeat. While the party remained in office, there was talk of a possible map election and even of a coalition government to carry Britain through the harsh economic consequence of Suez.

Earlier in the year, Eden successfully beat off attack from within his own ranks. Criticism appeared to be mainly that the Premier was a "dilterer" who kept putting off decisions. The Daily Telegraph, a conservative paper usually counted among the government's strongest supporters, called for a firm policy. A Sunday newspaper, The People, carried a speculative report that Eden would resign in midsummer, but the rumor was denied in a statement from Downing Street.

PARTY CHANGES

During the year, the Labor party "lurched to the left." This was shown at the annual party meeting in October, when left-winger Aneurin (Nye) Bevan won his way back into an important position by beating right-winger George Brown in an election for the party treasurrr's job. Later, a "new" Bevan, showing surprising moderation, was named "shadow" foreign secretary, indicating he might be in charge of Britain's foreign policy if a Labor government is elected.

Britain's small third party, the Liberals, changed leaders during October. Clement Davies, 72-year-old veteran, gave way to young Jo Grimond, in his early 40s. In his first few appearances as leader, Grimond made a good impression with some telling interventions, and there was some hope among liberals that the once-great party would begin a revival.

The retirement of Clement Davies completed a remarkable cycle. It meant that in the space of little more than a year the leaders of the three parties all had made way for new men, Churchill on the Conservative side in 1955 and Clement Attlee, now Earl Attlee, on the Labor side late the same year.

General Level of Stock Prices Not Much Different From '55

By ED MORSE

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market hit an all-time high early in 1956, then backed away from it.

After a year's trading, the general level of prices was not much different than it was forward the end of 1955.

The biggest question on Wall Street was whether the great seven-year bull market had run out of gas or was just taking a breather. By year's end there was no definite answer.

To those who follow stock market charts it looked as if the market would move up and down within a trading range for a while. They noted it has bounced up from the "floor" four times and hit the "ceiling"—or close to it—April high—three times.

PROPHETS SCARCE

Whether some big new development would break the market out of this range one way or another, nobody dared predict.

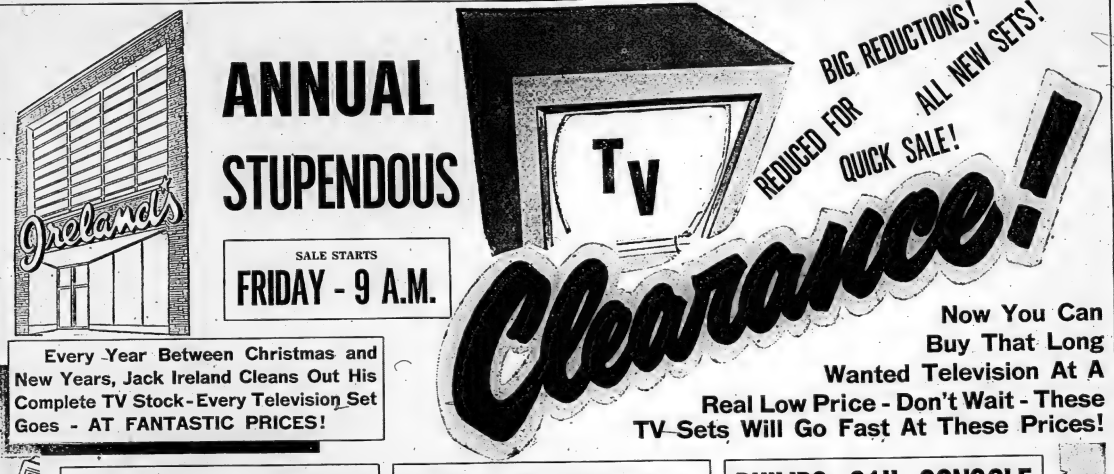
In contrast to the raging bull market of 1955 with its irresistible upward surge in the prices of common stocks, 1956 was a year of caution.

The comparative figures on trading volume indicate this plainly. In 1955 an average of nearly 2,600,000 shares changed hands each day. In 1956 the turnover was around 2,200,000 shares daily.

In 1955 there were days when volume soared to four, five and seven million shares. In 1956, the biggest day's volume was 3,300,000.

Traders and investors had plenty to be cautious about. Overall, it was a fine year for business despite some spotty aspects in the economy such as the steel strike and the fall-off in auto sales. But the year was festooned with news able medical report on the president and the reaffirmation of his candidacy on July 10. The long steel strike which began June 30 failed to stop the advance of steel, motor and railshares. The rise topped-out on Aug. 3—again almost, but not quite, reaching the April 6 top. It looked as if a ceiling had been established.

STRIKE ENDS



Egyptian seizure of the Suez Canal at the end of July was-moderated by a steel labor settlement, as fair as stock prices were concerned.

The Democratic victory in Maine last September was a further depressant to the "Eisenhower market." To compound the political uncertainty at home, the epochal upheaval in Poland and the armed rebellion in Hungary added further doubt.

The clogging of the Suez Canal, one of the world's major arteries of commerce, was a heavy blow to th economy of Western Europe. Stocks declined. Eisenhower's statement that the United States would stay out of the Egyptian situation and his subsequent re-election again pulled the market to a partial recovery but it wavered again, almost scraping the bottom of the January lows before rebounding.

Five-Day Christmas Season Accident Toll Is 74 Lives

Death rode Canada's roads to account for 52 of the 74 accidental deaths across the country during the five-day Christmas holiday period.

The figures were compiled for the period from 6 p.m. local time Friday to midnight Wednesday.

There was a possibility the toll would rise as delayed reports came in.

Ontario reported 19 dead in traffic accidents, including three teenagers who lost their lives in a collision between a car and a freight train near Dunnville. Ontario's over-all total was 27, the highest of any province.

British Columbia's toll was 17 including 14 dead in traffic accidents. Nine were killed in Quebec, six of them on the roads.

Next to traffic, fire took the heaviest toll. Five died in fires in Ontario, three in B.C., two in New Brunswick and one each in Saskatchewan and Manitoba.

Accidents of all kinds took seven lives in Alberta, five in Saskatchewan, three each in New Brunswick and Nova Scotia, two in Newfoundland and one in Manitoba.

Prince Edward Island reported no accidental deaths.

In last year's four-day Christmas holiday period, the accident toll was 68.

Police across the country reported fewer cases of drinking drivers.

One Montreal officer said:

A great many people are beginning to realize the truth of the dictum that drinking and driving do not mix."

Traffic

Robert Phillipson, 17 his brother, Guy, 17, and Carl Jones, 15, all of Wakefield district, in a collision between a car and a train at a level crossing near Dunnville.

Leo Zimmerman, 27, hit by a car while walking near Frankford; Mrs. Joyce Thiel, 19, of injuries suffered in an automobile accident at Sarnia; Mrs. Elsa Marie Pount, 55, crushed under a car at a Toronto intersection.

Fires

Louis Sokolowski, 60, suffocated when fire destroyed a house in Algonquin Park; Mrs. J. W. McCormack, 9.8 killed when an explosion set her house in Toronto on fire; Yee Ping, 25, who died in hospital an hour after a fire in a Toronto grocery store.

Miscellaneous

John Smith, 7, drowned when he fell off a ferry wharf at Prescott.

Strike Will Not Affect T.H. and B.

HAMILTON (CP)—The general manager of the Toronto, Hamilton and Buffalo Railway, partially owned by the Canadian Pacific Railway and the New York Central, said in Montreal Wednesday he does not expect a strike called against the CPR by firemen and engineers in the U.S. will directly affect his line.

P. W. Hankinson said: "We generally follow settlements made by the CPR, but until a settlement is reached, we have a standby agreement with our men."

The T. H. and B. is not a CPR subsidiary, but an independently chartered railroad.

CLAIM CANCER ADVANCE

LONDON (AP)—Moscow Radio claimed Wednesday that the Russians have invented a television-like "eye that can diagnose cancer at its initial stage." The broadcast said the television eye operates with ultra violet rays in conjunction with a microscope.

Revolutionary Idea Still Dream As Inventor Dies in Hospital

YPSILANTI, Mich. (AP)—Preston Tucker, 53, who rose to spectacular but brief fame with a post-war rear-engine "Tucker Torpedo" automobile, died Wednesday at a Ypsilanti hospital with his revolutionary idea still a dream.

Tucker had been in hospital about a month.

Only recently he had said he still nursed plans to get his car on the production lines. At the time of his illness he was managing a tool and machine company belonging to his mother in that Detroit suburb.

Tucker was a virtual unknown until 1945 when the auto manufacturing became alive with rumors of a sensational new car.

"Just a Second."

"Okay, I've finished — you can replace your bearing-aid!"

It was February, 1946, when the dapper Tucker revealed details of the Torpedo, which was a low-slung drop car that was said to go 120 miles an hour with a 150 horsepower engine.

The front fenders turned with the wheels, allowing it the same lights to follow the turn. The car had no clutch, transmission, drive shaft, differential or rear axles. It used torque converters instead. It weighed only 2,000 pounds, was made of aluminum and plastic, and was to sell for about 50 cents a pound.

By mid-1947, the first Tucker Torpedo was unveiled at the plant but it never went on sale. Seven days later the Securities and Exchange Commission issued a statement cautioning stock purchasers about the controversial aspects of the car. The SEC called the car "an engineering monstrosity."

The corporation then began to be plagued by resignations of top officials and, despite assets at one time totalling $23,000,000, money shortages and law suits ignored.

In 1949 Tucker and his associates were indicted by a grand jury on charges of mail fraud and violation of the SEC law. They were acquitted by a jury in Federal Court, Jan. 22, 1950.

Unsuccessful in efforts to revive the bankrupt company, Tucker returned to Ypsilanti as general manager of the Ypsilanti Machine and Tool Company, which his mother, Mrs. Lucille Holmes, Ste. owns.

Alabama Buses Become Targets For Gunfire

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—Gunfire, suspension of a bus system, possible court action and mass arrests have marked efforts to integrate seating of Negroes and white persons on city bus systems in two racially troubled southern states.

Gunshots echoed Wednesday night in Montgomery, where city buses were integrated Monday under federal court order. A blast from a shotgun loaded with birdshot hit one bus; nine .22-calibre bullets slammed into another.

One bus contained four Negro passengers and a white driver. The other was empty except for the driver. No injuries were reported in these first shooting incidents since last week's integration of buses in this Alabama capital, scene of a year-long Negro bus boycott.

SUSPEND FRANCHISE

At Tallahassee, capital of Florida, the city commission Wednesday night suspended the franchise of Citer Transit Co. because of the "effects of local Negroes to integrate" the bus system.

The city commission said the order was to take effect immediately, but a spokesman for the transit company said the buses will run unless stopped by police.

The transit company considers the order illegal, said Charles Ausley, company counsel.

The order was issued shortly after the inter racial council, a sparkpring of the Negro battle against segregation, announced a "ride the bus, integrated" campaign to get the rank and file of the city's 15,000 Negroes to defy segregated bus seating laws.

Earlier in the day a group of 11 Negroes took front seats on two buses which served white residential districts. Three white persons waited until the Negroes were seated and then went to the rear. The bus drivers made no effort to prevent the Negroes from taking front seats, traditionally reserved for white persons, and no incidents were reported.

ARREST 21

A similar and more widespread effort at Birmingham, Ala., resulted in the arrest of 21 Negroes who were described by Negro leaders as a "peaceful demonstration."

Rev. F. L. Shuttlesworth, 34-year-old Negro minister who has been a leading role in the fight against seated segregation in Birmingham, called for an end to the demonstration in the wake of the arrests, but Negroes later voted to take a mass meeting to continue riding buses on an integrated basis.

Shuttlesworth said the 21 arrests "give us the right to ask the federal courts to enjoin the city of Birmingham from preventing us from sitting anywhere we want."

Shuttlesworth, president of the Alabama Christian Movement for Human Rights, said that group will defend those taken into custody while sitting in white sections of buses. All were charged with violation of the city segregation ordinance and freed in $100 bond each pending trial Jan. 2.

Shuttlesworth's home was damaged by a dynamite bomb Christmas night. He was not hurt, but two of his children and a visitor were injured slightly.

TAUGHT 19 YEARS

TORONTO (CP)—Melbourne H. Bryce, public school principal here for the last 19 years, died in hospital Friday. He was born in Sault Ste. Marie, came to Toronto as a child and was educated here.

British Papers Angry With UN In Murder Case

LONDON (CP)—British newspapers, commenting today on reports that the British officer kidnapped earlier this month in Port Said has been murdered, express indignation at both the United Nations and the Egyptian government.

The News Chronicle calls it "a clear breach of the Geneva Convention and of all the rules of civilized international behavior," and adds: "since Lieuteant (Anthony) Moorhouse was murdered during a truce called for and maintained by the United Nations it is the duty of that organization to insist that the Egyptian government allow its officers to examine the mystery."

Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express calls it "an atrocious crime," and says the UN "and Nasser between them prove incapable of maintaining civilized values."

DEMANDS EXPLANATION

The Daily Mail calls for an explanation of the confusion surrounding the conflicting reports of Moorhouse's fate.

"From beginning to end," the paper says, "this painful episode has been clouded with confusion. The moment it was thought Anthony was alive it was stated, authoritatively, that he would be countermatched. Then this was hastily denied. Why?"

A Cairo report said Moorhouse was abducted by Egyptian fedayeen (commandos).

Egyptian newspapers also published a Reuters report on Nasser's announcement in Cairo on Christmas Eve that Moorhouse was dead.

So far there was no indication in Cairo of whether the Egyptian government intends to issue an official statement about Moorhouse's fate.

Fireman's Job Traditional One In Railroading

MONTREAL (CP)—The position of locomotive firemen at stake in a labor dispute with the CPR is one of the traditional jobs in railroading.

At one time there were three men in the cabs of many locomotives.

There was the driver, the fireman and a wood-passer who handed wood fuel from the tender into the locomotive cab. The wood-passers vanished about the start of the century when locomotives switched to coal.

Later on, the job of keeping steam up on the giant locomotives hauling big freight and passenger trains across the country was mechanized.

Machinery installed in the tenders delivered ground coal into blazing fireboxes. Still later oil-burning locomotives made their appearance.

By then the position of fireman was a well-established stepping stone to the driver's seat in a locomotive cab.

RAISED A DOUBT

It was the compact diesel locomotive, successor to the steam monsters of Canada's transcontinental trains and to hustling little shunters, that raised the doubt about the fireman's job. A sharp eye on fire-box and boiler pressure was no longer needed.

Railway management argued that on freight trains where a brakeman rides in the cab of the streamlined diesel locomotive no fireman is wanted. On shutters, working in yards, the railways felt one man in the cab—the driver—is enough.

The Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen which has called next Wednesday's strike against the CPR feels the fireman should still step down from his traditional place in any cab. It is a matter of safety conditions and safety, says the union.

The argument is the principal issue in the strike call.

BUILDING RAZED

HULL, Que. (CP)—Fire gutted a big, two-storey brick dwelling near the Sacred Heart Hospital Wednesday night. Three families, and several student nurses were made homeless by the blaze. Fireman Maurice Legare was overcome by smoke and admitted to the hospital.

SEEK PAY BOOST

OTTAWA (CP)—President Fred Whitehouse of the Civil Service Federation of Canada said Wednesday the federation next month will present to Prime Minister St. Laurent a strong case for a new general salary increase for federal civil servants. Federal civil servants last April were granted pay boosts ranging generally between eight and 10 per cent.

Marie Dionne Will Sell Shop

MONTREAL (CP) — Salon Emilie, the Fine Avenue flower shop owned by Marie Dionne of the famous Dionne quintuplets, is up for sale.

Marie closed the basement shop Wednesday for what a friend described as personal reasons. The friend, Helene Bourget, flower arranger in the shop, stressed that Marie's health was not one of the reasons.

The shop, opened last May and named after the late Emilie Dionne who died in 1954, had been the childhood dream of Marie and Emilie.

It was reported the shop lost $25,000 during its seven-month operation and that Marie agreed with the Guaranty Trust Company which administers the Dionne quintuplets' fortune, that it would be better to close.

However, the reports could not be confirmed.

NEW WATER CAMERA

LONDON (Reuters) — The first all - purpose underwater camera which can operate to a depth of 3,000 feet has been marketed here. ## Many Yuletide Programs Held MADOC — On Friday night St. Peter's Presbyterian Sunday School held their annual concert and Christmas tree.

The program consisted of songs and recitations by the younger scholars while the junior choir sang several choruses and carols were sung by all. Slides were shown of the Santa Claus parade in Toronto and were very much enjoyed.

Santa Claus landed on time to present gifts to all the scholars after which the ladies served refreshments and treated all children to nuts and candy.

TRINITY UNITED S.S.

Trinity United Church Sunday School held their annual concert and Christmas tree on Friday evening. The program of songs and recitations was enjoyed by young and old alike.

After Santa Claus had paid his official visit to the children, who received gifts, candy and nuts, ice cream cups and cookies were passed and all attending enjoyed the social time with the children and young folk.

TRINITY U.C. MISSION BAND

On Sunday evening the Trinity United Church Mission Band held its annual Christmas service in the school room of the church. The president, Miss Margaret Murray, was in charge of the service, opening with the singing of Christmas hymns. Master Russel Bronson sang as a solo the Christmas hymn "Gentle Mary Laid Her Child," Mrs. Drinkwater read a Christmas story, "A Birthday Festival."

This was followed by a tableau presented by the Mission Band group, "The Coming of Christmas." The play, depicting the scene of the manger and the visit of the Three Men and the angels, bringing in the missionary thought of the help of the missionary to the Korean children. Mrs. Bowers, as leader, and her assistant, Mrs. Jack Scrafton, were complimented on the splendid program. They, with the co-operation of the children, provided a real Christmas service. The Rev. J. F. Lane closed the meeting.

OAKDALE REBEKAH

Oakdale Rebekah Lodge held its annual Christmas party on Friday evening. A social time was spent after lodge.

Readings were given by Sisters Hill, Warren and Embury and carol singing was enjoyed by all with Sisters Warren and Post as pianists.

Delightful refreshments were served including a lovely Christmas cake, gaily decorated for the occasion. An exchange of Christmas gifts followed.

WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

Madoc Women's Institute held their Christmas meeting at the home of Mrs. B. Tanner Friday afternoon with the president, Mrs. Albert Bailey presiding. Carols were used for the opening exercises along with the W.I. Ode and the Collect. Communications and general business followed; an appeal for used clothing for the needy families was made to help the Kiwanis in their Christmas distribution.

A grant of $15 was given to the Children of Home at Perth, Ontario.

The regular exchange of Christmas gifts was dispensed with and instead members were asked to bring gifts for the residents of the Hastings County Home. The gifts were purchased and delivered to the home by W.I. members, Mesdames Bailey, Beatty, Tanner and Herrington.

The program was in charge of Mrs. Warren Hill and Mrs. W. Hulin. With Mrs. Hulin at the piano several Christmas carols were sung.

Mrs. D. Kernahan gave a humorous reading. An appropriate song, "Christmas" was sung by Mrs. Hulin.

An interesting and informative reading on the story of Christmas as used in pagan form before Christ, and leading up to the declaration of Christmas as a religious time of worship and feasting following the birth of Christ, was most interesting and was given by Mrs. Avery.

Mrs. Warren Hill gave some information on the approaching A.C.C.W. convention being held in Ceylon. Two pleasing carols were sung by the ladies' quartet, Mrs. Hill, Mrs. Elvey, Mrs. Lewis and Mrs. Hulin. Mrs. Herrington, Mrs. Burnside and Mrs. Wyrotch assisted the hostess in serving refreshments.

CHRISTMAS PARTY

The Ladies' Bowling League held its Christmas party on Wednesday evening. President Hilda McGowan was in charge of a short impromptu program which included a welcome speech by Norma Stickwood and also included a fine rendition of "White Christmas" by Sadie Armstrong, Norma Nichols, Cec. McGowan and Eva Holmes. The prizes for the evening's bowling were: high triple, Ev. Beech, 600; high single, Peggy Ellis, 262; hidden score, Shirley Pogue.

After exchange of gifts, refreshments were served and a social half hour enjoyed. Everyone was pleased to have Leona Armstrong back again.

CPR FIREMEN WILL

First announcement of the strike call came from H. E. Gilbert, president of the brotherhood, in Cleveland. Mr. Gamble followed with another announcement from Montreal. He said the vote was "unanimously in favor" of the walkout.

D. S. Thomson, vice-president of the CPR, was told of the projected strike by reporters and repeated a statement made earlier in connection with the dispute.

"The company has accepted the report of a conciliation board which prevents firemen now employed from suffering hardship due to loss of job or wages. After all, the only issue is whether the Canadian Pacific is to be forced to take on new employees as firemen in freight and yard service when they are not needed.

"Under these circumstances a railway strike would be completely unjustified."

Mr. Gamble said firemen-helpers are needed in yard service and the brotherhood "is only asking for the same consideration for its CPR members that has already been granted the same classes of employees on the CNR as well as on over 140 United States railroads."

"The majority report reeks of union-smashing tactics. If implemented it would mean that firemen-helpers would give up their jobs to others, which will result in somebody else doing the work at present being done by them," he said.

If the strike takes place it will be the first on a Canadian railway since August, 1950, when non-operating unions called out members on both the CPR and CNR. The strike lasted nine days and ended when Prime Minister St. Laurent and the federal government intervened.

Reached in Compton, Que., by telephone Wednesday night, Mr. St. Laurent declined comment on the current dispute.

"This is the first news I've had of the situation . . ." he said. Any statement would have to come from the labor department.

Labor Minister Gregg could not be reached for comment.

CNR officials said they did not know how a strike would affect their operations. Mr. Gamble said that so far as his union is concerned the only effect would be at points where CNR trains move over CPR tracks. Among these would be the Regina terminal and some pool trains which use the CPR's Windsor station here.

NORMAL OBJECTIVES

Mr. Gamble said union members would operate trains "to their normal objective points within their divisions" when the strike deadline is reached and then quit. The firemen-helpers whose jobs the union is seeking to retain are paid $10.25 a day on single diesels and $11.67 a day on four-unit diesels.

The conciliation board report was handed down Dec. 18 and the brotherhood immediately announced plans for a telegraphic strike vote. The seven-day period required by law before a strike could be called expired Wednesday.

Mr. Gilbert called the board's majority report "incredible." He said the company demands amounted to an "attempt at destruction of a craft by division of its labor among other workers which has no relation to technology and is purely a headstrong attempt to cut costs."

His comments emphasized safety factors, as he declared that "while the board report contemplates that a fireman will be retained on passenger locomotives, it overlooks the inconsistency that the hazards recognized in passenger service exist equally in freight service and on switching locomotives where the report would eliminate firemen."

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

The Whitby Dunlops uncorked vengeance for that 3-1 setback at the hands of our side a few night ago by displaying their scoring ability to fine advantage last night and handing the McFarlands a 6-3 Boxing Day defeat.

The Goldsticxers' shooting eyes were slightly off the beam as they hit the post no less than four times in the second period when they had Donlevy beaten. However, they could not fathom the goalie and a stubborn Dunlop defence in the third beat—and that was that.

The teams clash here tomorrow night in a game that should be a honey, for the Macs are determined to reverse the decision in their last game of the old year.

They have crept to within three points of the Dunnies on two or three occasions, but that seems to be as close as they can get. Right now they are five points in arrears of the leaders and three points in front of the Cornwall Cheviots.

The up-and-coming Pembroke Lumber Kings, who tightened their hold on fourth place over the holiday, again proved they are tough nuts to crack on home ice. Last night they blanked Joe Levandoski's Kingston CKLC's 5-0 in the northern arena with the Giestbrecht brothers again in the hero role. The win gave the Kings a three point margin over the CKLCs who now have 18 points, one in the front of the Ottawa Canadiens.

Meanwhile Mel Richards' Belleville Lumbert Junior "B" squad trekked to Kingston and gave the Junior B's of that city a fancy hockey lesson. The Lumberis walloped the Kingston youngsters 7-2 in an exhibition game to play keen the sharpness of their brief career. They put the game on ice with a second-period four-goal splurge, and from then on the issue was never in doubt. Richards' strengthened their third string quintet behind the Frontenacs on top and Queen's in second place. They came up with a fine scoring exhibition and were full value for their time-ly victory.

There were holiday surprises all round. Young Al McNeill, a Montreal Athletic, attained some sort of hockey heights when he scored the only goal in the Toronto Leafs' upset victory over the power-packed Montreal Canadiens. The Leafs played good hockey before a Boxing Night crowd of 13,000 and drew themselves even with the New York Rangers in fourth place.

Incidentally the Blues took a terrific 8-1 shellacking at the hands of the Detroit Red Wings in their traditional Christmas night game in Madison Square Gardens. It was the fourth defeat for Rangers over a long period of Christmas Night games. Gordie Howe was in his scoring glory, tabbing three goals and as many assists to cut Jean Beliveau's lead-scoring margin by a substantial amount.

At least one prediction turned out as forecast. The Australian Davis Cup team swept aside United States opposition to take the coveted powerwarre in three straight matches. Hoad and Rosewall, who were reported flighty and nervous in pre-series matches regained their magical mastery and won in convincing fashion with the exception of the final "pick-up" match.

Willie Pastrori was as was forecast over Charles Norkus in their heavyweight battle but unlike my previous near-ear fighters did not about from the houestops for a bout with heavyweight king Floyd Patterson. Willie showed a little hoese-sense in his statement: "Wait a while, I'm not ready yet." Willie is a promising young fighter with everything to win and does not intend to spoil his chances for a crack at the title by taking the chance of being knocked off by some stumblebum before he is fit.

Senior A Hockey

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Last season Chatham Maroons went from last place in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series to the league championship and a berth in the Allan Cup finals. This year they may do it again.

Still a distant fourth in the five-team Western Division, Maroons gave warning that they can't be counted out as they defeated the league-leading Stratford Indians 4-3 Wednesday night in overtime.

They started their climb in similar fashion last season by defeating the Indians in semi-final play, then Kitchener - Waterloo and Dutchmen in the finals and went on to win the eastern Canada senior championship before bowing to Vernon Canadians in the Allan Cup final.

STILL AN OBSTACLE

Such a rise this year would be a terrific battle, and one of the main obstacles again the Dutchmen, who handed the host Owen Sound Mercurys a 9-6 decision Wednesday night.

In the Eastern Division, league-leading Whitby Dunlops downed the runner-up Belleville McFarlands 6-3 at Whitby. Lumber Kings blanked the visiting Kingston CKLCs 5-0 for the losers' fifth loss in 25 games.

North Bay Trappers extended their league lead over Sudbury Wolves to 12 points as they edged the last-place Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Indians 5-3 at North Bay in the only Northern Ontario Hockey Association Senior A Southern Group game.

Lloyd Ferguson's overtime goal gave Maroons their win before a hometown crowd.

Jimmy Connelly, Ernie Dick and Alex Viskella got the others for Maroons. Joe Schechtel, Bob Vasko and Mickey Roth were the

At Kitchener the issue was never in doubt as Butch Martin scored twice, Doug Dutchmen and added goals went to Jack McKenzie, Harry Pautks, George Scholes, Ken Laufman and Art Hurst. Tom Wilson of the Mercurys also had a pair with Roy Lewis and Jerry Reid counting one each.

Whitby's goal display was typical of the scoring power that has netted them 140 goals in 24 games this season.

Six players divided the goals—Charlie Burns, Ray Bicher, Don Attersley, Frank Bonello, Billy Fong and George Samborsko. Minnie Menard and Lucien Gilbert scored for McFarlands.

FAMILY AFFAIR

Veterens Bruce and Bert Giesbrecht, two members of a hockey-playing family, scored four of Pembroke's goals against Kingston, Bruce led with three markers, brother Bert had one and Jim Maxwell scored the fifth as Andy Anderson recorded his first shutout this season.

Ken Gribbons led Troppers to victory with two goals. Art Stratton, Walt Atanas and Flori Gogan got the others. Russ Kowalchuk had two for Indians and Laurie Peterson added the third.

Quebec League

TROIS-RIVIERES, Que. (CP)—Trois-Rivieres Lions and Montreal Royal battled to a scoreless overtime tie in a Quebec Hockey League game Wednesday night highlighted by sensational work by the two rival goalies.

Gerry McNeil turned back 43 shots for the Montreal net, while Jacques Marcotte handled 34 faultlessly for Trois-Rivieres. The tie pushed the Royals into third place, one point ahead of Shawinigan

Big Moment for Al McNeill As Toronto Blanks Habs 1-0; Shares 4th Place With Blues

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A rookie's first goal in the National Hockey League is always a momentous occasion, but few have scored a first goal as important as Al MacNeil's.

The 21 - year - old defenceman from Sydney, N.S., scored the only goal Wednesday night as Toronto Maple Leafs shut out the powerladen Montreal Canadiens 1-0 in the first game of a four-game series with New York Rangers.

Few in the crowd of 13,826, second-largest at Maple Leaf Gardens this season, could have thought the first-period goal would prove to be the winner, since the third-place Canadiens overcame many a Leaf lead in winning five of six previous games against them this year.

CHADWICK STRONG

But tight checking and the sensational outstanding work of another rookie, goaltender Ed Chadwick, turned back the Montreal power-play time after time, and even managed to kill strong threats when a Leaf was short-handed.

MacNeil, who was called up to the injury-ridden Leafs several weeks ago from Rochester American farm club in the American Hockey League, scored his first on a rush play.

After both Tod Sloan and Ron Hurst had missed passes, the puck bounded back to him at the blueline and he let a waist-high shot go. Goalie Jacques Plante made one of his few slow moves and the puck whistled past him into the Montreal net.

Canadiens managed only 22 shots at the Leaf net, but were several of them were from the sticks of Jean Beliveau, Dickie Moore, Maurice Richard and Doug Harvey, the big men who make Canadiens go power play.

In the second period the red light flashed between Chadwick, but the goal was not allowed by referee Frank Udvari, who ruled Beliveau had touched the puck with hand.

Canadiens pulled Plante out of the goal with 37 seconds left in the game in an attempt to tie it, but he was blissfully unaware back in with 12 seconds remaining when the puck dribbled into the Montreal zone.

North Defeats South in Annual Game

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—The North defeated the South 17-7 in the college all-star football game Wednesday night, but you can't convince dis-hard rebels that the South didn't really come out on top.

Tommy McDonald, the wonderful all-American halfback from Oklahoma, and his teammate, quarterback Jimmy Harris, were big guns in a North attack that gave the Yankees only their second win in the nine-year-old series which has been won by Shriners.

McDonald maintained his record of never having played on a losing college team. He was a star of three straight unbeaten Oklahoma clubs.

HEAD-NORTH ATTACK

Harris a signal-caller by trade who was shifted to fullback in the all-star contest, led Len Dawson of Purdue, the Big Ten passing champion, were other standouts in the North attack.

Harris threw a nine-yard touchdown to Indiana's Bob Fee and Dawson got the other North touchdown with a 19-yard heave to Michigan State's Jim Ellis.

The South finally managed to score in the fourth period when Florida's Jackie Simpson intercepted one of Dawson's passes to set the rebels up 22 yards from the goal. Sonny Jurgensen of Duke threw touchdown aim to Mississippi's Ed Crawford for the score.

The South never threatened again. Seconds before the final gun, Jim Swink, Texas Christian booted a field goal from 13 yards out to add the North's last three points.

Patterson Named Fighter of Year By Ring Mag.

NEW YORK (AP)—Floyd Patterson, youngest man ever to win the world's heavyweight boxing championship, is the unanimous choice for "fighter of the year" by ring magazine, Carmen Basilio, the welter champion, and Joe Brown, the new lightweight titleholder, ran second and third.

Mario d'Agata of Italy, the deaf mute who beat Robert Cohen to win the world bantamweight crown, was fourth, followed by Pascual Perez, the Argentine who holds the flyweight title.

Rocky Marciano, who retired in April was "fighter of the year" in both 1954 and 1955.

NEW TALENT

The magazine found 1956 a year of "progress, new improvement in boxing with new talent moving up to replace the shopworn veterans. All champions were active with a total of 11 championship fights.

Sugar Ray Robinson and Bobo Olson fought the year's largest gate, $233,456 at Los Angeles, May 18. The largest purse was $320,000 for $139,500 for his bout with the 21-year-old Patterson in Chicago, Nov. 30. The largest fight crowd, however, was 60,000 for a March 25 match at Philadelphia between Eaton Macias and Leo Espinosa. Macias is the bantamweight champion of the National Boxing Association but d'Agata is the European Boxing Union champ.

WALLACE NINTH

Only Canadian to earn a mention in the ring ratings was middleweight Gordon Wallace, Brantford, Ont., slugger who ranked ninth in the light-heavy division.

The ratings:

Heavyweight—Champion, Floyd Patterson, Brooklyn. Contenders: Archie Moore, San Diego, Calif.; N.Y.; 2. Archie Moore, San Diego Calif.; 3. Harold Carter, Linden, N.J.; 4. Nino Valdes, Redding, Calif.; 5. Willie Pastrano, New Orleans.

Jackson Fights Mederos Tonight

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Tommy (Hurricane) Jackson, No. 1 heavyweight contender who fights at the drop of the wrecking ball, engages Cuba's Julio Mederos in a scheduled 10-rounder here tonight.

The flagged Mederos is one of the better battlers that Jackson must get by to keep his hopes alive. The Cuban has won 15 of his 17 victories by knockouts.

Jackson is returning to action after a two-month layoff enforced by a fractured hand in an auto crash. Probably his best showing of the year was his draw last May with the heavyweight champion, Floyd Patterson, who won a split decision.

There will be no television or radio broadcast.

KEEPS EUROPEAN TITLE

MILAN, Italy (AP) — Italy's Duilio Loi retained his European lightweight boxing title Wednesday by winning a 15-round decision over Jose Hernandez of Spain. It was his sixth title defence.

Hernandez had held the flashy Italian to a draw May 13 in Madrid to win the European Boxing Union.

Loi weighed 133½ pounds, Hernandez 133.

Archie Moore, Parker Fiasco Voted Sports Oddity of Year

By RON EVANS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — One warm evening last summer 19,000 Toronto residents and visitors watched a shrewd, old fighter batter a clumsy young Canadian into a blood-streaming daze against a backdrop of furled flags, kilted pipers and tuxedo-clad reporters.

That, and Canada's sports editors and sportscasters, was the strangest sports event of 1956.

They voted the bizarre bout between ancient Archie Moore and big James J. Parker as the oddity of the year in The Canadian Press annual year-end sports poll.

FOOTBALL ALSO RATED

Two other events — a 70-yard wrong-way run in a big four-football game and the appearance of a Canadian quarterback in the Grey Cup final—tied for second place, with the rebirth of the Roman circus fight.

The July 25 Parker-Moore scrap in Maple Leaf Stadium was undoubtedly one of the weirdest ever produced in Canada.

An unfettered publicity campaign, cooked to the best from Hollywood, persuaded most customers that Parker, the storied heavyweight from Barrie, Ont., with 38 fights, could match the skill of Moore, with more than 200 bouts in his 29 years as a professional.

The promoters billed it as a world championship title match although Parker was unlisted among the top 10 contenders in the international boxing authorities shunned the idea.

At the Stadium Moore, wearing an embroidered Cossack-inspired dressing gown, was ushered into the ring behind an escort of six United States Air Force men. Parker followed by a uniformed members of the Toronto Pipe Band.

Reporters were asked to lend color by appearing in evening dress provided by the promoters. Most did.

TRAGIC MISMATCH

The tragic mismatch ended in the ninth round when referee Billy Boyce stopped it with Parker bleeding fiercely at the eyes and nose. Moore weighed 175 and five months later in a heavyweight title bout against Floyd Patterson, Ingemar Parker was unheard from by the end of the year.

The wrong-way run was a classic blunder by Tex Robinson, import halfback of the Hamilton Tiger-Cats in a scheduled game against Toronto Argonauts. Robinson snatched the ball dropped by Argos' Al Dannine when tackled and spirated from Toronto's 40-yard line in the Hamilton end zone. The crowd's roar drowned out agonized encouragement from teammates but Robinson was tackled by Toronto's Royal Copeland behind the Hamilton goal, giving Argonauts a two-point safety touch. Despite the lapse Hamilton won 34-29.

Use of Don Getty, 22-year-old quarterback of the University of Western Ontario, by Edmonton Eskimos in the annual Canadian football classic marked the first time a Canadian quarterback started a Grey Cup game since 1947, when Frod Loty led Toronto against Winnipeg Blue Bombers. Getty justified the faith of coach Frank (Pop) Ivy, scoring two touchdowns and tossing a pass to Jackie Parker for a third.

SEVEN OTHERS NAMED

Seven other sports developments attracted equal votes:

They were:

The interference of Harvey Kook of Malibu, Calif., in the football fortunes of his stepson Ronnie Gabrielsen, a stormy senior-game career with Hamilton Tiger-Cats;

Brooklyn pitcher Don Newcombe's collapse before New York Yankees in the world series despite a season record of 27 victories;

The Big Four Football Union's decision that converts be kicked from the end zone onto the playing field to the ball - grabbing spectators;

Jockey Thompson's winning field goal for Queen's University Golden Gaels against University of Toronto in the intercollegiate football final—the ball bounding off a Toronto player's helmet to skim over the cross-bar;

Kitchener golfer Moe Norman's elimination from Canada's American Cup team to Mexico for infringements of his amateur status.

CRUSHING VICTORY

Hamilton Tiger - Cats' crushing 50-14 victory over Montreal Alouettes in Hamilton, one week after the Alouettes thrashed the Tiger-Cats 38-7 in Montreal.

And the 86-day crossing of the Atlantic from Halifax to Cornwall, England, by three Frenchmen aboard the cruse raft, l'Egare.

Two minor phenomena also caught the voters' notice. A Vancouver fighter lost his trunks in mid-battle and when members of Vernon-Canadians ceremoniously buried their underwear after their Allan Cup hockey victory, one player, George Abar, was forced to douse his contribution with gasoline to start it blazing.

HAS FAITH IN FULLMER

NEW YORK (AP)—Marvin Jensen, manager of Gene Fullmer, thinks he made a good deal in accepting only 21% per cent of the purse for Fullmer's middleweight title bout with champion Ray Robinson in Madison Square Garden Jan. 2.

"Everybody keeps asking why I'm giving Robinson 47½ per cent, in addition to 60 per cent of radio and TV," Jensen said Wednesday. "What difference does it make? I'm confident Fullmer will win, and the money will come later."

Fullmer boxed four rounds Wednesday.

Whitby Dunlops Extend Top-Spot Margin With 6-2 Win Over MacFarlands

Third-Period 3-Goal Drive Sews up Victory for Winners; Pembroke Blanks Kingston 5-0

The Whitby Dunlops cut loose with their scoring potential in Whitby last night hurling back the Belleville McFarlands' bid for a closer spot to first place with a 6-2 victory.

The win extended the Dunlops' margin over the second-place Macs to five points. The teams clash again here on Friday night. Meanwhile the McFarlands hold a three-point lead over the Cornwall Chevies in third place. The Chevies were idle over the holiday.

Pembroke blanked Kingston 5-0.

The teams battled to a one-all tie in the first period but the Dunlops held a 2-0 scoring margin in the second when the McFarlands hit the spot from close in, no less than four times. The Dunnies clinched the win with a three-goal splurge in the third frame while Belleville got only one of them back.

Referee Dalt McArthur handed out eleven penalties, seven going to the McFarlands and two of them provided Doug Gagnon of Whitby playing coach, drew three of his club's four sentences with Attersley getting the other. Crawford, Lemonde and Larouche drew a pair for the Dunlops while Macs with Guidolin getting the other.

The Whitby goals were well distributed with Attersley, Samolenko, Bonello, Ford, Burns and Etcher each scoring. Myles and Gagnon each had two helpers, Minnie Menard and Lucien Gilbert triggered the McFarland goals.

Minnie Menard opened the scoring with the first period just two minutes old with Gagnon serving his first penalty. Menard swept goalward on a fine three-way passing play with Guidolin and Paul Payette, setting Donlevy cleanly for the opening marker.

Bobbie Attersley got that one back a minute later sweeping down the right boards and curling across the goalmouth to beat Bell for the equalizer. Both teams drove hard to break the stalemate with Whitby having an edge on the play with Crawford and Guidolin drawing the other two sentences of the period.

Lemonde got the gate a minute after the second period opened and Bell beat Samolenko from close-in. Menard raced through and had Donlevy beaten, but his hard drive caromed off a post. Lemonde and Minnie Menard each drew penalties within seconds of each other at 7.14 and 7.41 and Whitby pressed on the power. Samolenko spearheaded a drive with Bonello and Myles at 9.54 beating Bell on a third shot with the Macs' goalie on the ice.

Menard again broke into the clear and again his blazing drive ricocheted off a goalpost. Payette and Larouche went in close, but it was goal-post night and both drives were stopped by a post.

Larouche and Attersley went off for a pushing match but no damage was done. Gagnon intentionally held the puck on a Belleville drive and he was chased. With five seconds to go Gagnon slipped Ford a pass just as he was checked and the winger beat Bell from close in to make it 4-2.

The Dunlops increased their margin to 4-1 a minute after the third period got under way, Burns taking Gagnon's long pass up centre that sent him in alone on Bell.

At 4.05 Larouche and Gilbert started a two-man foray with the former taking the puck close into enemy territory. He slipped a short pass to Gilbert who made no mistake with a low hard shot to the corner.

Gagnon got his third heave-ho of the game at 7.24 but the Macs failed to capitalize on the man-power advantage. Bell, Payette and Minnie Menard each took blasts at Donlevy but the goalie outguessed them on each occasion. On a Whitby drive Bell came some 25 feet out of the net to beat Ford to the puck on a neat defensive play.

Crawford got his second sentence of the night at 13.03 taking offensive duty from the Macs. Four minutes later Bonello, Samolenko and Myles drove in hard with Bell kicking out Samolenko's blast only to have Bonello whip home the rebound.

The Macs drove hard in an effort to whittle the margin, but their efforts were slowed when Larouche his second sentence with a little over a minute left.

The Whitby fans rated Gagnon, Bonello and Ford the three stars of the night in the order named.

Lineups—Belleville: Goal, Bell; defence: Crawford, Lemonde, Bellay, Benoit; forwards, Payette, Guidolin, M. Menard, Gilbert, Jones, MacDonald, St. Hilaire, W. Menard, Larouche.

Norman Named Ontario Leading Amateur Golfer

TORONTO (CP)—Moe Norman of the Kitchener Rockway Club was named Ontario's leading amateur golfer by the ranking committee of the Ontario Golf Association Wednesday. Second spot went to Jerry Magee of Toronto Lambton who Norman defeated to win his second successive Canadian amateur title.

Norman also won 17 medal play tournaments with scores which totalled 52 strokes under par. He was another 32 strokes below par in the week of the Canadian amateur and Willingdon Cup interprovincial team matches at Edmundston, N.B. He led the Ontario team in the provincial trials and was top scorer in the Willingdon Cup matches.

Jack Lowery of St. Catharines was ranked third, Ray Cooke of Hamilton Glendale fourth and Gary Cowan of Kitchener Rockway fifth.

Completing the top 10, in the following order, were: Nick Weslock, Windsor Essex; Bill Morland North Bay; Ken Castator, Toronto Weston; Bill Parkes, Oxford County, Woodstock and Brantford; and Ernie Bentley, Toronto Weston.

Bears, Giants Readying for Titular Game

NEW YORK (AP)—It was beginning to appear today that Chicago Bears and New York Giants are treading two different paths toward the National Football League title game here Sunday.

The Bears worked on the field eight consecutive days after they clinched the Western Division title with their triumph over Detroit Lions.

They had a respite Christmas Day but were right back at work again Wednesday. There even is talk among the league of the Bears being overtrained.

But coach Paddy Driscoll said it has been watching his charges closely and that he has detected no signs of them going stale.

TAKE IT EASY

The Giants, on the other hand, have been taking it easy. Coach Jim Lee Howell gave the team three days off after winning the Eastern title Dec. 15. Then the players had a free weekend and two more days off this week.

The Giants worked out Wednesday with one group of players simulating Bear plays. They also had a long lecture on just what to expect from the Bear defence.

Most experts figure the game as a test of Giant defence against Bear offence.

That's all wrong,' said one member of the Giant brain trust. 'We definitely don't intend to rely on our defence. We aim to stay ahead by the simple matter of scoring more points."

Knox Family Vacates Home Before Fire

MALIBOU, Calif. (CP) — Football star Ronnie Knox and his family evacuated their home Wednesday morning before a raging brush fire that swept along the California seafront.

Knox played with Hamilton Tiger - Cats and Calgary Stampeders last season.

His stepfather, Harvey Knox, said he was awakened by neighbors at 5 a.m. Wednesday to find the flames only 200 yards from his hilltop home.

"I grabbed the baby and my wife awakened Ronnie and Pat (actress Patricia Knox, Ronnie's sister) and we jumped into two cars and got out of there," Knox said.

The house did not burn and the family was able to return later.

Robinson in 'Fine Fettle' For Big Fight

GREENWOOD LAKE, N. Y. (AP) — Middleweight champion Sugar Ray Robinson passed his pre-fight medical examination with flying colors Wednesday.

Dr. Alexander Schiff, New York state athletic commission examiner, termed Robinson "in excellent fettle" for next Wednesday's title fight with Gene Fullmer.

After working two sparkling rounds in which he stunned his sparring partner, Lee Williams of Augusta, Ga., Robinson was examined by Dr. Schiff who said: "He is in excellent condition. He's completely relaxed and doesn't seem worried about anything at all."

Robinson did not get on the scale but his weight was disclosed at 162 pounds.

WINS SHOOT

LONDON (CP)—James Bos of Toronto took top honors at the annual Boxing Day trapshoot at the London Rod and Country Club Wednesday with a gross-net total of 89-87.

Australia Wins Davis Cup Defeats Americans 3 in Row

ADELAIDE, Australia (AP)—Stunned and staggered at the outset, Ken Rosewall and Lew Hoad pulled themselves together to win the Davis Cup for Australia today by defeating a United States "pickup" team for the Seixas and Sam Glammalva, 1-6, 6-1, 7-5, 6-4.

The doubles victory gave the Aussies a 3-0 lead in the best-of-five competition and assured that the coveted cup—symbol of world tennis supremacy—will stay down under another year. Friday's two final singles matches will be nothing more than exhibitions.

Glammalva will meet Rosewall in the first match with Seixas meeting Hoad in the second. Bill Trabert, U.S. team captain, substituted Glammalva for Herbie Flam of Beverly Hills, Calif. in view of his good play in the doubles.

CROWD ASTOUNDED

The capacity crowd of 18,000 at the War Memorial Stadium sat in shocked horror as the first set unfolded. The crowd could hardly believe they were watching Rosewall and Hoad, who between them hold every major singles title in the world, and together have won Wimbledon, U.S. and Australian doubles champions.

Seixer, the handsome 25-year-old Philadelphian, and Glammalva, an emotional 21-year-old University of Texas student from Houston, who never played in a challenge round before, ran the Aussies all over the court in the first set. Seixas won his first service at love and that set the tenor of the set.

Only Hoad was able to salvage a service for the Aussies, in the second game, but in the fourth Seixas and Glammalva smashed through Rosewall's service and in the sixth they took care of Hoad's.

AUSSIES COME BACK

Both Glammalva and Seixas rushed the net behind their services and banged horn kill after kill, while Rosewall and Hoad stood flatfooted.

The Americans promptly broke through Rosewall again to start the second set and the Aussies' situation became alarming. But with the suddenness of an unexpected thunderstorm, Rosewall and Hoad moved to the offensive.

They broke Glammalva in the second game, Seixas in the fourth and Glammalva again in the sixth.

Midway in the third set, the Americans were playing Rosewall and Hoad on even terms.

But the Aussies made the big move in the 11th game and broke Glammalva. That was the break of the match. They held their own in the 12th and won the set. It gave them a 2-1 lead and put the pressure squarely on Seixas and Glammalva.

Talbert's boys fought to four-all in the first set but the handwriting was on the wall.

Hoad finally won it for the Aussies in the 10th game, although he double-faulted, probably through nervousness, before he was able to wrap it up.

Machen Made Most Progress In Past Year

NEW YORK (AP) — Unbeaten Eddie Machen, winner of 19 professional bouts, today was designated by Ring Magazine as the boxer who made the most progress in 1956.

Machen, from Redding, Calif., won the award on the strength of his spectacular climb up the heavyweight ladder. He is ranked fourth among Floyd Patterson's challengers by the magazine.

Machen turned pro in 1955 after only a few amateur fights. He has scored 14 knockouts and has two victories over Cuba's Nino ales.

Lions Retain Coach Parker

DETROIT- (AP) — Raymond (Buddy) Parker got what he thought his all-star record as Detroit Lions football coach deserved — a two-year contract at a reported $30,000 a year.

Parker's signing Wednesday forward a Lions meeting of the National Football League club's 13-man board of directors and a quick huddle with Lions' president Edwin J. Anderson.

Anderson last week offered Parker a one-year contract—the type he has accepted in each of his six seasons with the Lions—but Parker declined to sign it, saying:

"I think my coaching record with the Lions deserves more than a one-year contract. Other coaches win maybe three or four games a year and they get more than a one-year contract. Why shouldn't I have one?"

Parker, a virtual unknown in coaching ranks when signed by the Lions, has compiled a record of two world championships, three NFL Western Division titles and two second-place Western Division finishes.

Thirty-three were from the Hungarian team and four were from the Rumanian team.

Joyful reunions and speeches of welcome greeted them as they disembarked. With bared heads the athletes and their greeters stood beside the American and Hungarian flags while the Hungarian national anthem was played.

Belleville Lamberts Whip Kingston With Outstanding 7-2 Performance

Playing their finest exhibition of the season, the Belleville Lamberts junior "B" club handed the league-leading Kingston Frontenacs a 7-3 defeat in Kingston last night.

The Lamberts consolidated their third-place spot behind the Frontenacs and Queen's University.

The Lamberts were full value all the way for their victory scoring four goals in the first period, two in the second and added another for good measure in the third. The Frontenacs did all their scoring in the first ten minutes of the game.

Gary Rowbotham paced the Lambert offensive with two goals with Fraser, Thomas, St. Denis, Foster and Gill scoring singles. Ab Wright was credited with three assists with Chuck Rowbotham and Garrison getting two each. St. Denis and Foster each had one.

Ken Partis and Art Casterton handled the official duties handing out sixteen minor penalties and a misconduct to Delph of the Kingstons. Belleville drew seven of the minors.

Kingston grabbed a two-goal lead midway through the first period with Haggerty and LaFontaine being the triggermen. That was all for Kingston, Gary Rowbotham scored the opener for Belleville second from Garrison and Kingston goal and Fraser tied the score two minutes later.

The Lamberts took over at this point rapping home five unanswered goals over the rest of the route. Thomas scored the winner after 15 minutes in the first heat and St. Denis ended the period scoring at 19.51.

Foster and Gary Rowbotham added insurance markers in the second period as the Kingston youngsters tried vainly to whittle the margin. Gill got the only starter of the third period scoring on a three-way drive with Wright and Chuck Rowbotham.

LATE ENTRY

OSAKA, Japan (AP)—Jockeys lining up their mounts at Osaka's race track quickly changed their minds and galloped for cover as a ghostly voice from the sky boomed "Clear the track I'm coming down."

Seconds later a small plane, its engine dead, glided in for a perfect landing on the racing strip. Pilot Takanao Nakano explained that his engine had failed as he circled Osaka, broadcasting advertisements over a powerful public address system.

AT THE McCARTHY — Anita Ekberg featured in Columbia's CinemaScope and Technicolor hit "Zarak" opening today at the Odeon McCarthy Theatre. Victor Mature and Michael Wilding are also featured.

KAP POPE'S MESSAGE

LONDON (Reuters) — Moscow Radio Wednesday attacked the Pope's Christmas message as giving "blessing for a peevish war." The radio said the Pope "did not find one word to condemn the European colonial robbers who have driven the main help places in the Near East are their oil concessions."

TEST FLY "STOVEPIPE"

HARTFORD, Conn. (Reuters) — The Leduc B-52, France's latest experimental aircraft, developed capable of flying at 2,300 miles an hour had its first test flight near here Wednesday, the plane, propelled by the ejection of hot gases from its tail, has been nicknamed the Flying Stovepipe because it looks like a squat pipe, with a thin pointed nose.

CRUMP WRITES

"2. There can be no dispute about firemen in passenger service. Passenger trains will continue to have firemen. The company proposes to run diesels without firemen only in freight and yard service. This will be a gradual change.

"3. There is no dispute about the jobs of any firemen who have worked three years or more. They will stay on as firemen until they become engineers.

GET OTHER JOBS

"4. Nor can there be any dispute about firemen with less than three years service. They are to get other jobs with Canadian Pacific and without loss of their seniority as firemen, if they desire to leave the service the company will pay them a cash allowance based on their length of service.

"What then is the dispute about?

"The dispute is about only one thing—whether Canadian Pacific will in the future be forced to hire new men as firemen when these jobs are no longer required because of changing conditions.

"All firemen now employed are to be treated fairly. This is as I would wish it to be. I know that they are loyal employees because of my close association with them for many years.

"Officers of the company with practical experience know that diesels can be operated safely and efficiently in freight and yard service without firemen. The conciliation board has agreed with this.

CHANGING SCENE

"It is not the firemen's fault that they are not needed on freight and yard diesels. We all know that new and better machines have changed the work of many people in many industries. Union leaders themselves recognize that such necessary advances cause changes in the jobs and skills of employees. Canadian Pacific cannot be an exception if it is to stay in business. The only problem with the firemen is how to treat fairly a group who are affected by "automation" without sudden loss of jobs or wages. The conciliation board report accepted by the company does this.

"Never before has Canadian Pacific faced as much competition of as many kinds as it does today. I am sure we will be successful in meeting this competition if we make the best use of the diesel with every saving it offers. Any practice which adds to our costs lessens our ability to meet competition and threatens the security of the jobs of all of us.

"I hope what I have been able to say in this letter makes clear the real issues in this dispute. If there is anything further that you would like to know about it, please write me."

Rail Presidents Review Records Of Past Year

MONTREAL (CP) —The presidents of the two major Canadian railways say inflationary tendencies in the country's economy have produced one of their main problems.

In a year-end review of CPR activities, President N. R. Crump said the "inflationary potential" apparent late in 1955 became a "disquieting reality" in 1956.

He said the CPR while operating to meet high traffic volume would get a 1956 return on net investment of only 3.2 per cent and that rate was below the average share in Canada's prosperity.

BUSY YEAR

Donald Gordon, CNR president in a similar 1956 review said there have been few years when the railways were so busy.

"It is discouraging" he said, "that the inflationary consequences of higher prices and higher wages tend to overshadow steady improvements that have been made in operating efficiency."

Both railway presidents talked of heavy expenditure designed to modernize and reduce the cost of operating the country's big transportation systems.

Mr. Gordon said that in 1955, CNR completed a five-year, $220,000,000 program of converting to diesel locomotives which had resulted in "the substantial economies anticipated."

Consumer Price Index Rose More Sharply in '56 Than at Anytime Since Korean War

By JOHN E. BIRD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's consumer price index, barometer of living costs, rose more sharply in 1956 than at any time since the 1950-51 Korean war period. . .

The index, based on 1949 prices equalling 100, rose from 116.4 in January to a record 120.3 in October, an increase of 3.9 points.

Government officials say present information indicates that the index will not fluctuate much for the balance of the year. They expect only a small rise or fall in the November index when it is made public early in January. The December index will not be available until the first week of February.

An official of the Bureau of Statistics said there was little or no change in November in the prices of goods and services used in computing the index.

FASTER CLIMB

The increase in the January-October period of 3.9 points was substantial compared with the previous three years. Last year the index in the 10-month period rose .8 points from 116.3 to 116.7. In 1954, the rise was .9 points, and in 1953 it was .3 points.

However, the 3.9 rise was considerably less than the increases in 1950 and 1951 during the inflationary period caused by the Korean conflict.

In the corresponding 10-month period in 1950 the index rose 6.4 points to 106.6. For the full year the increase was 7.5 points.

The index in 1951 rose nine points in the January - October period and 8.1 points for the full year, to 118.2.

MAIN FACTOR

Spiralling food prices mainly were responsible for the rise in the index this year; Price boosts for new passenger cars, liquor, fuel, household appliances and various services, such as haircuts, also contributed to the upward movement.

The food sub-index rose sharply from 109.9 in January to 117.9 in October, most of the rise coming in the June-October period.

While the over-all index moved upward steeply in 1956, the average weekly wage paid in Canada rose from $60.54 in January to $64.94 in September.

However, the rise in living costs was one reason the Bank of Canada boosted its interest rate on loans to chartered banks. This is considered an anti-inflationary move.

STARTED LOWER

The year started with lower food prices pushing down the index from 116.8 in December, 1955, to 116.4 in January. Food prices continued to decline in February, offsetting other price increases and keeping the index at 116.4.

In March the index crept up to 116.8 points following price rises for some foods, rent, automobile licences and medical and dental fees. There was no change in April as decreases in food and household operation costs counter balanced slight increases for shelter, clothing and other commodities and services.

But in May food prices jumped sharply, moving the index up 1.3 points to 117.8. It was the highest monthly rise in five years and caught federal price experts by surprise. The food sub - index moved up an unusual 3.3 points to 112.5.

There was a further big jump in food prices in June, particularly for potatoes. The index increased to 118.5, breaking the previous record of 118.2 set in December, 1951.

It climbed to another peak of 119.1 in July, again as a result of higher food prices. But it eased in August to 119 following a mild decline in the price of foods.

The trend was reversed in September due to a near accuracy-board increases in prices, especially for foods. The index rose to a new high of 119.8, caused mainly by a 1.6-per-cent boost in the food sub-index.

It was the same story in October—another jump in the index to a record 120.3. Higher food prices influenced the upward movement but the October rise chiefly was the result of higher prices for new 1957 passenger cars and liquor.

Marmora

HOME DESTROYED

MARMORA — Fire destroyed the home of Peter Lucas, of Marmora Township, on Tuesday of last week. Mr. Lucas had attended the fires prior to going to the home of a neighbor. Sometime later smoke was seen issuing from the roof and although the alarm was raised the house was a complete loss. Only 2 or 3 pieces of furniture were saved. Horses in close proximity were saved by the fire-fighters.

Mrs. Thomas Pearce was in Toronto visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Oakes, prior to their departure to Florida for the winter months.

A large part of the juvenile personnel of the town are suffering with measles.

Mr. Charles Lummiss is a patient in the Belleville General Hospital suffering from pneumonia.

Marmora population has grown by the following family additions: to Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Kerr, in Civic Hospital, on Monday, December 17th, a son and heir; to Mr. and Mrs. Harold Olsen, in the Civic Hospital, Peterborough, on Tuesday, December 18th, a daughter.

Mrs. Douglas Jones is a patient in Civic Hospital, Peterborough, where she underwent an operation on Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Sid Cheeseman of Ottawa, visited relatives here a few days recently.

Mrs. Lula Lawrence is a patient in St. Joseph's Hospital, Peterborough.

A.B.I.M. Ronald Logan, of the Royal Canadian Navy, is spending a furlough at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Logan. Ronald has been serving on H.M.C.S. "Magnificent" and recently returned from Ireland.

Mrs. Harold Hobbs is a patient in East General Hospital, Toronto. She was visited recently by Mr. Nobes and sons, Jim, William Smith and Mr. Thomas Smith.

Mrs. Thomas Dickson, of Beaverton, visited her mother, Mrs. Thomas Potts, recently.

Mr. William Chamberlain, an employee of Deloro Smelting and Refining Co. Ltd., suffered a broken back and other injuries when an elevator at the plant let go and dropped about 30 feet just after he stepped into it. He was taken to Dr. R. C. Shalford for first-aid and later by ambulance to Peterborough Hospital.

WINS CHAIN SAW.

John Doyle, of R. R. 2, Marmora, was the lucky winner of a brand new McCullough chain saw in the contest sponsored by that company. He had filled in a card available at Wells' Bros. Lumber Co. store and sent it in to the head office. Mr. Doyle correctly answered the three questions asked, and was presented with a direct drive model D-44 chain saw, worth $285.00. Presentation was made by company representative Mr. Grant Smith.

Winner of the "Buy in Marmora" contest $50 cash prize, sponsored by several merchants, was Jack Eggett of Bonarlaw. The draw on Saturday, December 22nd will be for $75.

BOUNDARY WATERS

Rainy Lake on the boundary between Ontario and Minnesota was discovered by Jacques de Noyon in 1688.

Little Benny's Notebook

Ma was sitting and thinking, and she said to pop, Human nature is strange, William.

It's intriguing, though, pop said, and ma said, What I mean is, most everybody has the mistaken delusion that if they only had this, that or the other thing, they would be happy.

What is it you'd like to have? pop said, and ma said, I met a woman today who has litterly everything, so if anybody ought to be satisfied, she should be. I'm alluding to Mrs. D. Chesterton Chivers. She gave a tea and bridge party at her famous fabulous home for the benefit of the Hospitle Fund, and Maud Hews and I bought tickits, partly because it's a worthy charity and partly from vardonsible curiosity. My dear, if I tried to discribe that gorgeous house, it would defy discription, and Mrs. Chivers employs a staff of 4 cook, a butler, an upstairs maid and a downstairs maid, ma said.

Her basement maid? pop said, and ma said, Perhaps she has, William, because she has more rooms in her basement than the average family has in the world. Well my dear, she was extremely pleasant and democratic, and low and behold she admired the string of perls my sister Fanny sent me for my birthday. I'll never forget the wistful look on her face when she feasted her eyes on my perls.

Didn't she know those things are artificial? pop said, and ma said, Of course, but artificial perls often have a luster that would be worth a king's ransom in real perls, and Mrs. Chivers would love to have a string exactly like mine, but, as she explained, her position is sisiely wont permit her to wear artificial perls. So you see, William, no matter how wealthy you are, it's impossible to have everything, ma said.

Which I probably is.

CPR Will Counter Strike Move With Complete Tie-Up

'Cannot Be Rail Strike' Comment of St. Laurent

ANNOUNCES STRIKE

W. E. Gamble, Canadian head of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginers (CLC) makes an telephone after announcing that members of the brotherhood have been ordered off their jobs with CPR next Wednesday in a strike the union says will tie up the entire line. Only about 2,500 firemen, 200 hostlers and 25 engineers are directly affected but union leaders say other railway brotherhoods will respect picket lines and bring CPR trains to a halt. The dispute is over a CPR proposal to eliminate firemen-helpers on diesel locomotives in freight and yard service. (CP Photo.)

MONTREAL (CP)—The Canadian Pacific Railway today gave notice to its big far-flung railway operations while union officials continued arrangements for a strike which a union chief described as "inevitable."

W. E. Gamble, Canadian chief of the Brotherhood of Firemen and Enginemen (CLC), said early today some 3,000 men are being tabbed for picket duty in CPR stations and rail yards from Nova Scotia to British Columbia.

The CPR announced Thursday night it will suspend operations on all its lines at 4 p.m. next Wednesday—the strike deadline earlier announced by the union—unless a last-minute threat is withdrawn.

"Canadian Pacific is being tied up," said Vice-President W. S. Thomson in a statement.

BOTH STAND FIRM

Both sides remained adamant in their conflicting stands regarding the dispute of firemen on diesels on freight and yard service.

Thursday, Mr. Gamble said the union is "quite ready" to resolve the dispute if the CPR withdraws proposals to lop firemen from freight and yard diesels. The company says all present employees will be protected but the action would eliminate the jobs and bring CPR trains to a halt.

Observers saw little hope that the two parties would come to agreement on the basis outlined by Mr. Gamble, whose statement followed a call from Ottawa for a resumption of negotiations.

Prime Minister St. Laurent, reflecting country-wide concern, was quoted as saying "There must not, in fact cannot be a railway strike."

RECALL PAST MOVES

The words recalled the government's past initiative in intervening in rail disputes. Labor Minister Gregg said at Ottawa mediation facilities are at the disposal of the disputants.

The strike by about 2,800 firemen on CPR trains is scheduled for 4 p.m. local time Wednesday.

The Brotherhood has rejected a majority federal conciliation board report which granted a staged 12-cent per hour increase—25 per cent was sought—and agreed with the CPR proposals to end firemen-helper employment on freight and yard service diesels. The latter is the main one at issue.

Mr. Gamble Thursday night said a special brotherhood meeting presumably to add finishing touches to strike details, called by the executive, Thomson said:

"Canadian Pacific regrets the loss wages shippers and employees will suffer because of the unjustified action of the brotherhood. . . . While, with the co-operation of other employees, we could operate freight trains in the yards by using diesels without firemen, we have given the strike notice to our employees. Consequently, Canadian Pacific is being tied up."

MAY MINE IRON ON BELCHER ISLES IN HUDSON BAY

Propose New Seaport, Railroad Extension

COBALT (CP) — A bustling northern seaport for Ontario may become town development of huge iron ore deposits on islands in Hudson Bay.

The inland seaport would be Canada's second major port on Hudson Bay, ranking with the grain centre of Churchill, 700 miles to the northwest on the northern shores of Manitoba.

A hint of an iron-spawned rail empire stretching south from such a seaport some 700 miles to Parry Sound on the Great Lakes was given Thursday night by A. R. Herbert, vice-chairman of the Ontario Northland Railway.

Mr. Herbert, who is also Progressive Conservative member of the Ontario legislature for Timiskaming, told the Cobalt Lions Club the ONR is considering such an extension.

TO EXTEND LINE

It would involve extending its tracks 100 miles southwest from Moosonee to Parry Sound on Lake Huron and building a seaport on the shores of James Bay 12 miles north of the present terminal of Moosonee.

The Moosonee 565 miles longhaul could take advantage of enormous new deposits in the Belcher Islands, 200 miles due north of Moosonee in Hudson Bay. Eight Belcher islands have been the fact Europe's smelters were clamoring for iron, and the Island's show a potential of 400,000,000 tons of the metal, likely enough for many decades of the find.

Presumably the ore would be shipped to Europe.

TOURED ISLANDS

Mr. Herbert recently toured the Belcher Islands, windswept by islands along with a party of American financiers. Financiers more are being assisted to develop the mining of iron on islands discovered as early as 1877 and populated by a handful of Eskimos.

Mr. Herbert said that with $30,000,000 capital, a townsite for 2,000 people could be set up and production started.

Last summer the ONR made preliminary surveys ahead of establishing a seaport 15 miles north of Moosonee. As the railroad pushed north, it would open ore the full way it was also considering extending the line to Parry Sound. From this centre the ore would find its way by rail to Ontario's blast furnaces and smelters.

"We see ourselves stretching northward in the years ahead," he concluded.

Trade Minister Howe Predicts Greater Expansion for Canada

OTTAWA (CP)—Trade Minister Howe predicts Canada's current record economic expansion in 1957 will be surpassed in 1957, bringing more goods and higher incomes to most Canadians.

But he indicated Thursday in his year-end review of trade and problems ahead: House building is expected to show a "significant" decline next year, while Middle East crisis and other events may bring new problems to world trade.

On the over-all economic front, he found room for cautious confidence—"the current economic upswing, though now in its third year, gives no indication of general vulnerability."

Capital investment, the major prop of the current boom, likely will rise beyond the record of more than $7,500,000,000 reached in 1956. This will bring new plants and other facilities for thousands of Canadians and others with more goods and services.

Credit likely will remain tight for some time but Mr. Howe anticipated that the present "tremendous demand for goods—main reason for federal credit curbs—may ease toward the end of 1957. Officials said later this change would permit some relaxation in credit restrictions. The easing-up may come in the third or fourth quarter of next year.

Besides an increase in the flow of goods in 1957, Canada may experience a shorter shortage next year through a heavier flow of immigrants.

The major problem next year likely will be a scarcity in structural steel and plate which may slow some heavy projects.

Mining industries which may show a further expansion in 1957 are those dealing with oil and natural gas, non-ferrous metal refining, uranium development, primary iron and steel, electric power, transportation and communications and retail trade.

Industries which likely will make capital outlays equivalent to record outlays of 1956 are pulp and paper and chemicals.

"Of all the major investment sectors, residential building is the only one likely to show a significant decline," said Mr. Howe.

Officials estimated Canada this year may produce between 135,000 and 140,000 new homes, compared with 128,000 last year. In 1957, the number may drop to about 110,000.

On the foreign front, "the Middle East crisis and other current international events have introduced new elements of uncertainty into the world trade situation, the effects of which are not yet discernible."

However, Mr. Howe felt that "given sustained prosperity in the United States, total exports will continue at a high level."

BRITAIN BIDS SAD FAREWELL TO SPITEFIRE FIGHTER

Last Three Still In Service Withdrawn

LONDON (Reuters)—Britons today bade a sad farewell to the Spitfire, the famed single-seater fighter plane often credited with winning the battle of Britain and thus making possible victory in the Second World War.

As announcement that the last three Spitfires still in service with the RAF will be withdrawn was made Thursday night.

The three are Mark-19 photographic reconnaissance planes used by the air ministry for high-altitude weather observation. One of them, however, will be kept anywhere to take part in a yearly flight over London in tribute to the victory over the Luftwaffe.

First tested in 1936, the Spitfire flew more than a million wartime and post-war service hours in 19 years of operational service.

FIRST IN 1938

The first Spitfire squadron, No. 19, was equipped in 1938, and was still in front line service when the war ended. The last Spitfire squadron, a photo reconnaissance unit in the Far East, exchanged its Spits for Hunters in February 1954.

The Spitfires got their baptism of fire on the Channel coast. They took part in the downing of three German bombers attacking Britain's coastline.

They took a heavy toll of German E-boats in the English Channel and launched his allout air offensive against British shipping.

They underwent several changes during the war to keep pace with new enemy weapons and tactics.

Their speed was increased from 353.7 miles an hour to 450, and their rate of climb from 2,500 to 5,780 feet a minute. In 1944 the speed of the Spitfire Mark-14F was increased by 50 miles an hour at low altitude for operations against the V-1 buzz-bombs.

SPITFIRE DESIGNS

When the Spitfire was first made a part of the RAF it had eight Browning .303 machine guns. In 1946 it had four 20-millimetre cannons.

Many Canadians flew the Spitfire with the RAF, and there were several all - Canadian Spitfire squadrons.

Originally, the plane's designer, R. J. Mitchell, died in 1937 before his plane was accepted by the RAF. He spent the last months of his life in an effort to sway air ministry opinion in its favor against the more-manoeuvrable but slower Hurricanes which were the fighters of the pre war period.

Engineer, Fireman Killed As Sleeper Train Derailed

Dozen RCAF Personnel Hurt in Quebec Wreck

BROSSEAU, Que. (CP) — The engineer and fireman were killed and about a dozen RCAF personnel were injured Thursday night when a nine - unit CNR special, carrying air force men and women bound for Ontario bases, jumped the tracks at a switching point.

The mishap occurred about 10 p. m. EST during a snow storm as the train was rounding a curve near this station, 10 miles south of Montreal.

Aboard were about 150 airmen and airwomen from the RCAF base at St. Johns, Que., 15 miles south of here. They were being transferred to other bases, most of them in Clinton, Ont. Their cars were to have been hooked to a Toronto-bound train leaving Montreal Clinton is some 40 miles northwest of Stratford.

They were returning to St. Johns in RCAF buses "until further notice."

A few of the airmen stopped newspaper men from examining the wreckage at first, but later allowed them to pass. One serviceman said the CNR had asked them to help keep the scene clear of bystanders to avoid repair of the line being unmolested.

WENT OFF TRACKS

The special was made up of a baggage car, a baggage car and seven sleepers. All went off the tracks but remained on a fill about 400 feet of track, ties and gravel before overturning on its side.

The last three sleepers remained upright while the other cars settled down tilted in two "2" formations after the engine left behind the locomotive.

One witness said the train had "literally leaped off the rails and it was a miracle that no others were killed."

While CNR officials investigated cause of the derailment, unconfirmed reports said the train had run through an open switch.

Thousands Lose Zest for Living Says Psychiatrist

LONDON (Reuters)—A leading British psychiatrist, Professor Eustace Chesser, says one Briton in 19 will spend part of his life in a mental institution.

Dr. Chesser, writing in the British Medical Association's magazine Family Doctor, said the spiritual and emotional life of Britain "has never been more desolate."

"Nervousness, anxiety, lack of faith, together with a frantic search for escape from ourselves, has gained a painful grip on us."

Chesser, a leading group of doctors and sociologists who produced the British "Kinsey" report on the sexual, marital and family relationships of the British woman, said that in 1953 72,000 persons entered mental hospitals and institutions.

There were 3,754 persons who committed suicide and of every seven attempts at suicide one was some form of sedative.

Thousands had lost the zest for living.

"The art of conversation has become the first casualty, while the art of living looks as if it is fast following," he declared.

Life on Mars Has Turned Grey, Reason May Be Severe Drought

NEW YORK (AP) — Life on Mars is colored grey, or has just turned that way. And the planet perhaps is having a bad drought.

These are findings from excellent peeks at Mars when it and its closest visit to earth in this summer in 22 years.

Dark areas which presumably are plant life have long been seen on Mars. They have appeared in vivid greens and blues to observers during the height of the Martian year.

This year they seemed to be an almost uniform grey in color tests, says Carl Sagan of the Yerkes and McDonald Observatories of the University of Chicago.

Perhaps the greens and blues seen before were optical illusions, he says, or perhaps a severe drought cut down the lavish color this year.

Grey could be important for Martian life. Grey-colored plants would absorb more of the water vapor and extend that more distant planet.

Sagan described these observations made by Dr. G. P. Kuiper familiar," Sagan said.

and others in a speech prepared for the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

It still seems that Mars has water in ice and in frost, but tougher, more efficient form than on earth, he said.

The main evidence for life on Mars is seasonal color changes in the dark areas, and changes in their extent. Also, these dark areas are connected by canals observed by high Martian dust storms, suggesting vegetation growing on both sides.

Great dust storms seen this year in the Martian region of Mare Sirenum, south polar ice cap after it melted may both indicate a drought in the Martian equatorial regions of Mars. The dark areas are localized in this region.

Forced to live under extreme swings in temperature, without oxygen, and with little water, Martian plants would have to be tough, and may be more efficient and advanced chemically than earth plants.

"When we arrive there, we must expect life on Mars, if it exists, to be very different from anything

National Health Insurance Plan Top Objective of CLC

OTTAWA (CP) — Attainment of a comprehensive national health insurance plan will be the top objective of the Canadian Labor Congress' 1957 legislative program, President Claude Jodoin said today in his new year message.

Mr. Jodoin said the newly-formed organization of 1,000,000 members expressed disappointment that 1956 failed to produce concrete results.

"Too many Canadians are suffering in silence simply because there has been delay after delay on the part of governments," Mr. Jodoin said in the first year-end message since he became president of the CLC on its formation last summer.

The health of the Canadian people is something that should not be used as a political football, and the Canadian Labor Congress will exert every effort at its disposal to obtain action in 1957."

He also said steps should be taken towards the unification of all industrial pension plan with government participation.

"With the high level of employment," he said, "there is an opportunity to introduce a national pension plan. Many workers now face restrictions in one form or another to plans which will supplement the entirely inadequate old age pension when they reach retirement.

An urgent necessity, Mr. Jodoin said, is the co-operation of all levels of government in meeting the problems of education.

He reiterated the CLC's call for a federal-provincial conference on the question and added the body in 1957 will bring "a concerted and orderly effort to meet our country's housing needs."

During the year, he said, organized labor will continue to press for improved conditions, despite attempts in many quarters to have it free inflationary forces.

"We are convinced that such efforts are responsible for expanding economy," he said, "and surely no one will suggest that $1,700 per week, or $88,400 per year, is her possibilities of economic expansion.

"Labor realizes the responsibilities of its position, both in relation to the community and to the country as a whole. Our unions see action to cease strife and to obtain justifiable improvements.

In fact, in the face of radical technological changes and in the extension of automation, it is essential that a high level of purchasing power be maintained in Canada if there is to be a market for the goods which now can be produced in increasing quantities."

Mr. Jodoin commended the Canadian government's action in "taking the lead to restore the authority of the United Nations" in the Middle East crisis and to have a UN police force established.

"We want a lasting peace," he added, "lies not in settling disputes but in preventing them.

"To achieve peace, we must help the hungry people. During 1957, the Canadian government increased its aid to underdeveloped countries, but it must be increased even more."

Britons Wonder Whether Nasser Controls Egypt

LONDON (Reuters) — Angered by confusion over the reported death of 2nd Lieut. Anthony Moorhouse, the 20-year-old British officer kidnapped last week by Egyptian gunmen, the tabloid London Daily Sketch has demanded an inquest.

It would "bring home responsibility to those who turned tragedy into unnecessary agony for a family whom all the nation sympathizes."

Other reports in today's London papers describe the desecration of the monument to Australians in New Zealand troops who died in the defence of Egypt during the First World War.

These incidents only underscore the mounting shock in Britain over Britons over their ill-starred Suez intervention and their deep concern about prospects for a lasting peace in the Middle East.

The question is frequently asked is whether President Nasser is in full control of the Egyptian people in view of the recent wave of violence.

Newspapers echo critical of British intervention now have joined the chorus of voices raised against the confusion said to reign in the Suez area.

Says Nasser really be allowed to rule his high horse just as he did five months now?" the Daily Mirror, a Liberal paper, asked recently.

Start Delayed On Clearance Work at Suez

PORT SAID (AP)—Operations to clear the blocked Suez Canal at its southern entrance were delayed Thursday. Despite assurances from United Nations and Egyptian officials that a start on the work would begin this morning, an official of the Egypt's Suez Canal authority said at Suez that no orders had been received to start the work.

Representatives of U.S. Lt.-Gen. Raymond A. Wreeford, chief of the UN command, arrived at Suez and said they had instructions to go to Ismailia this morning and would meet with Egyptian officials in an effort to straighten out the matter.

Two salvage vessels, the Dutch Willem Van Der Zee and the Danish Protector, were at Suez.

The Tyne's skipper Capt. P. W. Hansen, said his ship and the Protector "are ready to work but are not receiving orders."

It appeared that when work at Suez did start it would be merely a symbolic nature than anything else.

Ike Wants Right To Send Troops If Need Arises

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Times says President Eisenhower has reported considering asking Congress for authority to use United States forces "as he deems necessary to maintain peace" in the Middle East.

Quoting "a reliable source," the dispatch from Washington says consideration of such a bill would be asked to give their views on "the possibility of getting prior congressional sanction for the president to use the armed services . . . in accordance with his own judgment in the event of any aggression in the Middle East."

The Times article, written by James Reston, says the conference will be held at the White House next Tuesday, with State Secretary Dulles expected to be on hand.

11 Teen-Agers Hurt

Jack Hayhurst, 17, was charged with careless driving. No one was severely hurt.

High-Priced Reservations Going Fast for New Year Celebrations

NEW YORK (AP)—Centres of entertainment in the U.S. report growing reservation lists for their biggest night of the year.

Going on a gay evening on the town are about the same as last year. Prices are up a bit, however, in drinks before and after dinner, and a small item of champagne.

The highest prices for drinks in the entertainment city probably will be at Prima's 500 Club, where Lily Christine, the so-called Girl with the Diamond Bosom, drinks there will be $2.55 up.

The peak price in Detroit is $30 a couple at the Wonder Bar night spot. Many places in the Las Vegas, Nev., area like Sheraton-Cadillac Hotel's motor bar and Victor Lim's Chinese spot are dispensing with reservations and putting things on a first come, first served basis.

As usual in Detroit, buses will go a block or two off the regular route if necessary to see that celebrating riders arrive safely at their front doors.

Cro's in Hollywood asks $22.50 a person for a steak dinner—no drinks.

In New Orleans, the Roosevelt Hotel's New Year Eve charging $25 a person but is pitching in drinks before and after dinner, plus a small item of champagne.

Majesty of British Crown Carried to Many Lands By Royal Tours This Year

LONDON (CP)—Royal tours in 1956 carried the majesty of the British crown to many lands.

For Queen Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh, the year was one of the busiest since the Coronation. Together they made a triumphal visit to Nigeria in January and in Jamaica in June and the year ended with the Duke on a 35,000-mile, round-the-world trip centred at the Olympic Games in Australia.

Between trips, the royal couple sandwiched a heavy round of official engagements and had receptions that gave them little time for relaxation and normal family life.

The Queen Mother and Princess Margaret also made state visits abroad and other members of the Royal Family shuttled around the United Kingdom in the almost continuous round of personal appearances.

INVITED TO CANADA

Although the royal trips bypassed Canada, the year brought promise of future visits to the Commonwealth's senior dominion. Prime Minister St. Laurent announced that the Queen had been invited to open the St. Lawrence Seaway, probably in 1959. It is considered unlikely that the invitation would have been made public unless the Queen had indicated at least conditional acceptance. And unconfirmed reports persisted in London that Princess Margaret was planning a Canadian visit in the next two years' time. Buckingham Palace, however, said it had no information about any such plans.

Her 19 - day tour of Nigeria, Britain's largest dependency, was described by members of the Royal Household as the toughest assignment the 30-year-old Queen had ever undertaken.

She left London by air Jan. 27 for Lagos, federal capital of the colony that is moving rapidly to independent status, and returned Feb. 16 after 12 days in humidity of 85 and 90 per cent. The most memorable event was the Feb. 9 visit to a leper colony where she became the first member of the British Royal Family to mix and talk with lepers.

VISIT TO SWEDEN

In contrast, the visit to Sweden in June was more akin to a holiday. The state visit, itself, lasted only four days, but the Queen and the Duke remained in Stockholm for a further week to attend the Equestrian Olympic Games, which opened in the Swedish capital June 10. They returned to London June 18.

The tour provided an historic "first" for the Royal Canadian Navy, whose vice-regent - cum - aide - de - camp, HMCS St. Laurent, escorted the royal yacht Britannia to Sweden. The St. Laurent was the first Canadian warship to escort the sovereign on a state visit.

In March, the Queen Mother paid a brief visit to Jamaica and while there attended a reception given by Commonwealth ambassadors at Versailles. Music at the reception was provided by the Royal Canadian Signals Band, under command of Capt. B. J. Lyons of Kingston, Ont.

Princess Margaret, like her sister, Queen Elizabeth, also made an African tour in 1956, visiting four British colonies in East Africa — Mauritius, Zanzibar, Tanganyika and Kenya.

The five - week tour was declaimed as a "brilliant" triumph for the diminutive 26 - year - old princess, at one point growing tense in breaking under the strain of the heavy schedule.

BUSY IN BRITAIN

Back home in Britain, the Royal Family also went on tour, visiting collieries in Durham, potteries in the Midlands, hospitals in Westmoreland and Somerset and taking a cruise around the Western Isles. One of the most significant visits was to the Scarcliffe Colliery in Derbyshire, where the Queen and Prince Philip opened College Hall, the world's first large-scale labour power station.

During the year some 2,600 recipients of honors in the New Year and birthday honor lists were summoned to investitures at Buckingham Palace.

For eight-year-old Prince Charles and his fair-haired sister, Princess Anne, the year ended with a forceful reminder of the stern, sometimes harsh demands of public duty in the royal family. Descent from the family Christmas party and music, the fun of opening presents with them, was their father. His grandchildren got four days until the first week in February.

Five-Months Ban Placed on Trout Fishing

Damage $1,800 As Car, Truck In Collision

Property damage amounting to an estimated $1,800 was caused to two vehicles at noon today as a light panel delivery truck and a passenger car collided at the corner of Victoria and Bleecker.

Belleville motorist driving a delivery truck for Black's Wholesale, had his foot pinned in the wrecked panel truck and had to be pried out with bars. He also suffered a gash on his left ear.

Police said McDonnell was driving east on Victoria Ave. the second car, driven by Cleland J. Allison, Herchimer Ave., was northbound on Bleecker.

Damage to the truck was estimated at $1,000 and to the Allison vehicle about $1,000.

Police Continue Probe Into Theft Of Safe, $2,000

Provincial police at Napanee are continuing their investigation into the theft of a 300 pound safe containing $2,000 from the Liquor Control Board of Ontario office at Tamworth, 20 miles north of Napanee.

The L.C.B.O. office was entered some time Christmas night with the safe apparently being carried away in a truck stolen from the garage of the D. O. Clarke Hardware store. The truck was later found abandoned at Yarker, 10 miles southeast of Tamworth, but the safe is still missing.

Police believe the safe was stolen about five o'clock Wednesday morning as it was shortly before this time that Tamworth resident heard an attempt to start a truck parked at Scanlon Motors in Tamworth. Looking out a window the man saw three men, two of them the property owner and the road. He failed to notify police.

Investigation into the theft of the Liquor Control Board safe is being directed by Sgt. Everett Smith of the Napanee O.P.P. detachment office.

Urges Ruthless Elimination of Poor Teachers

TORONTO (CP)—P. M. Mair, executive-secretary of the Ontario Federation of Teachers, urged "ruthless" elimination of ineffective teachers from Ontario schools.

He told the annual assembly of the Ontario Secondary School Teachers Federation Thursday a small percentage of the unsatisfactory strain board-teacher relations, destroy public confidence, harm the whole teaching profession and retard children by the first large-scale abuse power station.

During the year some 2,600 recipients of honors in the New Year and birthday honor lists were summoned to investitures at Buckingham Palace.

Mr. Muir also criticized the Ontario Department of Education that the resources of the educational octopus" are inadequate and urged teachers to appeal for more dominion and provincial aid.

MORE NEEDED

In an earlier speech, J. B. Collins, public relations officer of the federation, said Ontario may need 1,639 additional secondary school teachers by 1961, and that it is time to increase the present $4,000 ceiling on the salaries of Ontario's best teachers are not being utilized to the fullest.

"Two powerful forces make our main task to teach."

Mrs. Ethel Cook, a Hagersville teacher, said 54 per cent of teachers have occupational disabilities and recommended to the Mayo Clinic report which said only 17 per cent of the population 40 per cent of engineers suffered similarly. Nothing was said about how psychologists which hours of work had not been shortened since the 1930's.

Mr. Richardson said industry is making serious complaints and adjustments to attract persons on the over-40 age bracket. The federation approved a resolution be put forward calling for a teachers' superannuation providing a teacher with 25 years service to retire with a 50 per cent pension instead of the best seven years' wage.

Lilian Pursey Has Left London

MONTREAL (CP)—Lilian Adler Pursey, former Hungarian beauty queen, returned to a series of court cases here earlier this year, but left London for Paris and Rome Thursday.

Mrs. Pursey, 43, wife of Commander Harry Pursey, British Labor member of Parliament, left by plane for Paris. Commander Pursey is seeking an annulment of their marriage.

Mrs. Pursey was first arrested here during her honeymoon two years ago on Commander Pursey, her third husband. She was charged with possessing counterfeit United States currency. The jury failed to reach a verdict at the first trial and a second jury later acquitted her.

She was arrested again by the RCMP, charged this time with possession of narcotics. She was convicted but appealed and was acquitted at a second trial.

Following her latest appearance, about $50,000 worth of her jewelry was stolen. Two men were arrested and convicted.

Heard Ticks Called Dicks Bomb a Toy

TORONTO (CP) — When Postmaster R.B. Gibson heard ticking noises coming from a package as he sorted the evening mail in suburban Willowdale, he took no chances. He ran with the package to a vacant lot, dropped it and called police.

Constables James McCormack and Harold Rogerson waved everybody away and went to work with a jackknife. Just as they got the package open it stopped ticking.

Inside was a toy car, its battery just run down.

Hamilton Boys Walking Home From Ottawa

SHARBOT LAKE — Two boys who started to walk more than 300 miles back to Hamilton after they were arrested in a clean boxcar to Ottawa, were picked up by police yesterday near this community. They are both north of Kingston.

Peter Eldridge, 14, and Gerald Lawrence, 13, of Hamilton, were found walking along No. 7 Highway here and nearly exhausted.

Peter and Gerald told police they were playing in a boxcar in Hamilton Wednesday when they found the door locked on the inside and they could not get out. They started before they could get out and did not slow down until it reached Ottawa Wednesday night.

They jumped out and started walking toward Hamilton. They said they walked most of the 80 miles from Ottawa to Sharbot Lake during the night, with only a few short rides.

Bomb in Sock Found in Theatre

NEW YORK (AP) — A bomb-like device described by police as "definitely the work of the 'mad bomber'" was discovered early today in the Paramount Theatre in Times Square.

It was found by the city's special bomb squad crouched in a red sock and hidden in an orchestra-pedestal seat.

A telephoned warning Thursday night sent a score of policemen to the theatre, but a preliminary search revealed no bomb. Once again the New York public library, it did not explode.

Two rewards totalling $26,000 were posted Thursday for arrest of the "mad bomber," who has plagued the police department more than 20 home-made bombs in the last 16 years.

Weekly Livestock Review

TORONTO (CP)—Trade at the Ontario public stockyards was slow to steady, typical for the time of year. Steers were show while cows advanced 50 cents a hundredweight. Other classes remained steady. Calves sold strongly and hogs were firm. Lambs were unchanged.

Cattle receipts were about 1,500 less than last week and about 1,800 less than the same week in 1955. Western receipts were about the same as last week at 870 head. Calves were also steady at 300. There were no loads shipped to eastern Canadian slaughterers and no exports to the United States. An estimated 700 cattle will be left on sold. The dressed beef trade is reported very slow.

The tone in beef trading was uncertain leading to cautious buying on steers. Prices were unevenly steady to easier.

Prices:

Good steers $19.50-20.50 with a few lots of straight choice up to $21; medium $18-19; common and $12-15; good heifers $17-17.50 with a few sales reaching $18; boner steers and heifers $2 to 10; choice fed yearlings $23-24; goods $22-23; mediums $17-21; good cows $11-11.50; mediums $9-10.50; commons $8-9; canners and cutters down to $7; good heavy bologna bulls $12-12.50; common light bulls down to $8.

Replacement cattle: Trading was reported extremely slow with few sales at steady prices: Good stockers $17-18; mediums $14-16.

Calves: Steady and prices advanced to $2 an top ends with medium and common following suit. Good vealers $25-28 with choice to a top of $31.85; mediums $19-24; commons $12-18; grass calves $10-12.

Hogs: Steady with prices unchanged. Grade A $30; cows $20.50-21.50; stags $13 a hundredweight at a selected-weight basis.

Lambs: Steady with the bulk of the offering made up of grain fed lambs, long-hauls selling at $22 with the top end of one load out at $23.50; common native lambs down to $13 a hundredweight; sheep $3-6, according to quality.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP)—Western oils led the stock market to a moderate advance during brisk morning trading.

The western oils index, led by Central Leduc, climbed more than a point in the first hour. Industrials were ahead less than one-half point on their index and base metals a few decimal points. Golds lost a little ground.

The .1 a.m. volume of 258,000 shares was the heaviest in more than two weeks. Thursday's total at the same time was 172,000.

Central Leduc gained 30 cents in active trading. Observers couldn't give an immediate reason for the rise but said it "probably is due to foreign buying."

Steels and banks were strong among industrial groupings. But most gains were confined to fractions. Declines were seldom more than ½.

International Nickel, Noranda, Labrador and Falconbridge were up fractions among senior base metals. Iron Bay was ahead 30 cents in juniors.

Shows Come High

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Bob Hope says this has been his most successful year in television ratings but his worst financially.

Hope, who produces his own shows, said Thursday he has lost $53,000 on his first three programs.

"I think it's my last year in television—at least I can't afford it."

Hope said the high price of talent is eating up profits.

He said Dinah Shore, who alternates with Hope, had to pay Frank Sinatra $40,000 plus a new station wagon for a guest star stint on her opening show.

He's still committed for four more shows this season.

KILLED IN COLLISION

Massive Brush Fire Running Loose in 2 Areas

MALIBU, Calif. (AP) — The massive Malibu brush fire was running loose in two areas today after covering about 25,000 acres, and at one point threatened a 75-room Franciscan monastery and about 30 homes.

The number of homes and other structures already destroyed by the fierce three-day-old coastal blaze was placed at 65 by the Los Angeles County fire chief, Keith Klinger.

Governor Goodwin Knight meanwhile declared a "state of disaster" in the area, making available all manpower and equipment of the California state government and laying the groundwork for applications for federal aid to repair or replace damaged public buildings.

Main area of distress early today was the Malibu Colony, where a second fire was started by flying sparks from the original blaze Thursday night. The first fire was burning this morning on a 3-mile circular front starting about 10 miles west of Santa Monica and extending north and west.

NINE HOMES LOST

Firemen reported that most of the occupants of the monastery, Serra Retreat, had been evacuated, along with other residents of the area. Rev. Hugh Noonan elected to remain at the monastery along with two lay brothers.

The fire threatening the monastery was known to have destroyed at least eight homes in Las Flores Canyon, where it started, and one in Carbon Beach.

From Carbon Canyon, the flames dashed toward the sea. They were prevented from reaching about 50 homes on a sandspit when 30 firemen kept sparks from igniting the residences.

Among the well-known celebrities who live in the Malibu area include those of band leader Horace Heidt, actor Louis Hayward, actress Ann Sothern, actress June Havoc and disc jockey Peter Potter.

NO NEW FATALITIES

There were no fatalities Thursday during the second day of fire-fighting either at the scene of the new blaze or the old one. The fire has taken only one life so far. One reporter described this as "amazing considering all the people who were 'apparently trapped at one time or another.'"

Another brush fire broke out early today in the exclusive Bel Air district of Los Angeles, but was described as potentially serious.

The city fire department said 16 engine companies were rushed to the scene in an effort to protect a hotel and a number of expensive hillside homes threatened by the blaze.

British Doctors May Boycott State System

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain's 35,000 doctors organized mass meetings up and down the country today to decide whether to boycott the socialized medical system to back their demands for a 24-per-cent salary increase.

The doctors complain that they have not received any increased payment from the state health service since 1951 despite sharp increases in living costs since then. The government has replied that present economic circumstances in Britain make a general increase impossible.

Doctors now receive an average of about £3,000 (roughly $8,500) a year, worked out by the state system on the number of their patients. The health service provides all medical care and hospital treatment and covers virtually everybody in the country. Only 500 doctors elected to remain outside it, when it was formed eight years ago.

MAY QUIT SERVICE

The meetings being organized today by the British Medical Guild will decide whether doctors are prepared to quit the service to back their pay demands. Should they quit, they will continue to treat patients but the patients will have to pay them.

Annual Financial Forecast

Peace to Prevail Says J. Docter; 'Many Stocks Offer Possibilities'

Mr. Joseph Docter, former Belleville boy who has achieved success on the New York stock market, annually makes an economic forecast for the benefit of members of the Ontario Intelligencer. Mr. Docter visited relatives in Belleville over the Christmas holiday. His forecast appears below:

BY JOE DOCTER

While world conditions continue disturbed, peace will prevail and believe many stocks offer possibilities, especially those that have had big declines.

The scientists will continue to develop many revolutionary changes and it is necessary to try to decide which industry will benefit and the ones which may become decadent. I would favor companies which have the highest ratio of spending for research in proportion to sales.

Again, I am still strong for natural resources. Canada's natural resources have only been scratched and there are possibilities of huge increases in population and development of Canada's natural resources. The standard condition in Canada is very sound and the government sympathetic to private initiative and labor condition should be given careful consideration in selecting industry.

Controversy Over Taxi Licences Petering Out

TORONTO (CP)—A month-long controversy over taxi licences appears to be petering out.

A public hearing called by the Toronto police commission ended Thursday when no one offered to testify about allegations that 815 cab licences were being resold for as much as $3,000.

Police General Roberts said Thursday night he would receive any city council delegation asking a request for a provincial probe with an open mind.

And, although city council unanimously demanded a judicial inquiry at a meeting Tuesday, today, such an inquiry has already been once refused by the provincial government.

The Daily Star said the second request will be turned down, because the Ontario cabinet feels the city is "ducking its responsibilities."

MEETING BROKE UP

The police commission hearing broke up in 20 minutes after chairman Judge Ian Macdonell refused to allow a cab company spokesman to cross-examine taxi driver Philip Ely, who had given evidence at the start of the hearing Monday.

"Philip Ely is a liar," shouted Joseph Mocoe, public relations director for the Metro Cab Company. "He lied to give the cab industry a bad name."

Ely had named another cab firm, Cadillac Livery Ltd., as holder of a licence it is selling or leasing to taxi drivers after receiving from the police commission a year ago.

POTENT HAUL

ELLINGTON, Conn. (AP) — Thieves wheeled four huge tank trucks up to a line of storage vats at a vinegar-making firm here, applied a power siphon to one of the vats, and drained off 10,000 gallons of hard cider. The haul was valued at $4,000. An internal revenue agent said the thieves may put a little carbonation in the cider and pass it off as champagne on gullible buyers.

North Sumatran Rebel Leader Flees Capital

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — The government stole in the capital of rebellious North Sumatra announced today that the leader of the army revolt, Col. Maludin Simbolon, had escaped from Medan, the North Sumatran capital.

Army sources meanwhile said Mustang fighters and Mitchell bombers of the Indonesian Air Force took off from Jakarta for North Sumatra this morning.

It was not known whether the planes' mission was to attack troops still loyal to Simbolon or to stage a show of force to bolster officers trying to reinstate the authority of Premier Ali Sastroamidjojo's central government.

TOOK COMMAND

Simbolon's second-in-command, Lt.-Col. Djamin Gintings, announced that he had taken command of the army in the province. He pledged his loyalty to President Sukarno and said he would support Sastroamidjojo's central government.

There were strong indications today, however, that Sastroamidjojo was not out of the jungle yet.

One authoritative source in Jakarta said Gintings could count on the support of only about one-fifth of the military forces in North Sumatra, the rest being loyal to Simbolon.

The acting governor of North Sumatra, in a broadcast from Medan, the provincial capital, said the situation there was serious. A curfew was ordered Thursday night.

Nor was there any indication that army leaders in central Sumatra, who staged a companion coup to Simbolon's, were ending their revolt.

POLITICAL OFFICER DIES

YARMOUTH, England (AP) — Sir Basil Gould, 73, former British political officer in Tibet, consul in Iran and holder of government posts in India, died at his home Thursday night.

Say Washington Integration Move Came too Fast

WASHINGTON (AP)—Some of the moral, social and educational aspects of public school integration were listed by national legislators today, while in the southern states a solution was sought for the vexing problem of segregated bus travel.

A report by a congressional subcommittee, now being circulated in Washington, blames racial integration in schools in the District of Columbia for an increase in sex offences, an "appalling" rate of juvenile delinquency, and with educational retrogression.

Among other things, the report also says that integration has increased school costs and speeded the movement of white residents in the District of Columbia into Maryland and Virginia suburbs of the national capital.

Integration in Washington schools was forced too too rapidly, the report says, and with "scant preparation" by the board of education.

ARGUE OVER REPORT

The report, by a three-member subcommittee, was made by a sub-committee headed by Representative James C. Davis, a Georgia Democrat.

RELIEF FUND MOUNTS

TORONTO (CP)—The Canadian Red Cross said Thursday contributions to the Hungarian relief fund total $336,694, in addition to $250,000 contributed by the federal government.

ALTERNATIVE HOSPITAL PLANS

The Ontario Chamber of Commerce, in a brief presented to the Ontario Government last week, has voiced its disapproval of any move by the province to participate in a national hospitalization insurance plan. This stand is not based on any opposition to hospitalization insurance as a method of pre-paying hospital bills, but solely on the grounds that there are less costly and more desirable ways of achieving this result than through a universal government-sponsored plan.

The brief supported the principle of every citizen having the right to proper medical and hospital care, regardless of ability to pay, but urged that an adequate system be organized under the province.

In support of this view, the Chamber pointed out that 71 per cent of the population of Ontario is now covered by private hospital insurance. The problem, as the Chamber sees it, is to devise some means by which the remaining 29 per cent of the population can receive similar coverage. It is obvious that this uninsured section of our population can be divided into three classes, those who can afford to pay premiums for private hospitalization insurance and are not doing so and those who cannot afford such premiums or, for one reason or another, are uninsurable under private plans. As far as we know the Chamber's brief did not specifically note this division amongst those now uninsured, but it did urge that the government make an effort to aid uninsurables and indigents. The Chamber suggested that the government might purchase coverage for indigent groups unable to finance premiums from their own income.

"Surely the efforts of all directed towards this comparatively small area of our population would attain results far beyond the proposals advanced and at a cost which would be small compared with a universal plan," the Chamber argued.

Opponents of the Chamber's proposal are likely to be divided along two groups. There will be those, probably the majority, who will approve the Chamber's plan in principle but who will doubt whether in practice it will be possible to provide such a hospitalization insurance by this method. There will be others who will maintain that, even if the Chamber's method is feasible, a government plan would be preferable as a matter of principle, irrespective of cost or breadth of coverage.

Cost is extremely difficult to estimate. There is a wide variance between administration costs in government plans like those in Saskatchewan and British Columbia and in plans such as the Blue Cross, on the one hand, and coverage offered by life insurance companies and casualty companies on the other hand. The reason is fairly obvious. Government plans and the Blue Cross have no or few selling costs and universal or group coverage provides an automatic safeguard against the nature of risks assumed. Casualty companies selling to individuals lack such an automatic safeguard and in 1953 their administration costs averaged 42.6 cents out of every dollar received in premiums, compared with seven cents for the Blue Cross, according to Prof. Malcolm G. Taylor of the University of Toronto.

As for the breadth of coverage, most private plans place a limit on the length of hospitalization covered. Coverage under a national hospitalization insurance plan would be unlimited. This fact has given rise to the existence of the so-called "bed of thought" on the question of insurance. While one group wants a national plan covering all hospital bills and the Chamber of Commerce urges extension of present private plans to cover everybody, this third group maintains that governments should not interfere in the field as far as normal hospital expenses are concerned, leaving individuals free to participate in private plans or not as they see fit, but that there should be instituted a national all-inclusive plan of "disaster" or "catastrophe" insurance. Just how this plan would operate has not yet been spelled out in detail, but it might provide for payment of bills above a certain fixed amount, or above a certain percentage of family income. There is much to be said for such a proposal which would, in the truest sense, be "insurance" in contrast to the dominant feature of both present private hospitalization plans and a national hospitalization plan, both of which would primarily be a form of pre-payment of normal hospital bills.

BABIES IN A PAN

Probably the strangest story of adventure comes from India where six babies spent two days adrift in a large pan, forty-eight hours afloat on flood waters which swept a village north of Calcutta.

During their six-mile voyage the babies had nothing to eat or drink and were drenched by almost incessant rain. Their mothers had placed them in the pan and hoisted it into a tree for safety when the village of Shyampur was inundated. The flood, however, dislodged their little ark out of the tree top. ### "PARADES

Parades, it seems, I have outgrown.
On curb, at window pane
To view the splendors that are shown
No longer I remain.
I do not care to join the throng
Or use my voice in cheer.
It wearies me to wait so long
For marchers to appear.

The younger loved to laugh at me,
I don't like weather cold.
They'd say it's plain as plain can be
That I am getting old.
Time was I shared my city's fun,
But then my legs were stout.
But with such pleasures I have done;
My strength has given out.

An office window next I tried,
Where all was snug and warm.
I viewed the passers-by with pride
And every uniform.
I loved the sound of drum and fife
And waved at all I knew,
But joys like that won't last for life;
As youth, they vanish, too.

I've known the thrill of marching feet
Of comrades gaily clad,
But I'm not eager to repeat
The many joys I've had.
And I am grateful for them all,
But since passed me they've flown,
I find it pleasant to recall
The pleasures I have known.

Duke Aboard Canadian Plane When in Difficulty

From the RCAF 'Roundel'

If an aircraft is called to a measure of fame because of celebrated people it has carried, the number of countries it has visited, or Ottawa's Charles Lanier or perhaps then No. 412 Squadron's C-5 is well established as a famous aeroplane.

Since the aircraft was assigned the task of transporting VIP's its service list reads like an international "Who's Who." Its stewards have served meals and made beds for royalty, prime ministers, the late Sir Winston Churchill, Canada's Governor General, Vincent Massey, and many other dignitaries.

Although the largest aircraft in the service, it carries only 27 passengers in a style suitable for official guests of Canada. Meals are prepared on board to suit the wishes and tastes of distinguished passengers. To guard against the possibility of spilling soup on some august head, the C-5 has received reports of impending turbulence en route and plans have been altered accordingly. Since the C-5 generally flies at approximately 18,000 feet, however, turbulence is cut to a minimum and the likelihood of such unhappy accidents is negligible.

In its five and a half years of service, the C-5 has logged some 2,000 hours of globe-trotting flights. Its most recent trip was the 20,000-mile extensive tour of South America which took the aircraft as well as a 24,000-mile trip around the world with Mr. St. Laurent in 1954, and Prince Philip on a Commonwealth tour the country visit in 1955.

Flying from Canada's North Americas the C-5 normally carries a seven-man crew, but for extended trips, such as those mentioned, it becomes a problem, a crew of as many as 15 is required.

The latter precaution has already paid off. During Mr. Pearson's trip to Russia, the engine failure occurred at Kuala Lumpur, Malaya. The flight engineer maintenance team on board the C-5 promptly fitted a new engine, flown from Canada by the flight engineer, England, and the C-5 was able to continue its journey to Moscow in time for his scheduled departure. Another engine failure also subsequently occurred and was secured in Korea during a visit by Mr. Brooke Claxton, then Minister of National Defence, to the Canadian troops. The C-5, he now knows, has been involved in no accident.

Only the most highly qualified personnel, both aircrew and ground crew, are selected for service on the Pilots are required to take a period of at least two years on a transport squadron, operating on transcontinental and trans-oceanic routes, and they must have logged a minimum of 1,000 hours including 1,000 hours on four-engined aircraft in order to become eligible for the C-5 list of officers on the CS.

The crew, which flew Mr. St. Laurent on his globe-trotting tour of 11 countries in 1954 totalled 25-30 in that trip, including at least two of the C-5's stewards, Sgt. Jim Bell with 5,000 hours, and Sgt. J. Roy with 3,000 hours, have more flying time than many aircrew members. Occasionally one or two of the crew behave like VIP's themselves. The RCAF's A USAF exchange pilot with No. 412 Squadron may sometimes go on a trip, and the journey from Moscow, a Russian navigator and radio operator may ride from Berlin to guide the aircraft through the Iron Curtain.

The crew of the C-5 strive to make each trip one of flawless performance, building a thick file of complimentary letters from former passengers to testify to the C-5's success of their endeavors. None the less, there have been times when the C-5 has been in danger of being threatened for a few anxious moments.

Such was the case during the visit of Edinburgh's Canadian tour when the hydraulic system failed on the approach to Vancouver airport. While the crew struggled on, the first officer and engineer took turns at madly wobbling the levers in order to lower the undercarriage and flaps — and even after landing they continued their activities in order to keep the steerable nose wheel operating.

As the aircraft rolled to a stop they breathed a sigh of relief, confident that their VIP passengers hadn't noticed anything out of the ordinary. They looked up to see the Duke smiling, "Well, you've saved chaps!" he said. That is probably one of the most cherished compliments in the squadron's records.

The C-5 has a "ramp-liner" to make it as luxurious as possible, since there are often guards of honour, ministers to be met, waiting to greet the aircraft's passengers. This ramp-liner is almost invariably made on schedule by the crew, with the able assistance of control-tower operators who, when they hear the call-sign "Victor Charlie 10,000" (in Canada) or "Canadian Air Force 10,000" (at foreign airports), help considerably by giving the C-5 landing priority.

The crews of the C-5 undergo experiences generally not encountered by other flying personnel in the RCAF. Wandering as they do to far-off lands where yellow fever and malaria are prevalent, they get more than the normal share of needles. When they start off on a trip in winter, they carry both summer and winter uniforms in preparation for the warm climate of the tropics. On one trip the crew changed uniforms three times as they came down from the frozen north into more temperate zones. Special passports, good for a particular trip, are issued by these C-5 by the Department of External Affairs.

Although the C-5 has no regular commitments, each of its trips being a special case, the most frequent run is from Ottawa to London, and Ottawa to Paris, for NATO and other conferences. In 1953, when the then foreign secretary, Sir Anthony Eden, went to Berlin for an air conference, he flown by the C-5 at the request of Sir Winston Churchill.

Labor Boosts Automation

New York Times

The more enlightened labor unions in the United States have long ceased to resist the idea of "labor-saving" devices and methods, including automation, which those loosely classed as "automation." But last week Local 1, Amalgamated Lithographers of America, A.F.L.-C.I.O., broke new ground in American industrial relations. Over 2,000 members of the local met with representatives of management gathered together in the Manhattan Center to see the record-breaking TV demonstrations and movies of the use of electronic printing machines and to hear lectures on how productivity in the industry could be further increased. The show was jointly sponsored by the union and the printing lithographing firms. The union had chipped in $8,500 from its treasury to finance its share of the show.

This dramatic episode culminates years of A.L.A. negotiations which has convinced it that "labor saving devices, in the long run, create more labor than they "save" — and can bring higher wages and shorter hours of work. Ever since the early Nineteen Hundreds, when printers began to substitute the speedy off-set rotary for the slow-moving flat bed presses, Local 1 has rolled with the punch of progress rather than resisting it.

Employment of lithographers in the United States and Canada is said to have increased from 6,000 to more than 20,000 in thirty-five years, while the volume of business has gone up from $5 millions to over $1 billion a year. Local 1 members now receive $123 a week for a 35-hour thirty-five-hour work week, enjoy three weeks' paid vacation a year and receive $4.50 a week per man from their employers for fringe benefits. And all this has been achieved through free and peaceful collective bargaining. The union hasn't called a strike for thirty years.

This is "Capitalism" at its best. Prravda has not permission to reprint.

Baby-Sitters Win Praise

Ottawa Journal

Mr. Duplessis of Quebec is at one with Rudyard Kipling's bachelor who would "risk 'is life." The valiant premier, wanting to pronounce he does not believe in baby-sitters and odds "If parents have children they should look after them themselves."

Said parents in every province will wince. Since grandparents, maiden aunts and obliging big brothers and sisters went out of fashion, the modern father and mother consider a faithful baby-sitter a pearl of price. How else can there be an evening out of boredom? Without baby-sitters the social life of the nation would decay. When the door of the home was shut at eventime it would be at conclusive an act as pulling up the drawbridge over the moat of a castle. No visits could be made, no visitors need be expected.

None will say that baby-sitters are without disadvantages. They have to be provided with food, entertainment—television preferred—street car tickets or a taxi and a thumping fee. But most of them follow a code of loyalty to the task on hand and we should not take lightly the service of a girl who, when her classmates are at the movies, endures the demands of a petulant child, sees the clock drag into the morning hours, and knows that whatever her anxieties she will be confronted with the adult comment: "What on easy way to earn money!"

TODAY'S TALK

BOOKS AS A REFUGE

There are times when even our best friends are not comfortable with us, nor we with them. We want to be alone, for we have a hunger that we wish could be appeased. It can be. There is a refuge like that furnished by one's last-loved books. Books will always be there when all others have failed.

They are the books that can give comfort and hope. I have scores of them in my library, and as I view them alongside each other I have wondered if there wasn't a reason by which even they helped and comforted each other? I had a Washington friend who was so steeped in books that members of Congress continually called upon him for knowledge. He knew Shakespeare and was preparing a book on that great writer when he died. He told me he never went to bed without reading something from Shakespeare, Dante or George Gissing's delightful book "The Private Papers of Henry Ryecroft" and "The Roadmender," by Michael Fairless. These are two of my favorites that I dip into time and time again. A good book never grows old. Emerson's first book, "On the Concord and Merrimack Rivers," was begging, even though but a thousand copies had been printed. Today that book is highly prized by collectors and collectors pay in excess of a hundred dollars for one of the first editions! It's the substance of the book, however, not its rarity, that attracts me and my fellow literatures.

It isn't the cost of a book that gives it worth, but what the author has put into it of himself that makes it outstanding and a refuge to which we turn when in need of a spiritual uplift. A book is the very soul of its author. We cannot read the book without touching that kindred spirit and being better-off-for-it-ed, and many times comforted.

What a refuge are good books!

White Man's Shoes Better

Milwaukee Journal

Nothing new under the sun? Ah, but there is.

In Canada's far north, where white men have eagerly sought Indian snowshoes, Indians are now eagerly seeking snowshoes from the white man.

This is because Canadian military authorities, experimenting with increasing mobility of the increasing number of troops in the far north, have developed a better snowshoe.

It is made of magnesium, is half the weight of the traditional Indian snowshoes, does not warp like wooden ones, is durable and does not rot or corrode. The webbing is of fine steel encased in nylon.

Prevention of Colon Derangement

In terms of pathology — ask any physician or medical student about this—it is certainly unscientific and misleading to call colon derangement "colitis" or "mucous colitis", as real doctors have inculcated long before I undertook to let the dumb layman know about it. Any actual inflammation (-itis) that may occur in cases of colon derangement is incidental and not at all a feature of the derangement.

Whatever snfog theories doctors or patients had about "colitis" or "mucous colitis" back in the days when Topsy was a colt, —patients used to tell me, not ask me about it—we must admit that treatment based on such theories seldom gave satisfactory results. Similarly we say to the patient, that is.

Whether you call it chronic intestinal stasis, colitis, "mucous colitis," spastic constipation or colon derangement, and whether it is the incipient stage (constipation, the simple habit) or in the advanced stage (I'd rather not name the symptoms here), you should regard as essential to your well being an adequate daily ration of Vitamin B1 (thiamin), 10-mg. tablet, or three B-Complex tablets, at best of all, a tablespoonful of B-Natron syrup.

It takes more gumption, character and elementary knowledge of nutrition than the average American has to get one's daily requirements of vitamins and minerals from food. To begin with one would have to use whole wheat ground freshly every day or at least twice weekly in one's own mill or a neighborhood mill, instead of most or all the refined white flour in one's diet.

Remember, namby-pamby, plain wheat is it; not the fluffy breakfast-pur It is a sieve or colander and run tap water through it if you think it isn't clean—is as good for colon derangement as it is for constipation, if used every day the year around.

As Sir Robert McCarrison, M.D., famous British nutrition authority, pointed out:

"One of the most constant results of food deficient in vitamins is colitis. It is no longer necessary that we look at a cardinal sign of vitamin deficiency, it may arise as a result of vitamins and minerals frequently encountered in animals fed on diets which are more than usually deprived of vitamins in general."

Some quaint notions cherished by people with a little learning contribute to development of intestinal stasis, colitis, spastic constipation, or colon derangement. Let us test this lesson we'll discuss these notions.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Each year, Canadian commercial fishermen take close to two billion pounds of fish from deep sea, coastal and inland waters. Almost half the bulk of this colossal catch of fish goes aboard from Canada. As one fish can, and has eaten three in dinner a day, I deplore the fact that Canadians, especially inland Canadians far from the coasts are so indifferent to fish as a national food. How easily could the fish of the world welcome Canadian fish can be gauged from the amount that Canadians go to get them their fish.

In the latest "Trade News" bulletin of the federal Department of Fisheries, there is an extremely interesting account of experimental fisheries of Great Slave Lake, which, as you know, is a government scientists did a survey of the fisheries of that vast sheet of water close to the Arctic circle, and now ten fishery companies operate, including whitefish and lake trout, a two million dollar industry that takes four million pounds in a summer season. The two-man crews of the small craft employed in setting and lifting the nets will make an average daily haul of 3,000 pounds.

A small freighter cruises the lake each day, collecting the catch of the small boat crews and taking it to Hay River, where the catch is loaded in refrigerator trucks—all the fish are fresh, not frozen—and transported by rail. And down the Mackenzie Highway go the trucks daily on the road that is what is a 3,000 mile journey to New York, Chicago and other centres marketing fish.

By train, truck, aircraft, the fish harvest of the country far northern area is profitably shipped these great distances, and with all the modern aids and facilities involved in keeping the traffic moving. I think Canada's is the most valuable the fish hunger of some parts of the world must be far greater than Canada's to make the whitefish and lake trout what it must cost to get them, when transported hundreds from their native places.

The average whitefish from Great Slave would be two to three pounds, and the average lake trout around ten pounds. As the fisheries of the Great Lakes dwindle from a variety of causes, the prospects of the far north are being brought into use with increasing strength. And Great Slave Lake fish are reputed to be the choicest in the world. Gourmets other than Canadian eat them.

YET, THERE IS HOPE

The British have just exploded their sixth atomic bomb in the desert space in Australia. The name of this place is Maralinga, which, in the language of the aborigines means "field of thunder".

Here we see the meeting of the ancient and the modern. To the aborigines of Australia called this area "field of thunder" no one knows. Probably there was some particular manifestations of natural forces which terrified these simple people. Thunder, lightning and earthquake in prehistoric times no doubt caused widespread terror amongst a people who could do nothing but behold and tremble. And now in this later day, we contrive something worse than a thousand bolts of lightning, more horrendous than hours of deafening thunder, an earth-shaking at the quakes which perhaps rent that ancient area.

Yet we fight back again where we started, only we, not

MADOC

Impressive Services Held In Churches

MADOC — Christmas services in the churches at Madoc drew large congregations. At Trinity United Church on Sunday morning, the minister, Rev. J. F. Lane, conducted the service with special music by the church choir and Miss Anne Nickle as soloist.

The junior choir, under the direction of Mrs. McCoy, rendered two Christmas anthems.

The minister delivered a worthwhile message choosing his text from the story as recorded in Luke.

A special baptismal service was part of the morning service. Those baptized were: little daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Keller, Mr. and Mrs. Ross Fleming, Mr. and Mr. Mann and little sons of Mr. and Mrs. A. Adams, Mr. and Mrs. Hill and Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Smith.

Beautiful Christmas trees and colored lights vied for the decorations of the festive season.

St. Peter's Presbyterian Church held its regular morning service with the minister, R. S. Heslop, bringing a Christmas message to his congregation. The choir rendered two Christmas anthems.

At the annual candlelight service in the evening a large congregation was in attendance with many of the neighboring churches joining to enjoy the worship praise and Christmas hymns and carols under the direction of Mrs. Rolls, organist.

The choir rendered several anthems, a quartet, by Mrs. Hill, Mrs. Elvey, Mrs. Lewis and Mrs. Nicol; a solo by Mrs. W. Armstrong, who also took the solo parts in the anthems.

The church was beautifully decorated with lighted trees and lighted candles with bowls baskets of blue predominating.

A MESSAGE TO THE CANADIAN PUBLIC

The following is a personal letter from Mr. N. R. Crump, President, to 75,000 employees of the Canadian Pacific Railway in all branches of the service across Canada and is reprinted for your information.

December 27, 1956

Dear Fellow Employee:

I am writing you this personal letter about the differences between the Company and the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen which represents the 2,850 firemen on Canadian Pacific.

To hear both sides the Government appointed a Board of Conciliation and the Board has now made its Report. The Company has accepted this Report under which all firemen will continue to be employed and continue to be fairly treated. A fair settlement is of direct importance to every Canadian Pacific employee as well as the firemen.

You should not overlook the following important points:

There can be no dispute about firemen's wages or working conditions. The Conciliation Board recommended wage increases totalling 12 percent—the same as agreed on with other train service employees—and extra pay for six statutory holidays in yard service.

There can be no dispute about firemen in passenger service. Passenger trains will continue to have firemen. The Company proposes to run diesels without firemen only in freight and yard service. This will be a gradual change.

There is no dispute about the jobs of any firemen until they become enginemen.

Nor can there be any dispute about firemen with less than three years service. They are to get other jobs with Canadian Pacific and without loss of their seniority as firemen. If they desire to leave the service the Company will pay them a cash allowance based on their length of service.

What then is the dispute about?

The dispute is about only one thing—whether Canadian Pacific will in the future be forced to hire new men as firemen when these jobs are no longer required because of changing conditions.

All firemen now employed are to be treated fairly. This is as I would wish it to be. I know that they are loyal employees because of my close association with them for many years.

Officers of the Company with practical experience know that diesels can be operated safely and efficiently in freight and yard service without firemen. The Conciliation Board has agreed with this.

It is not the firemen's fault that they are not needed on freight and yard diesels. We all know that new and better machines have changed the work of many people in many industries. Union leaders themselves recognize that such necessary advances cause changes in the jobs and skills of employees. Canadian Pacific cannot be an exception if it is to stay in business. The only problem with the firemen is how to treat fairly a group who are affected by "automation" without sudden loss of jobs or wages. The Conciliation Board Report accepted by the Company does this:

Never before has Canadian Pacific faced as much competition of as many kinds as it does today. I am sure we will be successful in meeting this competition if we make the best use of the diesel with every saving it offers. Any practice which adds to our costs lessens our ability to meet competition and threatens the security of the jobs of all of us.

I hope what I have been able to say in this letter makes clear the real issues in this dispute. If there is anything further that you would like to know about it, please write me.

Sincerely,
N. R. Crump,
President.
CANADIAN PACIFIC RAILWAY COMPANY.

British Girls Brought Out As Domestics

VANCOUVER (CP)—A domestic servant in this area can choose from about 100 jobs offering ideal working conditions.

The demand for cooks, housekeepers and maids is high here, Mrs. Cora Grey, co - owner and manager of an employment agency, is flying to England shortly to hire about two dozen British girls as domestics. She is arranging with prospective employers for the passage of the girls, who will be hand-picked to meet the standards of each employer.

And the girls can set their own standards of employment in the current shortage.

"There just aren't enough girls and women to meet the demand," she said. "Any girl or woman with experience can be placed immediately."

FLOW TO INDUSTRY

Mrs. Eleanor Morley, co-ordinator of women's employment for National Employment Service, says the demand is greater now than at any time in the last 14 years.

Many former servants now find the work unattractive despite shorter hours and better working conditions, and are finding jobs in business and factories.

"The flow of immigrant girls brought here to work as domestics has virtually stopped," she said. "Only five or six a month are now processed through my department.

"These girls, if they speak English, start at $25 a month and board. When they have paid back their passage money they are free to find other employment and most of them do."

Going rate for servants facilities from $100 to $150 a month plus board, estimated at about $50.

Employers complain that they no longer have the right to choose the woman they want. The shortage is on the other foot.

Many domestics will not do the cooking, will wash only if there is an automatic washer and will do no heavy work.

Chatterton W.I. Hears Topic On Christmas

Mrs. Berson Mitts, president, presided and opened Chatterton W.I. meeting in the usual way, which was held at the home of Mrs. Ed Snider, who graciously welcomed all.

Mrs. Dixon, song leader, led in community singing of Christmas carols.

There were 11 members, one visitor and two children present. The usual business was attended to and after including some disabled people who cannot attend the meetings.

There was a number of good readings given on the topic, "Christmas." One story entitled "The Gift," which was told about a little boy called Nickie, in a downtown mission. He lived with his grandparents. One night when he was born Nickie was a cripple. His father had disappeared shortly after his wife died. So the grandparents took care of him. He worked hard in the daytime and his grandfather was a night watchman. Nickie's mother was also a lucky, mister?" A specialist was brought to see Nickie, but he would not do as he examined him, saying: "I'm afraid it is hopeless. He won't live long." "Get the public health nurse to drop in twice a week," he told the grandparents, and I'll leave him an order for milk and eggs with the dairy."

Nickie lived on milk, eggs and oranges.

Christmas was the deaconess' visit. She came twice a week and could tell stories. She also brought him books but he could not read, so someone was looked after to teach him. Then it was discovered he loved to whittle, which his grandfather taught him. He had in his whole hand, and that was all he had to work with. He gave a block and fashion it into an animal or person. He made toys for all the children.

An art teacher was found who taught him how to paint with colors and brooches, and found a market for them. Everybody knew fond of him, and at his mind grew his charm grew. But the time was coming when Nickie had a secret, which he had withheld but said he would tell it when it was ready.

Two days before Christmas grandfather died and said Nickie he wants to see you. I went and Nickie was sitting up, but very bowed down among his pillows. "It's finished, the secret for you and for the church." A large cardboard box lay on the bed filled with wrapped figures.

Taking one out, it was found to be a wooden angel, with the face of Nickie. Then another and looked I found he had carved all the figures for a manger scene. Mary, Joseph, the Child Jesus, the deaconess and a shepherd who looked like his grandfather. His grandmother was a shepherdess. The doctor was one of the wise men, the one with the golden coffer. The missionary was Joseph, and Mary was a beautiful girl figure, yet she seemed to typify all that was finest in motherhood. The figures were perfect in beauty, humility and wisdom.

The little figures were put in the office window, which faced the street. Nickie had tried to carve himself but could not make it. So he cut this in a running posture, like one running to see the Christ Child.

The scene attracted much attention and led to the conversion of his grandparents and many more. It was a great Christmas.

the Misses Vicky, Debbie and Dana Glydon sang, unaccompanied, "Something Barked On Christmas Morning"; Master Ted Hockaday recited "Christmas Bells" and Miss Sharon Jeffery sang "Ring Ye Christmas Bells"; Miss Audrey Bowers sang "Come to Sunday School," with motions; Master Billy Hunt recited "A Christmas Gift"; Miss Vicky Glydon sang, unaccompanied, "When Santa Claus Gets Your Letter."

ATTENDANCE AWARDS

Best attendance awards were presented by the Sunday School to Miss Audrey Bowers and Master John Hunt of the intermediate class of Bibles by their teacher, Mrs. Leonard Hunt.

Master Larry Bilham of the junior class was presented with a Bible by his teacher, Mrs. Jack Glydon. The Misses Debbie and Dana Glydon who likewise were each presented with a hymnary by the primary class teacher, Mrs. Leonard Young. Miss Debbie Glydon also received prizes of a calendar and pen for the best monthly attendance.

Mr. Frank Hockaday presented a comic act as a ventriloquist, which was much enjoyed by young and old.

The Sunday school gave a chorus, "Here Comes Santa Claus," and old Santa arrived on the scene to present all with gifts.

Marilyn, Nina Talk of London In Past Year

LONDON (CP) — A shapely American actress and a husky Russian ballet dancer made big impact in women's doings in Britain during 1938.

Film star Marilyn Monroe bit the headlines with her hip wriggles and bare midriff; dumpy, discus-thrower Nina Ponomareva, making a late start, easily won screen attention by displaying a penchant for hats.

The great reception accorded Marilyn on her arrival to make a movie with Sir Laurence Olivier had to be seen to be believed. It was pandemonium, reporters trying to shriek questions above the clatter of the photographers.

Within a week, shops were offering for British women a copy of Marilyn's skin-tight black chiffon dress with transparent midriff.

Crowds collected wherever Marilyn went during her three-month stay to make a film version of Shakespeare. Prince but her departure for the United States was given a routine coverage.

THOSE HATS

In contrast, Nina arrived almost unheralded and departed in a blaze of publicity. She had to lift six weeks in the Russian Embassy to learn, in a vain attempt to avoid standing trial on a charge of stealing five hats from a London department store.

The broad - shouldered athlete eventually was found guilty and fined guilty and ordered to pay three guineas costs.

British women made more setate appearances in the news.

The first step, of course, is to read the labels. They usually provide information about the correct speeds and types and weights of shells.

WEAVE IS IMPORTANT

Then look closely at the cotton sheets in the sheets and see how they are woven. Buy the correct size sheet when you launder them, do so carefully.

Sheet weights range from heavy to very light, and are determined by the thread count—the sum of the threads to each inch both lengthwise and widthwise.

Too loose a weave is weak and causes sheets to wrinkle and soil easily. Too heavy a weave makes them unnecessarily difficult and the necessary weight without greatly increased durability.

Certain textile experts say fine, closely woven sheets, with about 128 threads per square inch, are usually good buys.

If a white, powdery substance shows when a sleazy, open-weave sheet is rubbed over a dark surface, the material has too much sizing. A higher quality sheet, even if more expensive, would be a better buy.

As for size, the CAC committee says that sheets should be long enough, after shrinkage, to allow a tuck-in of at least a bottom of a bed and a good turnback at the top to protect the blankets.

LENGTHS DIFFER

Length markings should be carefully watched. Canadian sheets usually quote finished length after hemming. American manufacturers mark the length by the torn size before hemming.

The Experts Say—

Look Closely at Construction Of Cotton Sheets Before You Buy

OTTAWA (CP)—Do you intend to replace your linen closets during the January white sales? Buy wisely, even at reduced prices, says the textile committee of the Canadian Association of Consumers.

A recent issue of the CAC bulletin indicates several ways shoppers can get the best buys and the highest quality in sheets and sheeting—two articles usually included in the new year sales.

"The first step, of course, is to read the labels. They usually provide information about the correct types and weights of sheets.

ADVICE To The LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

YOU SHOULD TELL YOUR MOTHER ABOUT THIS HOKEYPTIG SITUATION

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

I'm writing for a very good friend of mine who is a freshman at a local school. I used to run around with her, because she uses to be a nice girl, but on letter one here.

The problem is that she babysits for some people who live next door to her. She's over there all the time and has a regular date there on Saturday.

The husband is the family where the baby-sits is, in my opinion, very queer-looking. On school days, he stands at his door waiting for my friend to come home.

This man tells my friend offcolor jokes and says things that teen-agers shouldn't hear or talk about. She told me that he goes around the house without say clothes on. His wife works and knows nothing about all this.

My friend is madly in love with him and wants him to marry her. At one time she told him that she loved him and would do anything to get him, and she did. That is, she told me that she and this man had an affair and she doesn't know if she is going to have a baby or not.

Please give this girl some advice. She is 14 and the man is 33. — G.G.

Dear G.G.:

This girl didn't ask you to write me about her, did she? I hope she don't believe she did, and, moreover, it hardly sounds as though she wants any advice from you one.

I need hardly say that this is a particularly horrifying situation, and while I don't believe in telltales, in this particular case it's my opinion that you should tell your mother about it and let her take such steps as she decides are best. Perhaps her wisdom plan would be take it up with her pastor or priest and have him advise her on what should be done. This man is a viciously depraved character and he can, and should be, brought to account on a charge of impairing the morals of a minor.

It's understandable that you don't wish to be the one to report the girl's friendship...let me assure you that you'll be far better off without a friend of her type. And on the other hand, if you are a real friend, you will do everything in your power to save her both from this man and from herself.

ENJOY YOUR OWN FRIENDS, SUSIE

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

Could you please tell me how to get pen pals?

I would like to write to both a girl and a boy, so if you can, would you send me the names of some? — Susie

Dear Susie:

I don't know any way to get pen pals for you and I don't think it's a good idea anyhow. I think it far better for a girl like you to find your friendships among the girls and boys who live in your town and go to school with you. Why go far afield to hunt for friends when all you need do is to look around you?

This my advice and enjoy the friendships you already have, and say new ones that come your way naturally.

Young Couple Honored by Fine Gifts

Friends and neighbors of Cannifton and Corbyville held a shower recently at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Holgate in honor of their daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Bird.

Mrs. Harry Farnham presided at the piano for community singing of Christmas carols. The minister, Mr. McCrae, ushered Mr. and Mrs. Bird to seats in the living room where he graciously addressed Meribeth expressing the thanks and appreciation of the church as a whole for her help in the past. He spoke feelingly of the church's loss, yet hoping it meant another gain.

A humorous reading was given by Mrs. Ross Pound.

Mrs. Gerald Brenton also read an address, followed by Misses Claudia Farnham and Myrna Hilton presenting the young couple with two beautiful gifts. Both Meribeth and Stanley thanked their friends and invited them to visit them in their new home in Stockdale.

Refreshments of sandwiches, cake and coffee were served and the crowd dispersed, all having felt they had spent an enjoyable evening.

Christmas Concerts

SCHOOL SECTION 12

On the evening of December 18, the pupils of Brookdale school with their teacher, Mrs. A. Curry, and their music supervisor, Mrs. Margetson, presented their annual Christmas concert. The school was packed to the doors. Mr. Elmer Smith was chairman for the following program:

The school opened with three choruses, followed by a recitation by Elizabeth Carr; a comic dialogue, "The Census Taker," Jean Rose played a piano solo and the junior children sang a group of four songs; carol, "Silent Night" covered with an interesting recitation on "Caper at the Ball;" Jean Rose favored with a piano solo and some of the seniors put on a short play, "Farewell to Uncle John." Paul Andrews rendered a pretty piano solo followed by a dialogue, "The Concert Party;" piano solo by Jean Anderson; carol singing by the audience; a religious play was presented featuring a recitation by Norma Hudgins; a carol by seven girls, and a recitation by Gloria Howard; the school sang "Listen to the Snowman," and "The Railroad Comes Through the Middle of Town."

The interesting part of the program was a pageant, a beautiful Christmas cake which had been made and donated by Mrs. Max Dack. Dudley Andrews had sold tickets on it. Master Freddie Bedard received the lucky number and drew out the name of Mrs. Clinton Striker as the winner.

Mrs. Margetson, Mrs. Clare, has resigned, the trustees and parents presented her with a beautiful bathroom clothes hamoer, and an oil painted picture. The school children also presented her with a lovely TV lamp.

Mr. Smith thanked the trustees and parents for their kind consideration and co-operation with her for the past two years. The school S. S. 12 is a pleasant section in which to work.

After singing the National Anthem, Santa arrived and distributed the gifts from the heavily laden tree.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

ATTENTION, PLEASE, DODS

THIS CHRISTMAS ADVICE CONCERNING SPIRITUAL OFFERINGS APPLY TO YOU?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My mother recently passed away, and the many Spiritual Offerings, left by her dear friends, were stolen from her home during the funeral services. Since children have no way of knowing how to thank all of the hundreds of friends and relatives. I am having a "Card of Thanks" run daily for thirty days in the newspaper, but so many people do not read the death notices, I have also gotten in touch with all those I remember seeing, but there are many whom we haven't seen for 15 to 20 years, and I have no way of getting in touch with them, so I am writing you, I would deeply appreciate your help in your column, as I know many of our friends read your column daily. Thank you, Mrs. Beeckman. — B.H.

I most gladly give you my complete co-operation, and I would be accountant through my column those relatives and friends with whom you have been unable to get in touch to thank personally or by the published card of thanks." I do most earnestly pray that anyone who knows of your problem would write me, I will gladly forward to them your name and address, if you will give me permission.)

This circumstance concerning the Spiritual Offerings is really impossible to understand, so grimly inhuman it is. But I do hope and pray that in this blessed season there will in some way come an explanation and a lifting of this shadow, so that the light will shine forth.

I WISH YOU GOOD CHEER AND A HAPPY NEW YEAR"

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

This past year has been a dark and troubled one for me, for we had two deaths in our family, and I had a very serious illness, an operation, and a stay in the hospital, and so forth, I really hadn't the strength to see my friends, except very occasionally, but they have been wonderful and very understanding about my withdrawing. Now I feel much better, I have a clearer point of view, and I'd like to begin the New Year by getting in touch with my friends again. I wasn't especially interested in sending Christmas cards, but this morning I had the sudden thought that it might be a good idea to "begin the New Year" by sending New Year cards. What would you think about my doing this, Mrs. Beeckman? If you approve, would you be a helper to me, and suggest and idea for these New Year cards? Thank you, if you will. — B.H.

A "good idea" indeed . . . to begin the New Year by making a gesture to your friends that will mean that you want to return to friendship-intuition. I'm hoping that this 3-line verse, written by that beloved poet Kate Greenaway, will say to your friends just what you want to say to them:

"Once more, once more I knock at your door;
I ring your bell and hope all's well:
I wish you good cheer, and a Happy New Year!"

You can find cards with "Greetings for the New Year" on the cover page, and write these three lines on the inside page. Or write the lines as a note on a card of note - paper beginning with a salutation, "Dear Anne," and with a reassuring ending: "Let's have a date soon. I do so much want to see you. Devotedly, Beatrice."

NEIGHBORS' AID

2nd THURLOW — The Christmas meeting of the Neighbors' Aid was held at the home of Mrs. A. Chumbley on Wednesday afternoon with a large attendance of adults, visitors and 12 children.

The decorated Christmas tree, with the nicely wrapped "exchange of Christmas gifts" for young and old, seemed to bring out the Christmas spirit of all.

The president, Mrs. M. Mitchell, conducted the business.

Christmas carols were sung, with Mrs. Mitchell at the piano. Mrs. Robert Atkins led in the singing.

The following program, prepared by Mrs. Arnold Mitchell, was taken by Mrs. Gerald Striltion, in the absence of Mrs. Mitchell, who came later. Christmas carols were again enjoyed; Mrs. A. Stratton gave a story on "Christmas Thoughts," by Mrs. Robert Atkins; recitation by little Misses Gail Dent and Linda Ray; Master Jimmy Thomson a recitation, and a song by Master Ronald Mitchell; reading entitled "Christmas Shopping," by Mrs. A. Mitchell, disguised as Santa with beard and fool bells, daged and cane, caused lots of laughter.

Santa (Mr. J. Chumbley) arrived and caused a lot of excitement for all. Gifts were distributed and a happy time enjoyed by all.

The president thanked Mrs. Mitchell, Mrs. Stratton and all who helped with the program. Next meeting at the home of Mrs. Don Leeming and Mrs. Wm. Leeming in January.

Mrs. A. Greatrix and Mrs. R. Greatrix are to convene the next echire to be held at S.S. 4 later in January.

Refreshments were served by the hostess and Mesdames E. Keene, H. Grills, D. Leeming and D. Brown.

New Year's Buffet Party

By Mary Moore

Inevitably during December I had done so much baking and cooking that there simply was not room in a newspaper's columns to hold (1) what I wanted to give you and (2) what you wanted to have.

were-priceless-gems - of - recipes were-priceless-gems-of - recipes that were designed and destined for this column during the 1956 Christmas season just did not make the grade.

Cooking for New Year's should take secons' place to nothing, but these little treasures will be lovely items for your New Year's buffet parties. Since I still laughingly call myself boss of this column here they are:

TURKEY HOLLANDAISE

Three tablespoons butter, 2 teaspoons grated onion, 4 tablespoons cornstarch, 3 cups turkey (or chicken) broth, 2 teaspoons lemon juice, 2/3 cup finely chopped celery, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon paprika, 2 cups cold cooked turkey (or chicken) cut in small dice, yolks of 2 eggs. Gently saute the onion in the butter for 5 minutes, then blend in cornstarch, then stir in stock until thick. Add lemon juice, celery, paprika and turkey. When heated through pour a little over the beaten yolks, stirring, then turn them into the turkey mixture and cook 1 minute. Serve on crisp pastry patties or hot tea biscuits, or crisp toast points. A platterful of this served in medium-sized puff pastry shells is very attractive garnished with individual cranberry jelly moulds.

PICKLED MUSHROOMS

A little novelty for those of you who like pickly things. Perfect for a New Year's Smorgasbord. Drain 2 10-oz. tins of button mushrooms. Shake French dressing well and pour over enough to cover the mushrooms. Add a cut clove of garlic. Cover and let stand overnight in refrigerator. Remove garlic clove and let stand another 24 hours.

SESAME-CINNAMON COOKIES

These cookies originated with a dietitian-friend of mine. We agree that sesame seeds do for these what ground nuts do for Swedish thumbprints' cookies—at a much lower cost. I predict that these will be found in your permanent file. One cup soft shortening, 1½ cups granulated sugar, 2 unbeaten eggs, 2¾ cups sifted flour, 2 teaspoon. cream of tartar, 1 teaspoon soda, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon vanilla, ½ cup sesame seeds, 2 teaspoons cinnamon, 2 tablespoons granulated sugar. Cream together the shortening and 1½ cups granulated sugar until light, then beat in eggs. Sift together and add the dry ingredients and when blended the vanilla. Chill dough. Roll into walnut size balls. Roll balls in sesame seeds then in mixture of cinnamon and sugar. Place 2 inches apart on ungreased cookie sheet. Bake at 400 deg. Fahr. 8 minutes — until lightly browned but still soft. I hope every one of you tries these.

HOW TO CARE FOR YOUR GIFT LINGERIE AND HOSIERY

It seems sort ot a shame to point out that the most glittering new lingerie is practical, too! Who wants to be bothered with practicality? We all, actually most of us have to think about such practical matters as: Will it wash? And how often can it stand a dunking? Otherwise, we just can't enjoy it.

Put your mind at rest. If you received some delicate looking lingerie for Christmas. The new lingerie lovelies may look like something out of a story book, but designers are getting smarter by the day. The most delectable looking lingerie is perfectly safe in soap or detergent suds. In fact, it's designed to be washed at home! Don't let sequin or rhinestone trimmings intimidate you. They wash, too!

If you received one of those new white pique robes, with a double row of rhinestone buttons and knitted collar and cuffs, don't worry, either. You can either hand-wash it in the basin, or put it into a net bag to cushion the buttons and let the washing machine do the work. The same thing goes for one of the new, lovely sheer cut gown-and-coat ensembles. Both garments will drip dry without any help from you. It seems that the airier and more fragile-looking lingerie becomes, the easier it is to wash—and the less trouble it is to dry. Just hang it on a line and let it drip dry.

And what about the hosiery you received? Because it's so popular this season, you probably received several pairs in some of the darker shades—deep brown taupe, butternut, gray taupe or other dark, dark tones. Because the fact is being emphasized so gratly, you've probably noticed the lovely-lit-it of the new stockings. For it's the ankle and foot—rather than the leg—that get most attention with longer skirts.

Speaking of fit, remember that no sheer hose in the world can fit properly unless they're pulled after every wearing. Avoid any temptation you may feel to wear a pair of hose twice without washing them, just because the dark tone doesn't show soil. Whether shoes or not, the soil is there and the elasticity of the stocking depends on proper care in washing.

While even the sheerest hose have remarkable wearing qualities, it pays to treat them tenderly when you wash them. Never rub a snag with rough fingernails, roughened chapped skin on the hands. Suds your dark stockings separately from lighter tones to save the old jar-shaking technique for added safety. Such each pair separately in a warm suds jar partially full of warm soapy or detergent suds. Rinse the same way, and your new hose will be safe from harm.

od Never Gets Discouraged

By ROY L. SMITH

ost anyone will admit that flict. The struggle for possession are many aspects of modern which attract a dire sense gers. The mad race in arma- gantic missiles and jet- plied planes are all bank- the world's economy. The tide of nationalism bids fair ome a major cause of con- of mind can be assured of a good market. There is a deep wistful- ness among us which writhes back instinctively or any volume that as- sures us that things are coming out all right. But of all those in print, there is none more confident than the New Testament.

It begins with the story of a song, or chorusing angels, and of wise men who come adoring a mystery- ious Child who holds promise for the race. It closes with the Book of Revelation which is a stout as- surance of the final triumph of righteousness and the dethrone- ment of evil. Any man who wants to believe in life, and in this world, can find no better reading than the New Testament, and especially the Book of Revelation.

EVIL IS SHORT-LIVED

While reading the Book of Rev- elation the reader should always keep in mind that it was written in a sheltered nook in a rock quar- ry, by a prisoner who was sentenc- ced for life at hard labor, for the purpose of putting heart back into a great multitude of nobodies and the humble, scattered throughout the Roman Empire, who stood in daily dread of being set upon by the terrible and conscienceless forces of Caesar.

The Uniform Sunday School lesson for December 30: "The New Heaven and Earth," Rev- elation 21.

The central theme of the book is that evil is shortlived, that it is arrayed against the power of good and God — a fact that spells its inevitable doom. Therefore Godly men need not fear the ultimate los- ses of the battle. They need only be concerned about the temporary fury with which they are engaged. The future belongs to them, if they have the courage and the strength to hold out for a little while.

Revelation is a book that was written originally for the terrified. The Christians were, with no more than a very few exceptions, the most inconspicuous and least wealthy of all the people of the Empire. Even as late as the middle of the second Christian century a famous Roman writer ridiculed them outrageously because they were unknown, and because they held little meetings in kitchens, and other out of the way places. It is rather remarkable that in spite of the fact that there were thousands of such little cells of Christians scattered throughout the Empire, no reputable historian of the time ever mentioned them in his writings or sensed the tremen- dous power that was growing up, unnoticed, in the kitchens of the world.

Among the rank and file of the Christians, however, there was a profound conviction that terrible days were just ahead, during which they were to suffer every torture that fiends could devise. No one knew when the blow might be struck. Occasional arrests here and there were designed to keep them in terror. The blow might fall at any hour of any day or night. When the little kitchen meetings closed, no one knew whether the members of the cells would ever see one another again.

It was in the midst of such ter- ror that the Book of Revelation appeared, with its message of hope and confidence.

Royal Canadian Navy's Year in Pictures

During 1956, the Royal Canadian Navy acquired new ships, new aircraft and new weapons and its warships visited many places. Naval activity ranged from the Canadian Arctic to the Caribbean, from Europe to the Far East. The Arctic patrol ship Labrador, on her third annual voyage north, again was involved in re-supply of DEW line stations and explored little known regions of the eastern Arctic. In the Caribbean area, 16 warships from the Atlantic and Pacific commands combined for the largest manoeuvres ever held outside Canadian waters in peace time. There were training cruises to Europe and to Japan. There were ultra-modern destroyer escorts of the St. Laurent class joined the fleet. The first squadron of carrier-borne jet fighters, Fiit-3 Banshees, was formed, and the first of the new twin-engined, anti-submarine CSSF-1 Tracker aircraft was delivered to the RCN. Naval helicopters assisted in the airlift to the Canada Line, carried out a number of rescue missions and joined in anti-submarine exercises.

The above layout illustrates some of the highlights of the year's activities: Top left: HMCS Assiniboine, one of four St. Laurent class destroyer escorts now in service. # Could Not Fire 'Accidentally' 30-30 Rifle

BRANTFORD (CP)—An RCMP ballistics expert testified Thursday he tried without success to fire "accidentally" the 30-30 calibre rifle with which Stanley Gibson is accused of murdering his wife.

Constable Donald Champagne of Ottawa said the rifle would not discharge even though it was cocked and dropped from various heights.

The evidence was given at a continuation of a preliminary hearing, although Gibson, 43, was committed last week for trial on the murder charge. He is charged with shooting his wife, Flora, 38-year-old mother of nine children, outside their home on Sin Na-tions, reserve Nov. 24.

Natural Increase In Population Sets Record

OTTAWA (CP)—A total of 314,000 babies were born in Canada's population through natural increase in 1955, the highest number in history and 6,237 more than the high-est rate of natural increase in the world.

The bureau of statistics, issuing final vital statistics figures today, said this record was due to record live births, maintenance of the low post-war death rate of 1954 and an all-time low in the infant mortality rate.

The bureau's fourth issued preliminary figures last July, re-ported a total of 307,777 births for a rate of 28.4 per 1,000 population, the third highest in the world.

The 1954 years and down only slightly from the 1954 rate of 28.7 and the post-war record of 28.8 in 1947.

LOW DEATH RATE

The 1955 death rate remained at the record 1954 low of 8.2 per 1,000 population, the fourth lowest ever recorded.

The normal mortality still remained a serious problem since it annually claims 11 per cent of all deaths in 1955 and the Canadian rate is higher than that in seven countries.

The 1955 marriage rate dipped to 7.1 per 1,000 from 7.2 in 1954, the lowest since the war and a continuation of the trend that started in 1951.

Detroit Red Wings Top National League After 5-3 Victory Over Boston

Sport Slices

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

WHITBY TONIGHT —

The Whitby Dunlops, cocky over their 6-3 victory over the McFarlands Wednesday night, will be the opposition for the McFarlands in Memorial Arena tonight. The Macs are not too happy over what happened the other night—and they'll be out there this evening with all guns firing and all flags flying in an effort to reverse the decision. They have defeated the powerful Dunlops before and are confident they can repeat before the old year rings down the curtain.

They played a rataplan with sizzling pucks in that second period in Whitby the other night, clanging the rubber off the goal-posts no less than four times in a row. Had their sights been lined a little to the left or right, the score might have been different. However, that was the last game. Tonight's tilt is another tussle.

The Dunnies trek all the way to Pembroke tomorrow night and if the Lumber Kings home-town jinx holds out, the Blairmen are in for a tough struggle. The Kings walloped the Kingston CKLC's 5-4 up there Wednesday evening after turning back our side last Saturday by the slimmest of margins. They're tough birds to bring down in their own forest-girt home town, and they might pull the trick again come tomorrow.

Speaking of Pembroke, according to stories from that town there is little possibility of former playing coach Ike Hildebrand rejoining the Kings in a playing capacity. A story in the Pembroke newspaper says he severed all connections with the town as far as hockey is concerned.

It seems like was around last Saturday night when the Macs played there and watched his successor Ken Campbell, mark his coaching debut with a couple of goals. Sunday, like wasn't this solemn conclave with the Kings' manager, Art Bogart, and the club executive.

According to the Pembroke story, Bogart and the entire executive wanted Ike to carry on as a player, but the former coach "would have no part of it." The story in the local sports editor the day previous "I have not yet made up my mind."

Bogart stated that Hildebrand told the executive he had received a number of offers from senior "A" clubs up west and in the northern association. But he denied having been approached by the Whitby Dunlops. He said he had received no offers and had not been approached by the club executive.

"It is believed," the newspaper said, "that Hildebrand has received an offer from Sudbury, which would double anything the Kings had to offer."

It is a known fact the Sudbury Wolves are shopping and shopping hard. They are now in second place in the league standing and are quesing strength to catch the North Bay Trappers and keep the onrushing Soo Greyhounds from breaking down their necks.

Meanwhile Hildebrand has returned to Peterborough, his home town, whitre he starred on the Trailerman lacrosse team for the past few years. He stated he was going to work there and was not anxious to play hockey club at the moment. However, players of Hildebrand's calibre are not allowed to be on the "loose" for any great length of time and it would not surprise this corner to see Ike wearing a "foreign" uniform before too many moons.

And don't be surprised to discover it to be a Sudbury set of gear. The Wolves are going all out for help and according to Chic Appel, sports editor of the Stratford Beacon Herald, the Wolfies are a-gunning for Wild Bill Ezinicki, a former Oshawa General who had a turn with the Maple Leafs, and other National Hockey League clubs. Wild Bill lives in Winnipeg during the winter months and is a golf pro at Lyrtsfield, Man., in the summertime.—Sez Chick, "Apparently a new professional is needed at the Sudbury Idylwilde Golf Club and the Wolves hope to lure Ezinicki with a combined hockey and golf job."

THE IKE HILDEBRAND QUESTION IS SETTLED

. . . The former playing coach of the Pembroke Lumber Kings, signed a certificate with the Belleville McFarlands today and will wear a Belleville uniform against the Whitby Dunlops tonight, Manager Drury Denyes announced this morning. He will centre the line of Real Larouche and Rene St. Hilaire.

Turn Trick on Bruins' Ice With Sawchuk Back in Goal; Rangers Edge Black Hawks 3-2

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

It took them nearly two months to do it, but Detroit Red Wings knocked the tenacious Boston Bruins off the top of the National Hockey League.

Fittingly enough, the Wings turned the trick Thursday night on Boston ice, 49 days after the Bruins defeated them 3-1 in the same rink to take the lead.

Scoring in every period the Wings hustled to a 5-3 win and now hold a one-point lead and have two games in hand.

In New York, the Rangers' Andy Hebenton scored twice to lead them to a 3-2 win over Chicago Black Hawks and put Rangers two points ahead of fifth-place Toronto Maple Leafs.

Whether or not they manage to gain the lead again, Bruins' rise from fifth place at the end of last season to first place on Nov. 8 must rank as one of the comeback stories of the year.

The loss of goaltender Terry Sawchuk two weeks ago seemed to spell an end to Boston's eminence, but Bruins kept on with substitute Don Simmons and he dropped back, ironically, when Sawchuk returned to action Thursday night.

Sawchuk allowed three goals in the last period, and made a total of only 25 saves. The other end, Glenn Hall kicked out 27 shots.

John Bucyk, Marcel Pronovost, Earl Reibel, Alex Delvecchio and Ted Lindsay scored for the Wings; Don McKenney had two for the Bruins and assisted on the third, scored by Fernie Flaman.

POWER PLAY CLICKS

Rangers' power play beat Hawks. They took advantage of two Chicago penalties, with Hebenton, 27-year-old winger from Winnipeg, the scorer on both gangling attacks.

Rookie Gerry Foley put Rangers into a 1-0 lead after only 76 seconds. The two Chicago goals were scored by Hank Ciesla and Gus Mortson.

Hebenton got his first in the second period after Chicago jumped into a 2-1 lead on Ciesla's goal. With the Hawks a man short for having too many men on the ice, he scored on a pass from Danny Lewicki.

His second came at 4:39 of the final period with Forbes Kennedy in the penalty box. Once again Lewicki provided the pass. The stocky little right winger took the puck in front of the Hawks' net and blasted it between Al Rollins' legs.

Neither goalie had an active evening. Rollins stopped only 17 shots; Lorne Worsley dealt with a mere 18.

Football Has TV Spotlight Over Weekend

The fine teams of Georgia Tech and Pitt together with senior aces from most of the big schools that didn't draw a post-season assignment play in three games Saturday as college football throws the first of its New Year's holiday parties.

Tech and the rugged Panthers from Pitt meet in the Gator Bowl at Jacksonville, Fla., in a rematch of last New Year's Sugar Bowl.

The all-star seniors are divided into two widely separated camps with half having it out in the Blue-Gray game at Montgomery, Ala., and the others in the 32nd annual Shrine East-West game in San Francisco's Kezar Stadium.

All three will be broadcast and televised, with CBS handling the Gator Bowl beginning at 1:45 p.m. EST and NBC doing a double, the Blue-Grey at 1:45 followed by the East-West at 4:45.

NEW YEAR'S SPLASH

With time still for the professional championship between the Chicago Bears and New York Giants at the Polo Grounds on Sunday, the collegiates return Tuesday night for their annual New Year's splash in the Big Four—Rose Bowl at Pasadena, Sugar Bowl at New Orleans, Cotton Bowl at Dallas, and Orange Bowl at Miami.

The Gator Bowl game throws coach Johnny Michelosen and the Pitt Panthers against Bobby Dodd of Georgia Tech. Pitt's Panthers have won seven and lost three years in succession. Both teams are packed with veterans from last January's Sugar Bowl game, in which Tech scored only touchdown after a disputed pass interference play.

The Rose Bowl pits Woody Tennessee during the regular season (9-1) against Pitt's Navy-loving Panthers, who have also spilled tough Miami (Fla.) from the undefeated lists in its last two games to be coming on.

SOUTH FAVORED

The Rebels, with a 12-5 edge in the series so far, have been made a 6-point favorite over the northern Blue-Grey aggregation. Jim Tatum of North Carolina is head coach for the Grays, who have such ace backs as Mickey Prickett of South Carolina, Howell Tibbs of Miami, Jack Pardee of Texas A and M and LSU's Earl Leggett.

Blue coach Don Faurot has a couple of dandy passers in Purdue's Ernie Shuler and Missouri's Jim Hunter.

The East-West lineup is just as star-studded with such "name" players around as Notre Dame's Paul Hornung, Terry Barr of Michigan, Abe Woodson of Illinois, Jim Parker and Bill Michael of Ohio State, Don Valentine of Penn State, and Navy's Wilson Whitmire. The East matched against the likes of the West's John Brodie of Stanford, Jon Arnett of Southern California, Bill Priest of Oklahoma, and Jack Hill of Utah state.

Tuesday's pairings are Iowa (8-1) vs Oregon State (7-2-1) in the Rose Bowl; Tennessee (10-0) vs Baylor (8-2) in the Sugar; Syracuse (7-1) vs Texas (7-3) in the Cotton, and Colorado (7-2-1) vs Clemson (7-1-2) in the Orange.

Rosewall, Hoad Crush Yankees To Sweep Clean Cup Series

ADELAIDE, Australia (AP)—Tennis masters Ken Rosewall and Lew Hoad added long to the cake today by crushing Sam Giammalva and Vic Seixas to give Australia a Davis Cup challenge round sweep over the United States — just as Aussie coach Harry Hopman had said.

Rosewall didn't have an easy time a bit in the emotional Giammalva, a 22-year-old veteran from Houston, Texas, 4-6, 6-1, 8-6. But Hoad had an easier time with the 33-year old Seixas, putting the former Philadelphian away, 6-2, 7-5, 6-3.

The Yanks haven't won a match now in the challenge round against the Aussies in the last two years. The count in 1953 also was 5-0.

SAM POPULAR

While Capt. Billy Talbert's Americans fared badly on the courts, the Australian crowds took the chunky Giammalva to heart. Sam talks to himself, spins his racket, shows jubilation at his good shots and despair at his bad ones. He'll be a popular lad here for many years to come.

Giammalva played an interesting match and that's what the capacity crowd of 18,000 at the War Memorial Drive Court expected. He has a big game and doesn't try to hide the fact.

Apparently he decided early in the match that he was going to blast at Rosewall's forehand all the way through. Little Ken really has no weakness, but most experts think the best way to beat him is to play his forehand.

Giammalva didn't let up once and in the end that probably proved his undoing. Eventually Rosewall got the idea and once he laid in wait for Sam's big drives to his forehand, he was the master.

HAD ROSEWALL WORRIED

But it was interesting while it lasted. Giammalva did have Rosewall worried and that in itself is a feat. Actually, Sam still is not in a class with Rosewall, and Ken showed it in the final set.

Giammalva won the two sets to one when he came out rushing like a caged lion in the fourth set. Almost before Rosewall could count the dollars he's going to get for winning the Cup and turning professional, Sam had a 5-1 lead.

It looked like the University of Texas junior was going to tie it and force the match into a fifth set. But the poker faced Rosewall must have given himself a talking to, for he broke Sam at love in the seventh game. The rest of the set was all Rosewall.

Giammalva won the first set, breaking through Rosewall in the first game and almost blowing Ken right off the court with his stinging drives.

In the second set, Rosewall began moving in the net and by the time he ran up a 4-0 lead, Giammalva conceded the set. They played a tough seven game third set, too, until Rosewall broke in the 13th game.

Seixas played well against Hoad but Lew played better. Vic was holding his service easily the first time out, but Hoad would hit a hot streak just when he began to send him back on his heels.

Vic attacked and attacked and scored numerous points that way. But Hoad looked as though he could put the ball over as fast as possible. All told Hoad lost only 25 points on his service.

In the first set, Hoad broke through in the third game only to have Seixas come right back and tie it with a break in the fourth. But Hoad turned on the power and broke through in the fifth and again in the seventh. That was the ball game as far as Vic was concerned.

In the final set, Hoad broke in the third game and from that point on, the pressure was even more intense on Seixas. Not only was he down two sets to one, but he was faced with the problem of breaking Hoad's big service.

He couldn't and Hoad broke again in the ninth game to win it. Air Commodore Sir Hubert George, governor of South Australia, presented the shining cup to Aussie captain Harry Hopman.

"Thursday, in doubles, Rosewall and Hoad should beat Giammalva 1-6, 6-1, 7-5, 6-4 to clinch the series. In the opening singles matches, Rosewall downed Seixas 6-1, 6-4, 4-6, 6-1 and Hoad chopped Giammalva 6-4, 6-4, 6-3.

CANADIANS WIN

MARBLEHEAD, Mass. (AP)—Tim Ralse of Toronto Thursday defeated top-seeded Glenn Hackett of Niagara Falls, N.Y., 15-7, 15-4 in the opening senior boys singles round of the Eastern Open junior badminton championships.

In other matches Allen Massey of Creighton Mines, Ont., defeated Douglas Dixon of Marblehead 15-3, 15-2, and Ross Lundy of Toronto downed Jerry Pleasants of Marblehead 15-8 and 15-9.

In the first round of the girls' singles competition of Toronto beat Misty Townsend of Baltimore 11-1, 11-3.

Riders' Struggle From Cellar Greatest '56 Sports Comeback

TORONTO (CP)—Ottawa Rough Riders' struggle from cellar to semi-finals was the greatest sports comeback of 1956, say Canada's sports editors and sportscasters.

Voting in The Canadian Press annual year-end poll, they judged the football club's progress to the Big Four playoffs the most stirring recovery of the year.

Marilyn Bell's second successful assault on the Strait of Juan de Fuca and pitcher Sal Maglie's season and world series work with Brooklyn Dodgers tied for second with nine votes each, five votes behind the Rough Riders.

The ascent of Chatham Maroons from last place in the Ontario Hockey Association's Senior A series to challenge for the Allan Cup placed next with seven votes. Marlene Stewart's uphill victory in the United States amateur golf championship got four.

Chatham, league-trailers only two weeks before the season's end, won the OHA championship by defeating Stratford Indians in the semi-finals and the vanished Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen in the final. The Maroons took the all-Ontario cup from Sudbury Wolves of the Northern Ontario Hockey Association and beat Saint John Beavers for the Eastern Canada title.

It was one of hockey's most amazing rallies and lasted until, stubborn but outgunned, they lost the Allan Cup to Vernon Canadians.

Marelene Stewart proved her resilience when, four down after 24 holes in the U.S. title competition, she fought back to defeat Joanne Gunderson, 17-year-old U.S. junior champion, 2 and 1.

Science Says Gene Fullmer Will Defeat Sugar Robinson

The speed and power of the punching of middleweight champion Gene Fullmer and challenger Gene Fullmer were tested electronically by a computer designed for the task by the Lavoie Laboratories of Morganville, N.J., in the following story, Stephen D. Lavoie, an outstanding radio and electronics engineer who had a brief pro boxing career, picks the winner on the basis of the tests.

Written For The Associated Press

By STEPHEN D. LAVOIE

President, Lavoie Laboratories

NEW YORK (AP) — In this world of automation instruments nobody ever dreamed of are measuring things nobody ever thought could be measured to an astounding degree of accuracy.

With this in mind we created a system of instruments to measure the speed and power in the punches of Sugar Ray Robinson and Gene Fullmer, who are fighting for the world middleweight championship in Madison Square Garden next Wednesday.

The results of the tests, made Dec. 18 with Fullmer, and Dec. 19 with Robinson are, of course, not entirely conclusive on the outcome of the fight. But scientifically and electronically speaking, with button pushing and dial manipulation the "punchoscope" or "punchograph" tell not only an interesting story but also a fairly true one.

Electronically, Gene Fullmer will be the new middleweight champion of the world.

The punchograph is on a regulation punching bag with a photo-electric cell attached. On a standard right swing, first with eight-ounce gloves, then the six-ounce gloves that will be used in the fight; and 'a left jab with sixes only.

Fullmer's six-ounce gloves Fullmer threw a right cross at a speed of 20.4 miles per hour with a force of 1,260 pounds. Robinson delivered the same punch with a speed of 15.2 miles per hour and an impact of 1,500 pounds—240 pounds harder but with only half the speed of Fullmer.

Fullmer's left jab, more of a semi-hook, travelled 17 miles per hour, faste; even than Robinson's right cross, with a force of 1,055 pounds. Robinson, using a regulation jab, registered 14.9 miles per hour and 460 pounds. With the right cross and eight-ounce gloves Fullmer punched at 20 miles per hour with 1,150 pounds and Robinson, 19 miles per hour and 1,150 pounds.

The overall picture shows Fullmer stronger, faster and certainly expecting more energy.

However, this could be balanced by age and determination. The question left open is whether or not Robinson can withstand Fullmer's youth, speed, energy and determination for 15 rounds. Electronics says he cannot.

Science and engineering predict a Fullmer victory.

Argos Coach Hampton Pool Starts New Rebuilding Task

TORONTO (CP)—Hampton Pool set out today in his new job as head coach of Toronto Argonauts ready to put to use the doubles barrelled assets which convinced managing director Lew Hayman to hire him for the big task of rebuilding the Big Four football club.

Pool's seven years of experience as a pro coach and his knowledge of college players as a scout and a member of the coaching staff of the college allstar teams in 1955 and 1956 earned him the job.

Pool, 41, comes to Argos on a two-year contract after being connected with Los Angeles Rams for the last eleven seasons. He was head coach of the National Football League club for three years—1952-53-54—following a two-year stint as backfield coach. He took over as chief scout for the Rams in 1955 and 1956 after resigning as head coach.

ON TALENT SEARCH

He agreed to Argos' terms Thursday in a telephone conversation from Los Angeles. He conferred secretly with Hayman in Toronto recently for two days and will come here again in mid-January to sign a contract after attending the top bowl games to line up players for 1957.

Hayman said Pool impressed him as the man who could do the job for Argos after their dismal 1956 season when they won only four games and finished last in Big Four football.

"He's had pro experience as a head coach and an assistant coach. In the last two years, at Los Angeles, he has been a part of the game the Honest Johns play, and he's got a big acquainted himself not only with the players, but coaching staffs as well."

Hayman expects these connections to be of immense help in signing players. Hayman has lined up some new players but Pool will take over now.

SALARY NOT GIVEN

"It wasn't a snap decision on my part," said Pool Thursday night from Santa Monica, Calif., after Hayman announced his appointment. "I've been mulling it around for three weeks, and I finally decided my future was with Toronto."

Hayman did not disclose salary terms but said it was only fair that Pool get a two-year contract. Sometimes the first year can be a little rough on a coach and he should have another season to show what he can do and the Argo managing director.

Hayman said Pool, who favors the straight-T formation will pick his own assistant coach and will be allowed eight or two other assistants from the States during the pre-season training period.

After a college playing career with the University of California, West Point and Stanford, Pool played pro football for four years with Chicago Bears in 1940-41-42-43. He was an end under coach George Halas and he credits his football philosophy and knowledge to Halas.

Petes Defeat Barrie Flyers; Cubs Whip Teeps

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Before the Ontario Hockey Association Junior-A series season began, Montreal Canadiens promised the Hedgling Peterborough Petes help if their need became desperate. The time seemed to be at hand.

Petes, in their first season of Junior-A play, were one Thursday night, but it served only to highlight their plight. It was their fourth win in 22 starts, a 5-3 victory over second-last Barrie Flyers.

Hamilton Cubs scored three times in the final period to defeat St. Catharines Teepees 7-5 in the only other junior game of the night.

PETES FIGHT BACK

Peterborough fought back from a 3-1 first period deficit, led 4-3 at the end of the second and finished scoring on Ralph McNiff's goal in the final period. Petes pulled their netminder.

George Montague, Larry Babcock Ron Mason and Ralph Ertel each scored for Petes. Ertel's goals were Jim Josephson, Dick Cherry and Dale Rolfe.

Murray Oliver, only Hamilton native on the Cubs' roster, scored twice in their win over Teepees and Allan Stanley, Garry Sullivan, Brian Smith, John Roe, Garry Lupton and Jack Hendrickson picked up the others.

Giants, Bears Battle Sunday For Pro Crown

NEW YORK (AP)—Coach Jim Lee Howell of the New York Giants isn't one to reveal his secrets but he came out today to announce some of his plans to contain the Chicago Bears in Sunday's National Football League championship game.

His main problem is to stop backfield star Rick Casares and end Harlon Hill, possibly the two big offensive threats of the Bears.

"Well," he said, "we know about the basic defences with variations off them to suit individual situations.

"Of course, we could double up on Casares or Hill. But then we would leave a fine runner like Bobby Watkins or pass receiver like Jim Dooley tightly guarded.

"When we played the Bears the first time, Watkins was injured and Dooley hadn't come back from military service. They have strengthened the Bear attack considerably."

THINK LAYOFF WILL HELP

What about the "rest" conditioning he has been giving the club leading up to the all-important game? The Giants have worked only five days since their last regular-season game on Dec. 15.

"We haven't worked hard because we feel we are ready," Howell answered. "We didn't take all those days off because we felt the Bears were not good. Except for us we think they're the best in the league." Kyle Rote, Giants' co-captain, agreed with the coach.

"I think the layoff will help us," he said. "We've been working steadily since we opened training camp on July 24. That's a long time and you get tired.

"I feel that the rest will give us more spring in our legs and a little more in reserve."

FEWER TWINBILLS

CHICAGO (AP)—Because many baseball fans regard Sunday doubleheaders as too tedious, the Chicago White Sox Thursday announced a 1957 program of only seven twinbills at Comiskey Park.

This year the Sox booked doubleheaders on 12 Sundays and on two holidays.

Next year's schedule calls for six Sunday doubleheaders and one on Memorial Day. Thus, in 1957, the Sox will play on 70 home dates all told, compared with 81 last season.

Snow Decreases Boxing Day Soccer Crowds

By KEN METHERAL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—Like many a Yuletide celebrant, British soccer clubs are suffering from a mighty collective headache — a white Christmas hangover.

Snow caused postponement of more than 25 scheduled league games from Saturday through to Boxing Day and cut attendances drastic by 50 per cent. Wednesday, Boxing Day, no less than 13 of 16 scheduled games were cancelled and attendance at the 31 grounds where play was possible fell to 368,000 compared with the 856,000 Boxing Day fans who turned out in 1955 and the 1,058,684 who packed the 32 grounds with some 2,500,000 the year before.

DISASTROUS SHOWING

Soccer officials said it was the most disastrous Christmas showing in memory and would place a heavy financial strain on clubs that depend on Christmas receipts to boost revenue.

Despite the setbacks ago, officials of the Football League joyfully reported that aggregate attendance figures for all divisions of the league were about 300,000 higher for the year ended. But the combination of gasoline rationing and snow has sent the attendance graph sharply downward.

Hardest hit was Coventry City in the Third Division South. The club failed to complete any of their three games. On Saturday's frozen pitch with Crystal Palace was abandoned after 35 minutes through floodlight failure. On Christmas Day a snowstorm at Newport stopped play after 15 minutes and Saturday's second meeting at Coventry was postponed because of snow.

Y Basketball

The "Honest Johns" came up with a thrilling game of the Y Junior Basketball House League Saturday defeating the "Little Rotund Dogs" 41 to 39. At the start of the game the Honest Johns showed their defeat as they had three players to match the Hound Dogs' full team of seven players. Dogs' full team of seven players. Dogs' first three score was 14 to 10 in favor of the Honest Johns. The sharp shooting of Stewart Wilson led the Honest Johns to victory. High scorers for the game were Wilson with 2, Hook 23, R. Doogan 12.

The second game saw the last place "Y" Squad defeat the Nightriders in a well played game 41 to 27. Ted Lindsay played a brilliant game both defensively and offensively scoring six alone to lead the "Y" Crowd to their second victory. High scorers for the game were T. Hook 40, D. Skinner 25, B. Detroit's Gordie Howe moved closer to Montreal's Jean Beliveau Thursday night in the National Hockey League scoring race.

The big right winger picked up two assists as the Red Wings pumped Boston 5-3 and moved to within three points of the Montreal centre, leading the league with 49.

Although he failed to score, Howe still leads the league in goals with 23. In the playmaking department, Beliveau's 26 assists are tops.

Ted Lindsay, Howe's linemate, scored once Thursday night and is in third spot with 16 goals and 25 assists.

Players Cavort In Underwear In Bowl Game

MONTREAL (CP) — Underwear-clad football players are to take to a snowy field New Year's Day in the seventh annual Garbage Bowl game.

Since 1950 "Canada's only official bowl game" has collected more than $10,000 for crippled children. Traditional garb is long underwear worn over regular equipment.

Players are drawn from suburban Montreal West and must be under 21. Due to heavy going in snow and ice, a combination of Canadian and American rules are used.

Northern Combines and Southern Bombers are the event's perpetual foes. Coaching the Combines are Johnny Newman, former McGill ace; Tex Coulter of Montreal Alouettes and Georg Cook, a Garbage Bowl veteran. Bombers' coaching staff consists of ex-Alouette Ray Ciela and Tom Hugo, all-star centre for the Als.

Will Attempt To Nullify Life-Time Ban

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Boxing matchmaker Babe McCoy said Thursday he will go to court in an attempt to nullify a life-time ban imposed on him by the California athletic commission.

McCoy and his attorney, Jules Covington, expressed confidence the court will overrule the commission.

The complete text of the commission hearings which he called a "kangaroo court"—will be submitted to a judge for court action.

McCoy was banned after hearing "fixed" bouts, illegally collecting portions of fighters' purses and other violations of regulations.

No Plans for Parker Fight

TORONTO (CP)—Trainer Joey Bagnato said Thursday night there are no definite plans for a British Empire heavyweight boxing championship bout between Joe Bygraves of England and James J. Parker of Barrie, Ont.

Bagnato, who owns part of Parker's contract, was commenting on a London report quoting Bygraves, the Hillsboldert, as saying he probably will accept an offer to defend his crown against Parker here in February.

Parker claims the Canadian version of the Empire title by virtue of a decision over the South African champ, Johnny Arthur.

Bagnato said Parker is heading for Arizona next week for sulphur spring treatment to an injured elbow.

It Was Close For 'Hurricane' Over Mederos

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Tommy (Hurricane) Jackson, top-rated heavyweight contender, punched out a unanimous but narrow 10-round decision over unranked Julio Mederos in Milwaukee Arena Thursday night. Jackson weighed 195¼, Mederos, 193¾.

Jackson, taking his 29th victory in 34 starts, was never able to build up a comfortable lead over the hard-hitting Cuban. The two judges awarded Jackson a favor by two-point margins. Referee Milt Goldstein gave Jackson a widest margin, 97-91.

Mederos staggered Jackson from Far Rockaway, N.J., several times but failed to press his advantage.

The Cuban had his best round in the seventh when he lashed a stiff right to Jackson's chin that sent the Hurricane staggering to his corner. Jackson grabbed and held on to stay out of the way of further damage until the bell sounded.

It was the 15th defeat for Mederos who has won 17 bouts, 15 by knockouts. He battled in two draws.

Four World Records Broken In Speed Trials

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Powerboat drivers hurtled four world speed records Thursday in the Mile Trials, a feature of the Orange Bowl festival.

Two of the drivers already held the speed records and bettered their own marks.

George Byers of Columbus, Ohio drove his seven-litre boat at 133.299 miles an hour to better a record of 128.496 he set Sept. 28.

Sid Street of Kansas City, Mo., broke his own record of 127.864 for 266 hydros by driving 132.809 miles an hour.

Chris Ensmiller of Miami broke the speed record for 36 cubic inch outboard runabouts twice, the first time with 37.522 miles an hour, and later with 37.664.

'Jobless' Jim Recruiting for Hamilton Cats

HAMILTON (CP) — Hamilton Tiger-Cats of the Big Four Football Club are on the coach yet for next season but former pilot Jim Trimble is doing his best to line up player prospects.

"It works this way," said club fathers around Jack Gaudaur, "while Jim will probably go to Indiana University and 'we haven't anyone yet, he is recruiting just as though he were returning."

Owner-director Ambrose Marzhall University star Bernie Faloney has been signed for the Tiger-Cats next year, but Trimble has been persuading a top-rated fullback, an end and a 235-pound lineman to sign.

Gaudaur also said prospects look "hopeful" for fitting Bill Quinlan, former Michigan State quarterback and centre, into Hamilton's 1957 plans.

Rosi, Vasquez Fight Tonight

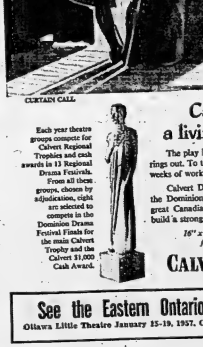
MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Two unranked but aggressive lightweights, Rudy Rosi of the Bronx and Baby Vasquez of Mexico City, clash tonight in a nationally televised fight regarded by rival camps as a stepping stone to more lucrative matches.



Rosi, a hard-hitter who is also effective as a counter-puncher, is an 8-5 favorite on the strength of 23 victories in 26 starts. Vasquez, the Mexican lightweight champion, has won 45 and lost 12.

Three Major TV Networks Will Carry Football Games

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—An investigative television viewer can consider himself thrice blessed if he has access to stations of the three major American networks this last weekend of the year.

If the gentleman who says he's glad he doesn't own a TV set will be quiet, we'll take a look at the extraordinary amount of football available on home sets these next few days. (All times are Eastern Standard.)

Pittsburgh and Georgia Tech kick off in the 'Gator Bowl at Jacksonville, Fla., Saturday at 1:45 p.m. on CBS-TV. At the same time, collegiate stars of the north meet southern stars in Montgomery, Ala., over NBC-TV in a reversal of the war between the states. At 4:45 p.m. east meets west in a clash of collegiate stars at San Francisco on NBC-TV.

On Sunday, NBC-TV brings the National Football League championship game between New York Giants, eastern conference winner, and Chicago Bears, western champs, at 1:45 p.m. from New York's Yankee Stadium.

On New Year's day the witching hour again is 1:45 p.m. on all three networks. ABC-TV brings Baylor vs. Tennessee in the Sugar Bowl. CBS-TV brings Syracuse vs. Texas Christian in the Cotton Bowl. Still racing down that football field, NBC-TV will focus its cameras on Iowa vs. Oregon State in the Rose Bowl at 4:45 p.m.

While NBC is out playing football Sunday afternoon, CBS-TV will take a long look at the year now dying. The three-hour session begins at 3 p.m., when there will be an hour-length review of major scientific advances in the last year. Both film and animation will be employed to tell some fascinating stories.

At 4 p.m. the network will recapitulate the biggest news events of 1956. At 5 p.m. Edward R. Murrow will serve as chairman of an hour-long symposium by CBS correspondents flown home from various parts of the world to evaluate the events of 1956.

NBC-TV, curiously, will not attempt to review or assess this year of history. ABC-TV's John Daly and his news staff will review the year at 8:30 p.m. Sunday.

And speaking of ABC-TV, the network currently is bringing an excellent documentary series Sundays at 3:30 p.m. from John Hopkins University. One who would like to learn something of the nature of art should tune to the discussion of What Is a Picture? on Sunday.

Tennis Head In Favor of Open Tourneys

ADELAIDE (AP)—Sir Norman Brookes, former president of the Lawn Tennis Association of Australia and now retired, surprised amateur tennis officials today when he said he favored open tournaments.

He said he thought matches between top amateur and professionals would create great public interest.

"If amateur and professional tennis groups continue to fight each other they can only harm the game," he added.

FORD GOES TO WINNIPEG

WINNIPEG (CP)—Jack Perrin, general manager of Winnipeg Warriors, said Thursday that winger George Ford of the Vancouver Canucks will join the Winnipeg club within a few days.

Perrin said he had received a telegram from the Vancouver club that Ford, 26-year-old native of Toronto recently purchased by Winnipeg, would be released as soon as centre Jackie McLeod recovers from injuries.

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

One way not to get an argument out of a bridge champion is to call him a superman of play. If he says anything at all it may be: "The only reason you are saying that is because it is true."

But even a superman in play has some limitations in what he can bid with a hand that holds absolutely nothing. These limits did not seem to apply, however, to a pair in the world championships.

Here is deal number 33:

♥8 7 6 5 4
♦10 7 6

WEST
♠J 10 9
♥K J 3
♦K J 8 3 2
♣8 7 3

EAST
♠K 8 3 3
♥A Q 9 5
♦A 9

SOUTH
♠A Q 7 6
♣A K Q 6 5 2

Where a European pair sat south and north against an American pair the bidding went like this:

| South | West | North | East |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1 ♠ | Pass | 1 ♥ | Double |
| 1 ♠ | 2 ♦ | Pass | 3 ♦ |
| Pass | Pass | Pass | |

Maybe I should be coy and modest by saying: "In answer to an opening one bid perhaps I am too dense to see the sense of a north responding bid with a hand so worthless."

But I am neither modest nor dense when it comes to bridge and I shall see no excuse for it. If there is anybody within the sound and fury of this column who can defend it, tell me.

In the other room was a pair from the American team occupying the south and north seats. Bidding there went like this:

| South | West | North | East |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1 ♠ | Pass | Pass | Double |
| Redble 1 ♦ | Pass | Pass | 2 ♦ |
| Pass | Pass | Pass | |

In both rooms the pairs showed the brilliance of which they are capable by stopping at a short contract in diamonds. Next time you read me here you will get profound advice on this subject.

June 22 to July 21 (Cancer) — Happy and fruitful influences now. Good intentions should be carried through to insure fine returns. Especially favored are artistic and family matters, activities to build health.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — If necessary work is not on your schedule today, enjoy some diversion, health — improving activity, study, reading, music, etc.

August 24 to September 23 — (Virgo) — Many things are favored on this enlivening day. If some matters move slowly, a little extra effort will do the trick. Be patient; press only where you should, but also wait where you must.

September 24 to October 23 — (Libra) — An upward tendency in most activities; generally propitious for settling old problems, also launching new enterprises. Attend to important matters first, however.

October 24 to November 22 — (Scorpio) — You should be able to do especially well in tasks requiring skill, in matters involving family or group management. Do whatever you must — but without strain.

November 23 to December 21 — (Sagittarius) — New angles, unexpected circumstances may cause changes in plans. Don't let them excite or upset you. Accept careful and feasible suggestions, and maintain your sense of humor.

December 23 to January 20 — (Capricorn) — Generally encouraging rays. Opportunities to further worthwhile goals. Good judgment could be the balancing power of day's activities — with fine results.

January 21 to February 19 — (Aquarius) — Your desire to do something to improve your situation can be granted if you are eager and ready to make the needed effort and sacrifice. Nothing risked, nothing gained.

February 20 to March 20 — (Pisces) — Maritime, matters, handling foods, canned goods, manufacture of necessities, dealing in medicines, confidential and secretarial work especially favored now, but all lines can show gain.

You born today are strong, dependable and likeable. You have the ability to handle small or large business undertakings; make excellent leaders in industrial organizations, can achieve in scientific matters, research, chemistry, medicine, surgery. In fact, you can make a profitable career in any honorable field. Many skilled mechanics, builders and cattle raisers are of Capricorn. Curb any tendencies toward moodiness. Look on the hopeful and cheerful side always. Birthdate: Andrew Johnson, 17th U.S. pres.; Wm. E. Gladstone, British statesman.

ENGINEER.

Killed were engineer Sam Robiesberg and fireman Paul Lafontaine, both of Montreal. They were trapped in the cab of the locomotive and the fire department which arrived on the scene almost 1 a.m. had to use acetylene torches to get the bodies out.

Hollenberg was pronounced dead shortly after the mishap by the woman physician, Dr. Ida Fitz - Hunter of Montreal, who managed to squeeze into the cab. Also killed was Fred Lafontaine's body.

ONTARIO GIRL HURT

Miss Ruth Reed, of whom were seriously hurt, included an airwoman, Miss Ruth Reed, daughter of Kirkfield, Ont. She was one of 25 airwomen in the first two divisions to be transferred from shock.

Others injured identified were: ACI J. E. Aastrup of Vernon, B.C., with a leg injury; Edward Kelly, Montreal, leg injury; John Graham, Cornwall, Ont.; and Wesley Hamilton, 19, Vulcan, Alta. Fay, Graham and Weatherburn required hospital treatment.

Also hurt, but not seriously, was Cpl. T. G. Green, 33, of Merrickville, Que.

The accident disrupted service on the line described as a main feed line from Montreal through Belleville to Vancouver points. Until the line is cleared, possibly tonight or Saturday, trains will be routed over the Canadian National line.

The wrecking crews had their work cut out for them. They were started at a light snowfall Thursday night turned into a blinding blizzard as they arrived.

They were directed by O. A. Peterson, general CNR superintendent, who described the scene as "really a mess."

Most of the passengers were awake at the time of the mishap, but Mrs. Reed said the explosion was no panic.

Lt. Hi Strickland, 47, of Montreal, a porter on one of the sleepers carrying airwomen, said it was surprising no more were killed.

"I can't really say how all this happened," he said. "but thank heaven it wasn't more serious. I was just starting to look out the window and saw sparks flying and just braced myself. I'm okay otherwise or I wouldn't be in this station."

PRAISES COOLNESS

A senior RCAF official on the train praised the airwomen, mostly young and new to the service, for coolness.

"They behaved well. No panic, and they organized and helped each other as soon as the shock was over," he said.

On word of the mishap, all available ambulances in the Montreal area were dispatched to the scene. The nearby Laprairie fire department also moved up when it was feared that the locomotive's boiler would explode.

CPR WILL COUNTER

"If the brotherhood accepted the report of the board of conciliation none of the 2,850 firemen now employed by Canadian Pacific would be put out of a job or suffer any loss of privileges. This is no strike to protect the rights of firemen but to prevent the necessity for Canadian Pacific but, likewise, attempt to compel Canadian Pacific to hire new men as firemen in the future, when they are not needed. Such compulsion would be entirely inconsistent with the public duty of Canadian Pacific to provide efficient and economical transportation service. Accordingly, Canadian Pacific is standing by the report of conciliation board."

Top-Level Talks On Threatened Rail Strike Start

Labor Minister to Meet Rail President, Union

OTTAWA (CP) — Immediate hopes of staving off a tieup of the CPR's transcontinental rail system were pinned today on a conference in Ottawa. Labor Minister Gregg will meet the presidents of the company and of the firemen's union that has called a Jan. 2 strike.

The three key figures were to meet here this morning at the invitation of the labor department — and were expected to confer on government suggestions for avoiding a stoppage that would threaten a first major rail tieup since the general strike of 1950.

The government's proposals — and .it was understood officials here had a number of tentative ideas—were kept secret. So were the place and the exact time of the meeting.

But it was understood the minister and his advisers would be going into the meeting without any hard-and-fast formula in lay before the disputants, in the hope that something could be evolved from the discussions that would be acceptable to both parties.

SUSPENSE SPECULATION

There was speculation that, barring any immediate agreement on differences, it would be suggested to the company and union that the dispute be left suspended for a time being while a joint committee of both parties conducted a fresh investigation of the problem.

The government's thinking at the moment, it was believed, was that it would not itself have representation on such a body but would leave it to the CPR and the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engiemen (CLC).

The Brotherhood has called a strike for about 7,000 of its members on the CPR in protest against a company decision to reduce the number of firemen in diesel locomotive operations.

The company has begun preparations to close off its whole rail system at the time of the start of the strike, set for 4 p.m. local time Wednesday across the country.

Expectation in official circles here was that the three-way conference would not produce an immediate breaking of the impasse. The CPR and the union are so diametrically opposed that any sudden solution is regarded as almost impossible at this stage.

"We don't look for more than creating a favorable atmosphere for discussion at the moment," one high federal official said.

He hoped it was that the disputants might bey brought into the frame of mind where they could go back to the bargaining tables and union headquarters and work out a settlement which in turn would obviate further—and possibly stiffer—federal action.

Neither party was not expect the meeting here would last longer than today.

Apart from the labor minister, the participants are CPR President H. R. Crump and W.E. Gamble, Canadian head of the international railroad brotherhood. The strike call last week. They travelled alone in the overnight on separate CPR trains.

Wave of Vinegar Got Housewives In a Pickle

BIRMINGHAM, England (AP) A tidal wave of vinegar got the housewives of Tower Road in a pickle Friday night.

A 20-foot high vat at a factory burst and poured 45,000 gallons of vinegar down the road.

Housewives manned their brooms and sought to sweep back the onrushing flood. They tried to barricade their houses with carpets piled at the doors.

But, said Mrs. Doris Jenny, who lives near the pickle works, soon the vinegar began burbling up through drains and squirted all over the place.

Firemen finally diverted the river of vinegar and began pumping out cellars.

'Cold Fusion' New Way to Get Atomic Energy

MONTEREY, Calif. (AP) A new way of producing atomic energy has been unfolded to the American Physical Society.

It is known as "cold fusion," and still is only a laboratory phenomenon. Other than two atomic principles require uranium or the millions-odd degrees of heat needed for thermonuclear reactions.

Dr. Luis W. Alverez of University of California, who headed the discovery group, says energy produced thus far by the new method has been barely enough to be measured, and has involved only a few hundred atoms of hydrogen.

No uranium is used.

"BUBBLE CHAMBER"

The observations were made while using the university's bevatron at Berkeley, Calif., the most powerful atom smasher in the world. A 10-inch "bubble chamber" filled with liquid hydrogen was used with the bevatron.

Dr. Alvarez said photographs show that when the bevatron's beam boiled in the bubble chamber it formed tiny bubbles along the track of any charged particle that went through it.

Dr. Alvarez and his associates concluded, in formulating the basic third method of producing atomic energy, that an atomic particle called a negative mu meson could together the nuclei of a heavy hydrogen atom and a tight hydrogen atom and fuse them into a helium atom.

In the method described by Dr. Alvarez the mu meson's energy cannot continue long enough to generate commercially useful amounts of energy because into other particles after a millionth of a second.

The scientists say the possibilities are "interesting." The Russian physicist, Alikhanin, has reported evidence that a particle exists which might make the process practical, but not actual discovery has been made.

NEGRESS WOUNDED BY GUNFIRE IN BUS DISPUTE

New Outburst of Racial Violence in States

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—A Negro woman was shot in both legs while riding an integrated city bus here Friday night and a high school band director was beaten by hooded men near Camden, S.C. in new outbursts of racial violence in the southern states.

Besides the beating of the band director, who is not a Negro, Camden police reported a 63-year-old man was shot and wounded by a similarly hooded gunman. His identity was withheld.

Mrs. Mary Jones, 22, was the first victim of gunfire in the spreading southern controversy over integrated city buses.

She was reported in fair condition.

INVESTIGATION

Investigators said a bullet, apparently from a pistol, slammed into the vehicle near the floor, passed through her left leg and lodged in the right leg.

Other white and Negro passengers escaped injury and were taken by police headquarters for questioning.

SAFETY PRECAUTION

When the bus resumed its run it was fired on again, but no one was injured in the second attack. As a safety precaution, all city bus runs halted for the night.

The Montgomery bus boycott serious incident in the Alabama capital. Many city buses were integrated under federal court order eight days ago.

Guy Hutchins, 52-year-old Camden high school band director, described how a band of hooded men tied him to a tree and then shot him aboard after he stopped to change a tire Thursday night 15 miles north of Camden. He was returning from a television appearance at Charleston, S.C., at the time.

Hutchins said the men told him they were administering the beating because he had refused to let racial integration before a Lions Club auxiliary meeting. Hutchins said he had never made any prointegration remarks anywhere.

SEPARATE BUS

At Tallahassee, Fla., separate transportation apparently was arranged for 101 white students who boarded a Negro transit bus to attend a Negro church. The minister and his wife who were occupying a front seat.

The Rev. W. Woods told reporters he kept his seat when the bus stopped Friday to go to the rear. The driver conferred with a passenger, then told the group while passengers, "you get off the bus—we've got a man who'll take you." The minister said the two then left the bus.

This was the latest development in a campaign by the Negro Interracial Civic Council to integrate Tallahassee's buses.

Given Another Year

36 Bomb Scares in 24 Hours Snow Under New York Police

NEW YORK (AP)—Police today pursued their all-out hunt for New York's "mad bomber" after being snowed under by 36 bomb scares in a 24-hour period.

Things got so bad by late Friday that Chief of Detectives James B. Leggett abruptly curtailed the activities of his bomb squad. He ordered the 34-man squad to respond only to those calls in which a suspicious object had been found.

One man questioned in the investigation died of a heart attack.

A suspicious object was found early today in the Times Square Theatre. The 2-foot pipe object capped at both ends but found to contain only wadded paper, was found lying near the stage.

The theatre official who made the discovery summoned police, who found it harmless. Some 250 persons in the movie house at the time were unaware of the incident.

Friday's wave of calls, attributed by police to cranks and crackpots, kept authorities in an almost continuous state of activity. At one juncture calls were pouring in at the rate of a minute, at the rate of one a minute.

The alarms sent police scurrying around the city into skyscrapers, subway stations, theatres, churches, hotels and bus and rail terminals.

The cased police to intensify their hunt for the diabolical "mad bomber" who has planted some 33 bombs in the city since 1940. Twenty-two have exploded, killed people."

injuring 15 persons, but no deaths have resulted. Rewards totalling $26,000 have been posted for the maniac's capture.

The discovery which caused the greatest alarm occurred Friday night at Madison Square Garden where some 10,000 persons were attending a college basketball tournament. A suspicious-looking pipe object, wrapped in a white sock, was found in a lower-level lavatory of the arena.

A Garden security official raced out of the structure with the device and depositied it in a parking lot. Police later found it to contain nothing more harmful than a firecracker.

Similar devices were found throughout Friday at Macy's department store, a doorway of a private home in Queens, a Manhattan movie theatre and the Grand Central terminal. All were fake bombs, fashioned to look like the authentic article.

Only two legitimate bombs have been found since Monday when the first explosive device was found in the city's main public library. The device was discovered early Friday in the Paramount Theatre in Times Square. Both missiles were traced to the "bomber."

They were detonated Friday by police and army ordnance experts who set them off with charges on the Atlantic Ocean.

An army officer said the force of each explosion "could have

Thousands of Homes Burned In Uprising on Celebes Island

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — Word of an uprising on Celebes Island was received here today. Celebes is the fourth largest of the Indonesian island republic archipelago. Unconfirmed reports say army factions already are defying Jakarta's rule.

Unlike the bloodless coup on Sumatra, informed sources said the Celebes uprising was a violent demonstration that left thousands of homes burned to the ground. No deaths were reported, however.

Details were sketchy, but there was no indication that the Celebes rebels had designs on national power, or that the uprising was connected with the Sumatra crisis that already has barred the government of Premier Ali Sastroamidjojo. Through the eight years of Indonesia's independence there have been isolated rebellions staged by religious groups also wanting to set up separate states, but none ever posed a threat to the Jakarta government.

Some Celebes islanders had expressed open sympathy with last week's army-led revolt in Sumatra.

GETS SUPPORT

On the central government political front, meanwhile, Sastroamidjojo got some much needed backing in his fight to retain power.

Two of the three leading Parties in Sastroamidjojo's coalition government have acted they will remain in his cabinet.

The government was shaken severely in the first days after army leaders seized power in Sumatra and Central Sumatra in bloodless coup last weekend.

UN SALVAGE TEAM BEGINS CLEARANCE OF SUEZ CANAL

Expected to Be Long Complicated Operation

SUEZ (AP)—A United Nations salvage team today began the job of clearing major obstructions from the southern entrance to the blocked Suez Canal.

The salvage work had been expected to start Friday, Aides of Lt.-Gen. Raymond A. Wheeler, in charge of the canal project for the United Nations, arrived in Suez with instructions to launch the operation immediately. But an official of the Egyptian Suez Canal Authority said no orders to start the work had been received from his headquarters at Ismailia, half way up the canal.

Sunken ships, damaged bridges and other debris still litter the channel, wreckage of the Suez fighting that lasted only six days nearly two months ago. Clearing them out is expected to be a long and complicated operation.

The first salvage work is expected to be only taken port portions. A spokesman for the Egyptian Authority said it would deal with only three or four obstructions.

PARTIAL ANSWER

Egypt originally said the salvage work could proceed with the Israelis out Egyptian soil, but Thursday agreed to permit the U.N. to begin operations.

In portial explanation of the about-face, Foreign Minister Fawzi the Egyptians had told him "they must clear mines before we can proceed with the clearance."

TO MAKE APPEAL

Eisenhower has been reported ready to throw the full force of his administration behind appeals to the congressional leaders to back this idea:

1. Specific stand-by authority, similar to that voted him to deal with the formosa crisis in early 1955, to use U.S. troops in the Middle East if he deems it necessary.

2. A far-reaching economic aid program for the Middle East, perhaps totalling as much as $500,000,000, which would be split both Israel and the Arab countries in their own interests and that they would end their bitter rivalry.

Although Eisenhower is reported strongly in favor of Dulles' idea, it could not be said he will decide not to press it if the congressional leaders give it a cold reception.

Eisenhower Tests Reaction To Plan For Middle East

Would Offer Economic Aid While Keeping Troops Ready

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States administration tested the wind of congressional and public reaction today to a double-barrelled idea for keeping Middle East peace with military pressure and vast economic aid.

State Secretary Dulles, who worked out the idea, is expected to unveil it officially with President Eisenhower on a New Year's Day conference with Democratic and Republican leaders of the Senate at the White House.

The suggestion was allowed to "leak" to some reporters. In that way, the administration hoped it would come as a complete surprise to the legislators on Tuesday, and that the public would be prepared for possible new U.S. policy moves in the troubled Middle East.

GIVES REDS NOTICE

Purpose of the idea—still too tenuous to be called a proposal is understood to be primarily this: To put Russia on notice that any Middle East aggression will not go unchallenged.

Russia during the time of the Canal has coveted the Middle East's warm-water ports. Now it has designs on Egypt's Aswan as added lure. With British and French influence virtually gone in the Middle East, new and bolder Soviet economic and military intrusion is considered likely.

Britain and France have been urged by U.S. leaders to fill the power vacuum before Russia does.

TO MAKE APPEAL

Eisenhower has been reported ready to throw the full force of his administration behind appeals to the congressional leaders to back this idea:

1. Specific stand-by authority, similar to that voted him to deal with the formosa crisis in early 1955, to use U.S. troops in the Middle East if he deems it necessary.

Change in Wind Gives Firemen Chance to Win

MALIBU, Calif. (AP) — A change in winds today gave firemen a better chance of getting control soon over the third disastrous fire to strike the Santa Monica Mountains in less than a week.

State officials and firemen of two counties—Los Angeles and Ventura—made this tally at the rampage in the brush-covered mountains:

Destroyed—43 homes.

Burned—more than 2,000 acres and timber—37,000 acres.

The three fires in brief:

One whipped through Lake Sherwood Friday, burning half a dozen homes in a matter of minutes, sending animals swimming for their lives in the lake and scorching the area's fire station.

Another sudden blaze flared up near Malibu Friday night, burning homes a few hundred yards from the Pacific Coast highway.

JUMP HIGHWAY

In the biggest of them all, a 26,500-acre burn at Zuma Beach, north of here, beach-front mansions were spared but flames which leapt across the four-lane coast highway.

Fierce desert winds, the scourge of crews along miles of the fires, died early today.

For the first time in almost a week a mild sea breeze drifted across the mountains, giving hopes of bringing the fire Sherwood fire under control.

Shipping Sets New Record

Vessels clearing the canal numbered 8,953, compared to 8,388 in 1955.

A general increase in the quantity of bulk commodities carried boosted tonnage from 23,068,850 to 25,833,232, the previous record tonnage.

Biggest jump in tonnage was recorded in iron ore shipments, totalling 5,273,842 tons compared to 1955's 4,403,838.

Cairo Paper Says Kidnapped Briton Suffocated While Hidden in Closet

CAIRO (Reuters) — The semi-official Egyptian newspaper Al Gomhouria says the kidnapped British army officer, 2nd Lieut. Anthony Moorhouse died of suffocation while being hidden in a cupboard during the search for him in Port Said.

It declares that the person responsible for the death was the British commander, Lt. - Gen. Hugh Stockwell, who ordered a house-to-house search of the Port Said Arab quarter after the 21-year-old officer was discovered dead and buried in Port Said.

Al Gomhouria says Moorhouse's captors bound and gagged him and put him in a cupboard when the search by British troops started.

When all the inhabitants were ordered into the streets, "naturally the man or woman who hid the house were not going to risk their lives by trying to release him, so he was left waiting until the house left the district."

The body was returned to the building and opened the cupboard the captive was dead. He had been dead for some time and it was obvious he had died of asphyxia.

Moorhouse was captured three days after the Christmas Day ambush of a British member of Parliament, Cyril Banks, said after a visit to Egypt that Moorhouse had been told him "with great sorrow" that the officer was dead and buried in Port Said.

Al Gomhouria says Moorhouse was kidnapped by the fedayeen (commandos) while he was trying to remove photographs of President Nasser from the walls of some buildings.

"It was the intention of his captors to hand him over to the British on the day of their evacuation.

New Year's Eve Night Out Will Be More Expensive This Year

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The high cost of living high comes out like a popping champagne cork on New Year's Eve, promising to celebrate New Year's Eve in Canada's night spots Monday night.

Prices in ritzy nightclubs in Canada's cities are generally up from last year, one of the most expensive being in Toronto where celebrated, a Canadian Press survey shows.

Montreal Maritime and Prairie centres report house parties be popular, many predicting that the night clubs generally expect capacity crowds.

In larger cities, clubs have lined up high-priced floorshow talent, much of it imported from the United States, to bolster their evening's entertainment.

Vancouver's celebrants can expect to pay up to $25 a person, with one hotel setting a price of supper and tax. Another night spot is charging $11 a couple, with dinner starting at $2.50.

Reservations are reported lighter than last year, with house parties replacing night clubbing.

In Alberta, hotels and service clubs have parties arranged with prices ranging from $10 to $15 a couple. One Edmonton hotel expects a capacity crowd at $15 a price tag on its entertainment.

In Saskatchewan evening of dinner, drinks, favors, dancing and the trimmings is being offered for $20 a couple.

Regina reports house parties are going to be the favored way of celebrating. Outside entertainment will cost up to $15 a couple, with favors thrown in.

Service clubs and smaller centres, particularly centres in Saskatchewan, report party plans starting at $2 a person.

Seek Building For Home for Fire Victims

A fire on the night of December 15th at the home of Erskine Smith on Highway 62 resulted in a complete loss of the home and its contents. The youngest of the Smith children received severe burns and was removed to the Hospital for Sick Children in Toronto.

Temporary accommodation was provided in a local hotel for the family and food was supplied by a nearby restaurant. On the following Monday morning a group of Mr. Kraft's fellow employees, through the cooperation of the Disaster Committee of the Canadian Red Cross Society, was fortunate in obtaining a small home through a very generous citizen who gave the house rent-free for one month. Mr. Kraft's fellow employees have since been busy and made the home comfortable, a water supply was provided, furniture, bedding, dishes and other articles were obtained through the established efforts of St. Michael's W.S., St. Joseph's W.S. and C.W.L., the Salvation Army, citizen store merchants and private individuals to equip the home. With this help the Smiths had a Christmas complete with dinner, gifts and trimmings through the Belleville Fire Department, gifts and toys for the children.

In the meantime, a fund was set up through the donations of employees of various companies and others, with a committee being appointed to supervise the handling of the fund to ensure the best possible use of the money to aid the family.

The Northern Electric Club, in which Mr. Kraft is active, this family and for Mr. Kraft's fellow employees, would like to obtain a small home in Belleville that could be moved or bought complete and ready to live in. The structure would have to be at least 400 to 500 square feet of floor space and in a good state of repair. It is felt that the fund administered by the committee for a permanent home would benefit the family most.

The club would appreciate learning of any such home or structure that can be made available.

Kindly send all information to: Erle Kraft Fund, c/o Mr. R. Buskard, 53 Chatham Street, Belleville, or telephone WO 2-9350.

Rotarians Hosts To Blind People

Following a custom which has been carried on for a number of years, the Rotarians were again hosts to the blind residents of the city and district at a Christmas dinner in S. Andrew's Presbyterian Church on Thursday evening. The Harmony group, under the leadership of Mrs. Williamson, provided a bountiful turkey dinner, and the gaily decorated hall and Christmas crackers which produced paper hats added a festive air.

Mr. T. J. Flurey, chairman of the Hastings County Rotary Group, presided. Mr. E. Gurnett, president of the Rotary Club spoke of the pleasure at being present and welcomed the guests, who included several Rotarians, members of the advisory board, field-secretary F. C. Timmins and his assistant, Miss Paddon. Those who provided the entertainment, the blind members and their sighted escorts.

The transportation arrangements were looked after by Mrs. George Wishart and the program was planned by Mrs. H. Rollins.

Brigadier Flamigan of the Salvation Army said grace before the banquet. The singing of Christmas carols was led by Mr. G. Wishart.

The program consisted of a fine reading by Miss Madeline Young, which was a Christmas story section; some excellent violin and piano arrangements by Mr. Barnett Taylor and Raymond Taylor, which included the selections as "Ave Maria;" "Claire du Lune;" and a Dutch family with imitations of the baby, dog and cat. To satisfy a popular demand, father and son played the "Hot Canary" with their customary skilful technique.

Mrs. Ray Lennox and Mr. E. Fairman conducted several contests. An oral one concerning words ending in "ly" was won by three. Paper and pencils were given out for a game which consisted of making words out of Merry Christmas, won by Clarence Morris and Miss Black.

Expressions of thanks were voiced by Mr. P. L. Timmins, to the Rotary Club; by Mrs. Burrows, president of the White Cane Club, to the board; and by Mr. Flurey to the ladies who catered for the banquet.

Trenton Para-Rescue Squad Jumps to Aid of Three Men

KAPUSKASING (CP) — The three-man crew of a two-engined amphibian plane which crashed Thursday night in dense Northern Ontario bushland awaited rescue by helicopter today.

Pilot James Chambers were slightly injured when the aircraft glided down to earth through a thick belt of trees 30 miles northwest of Timmins. The third man was uninjured.

Standing by with them were two men of an RCAF para-rescue team dropped to the scene by parachute.

Pilot James Hobbs, 42, of South Porcupine suffered broken ribs and a broken or sprained ankle. Co-pilot James Pengelly, 36, of Timmins suffered sprained ankles. Engineer Stanley Kramer of Timmins escaped without injury.

The plane, which cut a 100-yard swath through the trees, was badly damaged. Owned by Austin Airways, it was en route from Kapuskasing to Timmins, a 65-mile flight, when the crash occurred. The cause has not been determined.

The downed aircraft was sighted Friday morning by a search plane. Later in the day RCAF Jack Girden and LAC Cyril Liggens of the RCAF station at Trenton, Ont., were dropped to the scene. The RCAF plane also dropped tents, sleeping bags, medical supplies and food.

Shortly after the para - rescue team reached the stranded fliers, chief pilot James Bell of Austin Airways and engineer Gordon Coles arrived at the crash scene. They had snowshoed from a near-by lake where they landed in a light aircraft.

Mr. Bell said all three fliers were in excellent condition.

Kadar Will Try His Torturer

BUDAPEST, Hungary (AP)— The state prosecutor announced Friday he is completing an indictment against Gen. Mihaly Farkas and his son Vladimir, notorious Stalin Era Purgers, and several former high officials of the secret police.

Farkas, minister of defence during the regime of former dictator Matyas Rakosi, was ousted from the Communist Party last spring for his role in investigations leading to the forced trial of the executed former foreign minister, Laszlo Rajk, and other Titoist victims.

Vladimir Farkas was a former Russian Army officer and after the Second World War was a colonel in AVH, the secret police. He is accused of having personally tortured Janos Kadar, the present premier, after Kadar's arrest in 1950. Mihaly and Vladimir Farkas were arrested in mid-October.

Police Bluster

Both city and provincial police reported a comparatively quiet night with Christmas Eve police reporting no accidents since Thursday.

In the city two accidents were reported, one at the intersection of Victoria Avenue and Bridge resulting in damage of approximately $1,200 to two vehicles. The second mishap was on College Street near College Manor.

The first accident, which occurred Friday noon, saw vehicles driven by Thomas McDonnell, driver for Black's Wholesale, and Donald J. Allison, R.R. Belleville collide. The Black Wholesale vehicles was proceeding north on Bleecker, while the Allison car was eastbound on Victoria.

A window cleaner was reported from 52 Charlotte Street, but when police investigated the prowler could not be located. Again on Bridge Street, a girl complained of being followed by a man. A description of the man was given to police.

NEWSPAPERS UP PRICES

VIENNA (Reuters) — Austrian publishers announced today that newspapers will go up in price by 10 to 40 per cent starting next week.

Govt. Decides To Hold Line On Interest Rate

OTTAWA (CP) — Despite the sharp drop in the supply of mortgage money, authorities say the government has decided to hold the line, for the time being, on the interest rate ceiling for insured housing loans.

That ceiling under the National Housing Act is 6½ per cent. For some weeks, federal quarters have been suggesting that it be ceiling to, say, six per cent as a means of encouraging more money into the housing field.

But the view now is that a ceiling of that sort would cool under the Housing Act might not now encourage much more money for insured mortgages. Some builders are reported to be paying up to seven per cent for non-insured conventional loans.

The main fear is that by boosting the NHA rate at this time, the government would, in effect, be giving the green light to a petition for credit, possibly averaging an even higher rate for conventional mortgages.

"The situation will be reviewed from week to week," said one housing authority who intimated that, pending a new source of mortgage money.

But in the last few months, the chartered banks gradually reduced such loans, diverting more of their funds into other, more attractive, fields.

In November, for example, the number of insured loans made by banks dropped to 440 from 2,906 a year ago. The total NHA loans by all lenders, including insurance companies and loan companies, slumped to 1,015 from 4,496 last year.

The report of a sharp drop follows the prediction of Trade Minister Howe that there will be a "significant" decline in house building next year.

Road Building Hits Record Pace This Year

OTTAWA (CP) — Trans-Canada highway construction hit a record pace in 1956 and a still-faster rate is forecast for 1957.

Works Minister Winters, in a review of the progress of the 4,- 500-mile project, said that 1956 was a banner year.

A total of 336 miles was paved and 341 miles graded and total commitments for 1956 was about $82,000,000. Of this the federal share was about $50,000,000, including payments of 90 per cent of the cost of some vital links as provided in an agreement signed with the participating provinces this year.

STAKES BIGGER SHARE

The federal government also increased to $250,000,000 from $150,000,000 the total funds it will make available for its share of the cost. Cost of other work continues to be shared on a 50-50 basis.

Ontario, whose 1,412 miles of highway route is the biggest of any province, has paved 385 miles to date and graded 441. Ontario still has a gap of 164 miles along the route between Agawa and Marathon but 108 miles of this now is under contract. The federal government is contributing 90 per cent, leaving a total of 136 miles of this gap.

The new agreement signed by Ontario designates the route through Sault Ste. Marie, along the north shore of Lake Superior to White River and thence to Marathon. But Ontario has undertaken to build a good standard road to Chapleau and complete it by the time the Trans-Canada highway becomes a reality.

IN MEMORIAM

GRAY. — In loving memory of my dear husband, William Harold Gray, who passed away December 29th, 1953.

Sadly you suffer, I heard you sigh
But all I could do was just stand by;
For when the time came, I arrived too late
Your lover deserved what you went through.
So you who have a husband,
Cherish him with care;
Don't make him a heartache,
Till you see his vacant chair.
—Sadly missed by his wife, Marjorie.

GRAY. — In loving memory of a beloved husband and father, William Harold Gray, who passed away December 29th, 1953.
Sadly you suffer, I heard you sigh
Your hungry heart was so many friends,
But all I could do was just stand by.
One of the best the world could hold,
Your cherished wife your heart of gold;
Always so good, unselfish and kind,
What a wonderful memory you left behind.
—Sadly missed by his wife Marjorie, and daughter June, son Lloyd and his wife Jean and grandchild.

A Lift for Living

Rekindling Enthusiasms

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

As we approach the end of 1956, let us think together of a quality which is essential to the success of the new year. That quality is enthusiasm. What a glowing fire is to a room, enthusiasm is to character. It is more than a decorative charm; it is a necessity for effective living. Without enthusiasm our virtues are pale and our lives lack power.

At the outset it should be said that enthusiasm, like fire, must be kept within certain bounds in order to be beneficial. The flames of zeal can sometimes leap up into the rafters of the mind, resulting in the hotheadedness of anger or fanaticism. Then there are superficial folk who are like matches needing only to be scratched to make them flare up — flash into momentary enthusiasms. Also, we know of mob enthusiasm which can sweep through crowds like a forest fire, leaving only destruction in its wake.

But enthusiasm under control becomes a radiance. A certain lady of my acquaintance is often spoken of as a radiant personality. She is not fanatically zealous. She is not emotionally effervescent. But through her being there surges a current of human interest which gives an incandescent light to her eyes, a warming glow to her smile and a kindling contagion to her goodness.

Such radiance of enthusiasm seems to come more naturally to some people than to others. Just as certain persons blush more easily than others, so some glow more quickly. And enthusiasm is expected in children.

But to preserve the natural radiance of enthusiasm through the years, to remain the lively kind of person young people like to have around—that is artistic living, that is Christlike living.

Before me is a letter from one who did not allow the cares of age to dampen his enthusiasm. The hardships heaped upon him God not bashed the fires of his spirit. He is writing from a prison on the eve of his expected death. Yet the purpose of his letter is to rekindle the enthusiasm of a young friend. And this aged Paul begins his message to young Timothy with the expression: "Stir up the gift of God which is in you." The verb used suggests the rekindling of a smoldering fire. And how well such a figure fits this business of reviving enthusiasm.

NO STAR FOR BABY APE

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Mayor M. E. Sensenbrenner Thursday ordered a 12-foot lighted star removed from the ape house of the Columbus zoo. The mayor and zoo officials said they had received complaints that the Christmas decoration was sacrilegious in that it was similar to the star of Bethlehem. It is above the home of the first baby gorilla ever born in captivity.

Days and Customs of all Faiths

Some New Year's Superstitions

By DR. HOWARD V. HARPER

Tuesday, Jan. 1 — You can bring whatever you want into your house today, but don't let anything go out. And that means anything. This superstition was so strong, as recently as 1870, people both in England and America would not allow even the ashes or the garbage to be taken out until Jan. 2.

It was probably this fear of letting anything go out of the house on New Year's Day which originally gave rise to the superstition about keeping the fire going. In the old days when no one had matches, the only way to rekindle a dead fire was to go to the neighbors and get new coals. But the man who wanted to borrow a coal on New Year's Day ran into a stone wall. The neighbor's were afraid to let him carry any fire out even to save his family from freezing. So it really was bad luck to let the fire go out.

Then they went one step further and said literally fire was even worse luck because it made one's living. This protected the householder from anyone who was driven to desperate measures: The unfortunate man would rather freeze than desecrate his home with an unholy flame.

POOR TODAY, POOR ALL YEAR

If your cupboard or your pockets are empty today you might as well get set for a whole year of poverty. Even intelligent people used to believe this. In one of his letters the great poet Robert Burns tells of floating a small loan to provide something on the shelf and in his purse over New Year's.

If you want money to come into your house during the new year—and who doesn't—put some out-of-doors the last thing before you go to bed New Year's Eve and bring it back in first thing in the morning.

LAST DRINK IS LUCKY

Perhaps a bit of the ritual New Year's Eve tippling is explained by the old idea that the last drink in the bottle on this night brings good luck to the one who gets it. After all, the only way to fulfill this requirement is for each man to have his own bottle and to be sure the last drink is consumed.

Your first New Year's visitor is tremendously important. You must be sure it is not a woman: That would mean terrible luck for the whole year. What you want is a man visitor, a dark-complexioned one. This mattered so much to people in the old times they took great pains to arrange for a brunet male visitor immediately after the stroke of midnight. This first guest was called a "First Footer," meaning the first person to set foot over the threshold in the new year. In some villages the people joined together and hired a sort of professional First Footer, a man with a reputation for being lucky, to be their first visitor.

CHRISTIAN COLLEGE STUDENTS

People who worry about "the present generation" should note that beginning last Thursday and continuing until Jan. 1, seven big meetings of Protestant college students are being held simultaneously in the United States. The single purpose of these seven regional meetings is to lead a nationwide cross-section of students in a co-

SOMETIMES THOUGHT IS A HINDRANCE

The other night, on a CBC television show, the question of athletes thinking while in action became the subject for debate. Several members of the panel doubted that thought played much part in game-winning plays.

Ralph Allen, editor of Maclean's Magazine, told of an incident involving Fritz Hanson, Mr. Twinkletoes from North Dakota who gave the West its first Grey Cup victory a couple of decades ago.

Hanson started on a sweep around one end, found the way barred by eager would-be tacklers, reversed his field, came to the other sideline to find his path still blocked, and turned back again. The way Allen told it, Hanson ran back and forth across the field for most of one quarter before being thrown for an eighty-yard loss.

When Winnipeg Blue Bombers were shown, the coach of the Fighting Sioux of North Dakota who gave the West its first Grey Cup victory a couple of decades ago.

That is the kind of anecdote which raises a chuckle but has no other effect unless its impact is reinforced by some personal experience.

That personal experience came Christmas morning, in the form of a new belt to replace the weary bit of leather which had been on watch amidship for many, many moons.

Now there is nothing to slipping a belt through the loops on a pair of trousers—nothing, that is, until it is time to stop and think about the business on a new belt and we start to think about the business on hand. We then become suddenly aware of the fact that there are two ends to a belt and that the ends are different. One ends in the buckle go? It was necessary to stop and think. In this case, thinking got us not until an hour the belt buckle to the left side. It was not until an hour later that the answer dawned, involving the recollection of a hunting knife with a loop small to slip easily over a belt buckle and the fact that this knife is habitually carried on the right hip, led the writer to the conclusion that the belt was on wrong.

Since this error with the belt has never occurred before in years in which last-minute dressing has been accomplished in the atmosphere of the twin crises of early-morning blues and early-morning hurry, it was obvious that the cause of the confusion was the new belt. But why should a new belt be more difficult to slip through the loops than an old one? The only possible explanation is that it was because the owner was thinking about it.

Is thought a hindrance? A moment's reflection will convince anyone that in many things which we do it is certainly no help.

Anyone can test this conclusion by simple experiments. Combing one's hair, putting on a coat, donning a hat, opening a door—doing anything which one has done hundreds of times before—it will be found that there are many little automatic motions involved. At first the reasons for all these motions will not be apparent. Thought, however, will reveal that each has a purpose. They make the task easier, or get it done more quickly, or guard against a mishap. All of them are made without conscious thought.

The point is not that anything we do really well involves an ability to act without thinking.

PUBLIC CAN ASSIST SPCA

Continual protests by the SPCA and an increasing number of letters to the editor in papers across Canada against acts of disgraceful cruelty to animals are indications that public opinion rather than words are required to halt these practices.

Reports are received from time to time that operators in some northern bush camps are attempting to get more than a fair share of work from their horses without giving the animals sufficient food, water and shelter.

A prevalent practice at these camps is to start the work horses to the point of death. When the horses reach the point of no return they are put out of their misery—not from mercy but because the operators do not want to lose them.

Some of these people seem to think that a bullet is too easy a way for a horse to die. Cases of brutality, lack of consciousness is matched by his lack of brains, recently charged his horse along behind his jeep by a skid chain for half a mile until it died in prolonged agony.

Fortunately the feeling of joy and mastery this sadist doubtless felt in conquering the animal was cut short by an observer—and a judge who gave the man a year in jail with labor. In punishing food and shelter for this animal torturer, the taxpayers are performing a mercy which should have been accorded the less fortunate but more deserving animal.

The SPCA is making a magnificent attempt to spot acts of unnecessary cruelty to animals occurring daily in all parts of Canada but lacks the facilities for sufficient personnel to bring these offenders to justice.

Grants from the government to strengthen the efforts of the SPCA through O.P.P. officers and a stern interpretation of justice, such as shown by the magistrate in the case mentioned case are steps in the right direction but much more is needed.

The public generally can assist in this work by reporting acts of cruelty to the police or writing to the SPCA, care of the district post office. Also a cheque to assist the society in its worthwhile efforts is something animal lovers can and should do.

BEING GOOD

This being good is dreary stuff.
I'm tired trying to be polite.
Of "thank you's!" I have said enough.
Right now I could enjoy a fight.
I've gone to bed when I've been told;
For Christmas I've been good as gold;
Next week I'll start to be myself.

All errands willingly I've run,
I've brought his slippers down for dad,
Some bits of housework I have done,
I want to start in being bad.

About the house I want to shout,
I've eaten spinach when I should,
Fore Christmas came I raced about,
But now I'm tired of being good.

There's fun in making too much noise;
I don't mind dirty face and hands.
But what delights her little boys
No mother ever understands.
I've answered promptly every peep-
I've gladly helped whene'er I could,
But I've grown weary after all.
I want to stop this being good.

Crises by the Dozen

New York Times

There are a couple of things which defy an accurate count. One of them is the sands of the sea, although if a thousand of them together there must be a good many of them. Another is the number of falling leaves which would have to come to rest in the gutters of an average-size house, there to pack themselves into solids which would defy removal. And then there is the number of crises which come up during the course of just any old day, crises which seem best on destroying what is left of the nervous system. These are countless indeed, but a fair guess is that they run somewhere between the sands and the leaves. The normal working day is never free of them, and much of the normal night is spent in topsy-turvy restlessness as the mind seeks to anticipate some of those which are scheduled for the morrow. What would life be like without them? Well, it is this way: Most crises are not real crises, but it would be good to be given a day to find out that for sure. Then, how peaceful, sleeping the clock around — just

The day's first crisis is self-imposed, and no doubt is set up as a sort of warm-up event for the more serious ones. It comes about when the alarm clock rings, and brings the question of whether to get up, turn it off and go back to bed, or to get up, turn it off and be late for the office. To be first in all of these will bring a little further rest, but to choose it is a troubled one. Not only does the conscience squirm, but the mind has a habit of becoming active over the many expected crises during the day just ahead. Sometimes it becomes these operating with both barrels, the one in anticipation and the other in follow in pencil. Usually it is in this hour of the ringing alarm clock that the making of a whole day of just sleeping offers the best solution to everything.

Crisis one leads as a matter of course to crises two and three. Due to the slight delay in getting up, there is time for only a cup of coffee at breakfast. To wait that extra few seconds will yield coffee, but it makes the breakfaster miss his train. That train usually is a few or two late, but can it be counted upon to be late this morning? Here is the breakfaster has his coffee, only to hear the whistle of the train as it leaves the station. On this occasion it is right on time, and despite a frantic gallop it loses a would-be passenger. As he waits for the next train, the passenger can look forward to a series of postponed appointments throughout the day. Since each postponement causes a crisis in two lives, and those affect others and so late out in all directions, it is impossible to estimate the total nerve strain.

The working day thus is well filled with crises, but even the day does not bring all those which they are over. Ever since school ended in mid-afternoon the children have been home. Then one crisis has followed another in rapid succession. Many of these can be wide in scope that solution has been withheld until responsibility can be shared with about supper time. Some of these are resolved despite the banging doors and threats, and it would be good indeed to be given a day to find them. Sleep? That brings up the matter of bedtime, and at what hour the mind will be set for the morning. Today it obviously was not too late — at least something happened to bring on all those crises. By setting it a little earlier, bang-up doors and threats, and it would be good indeed to be given a day to find them. Sleep? That brings up the matter of bedtime, and at what hour the mind will be set for the morning. Today it obviously was not too late — at least something happened to bring on all those crises. ## Red Students Not Robots

St. Catharines Standard

Russian university students, according to despatches from Moscow, are showing considerable interest about the revolts in Poland and Hungary and the growing sentiment against Russian satellites for independent Communist rule.

This interest includes the asking of daring questions on politics, art and literature.

It had been reported previously that students at Moscow University posted new bulletins of the British Broadcasting Corporation, which is a form of public revolt on the walls of their building.

Another report said that an entire class walked out of a lecture when a professor was downgrad after failing to get satisfactory answers to their questions on the Hungarian events.

Similar dispatches have reported an increasing tendency among Russian youth to indulge in independent thinking about Communist ideology, and what is happening not only in satellite countries in Europe but in the world at large.

There are indications that the Soviet government is planning to impose stricter discipline over university students and other young people in an attempt to get them back in the desired line of mind.

Whether they will succeed is a question mark. Independent thought in a country like Russia is dangerous. And once it has started, it is hard to stop.

The critical attitude of Russian youth must be especially disturbing to Soviet authorities because the young people will be the Communist party itself in the years to come.

The fact that the students are thinking for themselves is evidence that 40 years of Communism has not made Russia a country of robots.

'Scoting' Popular

St. Thomas Times-Journal

The girls of South Africa have solved the private transportation problem, according to a Johannesburg correspondent. Hundreds of them, unwilling to buy a car and yet wanting something better than a bicycle, have purchased cheap-looking motor scooters or autocycles. "Scooting" has taken a firm hold and is said to be increasing in popularity.

Modern Style Knight of Road

Ottawa Journal

The tramp used to be much more of an institution in Canada than it is today. He was a chap with a profound distaste for work who wandered over the countryside all summer, begging food at farm houses and sleeping in barns and haystacks, usually carrying his measure belongings in a small bundle suspended at a stick over his shoulder. When winter came he would seek refuge in the comfortable jail, committed as a vagrant, and the best jails were well known for the fraternity.

These days tramping as a way of life seems almost to have vanished. The hobo of the nineties are not dead. We read, for example, of a fellow who walked from Montreal to Vancouver, living on the country, counting on "hospitality" for his meals and beds, and who now proposes to walk down the coast of South America. It is a way of living, if not of making a living, and this fellow is the last to regard the

The Prince of Fairy Tales

By Nicholas Mika

Once upon a time there lived a little boy in the village of Odense in Denmark. He was so poor that he never had enough to eat and had to go barefoot through his father was a shoemaker.

But he was happy-go-lucky except for the fact that the children laughed at his long nose and stick-out ears. His secret wish was one day to become a great man, a singer or a dancer or maybe an actor. Then, instead of laughing at him, people would praise him and applaude and he would sing and dance until he was tired and have to stand on his feet.

In the meantime, however, his mother thought he should become a tailor since he was family with needle and thread. She had a wonderful imagination and she told him to work hard all her life as a seamstress and that would be the height of his wonderful future and when the children would listen to him, he would make up stories about flowers and trees and kept them so spellbound that they forgot for a while he was ugly looking.

When he was fourteen he packed his few belongings and full of hopes set out for Copenhagen. Hungry and homesome he soon found out that his talents were not enough. The people at the theatre mocked at his long and spindly legs and pointed their fingers at his trousers that were so short they only nearly reached below his knees. Finally he found employment in a local theatre as boyish voice, but one day as he grew older it had left its charm and with it went his hope to become a singer. All he possessed now was his warm and faithful heart. And in it there was no room for despair and darkness. When bad luck and misfortune seemed to overwhelm him he remembered the good fairies that his grandmother had told him about and they would always look after good people. He knew that one of these days the sun must be shining for him.

EDUCATED BY THE KING

And then it happened. Just like in a fairy tale. The King of Denmark heard about the strange boy who had so much ambition and wanted so badly to become a great man. At his request he was sent to school to be educated and learn the things he was denied as a boy. While he studied he began to write little stories in his spacetime about the fairies, the good and bad people, the children at home, about two farmers, Little Claus and Big Claus and the Princess and the Pea.

Around Christmas time a little book was printed. It was written in a simple language for children, but it warmed the hearts of old and young alike. It has had a hundred years now, but it will still be living in a thousand years to come bringing joy to every one who reads it. And so he became famous — not in the way he had dreamed of, as a singer or dancer. But with the magic charm of his fairy tales he conquered the whole world. Today his stories are translated in nearly as many as languages as the Bible and loved in every country know them by heart. And if you ask me why he is so popular, I can only think of one reason — they have been written by some one who must have known the fairies and lived and loved as wonderful imaginative, a joyful heart, a sensitive ear and an eye for beauty.

Hans Christian Andersen lived in a little room. Below him was a pond with a beautiful swan gracefully gliding through the water. Behind him was a garden with a high fence to keep up with him, but oh, how ugly looking he was! He had been born a long time. Memories came suddenly back to him . . . the little village street where the children ran and played and he was running behind them trying to catch up with them. But they turned around, made faces at him and threw stones at the ugly duckling. Look at him!

WON ADMIRATION

And now? Now people bowed to him and admired him. He wasn't ashamed of his long great he was and how the children loved him. A darling girl from America had sent him a dollar bill across the ocean because she had read his fairy tales. His old teacher who once treated him like a dog now considered him a shook hands with him and asked his forgiveness. The King and Queen invited him to sit with them at their dinner table. Now he was the famous . . . and an overwhelming joy filled his heart. When he finished writing the last sentence, he looked out the window once more and whispered: "I never dreamed of so much happiness when I was the Ugly Duckling.

And that was the story of the poor little boy that had become the King of Fairy Tales—Hans Christian Andersen.

Hans Christian Andersen appeared on Danish stamps in 1934.

Clogged Air Cleaner Upsets Carburetion

By EUGENE MILMOE

Among those New Year's resolutions you might include better car care habits—especially if you have been neglecting such things as the filters which guard engine life.

For example, stop taking the air cleaner for granted, and don't keep trying to "clean" the life of the oil filter. The former keeps dirt out of the carburetor, stopping abrasives that wear away cylinders, valves and pistons.

When allowed to become clogged, however, dirt particles collect and grit can actually be sucked into the engine. Bad effects, in screening out solid impurities, not only protects engine parts but also saves fuel. In fact, there is a limit to the sludge and gum deposits allowed by the filter.

Other guardians, such as fuel filters and oil filter or breather cap, however, should be on your list, too. For average conditions, the following inspection schedule is recommended.

D O. writes: "What type of lubricant should I use on the car window channels to keep the glass slides up and down freely?"

(A) Powdered graphite is the best lubricant for window channels.

F.W. asks: "Please let me know how recommend antifreeze can be left in the engine all year round."

(A) We've emphasized this before, but it's worth repetition. Briefly, it's a bad practice because: (1) antifreeze inhibitors lose most of their effectiveness after one winter, and (2) it encourages chemical action which has a corrosive effect on engine parts.

From F. K.: "I have a 1958 car and am puzzled about a squeak or scraping sound in the rear wheels. The rear axle and transmission grease has been changed at the last season's chassis has been lubricated and the universals packed. What do you think?"

(A) On the basis of the information given, and the many possibilities that exist, a diagnosis would appear to be a shot in the dark. Nevertheless, I'll single out the likely bearing. Rear wheel noise is often caused by bearings that are too loose, tight, dry or damaged.

L. L. writes: "At higher speeds the engine of my 1955 car seems to be vibrating or missing. The garage agrees that it's missing, but they have not corrected the trouble yet. So far, they have put in new spark plugs, double-checked the ignition and machine-timed it, cleaned and adjusted the carburetor and tested the fuel pump. They also made a compression test and claim the readings are very good. One of the mechanics drove the car after all this and had to admit it still seems to miss. What are we overlookin?"

(A) As pointed out recently, one easy-to-cure trouble is often skipped: If the muffler or tail pipe is clogged or restricted in some manner, missing at certain speeds is one of the penalties.

SAFETY IS NO ACCIDENT

Be careful about your driving—Be sure about your car.

Garden Notes

Cyclamen, Seed, Plant and Bulb

By FLORA M. SAVILLE

Did you get a cyclamen plant for Christmas? They will need plenty of light, but avoid noon sun. Keep the temperature down to around 50 degrees if you want your plant to go on blooming for two months. Hot dry air will cut the flowers short.

See that the corm, or bulb as it is often called, is not left wet when you water the plant. Use a spray with tepid water early in the day for best results, or set the pot in a basin of water until the soil surface is moist. Keep the soil moist but not wet. Wash leaves when they become dusty.

It takes sixteen months from seed to full size blooming plant. The seeds can be planted in January, but if you want bloom-size plants for Christmas better plant the seeds in September. However, if you do not wish to wait that long try ordering them from seed to bloom you can buy small plants that are two months old from a green house, in the fall.

Here are directions from seed: 100 seeds will cost from $1.80 to $3.75 according to variety, and may be purchased from several Canadian seed companies. Some companies sell up trial packets of 25 seeds for 25 cents, but usually they are sold by the hundred, or thousand for the trade.

PLANTING DIRECTIONS

Fill bulb pans (wide, low clay pots) half full of small pebbles, or broken pots. Fill the rest in with soil of one part sand, one part peat moss, and two parts good loam. Firm down and water with tepid water. Allow to drain several hours then sow the seed. Some growers advise seeding one inch apart, others plant half-inch apart. Cover with quarter-inch of soil and cover with brown surface. Cover with a piece of glass and shade with paper until seeds have sprouted. This will take about six weeks, or a little longer. Keep in a warm bright window and keep soil damp, but not wet. When the first leaves appear take off the paper and glass and keep in a warm window but shade at noon with window, but shade at noon with tissue paper.

When the seedlings have two leaves move them to two inch pots. One plant to a pot. Keep in warm window but shade for a few days with tissue paper, and place the small pots in a box filled with damp moss. During the winter the plants will need as much light as they can get from a window. After about six to seven months when the plants to have inch pots and treat as you did after the first transplanting, using box of moss and shading from strong sun.

As the spring sun becomes strong move them to an east window and leave for three to four months more. They are now ready for the last move into five-inch pots. Always keep the top half of the corm on top of the soil. They are now ready to be placed in a cold frame, leave a three-inch layer of soil on cinders and keep the soil of the floor always fairly damp.

If the weather is at all chilly place the sash on the cold frame with a screen from two thicknesses of cheese cloth, with wide hem on each end. Run a thin stick through hem and roll back on sticks, as the weather warms up. Cover from excess sun, rain, or cold.

Before early frosts threaten bring this, plants indoors. Give plenty of light, but not strong noon sun. Keep soil moist and begin to feed with liquid plant food every two weeks when the pots are filled with roots and the plant is ready to produce blooms. More plants can be secured from plants in bud and in bloom.

Mrs. Rogers thanked Mrs. Holmes for her kind words and said she wished to congratulate Mrs. Ketchenson on the way she conducted the meeting, also that she was so glad to hear that Mrs. John Reid's sermon was read at every Institute. She also informed the W.I. that Stirling was putting on its community exhibition service project with "What makes a good officer" at Stirling Agricultural Hall, Tuesday, 22nd January and they would like all members to be present. A query was put forth concerning a celebration on February 18th., on the 60th anniversary of the Women's Institute.

Mrs. Rogers gave a talk on "Christmas," saying: "Christmas still lives behind the Hungarian iron curtain. The people in there went on celebrating and the Russians seemingly could do nothing about it. The children insisted on having a Christmas tree. The Russians tried to substitute Stalin's birthday for Christmas day, but no Christmas tree. They even stampede for Christmas trees and every family had a tree and a cake, so now they are trying to stop the Hungarian celebrations by order of their leaders. But the five-point star contains hope, faith, joy, love and peace."

The meeting was then turned over to Mrs. Don Sandercock and Mrs. Gordon Curtis, the conveners of the evening.

This - - - and That

Dear Reader:

The fifty-two weeks and the ten years between our first time and our second New Year's wish to you has become past and present with the swiftness of a breath on a frosty morning. The future 1957 lies ahead and who among us knows.

It was our privilege to see a personal note written to a friend by a great American after his defeat at the polls last November. Adlai E. Stevenson wrote humbly: "If I troubled the nation's sleep a little I am satisfied. Yet it regret that I could not better fulfill the hopes and expectations of my friends."

And I, hopes that it has in some finite way occupied a small niche, and regrets that it did not fulfill in larger measure the expectations of you readers, its friends. Our New Year resolve to you is the humble promise to serve you to the best of our honest capabilities. We have profited by your criticisms and we thank you for your many kindnesses.

We shall not attempt what is beyond the scope of a few lines, but 1956 means nothing if it has not made us wiser for 1957. Its cynic and pessimist may, with too much evidence, claim that 1956 was a year of hate. He claim that there is no hope for us in 1957. The promise of Christmas is a child and 1957 is only the future in swaddling clothes. The future and care of the child is surely our responsibility. Can we condemn a child before promise rests recurely or dangerously in our hands?

The future is for the youth but they remain helpless in deciding the legacy the adults have left them. It is 1958 which passes on the heritage of the adolescent in 1957. It seems there are many and important changes to be made. Again we turn to Adlai Stevenson's last four sentences in another message he made to a nation after his defeat: "Be of good cheer. And remember, my dear friends, there is a wise old said — "A merry heart doeth good like a medicine, but a broken spirit dryeth the bones.' As for me, let there be no tears. I lost an election but won a grandchild."

Stevenson lost an election but his hopes for his country rested not in the past but in the infant children of its tomorrows. With this fine American we can look from 1956 forward to 1957 and accept the challenge.

From last year's columns, we repeat the words of Alfred Tennyson:

"Ring out wild bells; to the wild sky,
The flying cloud, the frosty light:
The year is dying in the night;
Ring out, wild bells, and let him die."

And for 1957.

"Ring in the valiant man and free,
The larger heart, and kindlier hand;
Ring out the darkness of the land,
Ring in the Christ that is to be."

And so, Dear Reader, our prayer is that 1957 will be blessed. 1957 the promise will be found in the love which will protect from evil our children because the legacy we pass on shall not be found wanting.

We join hands as we sing:
"Should auld acquaintance be forgot,
And auld lang syne"

Sincerely yours,
—H. S.

Going Places

Automobile Club Great Help In Making Plans for Tour

By SHIRLEY AND BOB SLOANE

For those of you who watch this spot for whatever it offers on the technical aspects of our trips, here is a roundup of some of the practical tips we gathered on our recent coast to coast family motor tour.

In Ontario the Ontario Motor League performs same functions as the American Automobile Association.

For the first time we made use of the AAA's touring service instead of laying out our own routes from experience, and found it a worthwhile service indeed.

In addition to the familiar road maps and accommodations guides, we had them whip up what they call a "Trip-Tik," a step-by-step booklet containing strip maps of each segment of the trip.

Each page of the book shows the route from one major town or city to the next along the line, locating every village and hamlet on the way. While this does not give the perspective of a large map, the detail of it minimizes the likelihood of getting lost and makes it possible to spot check your position at any time.

In addition, each page is loaded with information about what to expect along the way, such as construction detours, sightseeing attractions, information on the street maps of the cities themselves.

On the back of each page is a brief listing of all approved motels, hotels, restaurants, AAA service garages and the locations of the local AAA offices.

TIDBITS

Occasionally tidbits of information pop up such as how to get help if you're caught on the Pennsylvania Turnpike (keep a white handkerchief out the driver's window) and how to refuel, if obvious, advice about not falling asleep at the wheel and getting rested for speeding.

The auto club's road maps are as good as any, with the additional aid of showing in red ink places of interest, accommodations.

Keeping our kids, now 4 and 2½ amused in the car is still a problem, but toys from home don't seem to help much. We have lots of familiar things too easily. A bedtime idea is to give each day or two and pick up items likely to keep them amused for awhile. This isn't as expensive as it sounds. You can get all kinds of fascinating junk for 15 to 39 cents each.

Once children get used to traveling, as ours have, they adjust to the routine of responding to nature calls at the nearest drinkie or water only at regular stops for gas and meals. A little discipline and if you stop for their every whim you'll never get any place.

OBSERVE LIGHTS

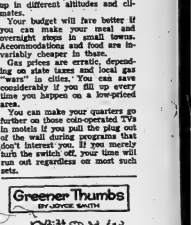
There are speed traps, particularly going through towns. The best way to avoid trouble is to scrupulously observe the posted limits, even if they do not seem reasonable to you. It may cost dearly if you take a chance.

General highway speed limits, however, are being raised to 60 and 65 in most western states, and the trend is spreading.



If you're a bug on gas mileage, to get an accurate check fill your tank each time from the same side of the gas pump. Most filling stations slope streetward. You may find, too, that you need a tune-up in different altitudes and climates.

Your budget will fare better if you can make your meal and overnight stops in small towns. Accommodations and food are invariably cheaper in them.

Gas prices are erratic, depending on state taxes and local gas "wars" in cities. You can save considerably if you fill up every time you happen on a low-priced one.

You can make your quarters go further on those occasional TV's in motels if you pull the plug out of the wall during programs that don't appeal to you and merely turn the switch off, your time will run out regardless on most such sets.

Its truly an ill wind that blows no man good as far as insecticides are concerned. Some of the most successful today were developed during the late war to be used on the battle field. Now the same products are channeled into the garden to keep plants beautiful. Always be careful when using any spray or dust material to avoid inhaling, or permitting long contact with skin.

EGGLETON SCHOOL

MADOC JCT. — On Thursday night there was a capacity audience at Eggleton United Church when the pupils of Eggleton school S.S. No. 5, Hungerford, presented a splendid Christmas entertainment under the leadership of their teacher, Mrs. Reide, with Mrs. Bruce Stapley pianist for all the carols, songs and drills.

The chairman, Mr. George Dyson, was chairman for the following program:

The opening number was a song of welcome by the school. Mr. Dyson spoke briefly, but later on filled in with several amusing anecdotes during the intermissions. A play, "Aunt Jane's Christmas Cookies" was presented by Isobelle Prest, Marilyn Stapley, Ivan Reide, Audrey Stapley and Grant Reid. Fourteen children took part in the "Merry Christmas" acrostic. "The Christmas Tree," a motion song and march by a number of the junior pupils was greatly enjoyed. Twelve little grade I pupils, Lloyd Clancy and Gerald Stapley, each gave a recitation. A short play, "Deaf Uncle Sim," was presented with Sharon Reide, Marilyn Stapley, Isobelle Prest, Sammy Danford, Shirley Prest and Johnny Madill taking part.

"Santa's Helpers" was well given by four of the junior girls, Sheila Clarke, Lois Danford, Merilyn Stapley and Diane Prest.

All enjoyed the instrumental number and the carol "Joy to the World," which Miss Grace Clarke, one of the high school students, played on her accordion.

A recitation, "Santa Claus," was given by Wayne McMullen. The senior grades took part in a song "Star of the Night." A humorous play, "A Christmas Want Supplied," was well given by Shirley Prest, Sammy Danford, Sharon Reide, Audrey Stapley, Johnny Madill, Allen Reide, Annamae Clarke and Gary Phillips.

Four girls, in costume, Sammy Danford, Diane Prest, Sheila Clarke and Beverley Stapley sang "Good Morning Merry Sunshine." Four senior pupils, Annamae Clarke, Allen Reide, Audrey Stapley and Isobelle Reide, took part in the play "Christmas Dreams."

Everyone enjoyed the pretty "Flag Drill," given by 13 of the pupils.

The whole school took part in the presenting "Christmas Greetings" by singing two carols, "Away in a Manger" and "Silent Night, Holy Night" and giving a choral reading of the Christmas message of glad tidings to all mankind.

Another play, "Buying Christmas Presents" was well presented by Gary Phillips, Isobelle Prest, Audrey Stapley, Sammy Danford, Allen Reide, Beverley Stapley, Sharon Reide and Annamae Clarke.

Miss Grace Clarke again contributed a couple of numbers on the accordion.

Mr. Dyson, on behalf of those present, moved a vote of thanks to the teacher, Mrs. Reide, Mrs. B. Stapley, Miss Clarke and all the pupils for the splendid entertainment.

The closing numbers were a "Farewell Song" by the school, and the National Anthem.

At this time, to the joy of the younger ones, Santa in full traditional costume, made his appearance, greeting and shaking hands with several as he made his way to the front of the church. Here stood a lovely Christmas tree with pretty decorations, the twinkling lights and tinsel at the top and underneath many prettily wrapped parcels. Santa called on several to assist him in distributing the gifts.

Each child received a big bag of candy, nuts and oranges from the large decorated hamper.

BEAUTY

By MME. QUE VIVE

GIVE YOUR FACE THAT HOLIDAY SPARKLE

Quick make-up trick: Apply mascara over powder fluff to make lashes seem fuller.

At holiday time, everything glows. The twinkling Christmas tree lights, the gala gowns and gleaming jewelry worn for holiday parties—all have a special sparkle. If you'd carry out the theme and look your prettiest, see that you have a face to match.

Naturally, you'll want to use all your favorite glamorous make-up aids when you get ready for a party. But before you start that glorifying, remember that the basic prescription for a lovely skin is soap and water cleanliness.

Begin your make-up hour of washing your face. You may use a well soaped sponge, a rough-textured terry washcloth, or a complexion brush. In case you have problems with excess oil or blackheads, the complexion brush is your choice for best. Otherwise it's up to you. The important thing is to thoroughly rinse face and hands frequently and thoroughly.

Remember, before washing method you choose, work the soapsuds onto your face with the same up and out motion you use when applying cream. Make sure, too, not to miss any of those crevices and where dirt has a habit of collecting. Areas like the edges of the nose, the base of the throat, the forehead, and the chin are prime offenders.

For a problem epidermis—or if you just want to be sure that every tiny speck of dirt is removed—occasionally slather the soapsuds on your face and leave them there until dry. A couple of rinses with warm water, followed by cool water splashing, and your face will glow with cleanliness—and prettiness.

After you've removed all the dirt, your face is ready and there are a few make-up tricks:

1. When applying foundation or powder, blow up your cheeks. Then you'll get an even covering without caking over any little wrinkles.

2. Cover any circles under the eyes by using a lighter shade of foundation there than you do on the rest of your face.

3. Put mascara right over any powder that may be on your eyelashes and your lashes will seem fuller.

After achieving that lovely holiday sparkle, keep it all year long. It's simple to do if you use your beauty care on soap and water.

ADVICE To the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

DON'T MAKE A BIG THING OF THIS, TOM

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

I'm a high school senior and have been going with a girl who is a junior in the same school. My best friend and I have often doubledated with my girl friend and his.

Just the other day I realized that I have become very much interested in my best friend's girl and she acknowledged that she was interested in me. We still go out in a foursome, though, so that my friend's girl friend and I can see each other without either my friend or my girl friend becoming aware that our feelings have changed.

We don't want to hurt anybody, but we want to know if it wouldn't be best for this girl and I to come right out and tell our respective pals how we feel. — Tom L.

Dear Tom:

So your double-dating bids fair to turn into a doubler-cross!

Well, let's assume that you and this girl are two decent young people who want to do the right thing but have thoughtlessly allowed yourselves to be swayed by impulsive emotions. In that case, you'll stop making a big thing of your attraction for each other and take it for just what it is—a mutual liking and admiration up to a point. If you'll let yourselves, you can enjoy far more friendship in the foursome than if you dramatize it by giving out with the idea that it's time to switch partners.

My advice would be for you just to let things ride, stop making eyes at each other behind the backs of your "best friends" and settle for anything but break up the combination. For if you did go so far as to let the other two know that you wanted to switch, all you'd be likely to accomplish would be to ruin two perfectly good friendships for an infatuation that probably wouldn't last.

NO, YOU'RE JUST DAYDREAMING

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

I'm a girl of 16 and like a boy 22. I think I'm in love with him, but I'd like to know what you think.

He's a clean-cut fellow and not one who is trying to get what he can from a girl. I know he likes me because he has told me so. He goes out once a week with the young women who live in the train girl, but I know the girl he goes out with and I also know he's not in love with her.

I've known this boy about a year and a half, but was never interested in him until lately, although I've been going out with him for about six months. He's told me he'll wait until I finish high school. — Yvonne

Dear Yvonne:

No, honey, you're not "in love" with him. You're just daydreaming about him. He's only he's several years older than you are.

You're still in school, and a young man of 22 is not in the world and is, or should be, interested in people and things somewhat more mature than those of your age group. You should spend most of your time with your school friends and, if you go out at all with this young man, make it very seldom.

And don't count too much on his waiting until you finish high school. If he's a normal 23-year-old, he'll be making other plans before long.

Stories of Famous Hymns

by HORACE B. POWELL

AM I A SOLDIER OF THE CROSS?

Am I a soldier of the Cross,
A follower of the Lamb,
And shall I fear to own His cause,
Or blush to speak His name?

Must I be carried to the skies
On flowery beds of ease,
While others fought to win the prize,
And sailed through bloody seas?

Are there no foes for me to face?
Must I not stem the flood?
Is this vile world a friend to grace,
To help me on to God?

Sure, I must fight if I would reign;
Increase my courage, Lord;
I'll bear the toil; endure the pain,
Supported by Thy Word.

Thy saints in all this glorious war
Shall conquer, though they die;
They see the triumph from afar,
By faith they leave His side.

And when that illustrious day shall rise,
And all Thy armies shine
In robes of victory through the skies,
Thy glory shall be Thine.

"Watch ye, stand fast in the faith, quit you like men, be strong". — I Corinthians 16:13.

One Sunday in 1709, Dr. Isaac Watts, the eminent English hymnist, preached a stirring sermon on this text. His address was entitled: "Holy Fortitude, Or Heroic Duties Against Fear". When he had finished, he read the stanzas of the sermons which appeared between hymn, published above, to clinch his message.

It was a sort of hobby with Dr. Watts to write hymn-poems to follow his weekly sermons. This one has become world famous. It is especially popular in Sunday schools throughout Christendom.

The hymn was published in a three-volume edition of Dr. Watts' hymns which appeared between 1721 and 1724. Sixty years later the new song was given its music by the Rev. Ralph Harrison, an Irish Presbyterian minister and musician, in his hymnal, "Sacred Harmony".

Mr. Harrison did not originate the tune; he found it in a melody in the overture to Thomas A. Arne's opera, "Judith", and arranged it for its present use.

ANSWER: There are plenty of harassed readers who will be sure you are talking about their city! . . . I've withheld your letter until now because you give such excellent economical dishes . . . and this week we are all feeling the pinch. Thank you. I have mailed the requested list.

SAUSAGE - CABBAGE CASSEROLE FOR SIX
(Courtesy Arem)

One medium head cabbage, 1 lb. link sausage, 1 28-oz. tin tomatoes, pinch sweet basil, Grease 2-qt. casserole, cut cabbage through in core in 8 sections, place in casserole. (It will open up). At centre place sausages between cabbage sections. Pour over tomatoes and add pinch of sweet basil. Bake at 350 deg. F. for 45 min.

MEAT-TURNIP CASSEROLE
(Courtesy Arem)

One large yellow turnip, 1 12-oz. can spiced pork, 3 tablespoons melted margarine, 1 cup soft bread crumbs, 1 cup grated cheese, 1 2/3 cups evaporated milk (1 4½-oz. can), 1 teaspoon salt, dash of pepper. Pare and cut turnip into ½-inch cubes—about 6 cups. Cook in boiling salted water for 20 minutes or until tender, but not mushy. Drain and reserve 1 1/3 cups of the turnip water. Cut meat into thin slices. Start oven at 350 deg. and grease 2-quart casserole. Mix melted margarine, bread crumbs and cheese together. Heat turnip water and milk together to boiling point and stir in about ¾ of the crumb combination. Cook until sauce thickens, season with salt and pepper. Add meat and turnips; transfer to casserole and sprinkle top with remaining crumb mixture. Bake 25 to 30 minutes. Serves 6.

ADDED NOTE BY AREM:

I have found a whole pork butt, in right amount of course, an excellent buy. When pork was low in price I purchased one for $3.39. From this I had 48 servings: hot roast, cold slices for lunches, ground casserolas, individual pork pies, and 2 large pots of split pea soup. As soup is a family favorite I found this meaty soup quite sufficient for a supper with hot biscuits and substantial dessert. — Arem.

I'll thank you Arem for the gift that I know will try at all of these ideas.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

By WINIFRED WILSON

Anyone living in a good sized Canadian settlement is able to start a fresh bird list on New Year's Day, because it is almost impossible to go for 24 hours without seeing at least one example of our year round residents. Very unfortunately, the most common are also the most undesirable, a strangely enough, the three most abundant are not native Canadians.

The English sparrow (which, by the way, is not a sparrow at all) was first brought to America in 1851 as a caterpillar destroyer, though obviously it is a seed eater. Before the turn of the century, this prolific species had already become a nuisance in our cities.

Although the starling was introduced to New York's about 30 years later, and was not actually noticed in the until 1925, it was less than 25 years after its landing this pest had so multiplied that every hole and crevice in many of our cities had been monopolized. Hardly believable is the fact that even English sparrows are ousted by starlings. Our most desirable birds, the bluebirds, wood bluebirds, wood ducks, and many other that prefer crevices in which to nest, have chosen dead trunks and the like, migrate in spring only to find that their favorite building sites are already occupied—for a strong contingent of starlings always remains with us, gathering all suitable nesting sites still left to them as pigeons.

There are many complaints about the mess these pigeons make on our large public buildings. But having had a start of something like two and a half centuries over the other two pests, we may just be thankful that they do not multiply at the same rate as the starlings.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

NEW YEAR'S DAY . . . PARTY DAY!

In many a home the New Year's afternoon party is the "big party" of the year, it may be "Open House" . . . a time as warm, kind and friendliness in these welcoming words! It may be called an "At Home", also warmly-welcoming words. It may be an Eggnog Party, the traditional party for this day. It may be a Tea Party, small or large. It may be a Coffee Party, so popular today, increasingly popular. Or it may be a kind of Housewarming party, the new householders welcoming their relatives and friends to their new home. Or it may simply be called a "Party," a wonderful and festive reunion of relatives and friends, perhaps neighbors, too. No doubt about it, a New Year's Party is a grand way to pay off an accumulation of social indebtedness and so to salute the New Year with a fresh social start.

It's to be an Eggnog Party? If so, you may be planning to use an ancestral receipe as your cackle-of-the-house, or you may be guided by the recipe of a good friend or a good cookbook. But you can, fortunately, buy your supply from your dealer, and serve it "as is" or add "this or that," as your taste suggests. I'm against the idea of serving only rye and accessories with eggnog (even though you do have so much fresh rye on hand!). Beaten biscuits are the traditional and most successful food-companions. The blandness is perfect for the sweetness of the eggnog. You doubtless will have time to make them, but now you can buy them packed in tins! They are added attraction, split the biscuits, butter them thinly, over-lay, and insert slices of ham. Or insert thin slices of ham in tiny hot biscuits or finger rolls, have them well toasted, very slim bread-and-butter sandwiches, with the crusts removed, or thin open slices of salty-rye bread put thin slices of cheese and slices of ham. Or simply serve crackers of various not-sweet kinds. Salted nuts are another appropriate accompaniment.

The thoughtful hostess remembers that not everyone is an eggnog enthusiast . . . and so she serves an alternative. She might have a "Vodka Party" . . . a "Rum Party" . . . a "Gin Party" . . . a "Bright Ale Party" . . . at one end of the table, and at the opposite end, the big steaming-hot madrilene or borsch soup (of festive color, these!) to delicately sip from cups that have to be served either in teacups or bouillon cups. Or, if you prefer, pour the soup into cups in the kitchen and pass these cups on a tray. Or, if you're really daring, you might like to follow today's lead in serve your soup cold! And plenty of salty crackers, thoroughly heated.

Commonwealth Near Close Of Uneasy Year in One Piece; Will Admit Two New Members

By ROBERT RICE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—The Commonwealth nears the close of an uneasy year in one piece. In a period of tests and trials, some feared the partnership was breaking up—others felt it was growing up.

The resilient, multi-racial association is enter 1957 prepared to admit two new members, the Gold Coast, to be known as Ghana, in March, and Asia's rich Malaya federation in August. Africa-Asian nations will then be in the majority.

In the last months of 1956, however, the Commonwealth was disturbed by events in the Middle East. The concept of consultation, a traditional tie among members, seemed injured by the Anglo-French armed action in Egypt —an act that was disapproved by Canada, criticized gravely by India, Pakistan and Ceylon, and unsupported by Australia, New Zealand and Rhodesia.

GRAVE VIEW

At one point, said Canadian External Affairs Minister Pearson, the Commonwealth appeared on the "verge of dissolution." He later made it clear that he did not think there ever was any danger of the older members of the Commonwealth breaking up; but if the fighting had gone on in Egypt it might have been difficult for India to remain in. If India left, Pakistan and Ceylon might also have left, he said.

During the crisis, some observers said Canada, because of her stand and actions in the United Nations, had strengthened the moral leadership of the Commonwealth. Certainly, its influence increased and more than ever her diplomats were called upon to act between Britain and the United States.

Elsewhere in the Commonwealth, the slow evolution of dependencies continued.

The islands of the British West Indies, flung across 1,000,000 square miles in the Caribbean, agreed in February to form a federal government. It was established early 1958 as target time for general elections.

In March, a constitutional commission was established to prepare for Malaya's independence by August, 1957, and as the year ended, it was at work in Rome.

RHODESIAN TROUBLES

Progress was not so painless for Singapore as island port and Malaya's neighbor to the north.

In April, Chief Minister David Marshall failed to agree on terms with central internal security during talks with the British in London. Then Yew Hock, 42-year-old union leader replaced mercurial Marshall and immediately faced, and ultimately quelled, race riots in Singapore. Quelling of violence and self-government appeared better.

In Cyprus, too, a glimmer of optimism was seen in late December, with signs of accord among Britain, Greece and Turkey giving hope to the terrorhardened island. With a new constitution in the offing, the local population — predominantly Greek — and the island's 18 per cent Turkish minority — may be given promise of self - determination later.

But Malta, Mediterranean neighbor of Cyprus, believed in its intention to integrate fully with Britain, Malinger's government insisted squabbled with the United Kingdom over economic aid, and the idea of a Maltese flag flying between MPs in the Commons at Westminster was not approved for the moment.

In Africa, regional differences marred the advancement to political maturity. The Gold Coast, due for self-government after a plebiscite in confidence within the Commonwealth in March, 1957, is the brainchild of Ghana, one the Ashanti, an island tribe, dispute centralized government, Ashanti leaders in Kwame Nkrumah's all-African administration.

NIGERIAN PROBLEM

A similar situation existed in Nigeria, Africa's largest dependency which is divided into three regions, each with a chief minister. None seems willing to support the wider interests of the federal government at the eastern region Prime Minister, Dr. Nnamdi Azikiwe, was involved in an inquiry over his relationship with the Nigerian National Bank. This delayed plans to hold constitutional talks in London until early next year.

Other items from the Commonwealth's calendar:

In June, Commonwealth prime ministers met in London, discussing, among other issues, international affairs in the light of Russian intervention in Hungary, the new premier, Solomon Bandaranaike, announced his country plan to need a republican form of government on the Indian pattern, still remaining in the Commonwealth.

In November, Britain and Australia agreed on a new trade pact, replacing the 1932 agreement which established Imperial preferences. Canada and New Zealand as the beginning of the end for Commonwealth preferences in favor of mutual tariff concessions.

Lord Malvern, Rhodesia's premier, resigned in November, after a decade in office. Sir Roy Welensky who was reported the federation at the next Commonwealth conference.

A group of British MPs advocated in a pamphlet their idea of an "expanding Commonwealth" as an association that could grow to include several European countries and other nations.

YULETIDE TOUCH

Following an age-old Italian yuletide custom, a "Zampognari" comes down from the Abruzzi mountains in his colorful costume to play the bagpipes in the streets of Rome. The Zampognari stir up the curiosity of children and grown-ups alike as they go about through the streets.

Shea's Theatre, Last Vaudeville House, Closes

TORONTO (CP)—When Shea's Hippodrome first opened with new-fangled motion pictures, it called them "chasers." Their purpose was to chase the crowd between vaudeville acts.

But a celluloid production dug the last few second World war, it was at its biggest box-office payoff. And when the final curtain rang down Thursday night, it was on a modern Hollywood movie.

Vaudeville was dead. And Shea's one of its last strongholds, was dying too.

The old building on downtown Bay Street, which once hailed such entertainers as Eddie and Johnson, Jack Benny and Fred Allen, will be taken over by commercial interests next week.

Shea's is being levelled to make room for Toronto's new city hall and civic square. Most of the staff will also take over another theatre uptown.

PRIVATE MEETING

There was no fanfare Thursday night when the show was over. The staff had a private party. Together they gave each other's shoulders and exchange nostalgic stories."

They had lots to talk about, especially the older members of the staff. In the days, for instance, when the feature performers were Slip and Slopp, Gregg and Harvey, Josie Heather or the Karnos' comedy company, and the biggest billing were such hopefuls as Bob Hope, Edgar Bergen, George Burns and Gracie Allen.

Shea's was built around vaudeville from the time it opened in 1914 at Bay and Queen Streets. Then the vaudeville fans were walking its boards as late as the early stages of the Second World War, long after other Canadian vaudeville houses, and most of those in the United States, had closed.

FIRST TALKIES

The first talking picture machine was installed in 1929 with obvious distaste. The theatre used its movie profits to hire vaudeville acts after most of the trans-Atlantic circuits petered out and live performers became more expensive.

Walter Grayson, long-time secretary-treasurer, who retired in 1951, recalled that the late owner, Jerry Shea, "didn't care too much for Bob Hope's act. It was too loud and the stooges in the gallery made it too confusing."

He was sad but philosophical about the end of it all.

"It can't last forever," he said. "Things change."

Six Provincial Elections Held Share of Spotlight

OTTAWA (CP)—National leadership of one of Canada's major parties changed hands late in a year which saw the provinces provide most of Canada's political activity.

A national convention of the Progressive Conservative party chose John Diefenbaker, 61-year-old Saskatchewan lawyer, as its new chieftain. The Conservative members of the former Liberal cabinet who succeeded Hon. George Drew, forced by ill-health to step down after eight years of guiding the party.

The anger and bitterness of the Conservative caucus battle also left a deep imprint on the 1956 record of federal politics.

SIX ELECTIONS

But a series of six provincial elections gave the share of the country's interest. Not since 1890 had six provinces gone to the polls in a single year. A federal election is expected next June and Manitoba may have an early election next year.

Of the six provincial votes, only one brought a change-over. That was the upset victory of Nova Scotia Liberals under Premier Stanfield who on Oct. 30 ended 23 years of Liberal rule to form the province's first Conservative government since Confederation.

Four other governments were returned with increased majorities: Union Nationale in Quebec; Conservatives in New Brunswick; Liberals in Newfoundland and Social Credit in Alberta. Only in Saskatchewan's C.C.F. government was re-elected, but with a small majority.

Parliament, which sat for 132 days earlier in the year, came back into session to deal with special session in late November to approve Canada's troop commitment to the United Nations Emergency Middle East force and the Canadian relief.

The only session produced the sharpest Commons split on foreign policy in post-war years as the Conservatives opposed the non-confidence motion criticizing government handling of the Suez crisis.

NEW CCF PRINCIPLES

The year's political history at an August convention in Winnipeg where it reached a turning point. The C.C.F. party set aside the 1933 Regina Manifesto, with its implications of nationalization of capitalism, and formally adopted a new declaration of principles advocating a mixed economy of public, private and co-operative enterprise.

The declaration said there are many fields in which private enterprise is unsuited to economic development.

The year also was flarked by a series of federal - provincial meetings at Ottawa on fiscal and tax matters.

The central - government proposed a new sharing arrangements to the provinces to replace the tax rental agreements which expire on March 31. The plan involves a sharing of three big tax fields—personal and corporation income tax and death duties—together with federal withdrawal by the wealthy provinces to bring their per-capita income in those fields up to the average for the two wealthiest, Ontario and British Columbia.

In the health field, Ottawa offered to share with the provinces the cost of a new hospital insurance program contingent on its acceptance by at least eight provinces having a majority of the population. So far only the three western provinces have formally given acceptance.

The Commons development was the switch by Ross Thatcher from his seat as an independent to join the Liberal party. In the same session the Saskatchewan hardware merchant won a vacant seat in the Moose Lake Centre riding, had helped the CCF party to become an independent Liberal. Thatcher had been nominated to contest the next election in the Liberal interest against CCF stalwart Hazen Argue.

15 POLITICIANS DIE

Parliament's ranks were thinned during the year with the death of five Conservatives, seven Liberals and seven senators.

Two by-elections were called to fill the Commons vacancies and it appeared they would be left vacant until the next election. There were no appointments to the Senate during the year.

Commons members who died were J. W. Noseworthy, Conservative for York South; Liberals J. L. MacDougall of Vancouver, Hamilton East, and Conservatives Sybil Bennett of Halton and Dr. Owen C. Trainor of Winnipeg South.

Of them, Mr. MacDougall and Dr. Trainor, died in their Parliament-building offices while the Commons was in session and the House took a recess on those days.

Senators who died were three Conservatives: Alex. Hardy, Ottawa; Arthur Peterborough, Ont., James A. Calder, 87, of Saltcoats, Sask., and John T. Haig, 72, of Stanstead, Que., and four Liberals: Adelard Godbout, 78, former premier of Quebec, John J. Stevenson, 84, of Prince Albert, Sask., George H. Bens, 76, of Fredericton, and Fred W. Pirie, 63 of Grand Falls, N.Bd.

With the five vacancies, party standings in the Commons now are: Conservatives, 112; Liberals, 169; Progressive Conservative, 1; CCF, 22; Social Credit, 15; Independent, 3.

There are seven seats open in the 102-seat Senate, which was left with 76 Liberals, five Progressive Conservatives, two independents and one independent Liberal.

Re-Casting of British Defence Policy Distinct Possibility In Wake of Suez Canal Crisis

SOVIETS CHANGE ECONOMIC CHIEF

Deputy Prime Minister Maxim Z. Saburov (bottom), chief economic planner of the Soviet Union, has been replaced in Moscow by another deputy premier, M. G. Pervukhin (top). The latter is regarded as the nation's leading expert on heavy industry.

Make-up is seen as a sign of economic crisis in Russia and failure of the latest five-year plan.

—Central Press Canadian.

LONDON (CP)—A complete recasting of British defence programs looms as a distinct possibility in the wake of Suez.

British defence chiefs in the final weeks of 1956 were giving study to two far - reaching ideas emerging from the controversial Anglo - French "police action" in Egypt. They were:

1. The impracticability of Britain attempting to "go it alone," even in defence of interests vital to her existence, without the full cooperation of her Western Alliance partners.

2. Britain no longer can ignore the serious economic repercussions of a staggering defence effort now gobbling up more than nine per cent of her national income.

VITAL PROBLEM

As the year ended Defence Minister Duncan Sandys' Head was indicated that British thinking is along the lines of smaller, powerfully armed forces. He told the North Atlantic Treaty Organization meeting in Paris that the Atlantic partners could not afford to lag behind Russia in quality of armaments. More, he added, could NATO members afford to maintain large forces and at the same time continually re-equip them with the most up-to-date weapons.

Chancellor of the Exchequer Harold Macmillan gave a sharply cautious twist to the latest bid for defence effort. Her contribution to NATO was greater—"in volume and proportionately to income"—than that of any other country in Western Europe.

Two-thirds of British research and development effort, and 15 per cent of the country's metal goods output went to defence.

In the light of these facts Britain's defence effort, added Macmillan, had led to almost grave economic and financial difficulties.

This was neither in the interests of Britain nor of NATO. It could not be allowed to continue.

The United States, he said, in fiscal 1956 had put 10 per cent of its national income, or $21,548,700,000 for defence, an increase of £11,500,000 over the previous year. In the same period went £317,500,000. It marked the second year in which the U.S. GNP had received the lion's share of the estimates.

A defence white paper brought down in the House of Commons early in the year, however, entertained eight months earlier for a relaxation in international tension, had not been realized. It added that there was "no change in Soviet long-term aims of world domination."

In reviewing the programs for each of the three armed services, the white paper said much of the £1,000,000,000 cost of the R.A.F. primarily would be used to provide for adaption of existing bases and carriers to the operation of modern jet aircraft and that guided missiles would be fitted into the new cruisers and destroyers.

The army, which in 1956 rose to the estimates, was continuing a reorganization program launched the year before to make it more flexible to "bring force to bear quickly in cold" or limited war.

The white paper also outlined a gradual reduction in manpower for all three services. This was primarily the army, to bring the overall strength of the forces to 700,000 by March 1958. Last April, the total strength of the three services was 865,000, 165,000 over the limit. By April, 1957, it was expected to be down to 735,000. However, more recent thinking on the manpower situation may call for a slowing of the services to around the 700,000 figure much earlier than 1958.

ATOMIC TESTS

Britain, like the United States, turned increasingly to atomic weapons, including the hydrogen bomb, as the main deterrent. In May, 1956, she carried out two atomic test series during the year. The first, code - named Mosaic, in Monte Bello Islands with about 2,000 R.A.F. and Royal Australian air force personnel, scientists and technicians in the test area. The October - November series in the Australian desert, including an air drop from a delta-winged Valiant bomber, they were the third and fourth test series held by Britain since she held her first at Monte Bello in 1952.

Britain is proceeding with plans to manufacture her hydrogen bomb next spring.

For Britain's armored forces, the turning time in 1956 came on July 26 when Egypt in a surprise move nationalized the Suez Canal, capitalistine between Britain and Western Europe and the Middle and Far East.

While politicians met to attempt to find a solution to the problem, Britain's armed forces called up reservists and flew key units to Mediterranean bases. Late in October, Israel launched an attack on Egypt and Britain and France ordered troops into the Canal Zone in what was officially described as a "police action" to separate the warring forces and protect the canal.

R.A.F. and French aircraft bombed Egyptian airfields and defence positions and five days after the start of the conflict, British and French paratroopers dropped into the Port Said area, while other forces moved in from the sea.

TWO WEAKNESSES

From the strictly military point of view, the seven-day war revealed two major weaknesses in Britain's armed forces. One was a lack of strategic reserve strength within the regular army, even with an emergency — a fact reflected by the need to call up some 30,000 reservists at home. The second was lack of mobility to transport troops.

The Daily Mail, in a review of the Suez affair, said: "Believe it or not, it took as long to transport our troops from Malta to Egypt in 1956 as it did for Nelson's sailing ships to travel about the same distance—Sicily to Alexandria—in 1798.

The lengthy waiting period before mobilization in July and action in November also brought the services, the Mail said, "into competition with each other in the scramble for the services of ships chartered by the government."

The services called back into uniform from their civilian jobs 20,000 reservists, including in England, Cyprus and Malta.

But for the armed forces and future British defence, the most significant aspect of the Suez affair was the manner in which it showed up the financial weakness of Britain. The country suffered severely in an economic sense from the week-long suspension in which canals, ships and material losses were inflationimal.

Even to the most sanguine of defence planners, it was all too apparent as Britain entered 1957 that economic necessity would force a considerable reduction in defence expenditures.

CLAIM ANOTHER FIRST

LONDON (Reuters) — Moscow Radio claimed Thursday that the first bicycle for the world was invented by a Russian peasant. He is said to have ridden his two-wheeler between Moscow and Square in 1801, having travelled more than 1,200 miles from his native village.

DOGS WIN

DETROIT (AP) — After using water guns and night sticks to dissuade biting dogs, Detroit postmen have resigned themselves to being bitten. They reported Thursday that beginning Jan. 1, the city's 2,500 letter carriers will be given anti-tetanus shots to protect them from bite infections.

Canadian Labor Passes Through Historic Year

By JOHN LeBLANC
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadian labor has passed through one of its most historic years.

Major event of 1956 was the merging of Canada's many largest labor congresses into a 1,000,000-member body. But a succession of other developments also made the year a big one.

Amalgamation of the Trades and Labor Congress and the Canadian Congress of Labor into the Canadian Labor Congress gave the country its biggest single labor group since workers in this country started organizing more than 70 years ago.

POINTS TO ADMIT

It also pointed to a more peaceful future for unions, since the CLC will tend to discourage expansion by competing membership raids among those claiming the same organizing jurisdictions. While a few "all - major labor bodies remained outside the orbit of the new congress at the end of the year, there were signs of prospective affiliation from the Canadian and National Catholic Confederation of Labor. The Quebec-centred CCCL decided late in the year to continue affiliation talks with CLC leaders, and there was some prospect of a hookup by next summer.

Also still outside the CLC are about 40,000 members of the railroad running trades and other traditionally independent but welcome should they care to join. A few hundred Communist leaders are barred.

One aspect of the TLC-CCL merger was that it brought to the top post in Canadian labor a Frenchman, Claude Jodoin, who was elected president of the congress. He had been head of the TLC.

BIG WELFARE SCHEME

Another milestone in union history was passed during the year with the negotiation of Canada's biggest industrial welfare and health and welfare plan. The $13,500,000-a-year agreement was signed between the railways and unions representing about 140,000 workers in the industry.

The plan, effective Jan. 1, 1956, was accompanied by a wage increase which increases more effective when wage increases in other industries were staggered over more than a year. The package deal was granted by the railways under threat of a strike vote that which crippled the carriers in 1950.

Two trends that developed during the year were indications of efforts to improve relations between labor on the one hand and farm groups and the education authorities on the other.

A farmer-labor economic council was formed after meetings of several months on a temporary basis, headed by Claude Jodoin, labor, and an executive of the International Farm Union Council, Gordon Burley. It was set up by the CLC and of the Council were Canada's two biggest farm groups, the tie-up on a permanent basis.

LABOR AND EDUCATION

At the same time the congress conference on labor education in cooperation with the Canadian Association for Adult Education and representatives of universities. The union officially viewed this as the forerunner of closer co-operation between labor and the education centres.

Still if there was a closing of ranks in these areas there also was a lessening of labor's influence in the political parties.

For many years, the old Canadian Labor Congress had opposed the CCF party as the "political arm of labor," while the CCF party, in its turn, money and effort. The other congress had been neutral.

In the interests of unity, the newly-merged congress adopted a strict political association and extend co-operation to any political party which pledges itself to labor's aims. However, the CCF was commended specifically for its labor policies and mentioned as having the only policy now in line with CLC objectives.

On the organization front, the total number of workers who stayed on the fairly static during the year at about 1,200,000, as the CLC and its rival congress lost members practically among the same groups. Many drives for membership were ahead for the coming year.

CLIMBERS MISSING

TURIN, Italy (AP) — Walter Bonatti, member of the Italian expedition which climbed the 28,250-foot K2 in the Karakoram Range, said he was missing Wednesday in an attempt to scale Gasherbrum IV, also in the 26,000-foot Himalayan climber was Lieut. Silvano Gheser.

KILLED BY TRAIN

NIAGARA FALLS (CP)—Terry Lee Bowen, 17, was killed here Thursday when the car she was driving collided with a New York Central train at a level crossing here. Police said Miss Bowen was thrown 165 feet by the impact.

External Affairs Department Staff Working in More and More of World's Vital Areas

OTTAWA (CP) — Behind Canada's international activities that make headlines is a growing external affairs department staff working quietly in more and more of the world's vital areas.

When Canadians think of external affairs these days, the thinking more likely is going to mind is the part Canada played in the Middle East crisis, the $1,000,000 in food and free transportation to this country provided by Canada for tragic refugees Hungarians.

It was Canada's External Affairs Minister Pearson who first proposed the United Nations Middle East Emergency Force, and other Canada, Maj.-Gen. E. L. M. Burns of Ottawa, commanded the force. And Canada has offered up to 2,500 military personnel for the force, with several hundred accepted in the early days of this unique international operation.

DEPORTANT FUNCTION

But generally overlooked is the vital, day-by-day work of the external affairs department: The reporting from Canada and the interpretation of political events abroad.

In 1959 Canada had eight missions and 33 foreign service offices abroad. Today it has missions maintains 39 posts in 45 different countries and they are staffed by 1,178 foreign service officers.

In the 1940-41 fiscal year, total expenditures of the external affairs department amounted to $85,367. The 1956-57 budget is $66,281,676. Canada's staff in member of almost 70 intergovernmental organizations. The organization representatives attended more than 30 international conferences or meetings during 1955.

Canada now maintains abroad a staff of 1,178, including 1,178 Canadian administrative personnel and local staff, compared with 115 in 1939. Besides the latter are some 30 Canadian civilians serving on the international control commissions in Indochina.

Of its posts abroad, 33 are embassies, seven offices of high commissioners, four legations, 14 consulates, delegations to the United Nations (one at Geneva, the other at New York), one delegation to NATO in Paris and one mission in Berlin.

ANALYSE EVENTS

The key man is the foreign service officer who reports and analyses political events in the country where he is stationed.

The external affairs department has no trouble finding men to do this job. They must be university graduates, and are hired between $3,900 and $13,000 a year depending on experience and qualifications.

These department members do not receive extra allowances but apply only to foreign service officers.

The lowest-paid Canadian civilian working overseas for external affairs is the messenger in Canberra, Australia, who receives $2,100. The highest paid Dublin ambassador at the cheapest capitals from the point of view of living costs.

Postings to London, Paris and Rome are the most coveted in the department. The least attractive include Tokyo, Cairo, Baghdad and Seoul, mainly because of living conditions.

There are only general views. Canberra, for instance, is unpopular with single women but a desired man with a family.

Tokyo is very hard on Canadians abroad. A Canadian serving in New Delhi said recently: "It is the season then when his air conditioning unit broke down and it is 45 fish browse up o. the beach.

LENGTH OF STAY

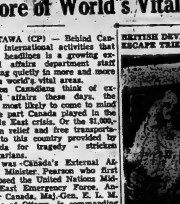
An external affairs department member serves two to 3 years abroad, depending on the post. The same system applies to trade-commercial capitals, the latter to the Department of Trade.

Numerically speaking, the largest Canadian post abroad is the London office. A total staff of 90 including local help and representatives of other government departments. The Paris and Washington embassies are also large operations. Several posts abroad have only two or three staffers.



Canada has 11 posts around the world, Central America and the Caribbean. Three Curtain countries of Eastern Europe, Bulgaria and Romania.

Many members of the Canadian staff in Moscow, now numbering about 20, ask for repeat postings there. Freedom of movement there is considerable compared with what it was and a good deal of travel is permitted.

The department some time ago considered giving up its missions in Warsaw and Prague, but movement was so restricted that it was difficult to keep property in good and living conditions were bad. However, there now is no thought of closing the Canadian posts.

Language is not a major problem in the department. French, English or German serve in most capitals. Foreign service officers proceeding abroad, however, are expected to acquire some knowledge of the language of the country where they have been posted. Generous allowances for this purpose. Some officers become experts in foreign languages.

BRITISH DEVICE FOR SUB ESCAPE TRIED IN U.S.

Bobbing to the surface like a king-size cork, Rear Admiral Elton W. Grenfell, U.S. Pacific fleet submarine commander, completes a 50-foot ascent during new submarine escape method training at the escape training tank in Pearl Harbor. The new method, which originated with the British navy, is called "buoyant ascent." It requires no artificial breathing equipment. Wearing a Mae West life jacket, the escapee shoots to the surface at a rate of 380 feet per minute, exhaling all the way to prevent lung rupture.

Peace Tower Bells Ring in New Year

Parliament Hill Signal

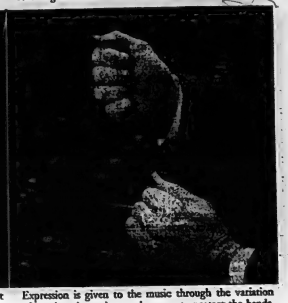
Since 1927, the carillon of the Peace Tower has shared the joys and sorrows of the Canadian nation. From this gothic style tower, cascades of joyous notes will herald the advent of the New Year.

The carillon of the Peace Tower has 53 bells. The largest one weighs 22,400 pounds and is pitched to "E", while the smallest weighs 10 pounds and is pitched to "A", four and a half octaves above. The carillon must be cleaned twice a year and the carillonneur, himself, supervises all the work. The carillon was installed in 1927, to mark the 60th anniversary of Confederation and to commemorate the peace of 1918.

Playing the carillon is a feat of strength as well as skill. The keyboard is six feet long and consists of peg-like keys forced down by the fist with foot pedals used for sounding the bass.



As carillons differ in the number of bells, all music must be specially arranged. Robert Donnell, Dominion Carillonneur since 1939, has made more than 2,000 arrangements as well as composing for the bells.

The turnbuckles connecting the keys to the wires that work the clappers must be adjusted before playing as they are affected by the weather.

National Film Board of Canada photos by Gar Lunney.

Expression is given to the music through the variation of touch and guards must be worn to protect the hands. Mr. Donnell trained as a carillonneur in Canada, the United States and Europe.

Little Benny's Notebook

The Chrissmas excitement is still lasting, and after dinner I said, G, pop, gosh, ma, it sure was nice of you to give me that awell chemical set for Chrissmas when you really thought a chemical set might not be such a nice thing for me to have around the house. I certainly kept asking you for it, didn't I, ma? I said.

That's putting it mildly, ma said. Your persistents would of tried the patience of a stone, she said, and I said, I bet you wished I had never heard of a chemical set, didn't you ma?

I admit I grew weary heering about it day in and day out, and I'm sure your father did too, ma said, and pop said, I did for a fact, but finally I decided that even if the house blew up and burned down, it woul be a small price to pay for letching Benny the value of perseverants.

Goodness yes, if he applies himself to his school work with equal persistents, there's no telling where he'll land, ma said, and pop said, I should say so, he'll end up in a sycopathic ward at the very leest.

Anyways, ma, G, pop, I'm kind of sorry now I didn't ask for a Blue Sky Airplane Biddings Set instead, I said. I know 3 different fellows that got one, and they're even talking about starting a club with nobody in it that hasn't got a Blue Sky set. Do you think it's too late to exchange the chemical set now? I've only opened about half of the bottles and things so far, I said.

Oh for land sakes, ma said, and pop said, Yee gods.

Proving the chemical is permanent.

Great Achievements, Disappointments Spotted Memorable Sports Year

Sport Slices

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

NEW YEAR'S WISHES

A bunch of the boys were whooping it up after the holiday to a broadcasting bull session and for the lack of a better name the conversational theme turned to what certain sports topic the conversationalist would like for the New Year. Here men and sport in general, would like for the New Year. Here are some of the suggestions:

THE SPORT PUBLIC OF BELLEVILLE—AND A LOT OF OTHER CITIZENS: A new community centre and arena.

CASEY STENGEL: A couple of extra ol' wells. He's got just about everything else, including the Yankees.

JACK CARSON: A nice roomy league pasture with an American entry in which to enter a senior baseball club this summer.

"RED" DORAN: A boy.

DON NEWCOMBE: A world series victory and a credit card from all parking lot attendants.

THE McFARLANDS SENIOR HOCKEY CLUB: Plastic goal posts with turned in edges, so when they hit 'em the puck goes in the net.

MOE SIENCEL: An inch or so more beam on the south side of his lap.

PHIL WATSON: Ice skates with scoring Rangers attached.

TED WILLIAMS: Earmuffs and a portable cuspidor.

MEL RICHARDS: A little more support at the box office for his gallant Junior "B" pocketsix.

PADDY BROWN: An Otto Graham. He doesn't have to be wired for sound.

THE MAPLE LEAF HOCKEY CLUB: A lot more of everything, so that Gary can sleep at nights.

MICKEY MANTLE: A longer tape measure to size next year's home runs.

ART PEEVER: A life membership in the Brooklyn Dodgers, so he be a "Jynt" now that Jackie has gone to Cooperstown's Bluff?

"RED" KELLY: A return to form for our favorite hockey player.

HARRY "SENATOR CLAGHORNE" ROLLINS: A copy of "How to Improve My Vocabulary?"

"SENATOR" TERRIER: A topflight pitcher to help his Bodleys win a pennant.

FLOYD PATTERSON: A few heavyweights who can standup after two seconds so he can fatten his bankroll with his new championship.

GENE FULLMER: The realisation next week that science isn't fiction.

CITY SPORTSWRITERS AND "CASTERS" Hockey bosses with built-in chesterfields and a snack bar. (Mr. operator, do not omit "snack.")"

THE McFARLANDS: The group title, then hope for the best.

WALTER ALSTON: A left fielder and two pitchers.

THE GIANT BALL PLAYERS: An infielder, an outfielder, fielder, catchers, hitters, almost everything.

GORDIE HOWE: Ten more years of hockey so he can give the Rocket a run for his record money. If Paul Mercier reads this we're not fooling.

BOBBY HULL and GERRY GOTER: A hop to the big time in the near future.

HARRY HOUGH RIDERS and HAMILTON TI-CATS: Entry into the 1957 Grey Cup final.

TERRY BRENNAN: Frank Leahy's thesis on "How to win football games for Notre Dame."

CLYDE GOYETTE: With his new role as lineman with the possibility of wearing a referee's sweater, the hope that he gets at least part of what he put into hockey in this town's town.

JIM NORRIS: Matched fighters on the IBC television show—who can fight.

ANY WRESTLING ARENA: Increase in the midget population on condition they be raised as "rasslers."

CLEVELAND INDIANS: The pennant next year so Alderman Claude D. Tice can at last say "I Told You So."

"SKIPPER" MATTHEWS: A pair of steel-lined boxing gloves so he can punch the netting behind the goal in the arena without damaging his knuckles.

HOCKEY REFEREES: A pair of detachable "eyes", which can be worn at the back of the head.

NEW YORK GIANTS (Football): A brand new set of Bear traps for Sunday.

LITTLE LEAGUE BASEBALL

Spring is not too far away and already there is talk of baseball in the air. The other day we were contacted as to the possibility of Little League baseball starting here and some well-known sportsmen are interested. If you want an insight into this great sport for the youngsters don't miss the picture "The Great Alvin Pastime," which is playing at the Belle Theatre today through Wednesday. It is great entertainment, starring Tom Ewell, Anne Francis and Anne Miller. It is a heartwarming story of youngsters and their favorite summer sport with a delightful vein of comedy threading the picture pattern.

Gadget Amazes Inventor of Five-Pin Bowls

TORONTO (CP) — Tommy Ryan, who invented the game of five-pin bowling back in 1909, saw a demonstration of the latest piece of equipment to be applied to his game—the automatic pinsetter.

"I'm simply amazed," said Ryan, who ran bowling alleys in Toronto almost 30 years ago. "This is something we should have had back in my days."

The bowler pushes a button after he has finished his frame and the device sweeps the balls and pins off the alley into a receptacle. The bowler then drops through a hopper and roll back in the trough while the machine sits its pins and slides them into a rack before dropping them into position.

The device is quicker than a pin boy, doesn't get tired, and as one observer noted, doesn't smoke.

Pembroke, Cornwall at Kingston.

The latest example of automation will put an estimated 500 pin boys out of work in Toronto.

Marked Fine Olympic Showing, Golf Queen's Great Triumph; Hockey Setback by Russians

By Jim Bastable
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Canadian athletes had a memorable sports year in 1956, with some of their greatest achievements being overshadowed or recorded against powerful international competition.

It was the year of Canada's best showing in 20 years in the Olympic Games, of a golf queen's brilliant triumph in the United States and the country's loss to Russia in the Olympic hockey championships.

It will also be remembered as the year the Edmonton Eskimos regained the Grey Cup classic for the third straight time.

HONORS ABOUT EVEN

Other sports — such as hockey, curling, golf, basketball, lacrosse and tennis—also provided thrills. Honors in these sports were about evenly split among competitors from eastern and western Canada.

Canada did surprising well in comparison to other years—in the Olympic Games in Melbourne, Australia. Canadians captured two gold medals and earned 32 points for finish fifth in the list of 67 competing countries.

Gold medal winners were riflemen Dorothy Ouellette of Windsor, Ont., and University of British Columbia oarsmen.

The 22-year-old Ouellette made Olympic history by firing for 50 feet score — 60 bullseyes in 60 shots—to win the small-bore rifle competition for the first gold medal.

UBC oarsmen gave Canada its first gold medal in rowing by scoring a smashing victory in the four-oared shell event. Another UBC crew, the eights, finished second in his event and added silver medal.

Irene MacDonald of Hamilton placed third in the women's springboard diving and rifleman Jill Roe of Vancouver third in the small - bore event taken by Ouellette. Fifth place by Canada in the Canadian Olympic equestrian team also placed third.

MARLENE'S BIG YEAR

Marlene Ward, Smithll, Ont., won the U.S. women's amateur golf crown, but her greatest triumph came later to capture the event. The 22-year-old ace beat Joanne Gunderson of Tacoma, Wash., 4 and 1 in the 36-hole final round, Sept. 22.

It was only part of a tremendous season for Marlene, voted Canada's top athlete of the year in 1956 in the Canadian Press Poll. She retained the Canadian women's open and closed titles and won all the eight tournaments she entered.

Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen of the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series, Allan Cup champions in the 1954-55 season, were the victims of the Olympic hockey upset in Italy. They finished third behind Russia and the United States.

The superbly - conditioned Russians won all five of their games and clinched the tournament with a 7-0 victory over Canada.

It was the first time Canada had lost an Olympic hockey game since Britain won the title in 1936.

In Olympic figure skating the Toronto pair of Barbara Wagner and Frances Dafoe finished second. They were beaten by an Australian couple.

WINTER GAME STAR

The most heartening winter Olympic performance by a Canadian was provided by 21-year-old skier Lucile Wheeler of Ste. Agathe, Que. She became Canada's first medal winner in Olympic competition when she finished third in the women's downhill. She also placed sixth in the slalom and fourth in the combined all this country's five points in skiing.

Canada picked up a total of 16 points, good for 10th place among the 32 countries which won points in the games. Russia won the unofficial team standings with 121 points.

Football fever was climaxed by the Grey Cup in Toronto Nov. 24 and Edmonton Eskimos and the Montreal Alouettes met for the third straight year.

Eskimos whipped the Als 50-27 before 27,425 fans. Eskimos thus joined the University of Toronto, Queen's University and Toronto Argonauts as the only teams to win the Grey Cup three consecutive years.

For this achievement, Eskimos were sanfied Canada's outstanding team of 1956 in a CP poll of sports writers and sportscasters.

Two weeks later, in the second annual Shrine all - Star game in Vancouver, the west walloped the eastern All-Stars 34-0.

SWIMMING TRIUMPHS

In swimming, Cliff Lumsdon, 25-year-old marathoner from Toronto became the first person to conquer the 18.3 miles of treacherous Strait of Juan de Fuca from Vancouver Island to Washington State.

Toronto's Marilyn Bell, 17-year-son to swim across Lake Ontario, failed to duplicate Lumsden's feat. She battled the tricky currents from the shores of Washington State to Victoria Beach in 10 hours and 38 minutes.

The Edith Channel was beaten by 31-year old Jacques Amyot of Quebec City.

John Jarmuy, 31-year-old Toronto steamfitter, swam Lake Ontario, the first man to accomplish the grind. England's Brenda Fisher became the second woman to do it, completing the distance in 18 hours, 50 minutes. The 29-year-old marathoner cut two hours six minutes from Miss Bell's 1954 record.

Major hockey accomplishments were racked up by the National Hockey League Montreal Canadiens and their magnificent centre, Jean Beliveau.

Canadiens, league leaders defeated Detroit Red Wings 4-1 in the best-of-seven Stanley Cup finals. Their total of 45 victories in 70 games during the regular schedule was a league mark.

Beliveau scored 47 goals, the most ever by a centre. In the play he collected 12 goals to equal a record established in 1944 by teammate Maurice Richard. He was named Canada's male athlete of 1956 in the annual AP poll.

EDINBURGH TROPHY

Canada's top clubs in minor pro hockey were Winnipeg Warriors and Montreal Royals. Warriors took the Western League championship and Edmonton Flyers the League title. They met for the Edinburgh trophy and Warriors won the best-of-seven series.

Vernon Canadians beat Chatham Maroons for the Allan Cup, taking the best-of-seven, series 4-1. Toronto Marlboros grabbed the Memorial Cup crown.

Canadian Soccer Talems took the Canadian senior men's basketball crown.

One of the great records in Canadian women's sport remained intact as Lawrence Ellen won the women's senior championship for the seventh successive year, while Toronto Norlowns retained their men's junior title.

TOPS IN CURLING

Manitoba had another star added to its curling crown as Billy Walsh skipped his Winnipeg Granite rink to the Dominion curling championship. It was Manitoba's 15th triumph since 1927, and Walsh's second win as skip.

Saskatchewan was represented by Regina Central Collegiate, won its third successive Canada-wide curling title at Fort William. Dave McTaggart of Vancouver won the Canadian men's singles at the Dominion badminton championships. It was Margaret Osborne and Jean Miller of Montreal evened things for the east by winning the women's singles.

Two British Columbia lacrosse teams gave the west a clean sweep in that sport. Nanaimo Timber m en defeated Peterborough Timbermen for the Mann Cup senior honors and Vancouver Mount Pleasant juniors defeated Brampton Excelsiors for the Minto Cup.

Canada's Davis Cup tennis team got as far as the North American semi - finals by defeating the United States, winning only one match. In Canada's other championships again, the American invaders left few honors to Canadiens.

As in the Davis Cup semi-final Paul Wright of Vancouver was the only Canadian to win, teaming with Jean Laird of Modesto, Calif., to take the mixed doubles.

SKATING CHAMPIONS

Carol Jane Pachl of Ottawa won the senior ladies' figure skating title and Charles Snelling of Toronto the senior men's. Barbara Wagner and Robert Paul of Toronto took the senior pair's championship and Junior competition, Margie Collins of Calgary won the ladies' title and Donald Collins of Ottawa took the men's.

New Westminster Royals defeated Montreal Concordes to retain their Canadian soccer championship, but the soccer crown was made by the Moscow Locomotiv, first Russian team to play in Canada, winning all five games of their tour.

In the only Canadian boxing championship bout, Gaby Paliotti successfully defended his feather weight championship against Tommy Correck of Toronto over 15 rounds in Montreal Sept. 7. Bill Hodgson of Toronto made one of the few world records created in Canada by Canadians when he piloted his 266-cubic inch hydroplane, Miss O'Keefe, to an average speed of 125.281 miles an hour at Picton, Ont., in July.

Angling Good In District During Past Year

Sport fishing in the Tweed District of the Department of Lands and Forests was well satisfactory in four species good in four others while two did not get a rating status in a departmental survey.

Lake trout, speckle trout, Kamloops trout and muskinonge drew an excellent rating with pickerel, smallmouth and largemouth bass and pike rated "good". Rainbow trout and splake, the trout hybrid did not draw a rating in this district.

The departmental survey of the 22 districts in the province showed an above-average rating for lakes speckled, rainbow trout, splake, smallmouth bass, pike and pickerel. Angling for brown and Kamloops trout and large mouth bass was average.

Splake was rated excellent in North Bay, good in Sault Ste Marie and Dutferin and poor in Port Arthur. Aylmer and Tweed districts were the only two which rated splake for "muskies."

Pickerel was rated excellent in the northern districts, good in seven including Tweed and fair in the rest.

Smallmouth bass drew an excellent rating in only one district, Aylmer, and three others drew two "good" and five "fair" with no ratings in the rest.

Rainbow trout was excellent in five districts, good in eleven and fair in six. Speckled trout was excellent in Kemptville only, good in four other districts and fair in six.

Speckled trout was excellent in Aylmer and three other districts, good in eight and fair in Kemptville, Tweed and three districts, good in eight and fair in Bancroft, Parry Sound and fair in Hespeler and Tweed.

Bilts, Ottawa Win Junior League Games

By The CANADIAN PRESS

Guelph Biltmores are leading the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series and the secret of their success is simple—sheer overwhelming power.

Bilt m e n demonstrated it again Friday night as they blasted last-place Peterborough Peter - 6 to continue a scoring pace that has averaged more than four goals a game.

Ottawa Junior Canadiens, the only team in Ontario junior hockey which seems able to match Guelph power, also displayed it Friday night as they beat Toronto St. Michael's 6-5. Three of those goals came from Dick Dunnouhel.

In a third junior game Hamilton Cubs edged Barrie Flyers 3-2 on Jerry Sullivan's two goals. The Cubs, before a hometown crowd, was Barrie's 21st in 27 games.

BIG THREE HOT

The big Biltmore three—Danny Belisle, Bill Sweeney and Eddie Shack—who have made coach Eddie Bush's predictions that the Bilts will win 25 per cent stronger this season look good, were the three threats in Friday's win.

Belisle picked up two goals, Sweeney and Shack one and one assist each went to Bryan Webber and Bob Robinson. Wayne Connelly, Sweeney and Larry Babcock scored for the hapless Petes.

Ottawacohel added one assist to his three goals while leading Ottawa to victory. Dunnouhel, in the same starts, while Ralph Backstrom, John Ausbie and Murray Balfour added singles.

Frank Mahovlich and Lou Assadourian scored for St. Michael's.

Flyers tied the score twice in two periods at Barrie before the Cubs ended on top. Sullivan's first put them one-up in the opening period, then Billy Forhan evened it for Barrie.

The second John Roe put Hamilton in front, Arnold Norrena tied it again but Sullivan's second killed the rally.

Sportswriters, 'Casters' Split On World Hockey Question

TORONTO (CP) — Canada's but as the CAHA kicked the idea withdrawal from the 1957 hockey championships, to be held in Moscow next spring, has split the ranks of the country's sports editors and sportscasters.

Polled by The Canadian Press in an annual year-end survey, 58 editors and broadcasters attacked the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association's decision and 46 supported it.

Almost all agreed, however, that amateur hockey is declining in Canada.

Canada has won the world title 15 times in 20 attempts. Penticton Vs won it last, in 1955. The year's Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen finished third, behind Russia and the United States.

PRESTIGE COUNTS

Many poll replies said the defeat was the main reason Canada should return to the competition. Nine said that Canada should go to Moscow to regain her prestige as the world's leading exponent of hockey. One said withdrawal would indicate Canada was afraid to face Russia on ice again.

Twenty - three answered that Canada should compete because of the place hockey enjoys in this country's sports life.

Among the 46 who supported the association's ruling, 21 said Canada should withdraw because she cannot muster a sufficiently strong representative team.

Twelve echoed the CAHA's sentiment that the international situation precluded Canadian participation. Four said Canada should not send an amateur team against the state-supported pros and experts and three said the competition, as now organized, is only a world championship.

Among those who opposed the CAHA decision, Foster Kelly of radio station CKLC, Kingston, said: "Canada is the hockey centre of the world, Canada should be there (in Moscow), especially as the Russians beat Canadians in Italy in 1956."

DEBT TO COUNTRY

Jack Gatecliff of the St. Catharines Standard added: "After losing to Russia in Italy in 1956 they (the CAHA) owed it to this country to prove that it could be organized which would defeat Russia."

Jack Pierce of the Moncton Times: "Canada should compete because Canada has supplied the best top hockey players in the world and because it now looks as though we are afraid of Russia's prowess at the game."

C. G. B. Ayres of the Kamloops (B.C.) Daily Sentinel: "Canada should be represented at all times in all sports competitions."

On the other side of the fence, Don Wittman, CFQC, Saskatoon: "Canada should be represented.

McFarlands Narrow Gap On Whitby Dunlops Defeating Loop Leaders 6-4

Payette, Menard Spark Drive In Rousing Senior A Battle Before Record Crowd of 2657

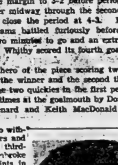
By GEORGE H. CARVER
Sports Editor

Whipping home three goals in less than two minutes in the first period, the Belleville McFarlands never looked backwards here last night and defeated the league-leading Whitby Dunlops 6-4 in a rousing senior "A" battle before a record crowd of 2657 paid customers.

The Donalds closed the margin to 5-2 before period end, then slammed home the equalizer midway through the second half with the Macs opening back by close the period at 6-4. In a spine-tingling third period the teams battled furiously before the Macs scored the clincher with two minutes to go and an extra insurance marker with seconds left. Whitby scored its fourth goal with time running out.

Paul Payette was the hero of the piece scoring two goals and two assists, with one goal the winner and the second the clincher. Minnie Menard rattled home two goals, one on a pass from Payette, assist and was beaten four times at the goalmouth by Donlevy in the Dunlops' net. Willie Menard and Keith MacDonald scored the others.

The win pulled the Macs to within three points of the leaders and five points in front of the third place Montreal Shamrocks. Pembroke is in fourth spot, three points in arrears with Kingston three points behind and one in front of the cellar dwelling Ottawa Canadiens.



Ike Hildebrand, former playing coach of the Pembroke Lumber Kings, signed his first game with Belleville fitting nicely into the Mac scheme of things. He was credited with two assists and played with Minnie and Paul on the Mac first line.

Jimmy Murelich was back in action with his old drill in a rock while Coach Bep Guidolin directed operations from the players' bench.

The power of the Dunlops was held to a minimum last night with their high-scoring front line restrained to six points, Myles getting two goals and Gagnon and Atterslev each with assists being to Ford and McBeth. The Macs rocked up 17 penalty minutes to Minnie Menard, Payette and Hildebrand accounting for nine of them.

It was a rough battle at times with referee Red Vitarelli handing out twelve penalties, eight to the Dunlops. St. Hilaire and Tom O'Connor each drew majors for fighting in the third period with the latter getting two minors besides.

The game was held up for fifteen minutes at this point when Donlevy who suffered a cut over his eye had to go to the dressing room for repairs.

KEITH MACDONALD
. . . Clinched It

The Dunlops exerted terrific pressure for the first three minutes in the second period, hemming the Macs in their own end and giving Donlevy a busy time.

Finally the Macs got organized and drove back with Hildebrand barely missing Payette's perfect goalmouth pass.

Midway through the period the Dunlies had the count. Myles who was pushed right outside the crease pushed McBeth's long pass into the net.

Bell got the gate for hooking with Lemonde serving the sentence, but the Mac defence held up and no damage was done.

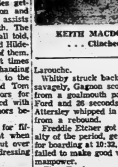
Whitby got the home ice for interference at 12.28 and a minute later Payette put the Macs one up on a nice passing play with Crawford.

St. Hilaire and Bonello went off for scuffling at 15.28 and at 18.53 Sinden was sent off with Minnie Menard following him at 19.28.

Both teams poured on the pressure in the third period with the Dunlops battling desperately for the equalizer and the Macs fighting just as hard to protect their slim lead. Play raced up and down ice but the defences were equal to the occasion and the defence stalling off their efforts.

Three penalties in the first five minutes saw to O'Connor and one to Gagnon robbed the Dunlops of any advantage for the night, and they failed to capitalize on the extra manpower. They had a two-man advantage for a short space of time but the stubborn Dunlop defence held them off. All was held as twice on Bell's doorstep with Minnie Menard and Larouche being robbed by Donlevy at the other end.

St. Hilaire and O'Connor got chased for five minutes each for high sticking at the 6.05 point Donlevy left the game for repairs necessitating a lengthy delay with Bep Guidolin came off the bench at the cessation of play and rake to lineup for a time and it was evident he was not wishing to the conditioned (Crawford) . . .



Paul Payette brought the crowd roaring to its feet at 16.16 when he blasted a shot past Donlevy for his second tally of the night, and the goal that tucked the victory away. Minnie Menard and Bobby Myles were in on the kill.

With 45 seconds to go the Macs drove hard with Keith MacDonald backhanding Johnny Murelich's Pass behind Donlevy to put the game on ice. With time running out Myles scored his second unassisted goal of the night with a drive from well out that Bell never saw.

Paul Payette was given the player-of-the-night award with Minnie Menard winning the play-

It was a battle of goalkeepers with both Donlevy and Bell at their scoring up with sensational plays when the pressure was on. The Dunlop goalie turned out at least six goal-bent shots from McFarland attackers who raced in on him alone.

The Macs outplayed in the first minutes of the game suddenly sprang to offensive life and whipped in three goals in less than two minutes.

Minnie Menard spearheaded two drives with Paul Payette and the Hildebrand scoring beautiful goals on each occasion in 43 seconds. Erotier Willie emulated the counter a minute later with a three-way passing play with Crawford.

Toronto Hurler Led Pitchers In ERA Race

NEW YORK (AP) — Eddie Blake, 31-year-old Toronto right-hander who was drafted by the Kansas City Athletics at the Jacksonville, Fla., baseball meetings, led the International League pitchers in 1936 with a 2.61 earned-run average.

Blake was the centre of a controversy following an eight-man deal involving Kansas City and Detroit Tigers. Commissioner Ford Frick refused to let Kansas City include Blake in the deal with Detroit, ordering the Athletics to keep him until late March.

The veteran righthander who spent pitched for Cincinnati Reds ished with a 17-11 record for pennant-winning Toronto and also led with six shutouts.

SHOWS BEST RECORD

Lynn Lovenguth, his 31-year-old teammate, was the high man in victories with his 24-12 record and his 3.06 earned run average. Lovenguth started 25 in 32 starts. Blake and Fred Kipp of Montreal, a Brooklyn Dodger prospect, started the most games, 33. Only pitchers who worked 154 innings or more were qualified to win titles.

Lovenguth was purchased after the season by St. Louis Cardinals. Seth Morehead, who got his first a spring trial with Philadelphia Phillies, was the strikeout leader with 193 for Miami, and Kipp, whose knuckle ball is expected to help the Dodgers, notched 15 with 118. The man to lose the most games was Frank White of Montreal with 14.

MONTREAL (CP) — President George Slater of the Canadian Hockey League announced Friday he had upheld a protest by Trois - Rivieres Lions against Shawinigan Falls Cataracts in the 5-5 game at Three Rivers, Dec. 22. Accordingly, he awarded the two points to Trois-Rivieres.

The protest arose over the Cataracts' use of goalie Gaetan Hamelin, who was suspended and injured goalie Bob Perreault ultho though Desaureault's name had been submitted on the official lineup as sub-goalie.

Slater's decision said he had to make the ruling in favor of the Lions "since the Trois-Rivieres club insists in relying on this technical infraction." Slater said that at the time the Trois-Rivieres club lodged the protest it was not using goalie players.

BARILKO SUSPENDED

Slater also announced that he has instructed referee Jim Chid Georges Gravel to suspend referee Alex Barilko for 20 days.

The action arose from a protest by Ottawa Junior Canadiens, who in a giant - scoring scramble in the QJH, against a decision in a game last Sunday which Belgian Relief Fills 9-4.

Three Big Bowl Attractions Mark Football Scene Today

NEW YORK (AP) — The big post-season U.S. football weekend got under way today with three major attractions.

At Jacksonville, Fla., Georgia Tech and Pitt meet in the Gator Bowl. The Blue-Gray game was slated for Montgomery, Ala., and the East-West Shrine game was on tap in San Francisco.

The professionals got into the act Sunday when New York Giants and Chicago Bears meet in the Polo Grounds. National Football League championship.

Then, on Tuesday, seven more games will be played—the Rose, Sugar, Cotton, Orange (the big four), Sun, Oklahoma and Prairie View.

IMPRESSIVE RECORDS

The Tech-Pitt clash is a natural. Both have good records. Tech won nine and lost one, tied one with seven last two and tied one. They met last Jan. 2 in the Sugar Bowl in New Orleans and the engineers won 7-0 when a pass interference penalty set up the lone touchdown.

"We're all hepped up on account of that Sugar Bowl game," said Pitt quarterback Corny Salterera. "We want to win that one as ours. We're as ready as we can get. The fellows are in fine shape and I've a chance to prove we're as good as Tech or better."

Tech was a 7½-point favorite, having won seven straight bowl games under coach Bobby Dodd.

EVENLY MATCHED

The East was rated a six-point choice over the Blue-Gray Shrine game.

Top guns of the West outfit figured to be Stanford passer John Brodie and Southern Cal's runner Jim Arnell.

The West has won 14 games in the series and the East 13. Four ended in ties.

The South (gray) was a six-point choice in the Blue-Gray game mainly because coach Jim Tatum can throw such backfield aces as Earl Leggett of Louisiana State at the opposition.

Senior A Hockey

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Belleville McFarlands, determined to hack Whitby Dunlops out of first place in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A loop, had their uniforms made over the evening game. He responded with two assists in the 6-4 victory, topped Dunlops 6-4 in Belleville.

The scrappy little lacrosse player could do lot to help the McFarlands' attack, as should a Bound Mercury's 3 and Chatham Maroons won their third straight, a 5-4 shutout of the Chatham Waterloo Dutchmen in Chatham.

Paul Payette was the leading point-getter in Belleville's victory, gaining two goals and two assists. Minnie Menard also scored twice and Willie Menard and Keith McDonald had single. Gordie Myles had a double for the Dunlops, Bus Gagnon and Bobby Atterslev had singles.

Bill Ezinicki scored over-time for Trappers and Don Hogan added the clincher a ter Sodden the Ottawa Lions, later going to Springfield again. He started the game with two cut lips and forms in the sterns on which the puncture can attend.

The time to hunt them is when the tidal wave is approaching the flood. Then the ducks are on floods ed and the rail, not being able to swim, must take wing at your approach. While the tide remains at flood stage, you will find them in great numbers and very shooting.

Mostly, the flight of a Sora Rail is slow, fluttering, and it flies above the tops of the reeds, rush es and wild oats. Shoot for the easy targets so long as they keep going, they have the distressing habit of folding their wings and dropping out of sight just as you press the trigger.

After a rail has been shot at and missed a time or two, he is sure to lose his nerve and fly in the typical slow, fluttering flight. A second rail, usually one of the flush with the speed and agility of a jackrabbit, will then rise from the same nest which will not be the severest test your ability as a wing shot.

While some gunners use twelve gauge guns in hunting Sora Rails, mostly the choice is the twenty-eight gauge or the little .410. Some of the best wing shots among gunners in the country use the .410 and think an amateur could accept travelling expenses to use the gun. Her plaque will be mailed to her.

Vasquez Wins Over Paolo Rosi

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Baby Vasquez, the clever, hard-hitting Mexican lightweight champion, made a big hit with fans Friday night when he stopped Dante Rosi, the quick-handed Italian from the Bronx, on a technical knockout in the seventh round.

The scheduled 10-round battle in Miami's Biscayne Auditorium was a humdinger from start to finish. The two career middleweights stood toe to toe and slugged it out, and the crowd roared its approval.

One minute and 55 seconds after the start of the seventh, referee Mike Kaplan stopped the fight and Rosi to his corner, and called for a doctor to examine cuts over both the Italian's eyes.

The doctor took a quick look at the two cuts slashes and ordered the fight stopped. Vasquez himself was bleeding freely from a gashed ear.

It was Rosi's first defeat this year after three straight victories and only his fourth loss in 27 starts. He had been established as a 2-to-5 favorite by the betting.

Vasquez now has won 46 fights against 12 defeats.

Vasquez weighed 135, Rosi 134½.

Reds Stretch League Lead

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Cleveland Barons managed to halt Camille Henry's scoring streak Friday night but they couldn't prevent Providence Reds at the same time.

The Reds extended their American Hockey League lead to seven point, defeating second - place Cleveland Barons 4-2 at Cleveland.

Henry, top scorer in the league with an amazing 29 goals in the first 30 games he played, was kept scoreless and missed a chance to tie the league mark for scoring in consecutive games.

In Friday night's other games, Buffalo Bisons defeated Hershey Bisons 3-2.

Jimmy Mellour, Gord Hanoljan and Billy Harris scored for Rochester while Jean Bettio and Pete Babando tallied for Buffalo.

At Cleveland, Henry's linemates, Zellio Toppazzini and Paul Lavoie accounted for a goal each, Henry assisting on one of them. Ray Ross and Buck Davies got the other Providence goals while Jimmy Moore and Fred Glover scored for Cleveland.

Bob Feller Quits Baseball For Business

CLEVELAND (AP)—Bob Feller, who came out of Iowa in a kid with baseball talent and blinding fastball 20 years ago to become one of baseball's greatest pitchers, hung up "No. 19" Friday.

The former righthand speedball artist announced at a press conference that he was retiring as an active player to devote more time to his insurance business here and other interests.

"I could have gone with a couple of other ball clubs, but anything I could have done with them would have taken the edge off the success I have had with the Cleveland club the last 20 years," Feller said.

In addition to his insurance business, Feller said he would become identified with a national well-known firm in the interest of youth baseball. He said he would not at liberty to name the firm.

In announcing his retirement, Feller said he would be available as offer of a front office job with the Indians.

General manager Hank Greenberg said "No. 19," which Feller wore, "will be the first number to be retired, an honor no other baseball player has ever been given.

Feller began as the flailing high school phenom who struck rocks behind the barn at Van Meter, Iowa, where he helped his father to throw a baseball so fast the batters couldn't see it. In 1936 he was a "can't miss kid" kid" with 18 in one game to his credit. He was the major league record of three no-hitters, and won 20 or more games in six seasons. He missed four seasons while on duty with the navy.

In the twenty years Feller's yearly income from the Indians was about $80,000. Now 38, he has a fine ranching home, a wife and three small sons. So he called it a career.

'Bobo' Bobenic Is Signed By McFarlands

Belleville McFarlands' manager Drury Dingeys announced late yesterday the signing of Stephen "Bobo" Bobenic, a right-winger who started the season with the Mac squad.

Bobenic who has not played since Christmas Day will practice next week with the Macs to get back into shaking of the cobwebs and will probably next Friday night against Cornwall here.

Bobenic started his pro career with the Springfield Indians in the AHL and developed into a veteran of 23 goals and 29 assists for 52 points. The next season he was with the Ottawa Senators, later going to Springfield again. He started with the Macs last season but was released a few days ago.

He was born in Crechoslovakia, is 5 feet 10 inches tall and weighs 180. Bobo saw the games last night against Whitby and was impressed with the work of his new team-mates.

The signing of Bobenic completes the McFarlands roster for the season. Sonny Lawrence was cut likely next week and from there in the Macs will settle down for the stretch run-and-hold drive for the group title.

Marlene Likes Amateur Status

TORONTO (CP) — Marlene Stewart of Streetsville, Ont., said Friday she did not go to Los Angeles to receive her award as the outstanding woman athlete and golfer of the year because she feels it would endanger her amateur status.

Miss Stewart, visiting friends here in the 1936 United States women's amateur golf champion. ## National League First Half Makes Predictors Look Silly

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The National Hockey League closes out the "58 half of its 1936-37 campaign this weekend, and a look at the standings is enough to make any forecaster sweat off pre-season predictions he has in his New Year resolutions.

Montreal Canadiens picked by every self-respecting soothsayer to finish on top of the league by an even bigger margin than last year, are chugging along in third place.

Detroit Red Wings, picked for second, are leading the league and Boston Bruins, supposed to be fighting it out with Chicago Black Hawks for last place, are in second spot, a point back of the Wings.

New York Rangers' fourth spot is a notch back of most predictions, and only Toronto Maple Leafs, in fifth position and Hawks, in the cellar, are performing as expected.

SERIES OF INJURIES

Detroit's chances of success is explained by the series of minor injuries that have plagued the Montreal Canadiens. The goal scoring ability burt, goalie Jacques Plante and forwards Maurice and Henri Richard and Bernie Geoffrion have all missed games this season.

But even at full strength Canadiens haven't looked like the previous world-beaters they were last year. Rangers have just as much chance as they should so far this season, but seem to be improving. The only team that has played itself out of the race is Toronto, especially if Ted Kennedy, their 31-year-old sparkplug centre, returns to action successfully after an 18-month layoff.

Kennedy who has been glowered about the prospect of his comeback, said Friday he thinks he can make it in a week. With the return of some of their many injured players, add to surprising play by right winger Tim Horton, a converted defenceman, Leafs might start to climb.

Meanwhile Chicago and Leafs meet in Toronto, Both are on two-game winning streaks for one of the few times this season and Sunday they will meet again in Chicago.

Montreal Canadiens are returning to action after a layoff with bursitis in his left elbow, is beating New York tonight at the Saturday Praise, and Red Wings clash in Detroit.

The Sora Rail Makes Good Hunting

Here and there along the Eastern seaboard of the U.S., are marshes, usually at the mouths of rivers. Sometimes these marshes are close enough to salt water to be slightly brackish and in them grow wild oats, the favorite food of the little game bird, the Sora Rail.

It is a source of constant surprise that more gunners are not acquainted with the Sora Rail. While primarily classed as a shore bird, he by no means confines his activities to the coast. Gunners have found him in the corn fields of the hinterlands of central Pennsylvania, 1200 feet above sea level and 300 miles from the ocean. Now and then gunners have reported that the field birdcrists of that section are that at least 100,000 Sora Rail migrate through Missouri on their southward journey each fall.

An indication of the plenitude of this little bird is found in the local fact that U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service establishes the season—25 birds per day, per gunner. To be sure, the birds are distributed over the 48 of a 90 to bet with a larger wing assembly but the limit is just right to give the sports fans as good he wished for.

The most popular way to hunt the Sora Rail is from a boat in the tidal marshes. The gallies or low-water channels that wind and twist through the grass—long, narrow, flat-bottomed affairs, with sharp prows and considerable flare, forms in the sterns on which the gunner can stand.

While Sora Rail are generally credited to be wild birds, they do not the case. If you will examine the bill of the Sora Rail that the wing equipment is out of all proportion to the size and weight of the bird. The bill is short and thick that breeds in Canada and winters in the south and has been proved fairly substantial flying gear to enable him to make such journeys. Sora—25 birds per day, per gunner. LANDY THROUGH?

MELBOURNE (AP) — World mile record holder John Landy may have run his last race, the newspaper Argus says.

Landy's legs are troubling him and if he ever runs the odds are against him producing his best form, the newspaper adds.

The Argus quotes Landy as saying: "I don't know when I'll start again because my legs aren't 100 per cent. ...

"I may run again—I hope so anyway."

AT THE PARK — They're neat and cute and all in line—but don't be misled. Eddie Foy's kids were the wildest hooligans ever to tread the boards. Bob Hope gives the finest performance of his career as their father in "The Seven Little Foys", Paramount's all-star musical biography, now playing at the Park Theatre. On the same program Dean Martin and Jerry Lewis in "You're Never Too Young", Matinee daily at 2.00 Monday and New Year's Day.

AT THE BELLE — Tom Ewell and Anne Francis play the young married couple whose domestic tranquility runs into a snag when hubby becomes the manager of a Little League baseball team, in MGM's romantic comedy "The Great American Pastime", starting today at the Belle. There is an additional complication in the person of Sam Minter playing a devoted fan of both baseball and Ewell.

It makes me proud of the highest ranking bridge players of the world when they do something right, as they sometimes do. So, look here again at world championship pair number 22:

In both rooms, south opened with a bid of one club and east doubled for takeout. This got a diamond response from west and the contract ended fast in two for three diamonds.

With so powerful a hand as east seems to have, how did they know enough to stop short of game in that agreed suit? From the zone reason I have been giving my students for a score of years.

When an opponent makes an opening one bid, what does he show? In any sound system he has the kind of big cards that should take three tricks no matter what suit becomes trump for the other side.

So, when responder of a takeout double answers in a minor suit, there is very little hope for game by defenders. Why? Game is in a minor suit requires the taking of 11 tricks.

Only 13 tricks are in any deal. If opponents takes three there are not 11 tricks left for the other side. This is why defending bidders should not attempt to reach game contract in a minor suit.

With a void or singleton the defending bidders may kill one of the trumps the opener thinks he has. But there are still other losing factors to consider, except with a freak.

This is why the most promising response to a takeout double is a major suit in which only ten tricks are needed for game. Without such a major, game in a minor by defending bidders is usually out.

Now you know why the defending champions in both rooms stopped bidding as soon as they could. They abandoned hope of a game in a minor suit. Masters still remember some fundamentals.

Ida Lupino and Howard Duff Ready to Open New TV Series

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Next Friday, Ida Lupino and Howard Duff will bravely perform in a new television show that is a light-hearted spoof of their own lives.

The show is called "Mr. Adams and Eve" on CBS. The Duffs are type-cast as a couple of film stars, and they will be accused of having some of their antics taken from life. Some are.

"It's sort of a satire of ourselves," Duff explained.

For instance, Ida's mother, an extraordinary woman, will be portrayed by Lee Patrick. Ida told stories about her mother, such as how she sent Ida a note with a newspaper photo of Ida and the comment: "You look very good, dear, for a woman your age." Ida also replied to a magazine writer who copy asked for her favorite actress: "Why, Barbara Stanwyck, of course."

Howard and Ida, who have known cheery days, are delighted with the series.

"We're happy as clams," Ida declared. "We've never gotten along so well."

That's true it—we have to," Howard laughed. "We've got too much invested together."

They have 38 half hour films to do, and Ida crossed her eyes to register fatigue as she contemplated it.

"Sure, it's hard work," Howard added. "But we're having fun together. And we're building up an investment. It is the only way we can establish some sort of future."

The series will keep them out of movies for at least a year, and perhaps much longer if the show succeeds. But that doesn't seem to bother them.

"As far as I'm concerned, I won't miss features," Howard said. "The best scripts go to just a handful of stars, and there's no fun in doing them. I'm over, I'm tired of routine westerns and half-baked tough-guy pictures. This is the first chance I've had to do comedy on film, even though the Sam Spade series I did on radio was a tongue-in-cheek affair."

Farmers Contend They Did Not Get Proper Share of Prosperity

The most vital fact of life for the Canadian farmer this year was Canada's abounding over-all prosperity.

This and growing population provided a buyer power that heaped Canadian tables with almost every food, but farmers contend they did not get their proper share of the prosperity. They felt the prices they got did not compensate for the hard work, it involves.

The Canadian consumer shows some shift in his habits—eating less bread, potatoes and butter and more meat, poultry, milk products, eggs, fruits and vegetables.

BETTER FARM YEAR

Nevertheless, the country's prosperity did give farmers, government authorities and the public a substantial fund from which to work out whatever solutions farm problems may need.

It meant, for one thing, that this was a generally better farm year than last year, with cash income—the amount received from the sale of farm products—estimated at $2,600,000,000, up $200,000,000 or 10 per cent.

It also meant that Canada has little farm - surplus problem outside of wheat and it seemingly will indicate that the decline in farm income since 1951-52 has passed its low point and any other gains will be for the better.

Another farm fact of life is that the farm has changed in recent years and will continue to change.

Some say farms will soon be bigger, more mechanized and more like a factory than a farm, prize.

Others say that the bigger-and-bigger theme applies to only some areas of farming; and that, given productivity, a farm prize-winner can still be built with work and a limited amount of machinery.

FARMING OF FUTURE

On the basis of comment the picture might be projected as follows:

Prairie wheat farms will continue to be large and will continue to grow wheat on less than three-quarters of the present 62 acres it is unlikely to be profitable.

As population and demand for variety of foods increases, the current tendency to more mixed prairie farming will grow and somewhat counter balance the move to size.

The Maritimes potato grower and the British Columbia apple grower face different prospects. Wheat can be stored but potatoes and apples are perishable. The fruit is highly perishable and likely to continue to be spread among relatively small areas.

One agricultural authority commented:

"The small farmer is not going out of business—some of the best managers in the country are to all seasons.

be found on the farm.

"The expert may say, 'double your herd of cows,' but perhaps he has never milked cows. One man with a milking machine can look after 30 cows, but he can't get mechanized enough to look after 40."

Another commented:

"The farm won't exist unless life on it is made enjoyable enough for people to come in and live on it."

Indications are that efforts to get farmers off unprofitable farm land put it back into some productive capacity, such as forests, will be stepped up.

The western wheat surplus continued to take headliners during the year, but increased exports in the crop year ended July 31, and indications that exports in 1956-57 will be as good or better, relieved some of the urgency, despite a record supply of the cereal.

Canada's 1956 wheat crop is estimated at 538,000,000 bushels nine per cent above last year and 19 per cent above the average of 1945-55.

Added to this is 337,000,000 bushels carryover from last year for a total supply this crop year of 1,073,000,000 bushels.

BIGGER CARRYOVER

Canadian consumption is expected to be 160,000,000 bushels and, assuming that exports are about the same as in 1955-56, the carryover on July 31 would be larger than the record carryover of 762,000,000 bushels on July 31, 1955.

Among other grain crops, rye was down to 8,600,000 bushels from 14,800,000 bushels last year; oats down to 472,000,000 from 483,000,000 bushels; barley is up 19 per cent at 292,000,000 bushels; mixed grains, total a record 63,000,000 bushels; and a 24,000,000 - bushel crop in flaxseed is expected.

Possibility of drought, which has plagued Canada from time to time, United States, continues to hang over the west as a question mark for 1957.

In general, across Canada, the farm picture appears one of changes from last year, except that British Columbia production was down generally.

Prices were generally well maintained and in some cases higher incomes resulted from a better movement of western grain.

In butter — the government maintained a floor price for No. 1—the surplus is down some 30,000,000 pounds from its peak early December and increased consumption and partly because of decreased production. Government officials say that a surplus of 30,000,000 to 40,000,000 pounds is needed if stable prices to the consumer are to be maintained in all seasons.

Canadian Fishermen Generally Had Better Year Than Last

By FORBES RHUDE

Canadian Press Business Editor

The well - fed Canadian is a problem to fishermen.

He can't be dealt with an appeal to his hunger, because he isn't hungry. The fetish then is one must displace some other attractive and tasty food on his table.

Nevertheless, Canadian fishermen have had a generally good year, both catch and dollar return substantially higher than in 1955.

LANDINGS INCREASE

On Oct. 31, landings on Atlantic and Pacific coasts totalled 1,201,780,000 pounds, up 207,100,000 pounds for which the fishermen got $78,962,000, an increase of $15,121,000. The full year's figures will be about 10 per cent higher.

Inland fishing, including the Great Lakes and lakes in Western Canada, will total 230,000,000.

Most of the inland catch is exported and export figures to the end of September totalled $15,614,000, an increase of $1,674,000.

The British Columbia salmon catch was smaller but because of good prices, was up to the United States.

Both Canadians and Americans are among the world's smallest fish eaters, consuming only about 14 pounds a person a year, compared with 40 to 50 pounds in the United Kingdom and 90 pounds in Japan.

But Canadian consumption has been gradually going up. Today's 14-pound consumption compares with 11 a year or about five years ago.

If the world is heading into a food shortage, as many believe, demand for fish may really soar.

CONFOUNDING ASSET

George Clark, federal—deputy minister of fisheries says:

"We must look to the sea for the increased protein needs of the future. So long as we take care of it and don't over-fish it, it is a continuing asset. The good Lord put it there and we don't have to fertilize it or plow it. It cleanses itself and takes care of itself."

On the Atlantic coast this year, Newfoundland salt fish found good markets in Caribbean countries.

Mechanical drying is replacing the old method of laying fish on flakes—or stages—and letting the wind and sun do the job. The Newfoundland Fisheries Board, in the fresh-fish market, made possible by modern filleting and freezing plants.

Newfoundland is the big salt-fish producer, but otherwise developments in the three other Atlantic provinces have followed much the same lines, with emphasis on advertising, packaging, aggressive merchandising, advertising, and, above all, getting the fish to areas of population in sea-fresh condition.

The lobster industry had one of its best years for a long while.

OFF-YEAR FOR SALMON

On the Pacific coast, sockeye and pink salmon were on an off-year of their life-cycle and about 1,113,000 cases of salmon were packed compared with a normal 1,700,000. Next year is expected to be a big one for pinks.

To hold accustomed markets, especially in the United Kingdom, canners for two years have been importing Japanese sockeye to bolster their own supplies.

Halibut fisheries, which started the year with cold-storage space almost empty, had a good year. Herring used mostly for meal and oil, were plentiful.

The Great Lakes fisheries have been hit by pollution and, from one lake trout but fishermen have switched to other species, such as smelt.

NORTHERN DELICACY

Great Slave Lake in the Northwest Territories, opened to commercial fishing in 1945, is allowed a quota limit of 9,000,000 pounds of white fish and trout which bring high prices in the United States. It is perhaps the only fishery in the world which was scientifically assessed before commercial fishing started.

Towering over all current fishing problems is the salmon-versus-power controversy on British Columbia's Fraser River.

British Columbia needs hydro-electric power and power requires dams. Dams form barriers to salmon on their pilgrimages from the ocean to their spawning beds. Fishermen motored him to the polls.

Hungary Asks British, U.S. Technical Aid

BUDAPEST (AP)—The official newspaper of Premier Janos Kadar's Communist party Friday appealed for technical as well as financial aid from the United States, Britain and Russia.

At the same time the paper Nepszabadsag admitted that Communist regimes had been lying to the Hungarian people for years to hide the much higher living standards and technical and scientific advances made in the West.

It said the Hungarian people, especially its intellectuals and technical experts, were cut off from the West "in order to prevent them from having how backward Hungary has been."

NEW YEAR'S EVE

Prices in Winnipeg range from $1.50 a person at small dances to $10 a couple at large hotels.

Toronto has a wide variety in prices, ranging from $20 a couple at one hotel for dinner and dancing with drinks extra, to $6.50 a person cover charge at another. Private clubs have parties ranging with costs going up to $16 a couple.

One nightclub has set a $5 cover charge, $3.50 a person minimum food bill and added 10 per cent to all prices to cover the gratuities now customary.

House parties are the rule in Ottawa also, where only one hotel is sponsoring any sort of New Year's entertainment—a special dinner-dance at its ample New Year's Eve, and another New Year's Day brunch for a couple. On the Quebec side of the capital area, hotels serving liquor will be closing at 2 a.m.

The Ottawa Firefighters' Association will hold its annual leadership convention. On New Year's Day Mayor Charlie Hulme, who officially takes office that day to succeed the retiring Mayor Charlotte Whitton, will be at home to the public in the Assembly Hall of Lansdowne Park.

MONTREAL ENFORCES LAW

In Montreal, called Canada's gayest city, will close its night clubs at 9 p.m. Police have been ordered to enforce the rule, and house parties are the major entertainment.

In Saint John, N.B., a couple of hotels will close down at 10 p.m. and dance to 3 a.m. for $12 plus the cost of drinks. Night spots expect capacity crowds, although house parties rank high in popularity.

Halifax costs have risen from a high last year of $10 a couple to $15 in larger places.

Celebrants with children will find themselves deserted with a solid sum before they leave the house. Babysitters generally have an at least doubled their rates, and in many centres are asking a $5 minimum for the evening.

Little Benny's Notebook

Pop was puffing puffs and looking at his cigar with a loving expression, saying to ma, By golbies, my dear, it's about time for my annual New Year resolution.

Meeting to stop smoking, and ma said, Oh, that reminded me, William, Dr. Ruhu Bannister had a very intriguing article about that very subject in his Sycology of Everyday Living column. He said resolutions are easily broken because they are made too casually. According to him, if it was possible to get up on a platform and make a resolution before a whole mass of cheering people, the chances are you would never break it, he said.

Then I'll make my annual resolution with flags flying and trumpets blowing, pop said. I'll make it right now with an impassioned speech, oratory, he said, and I said, G, go ahead, pop, and me and ma will be the mass of cheerful people.

Here I go, pop said. Ladies and gentlemen, I am told, and ma said, Here here, the grate man is about to speak.

Hurraw for the grate man, I yelled, and pop said, I hereby and now solemnly state and announce before this large and splendid gathering of relatives and ma that on and after the concluding day of the current year no carrier of coal tars and nicksters shall pass my lipe until some distant but unspecified date.

3 cheers for pop, I yelled, and ma said, Now I wouldn't be at all surprised, William, to see you go a whole week into the new year without smoking, that is of your usual paltry 2 or 3 days.

Gosh, how I dread it, pop said.

Being the end of the subject.

TOP-LEVEL

On his arrival Mr. Gamble said "we'll be receptive to anything the Railway or the government which we can sell to our members." But he added "I'm going to be hard to convince them."

NOT TAKING PART

Prime Minister St. Laurent was not taking part in the discussions today. He was holidaying at Quebec City. However, his office said late Friday he was in touch with developments and could start back to Ottawa on a few hours' notice if necessary.

The non-operating unions, it was announced Friday night at Montreal, will respect the firemen's picket lines on the CPR if a strike materializes.

CPR Vice-President D. S. Thomson said that if union members other than those of the Firemen's Brotherhood are prepared to work despite the proposed strike, the company will run trains. None have stated publicly that they will breach the firemen's picket lines to get to the job.

Mr. Thomson's brief statement was issued as a direct reply to a statement by W. E. Gamble, vice president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen (CLC).

Commenting on a CPR announcement that the company could suspend rail operations if the firemen strike, Mr. Gamble said in an interview: "As far as we are concerned it's a strike for firemen, but it's a lockout for all other employees of the CPR."

The Week's News

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Day by day the news from Egypt was that the job of clearing the usr Canal was, about to be done. But a new one was Egyptian objection disposed of than Nasser's men came up with a new set of conditions.

The most positive announcement came from Hungary where the United Nations salvage chief, Lt.-Gen. Raymond Wheeler, who said the Egyptians had agreed to allow an immediate start on clearing the southern end of the canal. Promptly new complications set in.

Nasser's main condition — the withdrawal of British and French troops—was met last Saturday night when the last British soldier embarked at Port Said.

Completion of the evacuation set off wild Egyptian demonstrations, a high spot of which was the seizure of the British operating status of Ferdinand de Lesseps' son-in-law Freedman who organized the financing and digging of the canal nearly 100 years ago.

INDONESIAN PYREMERY

A short-lived insurrection in the Indonesian island of Sumatra reminded the world of another potential trouble spot. Sumatra, located in importance of the Indonesian islands after Java, is the centre of the Indonesian oil industry. Java is the home island of the United States capital.

The rebellion, led by an army officer, was in support of demands for greater provincial autonomy. It seemed somewhat more against Premier Ali Sastroamidjojo than against the Indonesian president, Dr. Sukarno, who recently visited Canada.

RAIL STRIKE THREAT

Six years after the national rail strike that paralyzed the country for nine days, a new strike threatens. This time it involves only the one line — the Canadian Pacific.

About 3,000 employees, members of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, scheduled a walkout for next Wednesday. They claim CPR plans to eliminate firemen aboard certain diesel locomotives is a threat to the disappearance of their craft.

CPR says the jobs of only about 300 firemen-helpers would be eliminated under the plan, that at present going out to seal.

No way has yet been found to assure both power and salmon. Hydro-electric power is also recently:

"Even with runways, salmon suffer a mortality of 19 per cent in getting over a dam. Put 10 dams on the Fraser and how many salmon are left? And, each barrier they pass they become weaker."

DEER SURPLUS

FERNIE, B. C. (CP)—Suggestion that the deer hunting kill should be raised to 100,000 annually was made here by James Hatter, chief game department biologist. He estimated about 50,000 were killed last year but said the 100,000 target could be reached eventually without seriously depleting B. C. herds.

ALGIERS (AP) — A Moslem nationalist today shot and killed Amedee Froger, president of the Federation of Mayors of Algeria, on a crowded street in downtown Algiers. The assassin escaped.

One Man Shot, Another Beaten, By Hooded Gang

CAMDEN, S.C. (AP)—A white land director, thrashed by a gang of hooded men who thought he had spoken in favor of school integration, said Friday from his hospital bed:

"You let a bunch get away with something like this and there's no telling where it would stop."

Guy Hutchins, 52, commenting on his attack on a lonely road and the shooting of a 65-year-old man by a similarly hooded group, said of his attackers: "I can't help but feel sorry for them. They were sincerely afraid that I was putting their ideas of life in jeopardy."

SEEK ASSAILANTS

Meanwhile, state agents have joined county officers in efforts to track down the assailants of both men.

Hutchins is a former director of the Spartansburg, S.C., and Charlotte, N.C., symphony orchestras. He teaches music at Camden High and formerly held similar positions at Spartansburg and Greenville, S.C.

At his home in Camden, the telephone rang repeatedly Friday night as sympathizers called to wish him well.

His wife and two sons, 15 and 8, were under the protection of a Camden city police in the face of threats that they "get out of town by sundown."

The other wounded man, whose identity was withheld, said he was attacked by similarly hooded men because they were critical of his personal conduct.

Series of Controversial Govt. Measures Kept Parliament In Session for 156 Days

By JOHN E. BIRD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—The business of Parliament in 1956 took up nearly three - quarters of the working year.

The government's legislative program was so heavy and debates so long and controversial that there were only 98 "working days" in the year when the Commons was not in session.

Parliament met twice in 1956, sitting a total of 156 days. It will meet again Jan. 8 for an anticipated short session preceding a general election in June.

APPROACHED RECORD

The regular session lasted 152 sitting days from Jan. 10 to Aug. 14, three days short of the 1953 record. The special session covered four days from Nov. 26 to 29 and was the shortest of its kind.

A series of controversial government measures, particularly a bill to help finance a private company's $210,000,000 venture to pipe Alberta natural gas to eastern Canada, was responsible for the length of the session.

The Progressive Conservative and CCF parties waged an unsuccessful three-week procedural battle to block the pipeline legislation. They raised repeated points of order after the government applied debate-limiting closure—for the first time since 1932—to have the legislation approved by a June 7 deadline.

There was near - riotous revolt against the chair's rulings, with echoes which continued for the rest of the session. Speaker René Beaudoin survived an unparalleled opposition motion of censure, later submitted his resignation under opposition fire and finally withdrew it at the request of Prime Minister St. Laurent.

The pipeline legislation granted a loan of up to $80,000,000 to Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Ltd. for the prairie section of its Alberta-Montreal line. It also established a federal-Ontario crown corporation to build the $115,000,000 Northern Ontario section, which is to be leased to Trans-Canada.

SPECIAL SESSION

The pipeline controversy ranked in drama with the debates at last month's special session, called to approve expenditures for Canada's contribution to the United Nations emergency force in the Middle East and to vote $1,000,000 for Hungarian relief. It was the first special session since 1950, when Parliament was called to deal with the railway strike and to thank the Canadian Korean contingent.

Early in the regular session, the government needed 12 days to get passage of a bill to authorize loans to prairie farmers unable to harvest grain because of jammed marketing channels in the fall of 1955.

The bill approved government action begun in November, 1955, to guarantee bank loans of up to $1,500 at five-per-cent interest on farm-stored grain. All three opposition parties wanted the Canadian wheat board to provide interest-free cash advances.

The government, by order-in-council in October, extended the legislation for another year, enabling farmers to obtain loans until June 1, 1957.

There was no opposition to another bill to pay a year's storage charges on wheat carryovers in excess of 178,000,000 bushels at the Aug. 1 start of each crop year. It meant a $32,000,000 payment for the 1955-56 year.

TRADE WITH RUSSIA

Parliament also approved Canada's first trade agreement with Russia under which the Soviets agreed to buy a minimum 44,000,000 bushels of wheat over a three-year period. Canada put Russian imports on the same tariff basis as those from the United States and other countries having trade agreements with this country.

Finance Minister Harris' March 20 budget contained no tax relief for the average Canadian. It enlisted a small $12,000,000 from government income by freeing a scattering of special-use goods from the 10-per-cent sales tax. It forecast a peacetime record of $4,650,000,000 in spending and a $113,000,000 surplus for the year ending next March 31.

The most controversial change in the budget was a new excise tax of 20 per cent on gross advertising revenues of special Canadian editions of foreign magazines—those carrying Canadian advertisements not appearing in the magazine's domestic edition. It is scheduled to take effect Jan. 1.

New federal-tax-sharing proposals to the provinces were approved to become effective next April 1. They provide for deductions of 19 per cent of the federal personal income tax, nine per cent of corporation income and 50 per cent of succession duties to cover provincial taxing in those fields.

The plan also provides unconditional share-the-wealth equalization payments to less - wealthy provinces and stabilization guarantees for provincial revenues.

Ottawa's commitment to the trans - Canada highway program was raised from $150,000,000 to $250,000,000. The 50-50 cost-sharing arrangement with the provinces was continued to the end of 1960, and Ottawa agreed to pay 90 per cent of the cost of selected gaps totalling 10 per cent of the road's mileage in each province.

OTHER LEGISLATION

Other new laws involved:

1. A change in the National Housing Act to allow slum areas cleared with federal help to be sold for commercial and industrial use, instead of necessarily restricted to low-rental housing or public use.

2. Widening of federal control over interest rates on small loans to cover charges as high as $1,500 instead of $500.

3. Federal payment of half of the provincial unemployment relief costs when unemployment in any area exceeds six per cent of its population.

4. Extension of unemployment insurance to fishermen.

5. Equal wages for women doing the same work as men in industries under federal labor jurisdiction.

6. Provision that applications for leave to appeal death sentences to the Supreme Court of Canada must go before five judges, instead of one.

7. Continuation for another two years of the powers of the federal transport controller.

8. Extension to the end of 1958 of cost - aid subsidies to gold mines.

DIED IN SIBERIA

VIENNA (AP) — Msgr. Nicola Budka, who served 16 years in Canada as head of Canadian Catholics of the Byzantine Rite, died seven years ago in a Siberian slave labor camp, the Vienna Catholic news agency Kathpress reported Friday. Repeated attempts by the Canadian government to obtain his release were ignored by Russia, Kathpress said.

Cornwall to Double Population, Increase Its Area 30 Times By Annexation New Year's Day

CORNWALL (CP) — This bustling river city, which had its beginnings when the chief mode of transportation on the St. Lawrence still was the canoe, is getting ready to reap some of the riches of a giant industrial enterprise springing up at its front door.

On New Year's Day Cornwall will more than double its population, increase its area 30 times and get the stage for what everybody hopes will be an unprecedented boom born of its strategic location in the St. Lawrence seaway and power project.

The city officially annexes the urban portion of surrounding Cornwall Township at midnight Dec. 31 to take by far the biggest jump in its 172-year history.

Absorption of the urban-rural township, which over the years since its incorporation in 1854 has been bitten off by the city in fragmentary slices, will increase Cornwall's population to 40,000 from 17,161 and expand its one-square-mile area to 30 square miles.

MANY PROBLEMS

It will boost the city's assessment to $50,000,000 from $21,000,000 and, incidentally, stir up a hatful of problems—the kind civic and business leaders are just relishing to tackle.

Joining of the two municipalities into a single body was ordered last March by the Ontario Municipal Board after hearings conucted here on the city's application. Civic authorities on both sides said the move was essential to the community's future expansion.

The township, with a predominantly French-speaking population, already has blossomed into an important manufacturing area. With an eye on dividends from the seaway-power project, the city and township last spring engaged a full-time industrial commissioner who has been working closely with authorities of both municipalities in seeking new industry.

In addition, the city last fall expropriated 300 acres of choice riverfront land east of the city and earmarked it for industrial development.

The expropriated land faces on the north channel of the St. Lawrence River, which will be dredged next spring to a depth of 27 feet in what could be a preliminary move towards an eventual all-Canadian seaway.

MAJOR JOB

This raises problem No. 1. In order to capitalize on the seaway, Cornwall will have to embark on a major port construction program and facilities now are inadequate to handle deep-sea shipping.

Annexation will bring into the city limits the main construction sites in this area of the $600,000,000 power project. The Canadian part of the Barnhart Island powerhouse, now well under way, is only three miles west of the present city limits. Under annexation, the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission's administration centre and other work installations will become part of the city.

The expanded city will have a 13-man city council headed by Emile D. Menard, 46-year-old businessman who completed one year as township reeve before defeating veteran mayor Aaron Howard in the Dec. 3 civic election.

The two police departments will merge into a combined force of about 45 men. There will be consolidation of civic administrative staffs, major changes in the school administration and a host of other problems as annexation's early impacts are felt.

STUDYING RULES

EDMONTON (CP) — Edmonton's traffic department booklet on city traffic by-laws has become a best-seller. When it was sold only through the city' clerk's office, 2,000 would last more than a year. Now it's available from city cashiers and in one month 1,500 were sold at 10 cents each.

Rommel's Aide Will Command NATO Forces

Desert Fox's Staff Chief To Head Mid-Europe Army

BONN (AP)—Informed sources said here today that a German general will be named next year as commander of NATO land forces in central Europe. Lt.-Gen. Hans Speidel is the probable choice.

Such an appointment would mark the first high military post for a German in the Western alliance since the war.

Speidel was chief of staff to Field Marshal Erwin Rommel in North Africa. Now 59, he was one of the first men named to a general command in the new West German army.

The middle European army command includes troops of the United States, Britain, Belgium, The Netherlands and West Germany.

NATO headquarters in Paris confirmed the Bonn report but said they could not give any date for the appointment.

21 Persons Die Accidentally in 2 Days of Holiday

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

At least 21 persons have died accidentally in Canada after two days of the four-day New Year's holiday, but the country appeared to be certain of a total far less than the record 61 who died during last year's three-day holiday.

All indications were, however, that the Canadian Safety Council's prediction of 40 deaths would be reached by midnight Tuesday.

The reason for the apparently lower toll this year was in the decrease that day of fatalities due to traffic accidents and fires.

Last year 29 persons were killed on the highways. By midnight Sunday of this year, a Canadian Press survey which began at 6 p.m. local time Friday showed 15 were dead in traffic accidents.

Fires last year claimed 14 lives.

There were 10 fatalities in Ontario, six in Quebec, two were children smothered in the blankets of beds, three died in two fire deaths, three on the highways. British Columbia had three in traffic, a driver, two on the highway, while Saskatchewan had one.

All other provinces—Prince Edward Island, New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and Manitoba reported no fatalities.

Ontario fatalities:

Alexander D. Russell, 30, in car-truck collision in Toronto.

Baldwin Haddad, 54, when car skidded into river at Holland Landing.

Alexander Sawin, 70, hit by car in Toronto.

Nicholas Crakovich, 30, when car skidded into water-filled ditch near Port Colborne.

Mrs. Mary Sisner, hit by streetcar in Toronto.

Roy Millett, 39, in car-truck collision at Alliston.

Ernest Rogers, 28, after fighting between moving freight cars in Hamilton.

Clara Lee Waters, 3, suffocated in cartiage at Sarnia.

Robert Allan Anderson, 26, of Winchester, when fan of car spluttered near Prescott.

Four-month-old son of Mrs. William Besso, smothered in crib in Toronto.

R.C. Cathedral In Hartford Burns

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP)—Fire which broke out at the close of the Y.a.. mass in St. Joseph's Roman Catholic Cathedral here mushroomed into a three - alarm blaze today.

The fire broke out about 30 hours after a fire all but destroyed another Roman Catholic church, St. Patrick's, downtown Hartford. The loss there was estimated at $250,000.

Today's fire still was out of control more than an hour after it was discovered.

Rev. Francis O'Neill, who was celebrating the 8 o'clock mass in the Blessed Sacraments from the Altar.

Fire Marshal George Kennedy said Sunday that the investigation of the fire at St. Patrick's was taking into account the possibility of arson.

Milder air which has spread into Southwestern Ontario will spread the snowfall is expected to cover the Lake Ontario region by noon giving temperatures in the mid 30s. New Year's Day will be mostly sunny and very cold in Ontario. Some snowflurry activity will persist in the Lake Huron and Georgian Bay regions.

$800,000 FIRE AT VALLEYFIELD CAUSES ONE DEATH

Business, Residential Block Destroyed

VALLEYFIELD, Que. (CP) — Wind - whipped flames swept through a business and residential block here Sunday, causing an estimated $800,000 damage and forcing more than 100 persons into the street in sub-zero weather.

One man was missing and presumed dead beneath the ice-coated rubble of a building where the fire is believed to have started. About 60 persons fought the blaze and then firemen injured fighting the blaze, some from frostbite or hospital treatment. None was seriously injured.

The fire broke out at 4:45 p.m. EST and 25-mile an hour winds showered the area for two blocks around with sparks. More than seven hours later the fire was under control.

Eight stores, a branch of the Provincial Bank of Canada and the Valleyfield Y.M.C.A. building were destroyed. Most of the families lived in apartments above the stores.

ICE 6 INCHES THICK

Firemen still pumped water to the smouldering ruins early today. Ice was more than six inches thick on the walls of the building which remained standing.

More than 100 persons were mostly volunteers—required first-aid treatment at a hastily-established Red Cross headquarters for burns, frostbite or exhaustion. Many were driven from their homes through smoke - filled eyes and lashes coated with ice.

Mayor Hormidas Barlow, said she fire could have been brought under control much sooner if a shortage of pressure had developed above 10 a.m. when about 30 wooden homes near the burned - out block were threatened.

"It was just hopeless trying to stop the fire at first," said Barlow, who stood for two hours on an ice-coated roof directing a hose into an adjoining building before he was brought to exhaustion by Red Cross headquarters.

The fire kept pumping water into the flames but it didn't seem to make any difference. They kept spreading and it just spread all over the place."

Screaming Gale Causes Damage Across Maritimes

HALIFAX (CP) — A screaming gale with winds up to 100 miles an hour ripped across the Maritimes Sunday, throwing its full weight on an unprepared Nova Scotia, and leaving a wide swath of crumbled trees, poles and buildings.

Damage will run into the thousands, but it will be weeks before the gale's full effects are known. Twelve hours after the gale passed out of the province hundreds of small communities were isolated behind tangled power and communication lines.

Damage in New Brunswick was light compared to Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island escaped damage.

LOSE GEAR

Lobster fishermen apparently were hardest hit. It will be days before their losses are known, but many of their boats, wharves, fishhouses, and other shore equipment.

In Nova Scotia the gale flattened buildings, uprooted trees, felled telephone poles, smashed windows, toppled poles, grounded ships, and knocked out communications and power.

Three ships went aground in Halifax harbor, and dozens of smaller fishing boats were driven on the rocky coast.

In Halifax a microwave tower on Citadel Hill was blown down.

A Halifax mother gave birth to a baby on the ground floor of a Halifax hospital when a power failure prevented an elevator from carrying her upstairs.

JAILED AS SPY

BERLIN (Reuters)—The ypsilanmaster of the East German chemical works at Schwarzheide near Berlin has been sentenced to six years at hard labor for allegedly spying for the United States. Heinz Hoffmann was also sentenced for providing U.S. authorities in West Berlin with production methods and samples of an unspecified sort of synthetic fuel.

BURLINGTON, Wis. (AP)—As a result" story of hogs doomed to die from lack of sleep because their tails were pulled so tight they couldn't get their eyes shut—and a farmer's hogs got a little ball of gumbo on their tails. As they walked around it got bigger and bigger until the weight of it pulled their skin so tight they couldn't get their eyes shut—and they couldn't get much sleep."

Hopkins won the club's "gold-plated, diamond-studded" medal for relating:

CPR Strike Would Affect Several CNR Pool Trains

MONTREAL (CP)—Should the threatened strike of CPR firemen materialize all direct train service between Ottawa and Toronto will be halted Wednesday.

A person in Ottawa wishing to travel to Toronto will have to either come to Montreal or to Cobourg, 100 miles west of here, to catch a Toronto-bound train. A person travelling from Toronto to Ottawa also will have to come via Montreal.

CPR-CNR pool trains would be affected by a strike, Canadian National Railways spokesman said announced the temporary cancellation of these trains starting Wednesday.

Pool train No. 34 leaving Toronto at 11:20 p.m. for Ottawa; pool train No. 24 leaving Toronto at 11:40 p.m. for Ottawa; pool train No. 44 leaving Brockville 8:10 p.m. for Ottawa; pool train No. 33 leaving Ottawa 3 p.m. for Toronto; pool train No. 23 leaving Ottawa 11:40 p.m. for Toronto; pool train 538 leaving Ottawa 3:30 p.m. for Brockville.

A CNR spokesman said the Ottawa-Toronto and Toronto-Ottawa pool trains were being cancelled because they run over CPR tracks between Brockville and Ottawa.

The Toronto - Montreal pools will operate over CNR tracks and into the CNR station instead of the CPR station here.

Dulles Explains to UN Head New U.S. Middle East Plans

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — State Secretary Dulles of the United States scheduled a meeting with Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold at the United Nations today to explain the Eisenhower administration's new economic-military plan to checkmate Soviet expansion in the Middle East.

Dulles was expected to emphasize that the doctrine is to block any Soviet attack or subversion in the strategically vital Middle East and not to undercut UN efforts to establish a permanent peace there and to speed reopen the Suez Canal.

Dulles would not discuss his meeting with Hammarskjold when he arrived by military plane from Washington Sunday, but his words the outline of the far-reaching American plan reported from the U.S. capital:

President Eisenhower wants Congress to give him the broad authority to use U.S. troops if he considers it necessary to oppose any Soviet aggression in the Middle East. This is in keeping with the president's philosophy he should have congressional approval for any military action. Official sources say there is no intention of sending American troops into the tense area at present.

On the economic side, the administration wants $400,000,000 to allocate over five years to Middle Eastern - Mediterranean countries from Gibraltar to the Arabian Sea.

Washington is understood to believe that the UN will not cope with direct Soviet aggression in the Middle East because of the Russian veto in the Security Council. The U.S., on the other hand, thinks it has enough economic and military strength to fill the vacuum left by declining Britain and French influence in the area.

Fog Blankets Fire-Seared Malibu Region

MALIBU, Calif. (AP)—A cool, damp fog drifted in from the sea early today across the fire-seared Santa Monica mountains, where flames had swept unchecked only as embers.

Fire officials Sunday night declared the blazes "under control." Only scattered embers remained within the perimeters of the fire here, one centred a dozen miles north of Malibu Beach, and a third over the crest of the mountains behind Point Dume fire, in the Lake Sherwood area.

Between them they burned over more than 60 square miles. Eight seven homes were destroyed. One man was given a sentence to six years at hard labor for allegedly spying for the United States. Heinz Hoffmann was also sentenced for providing U.S. authorities in West Berlin with production methods and samples of an unspecified sort of synthetic fuel.

Anglo-American Unity Urged By Churchill

LONDON (Reuters)—Sir Winston Churchill told Conservatives today that the solution of Britain's international problems and the happiness of the free world depended on Anglo-American unity.

In a New Year's message to the Primrose League, leading Conservative party organization, the veteran statesman declared: "During the year just ended new and anxious problems have come upon the scene. We have been moved and our hearts have been stirred by the heroism of the brave people of Hungary.

"In the Middle East long smouldering events have moved towards a new phase. Now more than ever we and our American friends must not let our differences cloud our judgment.

"On unity and unity alone the future depends."

SUEZ CANAL WILL BE OPEN TO SMALL SHIPS IN MARCH

Would Allow Oil Tankers Passageway

PORT SAID (AP) — Lt.-Gen. Raymond A. Wheeler estimates that his United Nations salvage fleet will open a small channel through the Suez Canal by early March and clear a passage for ships of all sizes in May.

It will be up to the Egyptian government when ships actually will going through the vital east-west waterway, said Wheeler, the American engineer in charge of canal clearance for the UN.

Salvage vessels chartered by the UN started work at the southern end of the waterway Saturday. Salvage work at the blocked part of the northern end was to start today.

Wheeler said the job would be completed "at full speed in cooperation with Egyptian authorities."

The channel to be cleared in March, he said, will be big enough for ships of 25-foot draft. That would include tankers and other craft of roughly 10,000 tons.

TO PULL DEBRIS

Some work in May, Wheeler said, the UN fleet expects to clear the canal to a depth of 34 feet depth of 34 feet three inches, enabling all ships built to canal dimensions to pass in safety. The largest ocean - going ships will be never long able to use the canal.

"When I finish my job," Wheeler said, "I'll simply tell the Egyptian government the canal is open and ready for commercial traffic. What the Egyptian government does after that is not my affair."

The UN salvage fleet now totals 24 vessels and will be built up to about 30. This is in addition to some British-French vessels temporarily incorporated into the fleet which will continue work under Wheeler's direction during January.

South Sumatra State of War Is Proclaimed

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP)—President Sukarno of Indonesia tonight proclaimed a state of war and siege over the province of South Sumatra.

No immediate explanation was given by the government for the sweeping action.

Officials were unavailable for comment.

The president's action came a week after he had proclaimed a similar state of war and siege over the island of Celebes, also composing North Sumatra. That proclamation was prompted by a rebellion against the Celebes commander in protest against the widely criticized cabinet of President Ali Sastroamidjojo. But that coup has since been put down.

Santa's Enemy on Warpath Again, New Year's Resolutions His Foes

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Dr. Brock Chisholm, who doesn't believe in Santa Claus, apparently doesn't feel any more benevolent towards another well-established annual institution—the New Year's resolution.

The former director - general of the World Health Organization says: "If any change in attitude or behavior is desirable it is worth until the beginning of the next year? And I don't believe in temporary resolutions."

But most other Canadians in the news today are not so cynical, and their statements are any criterion, most of them, especially the Prime Minister, Right Honorable Charlotte Whitton, Ottawa's reform mayor, pronounced herself "a more a battle cry, indicating she is going to be much the same in 1957 as she was in 1956. Said Miss Whitton, quoting from Lord Tennyson's Ulysses:

"How dull it is to pause, to make an end,
To rust unburnish'd, not to shine in use
As though to breathe were life."

"For any who miss the point, she added, "I mean as I possibly can until I have none left."

Hope To Defer Railway Strike As Talks Resume

Disputants Consider Formula That Might Stop Walkout

OTTAWA (CP)—Top officers of the CPR and its firemen's union went into conference here with government officials shortly before 10 a. m. today in a new attempt to avert a strike by the union set for Wednesday.

After government - sponsored meetings which failed to bring about agreement Saturday, the latest discussions opened just 24 hours after the scheduled week end of the waterway Saturday. Salvage work at the blocked part of the northern end was to start today.

Wheeler said the job would be completed "at full speed in cooperation with Egyptian authorities."

The channel to be cleared in March, he said, will be big enough for ships of 25-foot draft. That would include tankers and other craft of roughly 10,000 tons.

Chou-En-Lai In Delhi for Talks With Nehru

NEW DELHI (Reuters) — Chinese Communist Premier Chou En-lai arrived here Sunday for a second round of talks with Prime Minister Nehru following the Indian leader's return from visits to North America and Britain.

Nehru and a crowd of several hundred were present at the airport when Chou flew in from Dacca, East Pakistan, on the last leg of his current Asian tour.

Special significance is attached to the new meeting because of Nehru's recent talks with President Eisenhower on Far East problems.

Nehru is expected to give Chou Eisenhower's views on the three main questions affecting international China:

1. The future of Nationalist-held Formosa and the American contention that Communist China should be content with the use of force to retake the island; 2. Communist China's position held in China and the possibility of a "peace" party release; 3. The U.S. government's attitude toward Communist China's recognition in the United Nations.

3 Dead, 26 Hurt In U.S. Plane Crash in Arabia

CHARLESTON, S.C. (AP) — A United States Air Force C-121C Super-Constellation with 43 aboard crashed and burned as it was coming in for a landing at Dhahran, Saudi Arabia, Sunday night. The Charleston air force base, home station for the plane, said there were 26 patients in the Dhahran hospital, and three dead on arrival.

Cause of the crash was not immediately known, officials said. The Charleston base said it would fly an investigation team and litters to Dhahran in this afternoon.

The base, which earlier said it didn't know whether the plane was destroyed, later said it was a total loss. It said the plane carried 38 passengers and a crew of five.

The base spokesman said a message with a list of survivors was garbled, but that he had made out the names of Lt.-Col. Capt. Ervin R. Breslauer, public information officer, and that the plane was on a regular flight for the Military Air Transportation service from its base here to Dhahran.

He said his information over MATS wires from Dhahran was that the plane crashed one mile short of the field and burned at 3 p.m. Dhahran time (11 p.m. EST).

Accident Free Period Seen Since Saturday

City and provincial police are keeping their fingers crossed hoping for a continuation at least until after the New Year of the almost accident free period which existed in Belleville and district over the weekend.

Up until late today not a single accident had been reported since Saturday at either the city or provincial police stations.

This morning's fall of snow, however, was making street intersections a bit slippery and public works department crews were out with both sidewalk and street plows, while the sander was also busy on the hills.

Saturday morning Joan Morrison, six-year-old daughter of Mrs. Amelia Morrison was injured when the car in which she was riding with her mother turned over on No. 37 highway near Tweed. Fortunately the girl was treated at Belleville General Hospital by Dr. John Hart and released. Two other children riding in the light station wagon escaped injury, when Mrs. Morrison lost control of the vehicle.

Saturday afternoon vehicles driven by Arthur Christopher, 56 Benjamin street, and Carman Mellish, North Centre street, Belleville, were in collision on the second concession of Sidney. No one was injured.

Gay Round of Parties Planned To Mark Arrival of New Year

Tonight, New Year's Eve, the obsequies of a dead year will be celebrated and the 1957 church-ushered in with the traditional round of dances, dinners and general whoopee in all parts of the civilized world.

From New York to Bali-Bali; from the frozen north to the tundra-dried tropics, people will get set for the nonce world cares and worries, and greet another year of outward celebration and inward hopes for that elusive peace of mind which the world has been seeking since the war bugles sounded the "cease fire".

On the ships at sea, in military camps that in some parts of the world still britain with the grim weapons of war, in the outposts of the world and wherever men and women gather, the dawn of another year will be welcomed with the symphony of celebration.

In New York a packed sea of faces tonight will greet with cheers the new "babe" with the traditional Times Square lusty frolic. The hotels, motels, taverns, homes and apartments will re-echo to the hoiterd celebrations.

LOCAL CELEBRATIONS

Belleville in conjunction with its sister cities and municipalities will add her share to the new year whoopee. Innumerable parties, dances, dinners and theatre frolics will merge into a tumultuous whole that will give tasty and fitting greetings to the mythical infant.

Topping the list of social events is the New Year's formal installation of the officers' mess of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment being held in the regimental armouries. Lieut. Col. E. S. Fairman, commanding officer, Belleville and the regimental officers and their ladies will be hosts to a colorful affair at which a buffet dinner will be served at 1 a.m. while dancing will continue to the music of a Toronto orchestra.

The sergeants' mess of the regiment will also hold its annual New Year's dance forty years of representing active and associate members. Here, too, a buffet dinner will be served, with dancing, in keeping with the regimental setting, a feature of the evening's holding a New Year's dinner-dance at the Belleville Golf and Country Club.

Members of the Belleville club and their guests will observe the departure of the old year and the birth of the new with a buffet dinner and dance with a Toronto orchestra in attendance.

COMMODORE SOLD OUT

Belleville Yacht Club Commodore, a name synonymous with New Year's celebrations and entertainment, again is holding forth with a gala musical show. Latest word is that the club's capacity attendance has been sold out.

The Masonic Temple will be the scene of a gay throng as the Royal Arch Masons play hosts to friends with a well-planned dinner-dance.

The Kinsmen Club, long-noted for its fine banquets and New Year's parties, will again hold forth at Tobe's County Gardens. The club's annual event is a night of revelry and merrymaking at a dance being held in aid of the arena building fund.

In Trenton the Golf and Country Club is holding a dinner-dance at the local branch of the Canadian Legion.

The various messes of the Royal Canadian Air Force, Trenton, will also hold dinner parties while the popular Winter Garden will be the scene of an "open-to-the-public" New Year's Frolic.

Parties and dances are being held in the various other communities in a general all-out celebration.

MANY PRIVATE PARTIES

Many private parties starting with the conventional dinners are planned in the homes of friends and apartments will resound to mid-night merriment of groups of intimate friends when the magic hour arrives.

Managers of the Belle, Moviety and Park theatres, mindful of the many who prefer a background of free screen entertainment for their New Year's Eve fun, have provided outstanding screen fare for their patrons. Noise - making gadgets, gaily-colored hats and community singing will be features in the various auditoriums when the new year is born.

From the white-tie-and-tails to the square dancing enthusiasts it looks like the noisiest, merriest New Year's Eve celebrations in some time.

However there is a more sober side to it. Police officials issue warning that driving while drinking will not be tolerated. They advise celebrants not to exchange the clutch on a bottle for that of no automobile. If you want to take a few drinks before taking off on the party, have the "Indian" in your gang control the throttle. If one is not available, get a boozgurzling friend or neighbor. A few hours of unconsciousness is not worth a lifetime of remorse.

Twenty Watches Taken From Store

Theft of approximately 20 name brand men's wristwatches from the Jewellery section of the T. Eaton Shores Annex at 333 Front Street was reported this morning to city police.

Police said that the thieves made entry in the premises through a skylight and took the watches from the jewellery display on the main floor of the store. The theft apparently left the store by the same route as they entered. A cash drawer was left over the display case.

The theft was discovered this morning by store employees when they opened the doors for business. Police were unable to determine when the theft was committed, stating it could have been any time since the Saturday night closing.

Detective Harold Reid is investigating.

Refugees Find Law Has Heart

CHICAGO (AP)—Two Hungarian refugees, in the trouble after celebrating receipts of their first American pay cheque, have found that America's law has a heart.

Louis Scorbe, 29, and Bela Sandor, 25, cashed the pair that cheques as laborers here Saturday and celebrated by "having a few" in the home of their American sponsor, William Traynor, a tax consultant.

A fight developed and police were called. The Hungarians were charged with disorderly conduct.

In court Sunday, Judge Cecil Crobach Smith told the pair that "America has extended its hospitality to you and your conduct should reflect your gratitude."

Then he smiled and dismissed the charges.

Hay in Barn On Massasaga Road Burns

Spontaneous combustion in baled hay stored in the basement of an old barn on the Massasaga Road took firemen out on an early morning run Sunday.

The call to Massasaga was one of four alarms answered by the department over the weekend.

Two of the runs were for overheated stoves, one at Rossmore at 3:30 Sunday morning, and the other to Bethel Street, they answered.

The last run for firemen was last night when they were called to the bay shore where a party of skaters had left a bonfire burning. Firemen doused the fire for fear it might catch on dried marsh grass.

At Massasaga the baled hay had been stored in the foundation of an old barn and it is believed that fall rains soaked into the bales with result that combustion set the hay afire.

This morning two purses were reported stolen in Station St., with the sneak thief entering the kitchen door and making off with the purses, one containing $30 and the other $10.

Also on the East Hill milk bottle thieves were active. The householder said the had placed 32 in to the milk bottle and later saw two youths run from her driveway and disappear down the street.

Saturday night Gerald Finkle, 43 Cross St., reported that a vehicle on Station street and broke his right leg above the ankle. He was found lying on the walk by police patrolmen, who took him to the hospital.

This Is Jock's Night to Play It's Hogmanay, Auld Lang Syne

This is Hogmanay, the Scotsmen's day to "Yowl".

It is the chief of the "daft days" when Scottish class the world over replenish the fires of kinship.

Hogmanay is the last day of the old year, a national holiday in Scotland and in case some MacMolotov or MacKrushchev claims it was invented in the Siberian salt mines, it is truthfully of French origin.

Adopted from the old Norman, it originally meant a cry associated with gifts at the New Year.

Legend has it that Auld Lang Syne

THE NEW QUAKERS

"Something may be happening in America which could be of unprecedented significance in the resolving of international problems in the United States," says the Christian Science Monitor.

It refers to circulars distributed by the Montgomery, Alabama, Improvement Association, a Negro organization which accentuated the bus boycott in that city, a boycott now ended by a court order abolishing segregation in seating arrangements on the city buses.

These circulars, addressed to the Negro community, admonished:

"Do not sit by a white person unless there is no other seat.

"If cursed, do not curse back. If pushed, do not push back.

"If struck, do not strike back.

"If another person is being molested, do not arise to go to his defence.

"Evidence love and good will at all times."

"What says the Christian Science Monitor, "is a doctrine of non-violence the like of which America has rarely seen since the days colonial Quakers left Quaker latch-strings out in their defiance against hostile Indians. The spiritual prompting is manifest: '- - - whosoever shall smite thee on thy right cheek, turn to him the other also.' — (Matthew 5: 39.)"

Actually sitting instanced in which the Negroes have put this doctrine of non-violence into practice, the Christian Science Monitor concludes with the observation that "the Negroes of Alabama's capital have written a saga that cannot but appeal to the Christianity and fairness of Americans, South as well as North, whether or not they welcome this break with their past attitudes and conventions."

Whether this doctrine of non-violence will prove effective appears to us to depend largely, though not wholly, on the attitude of the South. Their attitude will prove most revealing.

The doctrine of non-violence is not new. It has been tried before by other hands, sometimes with success and sometimes with failure.

A most outstanding example of its success was in India, where Gandhi's non-violence campaign finally won that country its independence. The struggle against the British rule was not without its violent incidents, because not all Indians followed the Mahatma's instructions. But in the main Gandhi won his fight because the British found it abhorrent to jail men and women who refused to fight.

It is obvious to any person that Gandhi's methods would have been entirely ineffective had he lived in Hungary and been fighting the Kremlin.

If memory serves us rightly, it was in Hungary that Gandhi's methods were first tested in the western world. There a group of underpaid miners went on strike—but with a difference. They just sat down and refused to leave the mine until their demands were granted. Our recollection is that they won. But when the sit-down strike was imported to America, the users of this weapon overlooked its most important ingredient—non-violence and the willingness to suffer. They did not just sit and wait, but seized the factory; they did not fast but made sure that food was got into the plant to them. Sit-down strikers, in fact, fought.

Similarly, if the doctrine of non-violence is to prove a potent weapon in the hands of the Negroes in the South, they will have to show considerable self-control in submitting to insult and even injury.

If they do that, then it is the southern whites who will face the acid test. Will they surrender to their British friends in India, or will they answer non-violence with that spirit of ruthlessness and cruelty which would have met Gandhi had he been fighting the Kremlin?

STRANGE SIGHT

It took a moment for realization to seep into the consciousness for the brain to fully digest what the eyes were looking at. It was like the sight of a mirage in the sea, a seal in the Sahara or a mountain goat in a duck marsh.

There they were, the one in front evidently the leader of the expedition, carrying only a parcel or two, while behind him trudged his younger companion, manfully struggling with an apple hamper laden with brightly dressed parcels.

Nothing strange about that? Lots of similar sights to see?

Yes, lately, several days lately. But bright-packages of gifts, securely wrapped, two days after Christmas? And who were these boys, gift-laden on the twenty-fifth day of December? Were they bearers of some of those delectables Christmas-on some other day than twenty-fifth? Was that hamper packed with presents for them, or were they bearing gifts for another? Were they dashing downtown as soon as the stores opened area two-day holiday and gaily spent all their Christmas cash? Or had they been staying with another member of the family over the Christmas holiday and were now homeward bound?

If so had they carefully re-wrapped all their gifts? Wonder of wonders, had they stolenly re-tied the bonnet ribbons, free will bringing their gifts until they should home again? Or, horror of horrors, had they cruelly been forced to leave their gifts hidden under the mountain of wrappings? Could it be possible that, at their older age, they had become so practical, and so shorn sentiment, that they had deliberately postponed their Christmas shopping until bargains might be bought?

NOT TOO OLD

I've never outgrown the sweet pleasure of things
Be-ribboned on tissue the Christmas Day brings
I'm sure through the season that I'm just as glad
As I was in the lost days when I was a lad.

I joke with the children when Christmas comes near,
Though I've no desire to get trumpets and drums.
But I still hang my stocking—an old nylon thing—
And scurry with the children what Santa may bring.

Grown old? Well, perhaps you could put it that way.
The best that I had as a boy now is gray;
But Christmas returns as a season of joy
And if the heart matters then I'm glad I'm not old.

Letter To The Editor

Holiday Message To Hasty Pees

Editor,
Dear Intelligencer.

There are many occasions upon which the writer is brought to remember the 'Hasty P's' but during Christmas and new-year's they are the most pressed.

Re-union at the Regimnt reminds one of the many fine pals that are now or are making ecstatic speed to shelter and happiness. May we all be successful.

Christmas, however, brings to mind not "Peace on earth" but rather Christmas Eves spent wading ashore in icy water to march upward to the hilltops seeking frost covered moors, with shivering rest periods, returning to a leaking hut with never a bit of coal to burn. Christmas reminds of freezing crawling and sometimes serious shell-fire, each burst an invitation to sudden, violent death. Or to others, upright Ontario folk marching onward, singing hymns before Queen's Own Cameron Highlanders, to the no harmonious song on behalf of front-line soldiers badly needing reinforcements. At this time of the year we should all read Abraham Lincoln's paragraph on "volunteering". Yet this Christmas we must look ahead to things to come, not what has passed.

We are all citizens and interested, whether we be "mothers" or "daddies" welfare. To do this truly, we must look past the commercialized holiday, with its accompanying transmission of pre-typed Christmas sentiments, to the commercialism of Sudsy "Buy my product for your Dear One's" type of ads, past the Salvation Army Santa who can't afford or need badly for ourselves; past the cynical remark that "How can we obtain this Peace of which we all sing but do nothing about?"; past the fact that we should be disarming nor will it be obtained by superficialities, disinfected and obsolete equipment by our government. Rather, what we must have is the best possible development of research into war materials and use of the latest in defensive means.

A highly-knit reserve force composed of well-trained teachers using modern methods of instruction know-how.

Equipped with ever improving methods of speedy production of latest weapons developed by the research staff.

We come into the picture now. First of all we must be ready, expected to wait until an aggressor nation builds up his war potential in our defenceless state, then we fight and stop him — too late.

Now for some personal notes. Following are now residing in Belleville: Sergt.-Major Jimmy Fraser, Jack MacDonald, Norm Fisher and Major Norman Perry, all formerly of Lance Tanner in Kelowna. It you know of any more out here, let us know, as we are anxious to get together.

Indian Paper Asks Question

New Delhi Hindustan Times

It may be useful to take stock of the gains and losses of our "diplomacy" based on both its principles and performance were severely — even cruelly — exposed.

Was the credit side we may note the following:

(1) The rock-like steadfastness of our opposition to the resort to force in international disputes;

(2) The emphatic rectification of our rejection of all fascist and pretexts of colonialism.

On the debit side we must note for the present the maladroit handling of the situation with regard to Hungary.

The reputation of four diplomacy was surely not enhanced by the "fooling" which greeted the abstention of our delegate from voting on the resolution relating to Hungary in the emergency session of the 18th assembly.

It may be that there were respectable reasons for what was done then on this country's behalf.

But it is still not clear why either our delegate at the UN or those who are responsible for briefing him hereon, should have failed to get the facts of the situation before the heads of the delegates of the other countries so that our position could at least have been understood if not appreciated.

Plain Talk Award Made

Montgomery Advertiser

Our annual Candor & Plain Talk Award, though it carries no cash, cup or scroll, is coveted because it is given only to the man or woman who tells his listeners or readers the truth in simple, declarative sentences, without hedging, qualifying or evasion. The award has been withheld for the past 130 years or so because, in the opinion of the judges — which is final, by the way — no such person existed.

Now we at last have a man who, in four words, has unquestionably qualified himself even the lofty standards of C & P panel or judges. The winner is Walter Devine, the 36-year-old bicyclist who has pedaled 51,000 miles in four years, visited every state capital and talked with every governor.

Devine was in Montgomery last week. In response to an Advertiser reporter's question as to whether he'd enjoyed the pedaling, Devine shot back: "Bicycles make me sick."

That, we submit, is a straight, unvarnished answer. We proudly proclaim Devine winner of the C&PT award for 1936 and, retroactively, for the past century or so.

Shepilov Slips Up

Milwaukee Journal

They're having a laugh in Austria over a foreign minister, Dmitri Shepilov — a grim sort of laugh that we can all enjoy.

Shepilov told the United Nations that two Austrian rightists had seen Hungarian rebels using Gasser pistols made in Austria.

Chancellor Raab of Austria took official notice of the charge, which he disposed of with a devastating reply.

He said that neither the Gasser pistol nor any ammunition for it had been manufactured since 1817 and that the only specimens existing were believed to be in museums and the hands of collectors.

Since Gasser company, he continued, now makes sewing machines. He said he wondered whether the Soviet journalists cited by Shepilov had found a Gasser sewing machine and mistaken it for Austria's "new secret weapon".

PRESS ON

The Bible is insistent that we refrain at all times from looking backwards. The story related in Genesis of Lot's wife, who looked back and became a pillar of salt, is well known to every Bible student; also Our Lord's injunction, "Remember Lot's wife." Jesus at another time declared that he who puts his hand to the plow and looks back is not fit for the Kingdom of Heaven.

There is a disposition on the part of all of us at times to chew the bitter pills which life has handed us instead of swallowing them. We can pity ourselves very easily. We can dwell upon the injustices which cannot possibly be rectified and bitterly blame ourselves or others for them. And there is no time when we are more prone to do this than at the end of a year.

By all the faith we can muster up, let us shake ourselves free of this morbid introspection which results in a creeping paralysis of mind and soul.

There are many pleasant things in every life to remember and which the Bible bids us remember, that are of vital importance and things that are pleasant and of good report. Let us learn to turn our backs on things that cannot be made better, on slights and injuries that may well produce the open sore of a life-long grudge.

"Forward" is the word for every Christian, St. Paul's declaration was: "Forgetting those things which are behind . . . I press on." And Paul adds these significant words: "Let us therefore, as many as are perfect (mature) be thus minded."

Personal Health Talks

By DR. WM. BRADY

I Still Contend Stupid Is The Word

In a given case piles (hemorrhoids) may be external or internal or both.

Internal piles may be extruded with evacuation and require to be pushed back inside with the fingers—this is most readily done when one is lying on the back with hips higher than the head.

Internal piles are most likely to bleed frequently into the bowel, not externally, and often the affected individual doesn't realize how much blood he is losing until he becomes so very anemic that his doctor decides to make a visual examination of the interior of the lowest two inches of the rectum to determine whether the bleeding is from piles. Such an examination through a speculum is the only way a doctor can determine whether a patient has internal piles.

A good many persons of limited intelligence who "try" whatever salve, suppository or other remedy Tom, Dick or Harry considers good for piles, haven't piles at all. For one thing the health of readers I refrain from mentioning what other conditions are most frequently mistaken for piles. Anyone who is at all concerned about piles should consult a physician — a physician who examines patients to find out what ails 'em.

A physician who fails to make such a visual examination is free from prescribing or administering or advising treatment for piles that sometimes are pretenses.

Internal hemorrhoids are generally not as painful as external though accompanied with the latter. Bleeding, and pain about the orifices are as external hemorrhoids, and also a tendency for acrid, irritating stools and moisture to escape from the anus and keep the skin surfaces inflamed.

Internal piles are frequently responsible for dull pain or aching in the lower back and down the thighs — which is sometimes attributed to rheumatism, even in women, prostrate trouble in men.

Irritability of the rectum is a common complaint of persons with internal piles. As health gradually declines, the more insistent acquires a careworn, anxious appearance, marked anemia, emaciation.

A pile is essentially a dilated varicose vein or vessels in the lining of the anal canal. There are some such veins in the fissures, and a ring of them under the skin just outside of the anal orifice. Any one or more of these veins may be dilated, swelled and inflamed in the "attack" of piles today, and others of them similarly involved in an attack months later.

This fact accounts for so-called "attack" of piles is inflammation of an external pile — one of the soft, flaccid folds of tissue covered by skin — becomes necessarily under irritation or from obstruction (congestion, stagnation) in the portal circulation (to be explained later) becomes inflamed, covered with clots and a tense, distended and exceedingly painful swelling.

In the course of a week, more or less, if the victim can remain indoors and quiet, the "acute attack" subsides — too often coincidental with the use of "pile cure." In many instances the blood within the swelling clots, thrombosis, and quicker-yet relief in such circumstances is incision under anesthesia to turn out the clot. This treatment is not for knucklebeads —they're afraid of anesthesia.

Not every "attack" of piles passes without some complication. In some cases ischiorectal abscess follows the attack. In some cases this local inflammation of a fistula. This is all I have to say about such consequences of piles — surgery is the only treatment.

Talk to me later will be about personal hygiene and other factors or prevention of piles.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

By today, the Christmas tree has been stripped out, the invitations all torn down except those few to be kept for the week of the years tomorrow's New Year feast. And the Christmas cards, proudly and orderly stood on their edges all over the mantel and out over the railing and bookcase tops, why they must have been swept into packages three, four days ago!

Rather than go to the trouble of writing down a list of all the greeting cards received for next Christmas, we just tie the whole bundle into an unsentimental bow with string, and stick it away in a drawer where we forget it will be discovered only two weeks away, when we need it. Need it to remind us who deserves an estuary in Berlin, Ontario, is here to spend a few days with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Coon, West Bridge Street.

Mr. Tom Corbett, a well-known old Belleville boy, and his wife, nee Enid Bentley, of Alberta, are visiting his mother at her home on South Albert Street.

Of the 211 Christmas cards we received this year, we will file the sender's address on them. Those cards come from old friends, even relatives, in distant cities, and were blithely signed "Bill and Jane," so we get Bill and Lou's address would be possible. All you have to do is go down to the head office of the telephone company! And if your friends happen to live in the same city, you can ask for the telephone directory at that city. And if, besides, you know the full initials of your friend or relative, you can find their street address. But the chances are you don't know their true initials, or even if their name is McToot, there will be nine McToots in the telephone directory, any one of whom might be Bill! For there is A.W. John W., W.A., William M., and about ten others. Which one it could be Bill. Because, after all, isn't Bill just a nickname? Wasn't his christened name Wesley or Elmer?

You can see what I am coming at. Why do we not put our addresses on Christmas cards? Even us who are wealthy enough to have our own specially printed cards could easily add the address included for about 50 cents. And those of us, like myself, who like to buy a variety of cards in order to suit the degree of sentimentality or friendship of the person to whom we are sending them, could easily make our own cards under our names.

Or could we? Could we be bothered, right now, right after the rush of Christmas cards tied up and stashed in a drawer would provide a most useful list of addresses all through the year. But this is a hopeless quest. People have been suggesting it for fifty years. We never could, we never will, and apparently like to be semi-anonymous.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

ALL IN ITS STRIDE

"The happiest and most contented person in the one who doesn't flutter from day to day because of restless impulses and irritations. He takes things in their stride. Come what may he stands like a rock, unmoved and unworried.

Fate must get used to emergencies and face them all with faith and courage. If we are dismayed by every passing times arrive, we can face them in our stride in an atmosphere of expectancy and learn to "never mind"!

It is far better to engage our minds in the thought of good times ahead, happy surprises, and good fortune than to brood upon the unhappiness that might be our lot. Our cue should be to be so prepared that no matter what comes to challenge us, we can be in a state of mental preparedness.

I was impressed with an incident that occurred in the life of Thore. He was ill and his friends worried about his condition. One day some of them suggested that he should "make his peace with God." Thoreau replied: "We hain't ever quarreled!" One of the reasons for Thoreau's serenity was that he took things day by day in his stride, absorbing the beauties of nature and exhorting everyone to live the simple life. Days and years passed quickly but from them we should gather precious experiences. We are not here merely to enrich the few, or many, days ahead. Work toward the free life.

A mind all cluttered up with worries and unfinished duties gets little enjoyment out of life. Whenever you run into a problem or unpleasant experience don't let it get you down. Master its lesson. Take the bitter with the sweet in life. To remain happy and strong, we should all take the events of every day in our stride. If our lot at times is an unpleasant one, it will serve as good and by comparing. Take a good taste of every experience. You will then know what ones to leave alone!

Buses in South Gunfire Targets On Six Occasions

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sporadic outbursts of violence still echoed across the southern states on the final day of 1956, a year marked by some progress toward racial integration but with stiff resistance to change in many Deep South areas.

Attacks focused on bus segregation in the wake of controversy and rioting over ending of segregation in some public schools last fall.

City buses in Montgomery and Birmingham, Ala., were fired on six times in a four-day period ending Sunday night. A 22-year-old pregnant Montgomery Negro woman, shot in both legs, was the only person reported injured in the attacks.

The last situation appeared most critical in Alabama. Negro leaders at Tallahassee, Fla., were pressing for integration on buses, and movements with that objective in mind were reported being planned in Tampa, Fla., and Baton Rouge, La.

WILL RIDE IN FRONT

Sunday night 400 Negroes attended a meeting of their Inter Civic Council in Tallahassee and assured the leaders that they would ride in the front of city buses in support of the council's campaign for integrated seating.

Rev. C. K. Steele, council president said: "We aren't afraid to ride with white people. We're only fighting for the privilege to get on and sit anywhere there's a vacant seat."

He said the audience he did not believe riders would be molested. "We must meet every expression of ill will with some expression of goodwill," he said.

The Alabama trouble flared after Montgomery city buses were integrated under federal court order 10 days ago. Mrs. Rosa Jordan, a Montgomery laundry worker, was shot in the legs while riding a bus Friday night. The city commission Saturday ordered night bus runs suspended after 8 p.m. through Jan. 1 to prevent further bloodshed.

FIRED ON BUS

At Birmingham, a city bus with 30 passengers was fired on Sunday night, but there were no injuries. The bus was hit four times apparently by slugs from a high-powered air rifle. One woman was splattered with glass.

Six Negro boys ranging in age from 16 to 21 years were picked up in connection with the shooting and turned over to juvenile authorities pending a hearing.

French Settlers Battle Moslems During Funeral

ALGIERS, Algeria (Reuters)—Thousands of infuriated French settlers battled with armed Moslems in the streets during the funeral of a French gunman executed by a Algerian gunman on Friday.

Six Moslems were reported killed and about 100 persons, including Moslems, were injured.

Two of the dead were men who had fired from a hotel rooftop. A third had fired at the crowds as they shouted threats, overturned cars and set them afire.

Tanks, armored cars and police reinforcements moved in to break up the wave of violence which swept this port city after a morning of tension over the assassination.

An Arab who mocked the funeral procession was chased through the streets and killed by sub-machine-gun fire.

As the funeral procession headed toward the cemetery, young Frenchmen overturned automobiles owned by Moslems and smashed their windows. They also tore the name-plate off the U.S. consulate and shouted anti-American slogans.

SAVED FROM BOMB

The demonstrators forced the procession to halt temporarily—and thus saved the mourners from a bomb that exploded in the cemetery. The bomb, exploding at the time which was due to arrive, damaged tombs but caused no casualties.

The settlers were mourning Mayor Amadeo Frego, 74, of Bourkaika, who had become the symbol of diehard French resistance to Algerian reforms. Frego, president of the Federation of Mayors in the Algiers region, organized demonstrations here last February against French Premier Guy Mollet.

The diehard settlers feared Mollet, who subsequently launched a major offensive against the Algerian rebels, would grant too many concessions to the Moslems.

Funeral orations were cancelled at the ceremony but the burial went off without incident.

DISCUSS MORE AID FOR REFUGEES

President Eisenhower and Vice-President Richard Nixon confer in the president's office at the White House on Saturday in an hour-long report to the chief executive on his trip to Austria during which he studied the Hungarian refugee problem. Nixon told newsmen that his report outlined the general problem, along with a number of proposals for increased U.S. aid, without spelling out specific recommendations. President Eisenhower directed that the problem of providing increased aid for Hungarian refugees be placed before congressional leaders for "top priority" action. (Central Press Canadian).

Russia Grants $50-Million Dollar Loan to Hungary

BUDAPEST (AP) — Premier Janos Kadar's Communist government announced Sunday that Russia has granted Hungary a $50,000,000 loan to help rebuild its revolution-shattered economy.

Kadar's Communist party newspaper said results from money and material aid would be needed and added:

"It is expected that Western countries also will contribute substantial loans to alleviate our economic difficulties."

The party newspaper Nepszabadsag has been pleading for several days for technical assistance and loans from the West as well as eastern countries.

Some Hungarian economic experts say Hungary will need $400,000,000 in hard currency to get back on its feet. The government is reported aware that it can get the total necessary aid only through Western contributions.

ANNOUNCED FIRST

Russia, which was responsible for most of the material damage here through the Red Army's attack on the revolutionaries, announced its aid first.

Nepszabadsag did not disclose terms of the Soviet loan.

It is generally believed here that loans from the West are necessary because most of the East European Communist countries are having their own difficulties—especially Poland and Rumania.

But many Western countries are reluctant to grant anything that would help support the Russian-imposed Kadar government, no matter how thoroughly they sympathize with the Hungarian people.

In Syria, meanwhile, an Iraq Petroleum Co. survey team began an 800-mile inspection of sabotaged oil pipelines—the first step in reopening that artery of Middle East oil for western Europe. Pumping stations for the pipelines carrying Iraqi oil were damaged in the Syrian desert after the British - French assault on Egypt.

Syria told the IPC it could survey the damage but that no repairs could be made until all Israeli forces pull back from Egypt and the Gaza Strip behind the 1949 armistice line.

Traffic Death Toll in U.S. for Holiday Now 204

CHICAGO (AP) — The United States New Year's weekend traffic death toll advanced steadily today, but at a considerably slower pace than the record-setting Christmas holiday.

With more than half of the 102-hour holiday period completed, highway accidents have taken 204 lives. There had been 24 deaths by fire and 32 miscellaneous fatalities for an overall total of 260.

The accident count began at 6 p.m. (local time) Friday and continues until midnight Tuesday night.

The carnage on American highways during the Christmas holiday—also a four-day period—left 1,760 persons dead. The total cost in lives from all accidents reached 884, also a record. Fires killed 54 of the 178 non-traffic victims.

Ned H. Dearborn, president of the national safety council, Sunday night noted "an ominous trend in the traffic toll."

MOST DEADLY

Safety officials said the most deadly time on American roads during the current holiday is New Year's Eve and New Year's Day, when celebrants crowd the highways and the combination of drinking usually increases sharply.

The council predicted that 450 persons would die on the highways during the long New Year's weekend. The record toll, 407, set in the four-day 1952-53 new year period.

Safety experts estimated that about 40,000,000 motorists would be on the road during the holiday.

The impact of the awesome Christmas death toll on public consciousness was taken into consideration in making the prediction of 450 for New Year's traffic deaths, the safety council said.

DULLES EXPLAINS

Administration officials are comparing the new Middle East plan with Truman Doctrine proclaimed in 1947 to bolster Greece and Turkey against Communist threats. Britain then took the U.S. that economic conditions were forcing London to lay down the burden it had borne a long time in defending the area.

After explaining his Middle East program to Hammarskjold, Dulles will fly back to Washington Tuesday to join Eisenhower in his effort to sell it to congressional leaders.

The urgency of the Soviet threat to Western influence in the Middle East is underscored in a Paris dispatch to the New York Herald Tribune. It says diplomats returning recently from Arab countries provided details of a recent Russian Syrian agreement to put Soviet technicians in command of Syrian army, navy and air force training units.

DELIVERED ARMS

Russia already has delivered important military equipment at the Syrian port of Latakia, including 20 MiG-17 jet fighter planes; full equipment and an infantry division and for three artillery regiments; 30 tanks, probably T-34s; and 50 self-propelled guns.

Later Russia will turn over to Syria a modern Soviet submarine and four motor torpedo boats.

Syria, for its part, has organized a purge of pro-Western officers from its military forces. This full equipment and an infantry division and for three artillery regiments; 30 tanks, probably T-34s; and 50 self-propelled guns.

HOPE TO DEFER

The disputants were reported to be considering a formula that might defer—but not cancel—the threatened strike. It would call for both sides to hold back on immediate action pending a new investigation of CPR proposals for reduction of firemen on diesel locomotives—major issue of the dispute.

HOPE FOR SOLUTION

A possible indication of federal hopes for a settlement at least for the time being — was seen in Prime Minister St. Laurent's plans. Mr. St. Laurent, now holidaying in Quebec, did not intend to return to the capital for further talks. But he was keeping in close touch with developments and could be here in a few hours.

The threatened strike of the union's 3,000 members at the CPR could cripple the railway's transcontinental system. The company has said it will close down all CPR train operations at the time the strike starts. That could displace about 70,000 employees.

The CPR had already imposed embargoes" on perishable goods and general freight to assure that shipments would not be affected by the threatened strike.

In Ottawa, Labor Minister Gregg said the government had advanced no specific proposals.

However, informants said the participants had left for the weekend to consider a plan to hold off strike and direct fact-finding action until a joint union company panel committee was appointed to study the diesel issue, made an investigation and reported on its findings.

Variations of the plan were discussed—matters that might call for some haggling. One informant said there were still rough edges to be hosed down.

It was understood the proposal, while favored by the government, had not been particularly spoon-fed by the ministers but had cropped up during the general talks. It is an offshoot of a federal conciliation board report on the dispute.

It was reported that Mr. Gamble reaffirmed his union's stand—previously expressed publicly—that it would not compromise on the diesel issue.

'Maggie' Misses Atlantic Storm On Way to Egypt

By JACK BRAYLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

ABOARD MAGGIE (CP) — The carrier Magnificent steamed toward Egypt today after sidestepping an Atlantic storm that could have played havoc with the awkward cargo that is tightly cabled to the ship's flight deck.

She rolled easily in the 40-mile-an-hour winds that shook her as she changed course Sunday and headed away from the storm that swept across Nova Scotia. Late in the day she was again in quieter waters.

The 410 army troops heading toward Port Said on the 18,000 tow carrier had visions of severe seasickness Sunday as the storm came close to the ship, but she worked away from the storm centre in a full-steam race.

The ship's deck cargo of huge army transports, field vehicles, and four Otter aircraft suffered no damage.

WORK WITH SAILORS

The troops, getting their sea-legs the hard way, integrated with sailors for work and daily grind. They seemed incongruous in white sneakers issued as subs for heavy boots after the ship's safety measure on the ship, which carries a big supply of highly volatile airplane gas between its steel decks.

Navy received shocked looks from sailors when they talked of going ashore—a rare treat in the front of the ship. But in navy fashion they fell in with the old ways of each muster and manfully striving to do their share of the work in the messing and daily grind.

Maj. W. A. H. Law, a Strathcona officer from Camp Borden and commanding officer of the troops aboard, welcomed the policy of complete co-operation with the navy.

He admitted his men couldn't yet hide their identity under navy coveralls because they couldn't roll with the ship like old salt hands. "But," he said, "we'll soon learn in the learning we'll teach each other a lot."

Snowfall Heavy In New England

BOSTON (AP)—Some of the coldest weather of the season—and the heaviest general snowfall—today followed a weekend storm which dropped up to 15 inches of snow in the New England states.

The cold weather immediately following the heavy snowfall caused an icy glaze which led some persons who had to negotiate the treacherous footing to comment that New England was like one huge skating rink.

The heaviest snowfall was reported in Maine and the eastern part of New Hampshire.

More than half a dozen persons were killed in accidents during the storm. An unspecified number died of heart attacks or overexertion while shovelling the snow or walking in the storm.

Three Marooned Airmen Brought Out of Dense Bush

KAPUSKASING, Ont. (CP)—Five men marooned in sub-zero weather by the side of a wrecked plane, three of them for more than 36 hours, were brought out of dense bush to safety Saturday. The men were led by a rescue ground party, which had hacked and sawed a three-mile trail to them, to a frozen lake where a ski-equipped plane flew them to hospital in South Porcupine, about 65 miles southeast of here.

Three of the men—James Jobin, 41, of South Porcupine, James Pengelly, 26, and Stanley Kramer, 31, of Timmins—were crew members of a twin-engined amphibian plane which crashed on a 35-mile flight from here to Timmins Thursday night.

The other two, Sgt. Jack Glydes and LAC Percy Liggon, were RCAF para - rescue men who dropped to the scene after the wreckage was sighted by search planes Friday. Supplies were parachuted.

TREATED FOR CUTS

Hobbs and Pengelly were taken to hospital at South Porcupine for treatment of cuts. Hobbs also suffered broken ribs and Pengelly two broken ankles, preliminary examination showed.

Kramer was uninjured and allowed to go to his home in Timmins.

Hobbs and Pengelly were pulled along the rough trail to the lake on specially constructed toboggans by the RCAF men and Edward O'Neill and Noah Bryant, who cut their way into the marooned men.

Hobbs said the crash was caused by power failure in both engines. The force of the crash was broken by tall trees, but he was pinned in the cockpit for several hours before he could be freed.

Kramer said he and Pengelly gave up their sleeping bags, carried in the plane as part of its emergency Arctic survival kit, to Hobbs Thursday night because of his injuries.

$800,000 FIRE

The fire was concentrated on Grands Lacs Street, commercial thoroughfare of this industrial city of some 30,000 persons 30 miles northeast of Montreal. It apparently started in a grocery store and spread to a pool room, a stationery shop, a jewelry store, a drug store, a novelty shop, the west side of a television shop. A five-and-10-cent store and a restaurant also were damaged.

Although Fire Chief Paul Marcotte said it was too early to say the cause of the blaze, other firemen speculated an overheated furnace may have touched it off.

In all but the apartments over the grocery store and the pool room, occupants had time to dress before going out into the 10-below-zero weather.

LED OUT 8

Henri Desgrosellers, who lived across the street from the pool room—a section that later was destroyed—helped lead eight people from above the pool room.

He said someone pounded on his door and wakened him. He looked out and saw the grocery store and pool room in flames. He watched as two women jumped from one of the second-floor apartments into the arms of a passer-by who succeeded in breaking their falls with his arms.

The one person still unaccounted for early today was Theodile Latour, an elderly man who lived above the grocery store. Neighbors said he was deaf and may not have heard the warning to flee.

Most of those made homeless moved in with relatives or friends and the Red Cross, assisted by a local army group, found accommodation for the others.

GOODMAN DECORATED

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) Benny Goodman, king of swing, was decorated Saturday with the order of chevalier de Monisarapha by King Norodom Sihanouk of Cambodia. Goodman's orchestra had just finished performing before an audience of 25,000 in front of the royal palace.

PREDICTS IKE-EDEN MEET

LONDON (AP) — The tabloid Daily Sketch predicts today that Prime Minister Eden and President Eisenhower will meet "within the next two months or so" as the prelude to a five-power peace conference. The Sketch, which supports Eden's Conservative government, gives no source for its story.

A wardian case can be constructed from a glass aquarium by attaching a tight glass cover; or from sections of glass cut to any desired size and fitted into a shallow metal pan. It will be a small greenhouse in which orchids and other tropical plants may be grown and displayed in your living room, and can be a very decorative piece. Check cultural requirements for specific plants to insure adequate moisture, ventilation, etc.

INGLES — O'TYLNN

Bridge Street United Church, Belleville, was the setting on Saturday, December 29, at 3.30 p.m. for a lovely winter wedding when Carol Dale O'Tylnn, of Belleville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Dale O'Tylnn, became the bride of Dr. Frederick Graham Ingils, son of Mr. Robert R. Ingils, Q.C., and Mrs. Ingils, Halifax, Nova Scotia. Tall, white standards of snow-white chrysanthemums adorned the chancel rail, and white satin bows the guest pews. The Reverend Harry M. ### WOMAN-OF-THE-YEAR

Marilyn Bell, 18-year-old Toronto swimmer, has been chosen for the third consecutive year as Canada's woman-of-the-year in the 1956 annual Canadian Press poll of daily newspaper editors. Marilyn is pictured here at the information desk at McGill University in Montreal where she is majoring in Physiotherapy. Her conquest of the treacherous Straits of Juan de Fuca last August put her on top of the poll. In 1954 she became the first to swim Lake Ontario and the following summer she became the youngest woman to swim the English Channel. (CP Photo).

Those two young people expect to accompany Mr. Moore to France. Mr. Shelley later played several pieces on the vibraharp.

Jim Blackwood reported a good time was had at tea-age "open house" held on Friday. He also reported the purchase of the film, "Wire Tapper," the life of Zhivaus, which will be shown sometime in February.

Mr. Moore brought his message, using Romans 5:8. This verse be divided into three parts. We are all sinners in God's sight; God loves us, and Christ died for us.

Mom White of Bowmanville Touches off Biggest Human Interest Story of Entire Year

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Canadian women achieved much in 1956. Many played important roles in public affairs. Equal pay for equal work became law for women working in industry under federal jurisdiction. And the work of women's groups brought many improvements in social conditions.

But the courage and singleness of purpose of a Bowmanville, Ont., housewife touched off one of the year's biggest human interest stories. Mrs. Bertha (Mom) Whyte's struggle to look after 30 children —orphans or products of broken homes — evoked a flood of sympathy and financial aid.

For seven years Mrs. Whyte and her husband cared for stray children in their boarding home, on a 50-acre farm, 40 miles east of Toronto. They had five children of their own and no outside financial aid.

TROUBLE BRINGS AID

This year brought trouble and reward. Health authorities insisted on more space for the growing brood. A baby died, but a coroner's jury attached no blame to the Whytes in connection with the death.

A fund was set up and a local carpenter's union built a dormitory, the wrecking and erecting their A heating contractor installed better furnaces, private donations rolled in, and 41- year -old Mrs. Whyte won gifts worth thousands of dollars on a New York television show.

Passage of the equal pay for equal work legislation was a personal triumph for Mrs. Ellen Fairclough, Progressive Conservative member of the Commons from Hamilton. She had urged the legislation for three years.

Miss Elizabeth Janzen of Kitchener, Ont., became the first woman to preside over opening sessions of the Progressive Conservative federal convention in December. Mrs. Ann Shipley, Liberal member of Parliament for Temiskaming, was the first woman to move the reply to the speech from the throne.

RETURNS AS MAYOR

On the civic level, colorful Mayor Charlotte Whitton of Ottawa announced she would retire at the end of the year. Mrs. Jean Newman won a seat on Toronto board of control, piling up such a large majority she automatically became vice-chairman.

Several large women's organizations elected new presidents. Mrs. Rex Eaton of Dollarton, B.C., became head of the national council of women succeeding Mrs. Turner Bone of Montreal. The Registered Nurses Association elected Miss Jessie Atchison of Saskatoon, who succeeded Mrs. H. E. Vanziel of Montreal.

Three Canadians also were picked to lead international organizations. Margaret Ryndman, a 53-year-old Toronto lawyer, is president of the big International Federation of Business and Professional Women. Married Toronto, became president of Altrusa International, and Mrs. Jean Casselman of Ottawa headed International.

Marilyn Bell, Toronto swimmer who conquered Juan de Fuca Strait, won the title of "woman of the year." Maclean Hunter Publishing Co., golfer was named the Lyons Trophy winner. She won the United States women's amateur golf championship.

CAC ACTIVITY

Besides electing a new president, the Canadian Association of Consumers during the summer, instead of a standardization of clothing sizes and better labelling. The association opposed the use of the trading - stamp system in retail stores. CAC also set up a consumer information service in Ottawa to co - ordinate information available from federal and provincial governments, industries and professional organizations.

Some of the things women asked for in 1956 were: Improved penal laws for women, small local penitentiaries for women instead of a central federal prison at Kingston, Ont., separate accommodations for sex perverts and drug addicts, reduced sale of salacious literature, and equal opportunity for women in business and industry.

Some of the things they got were: Appointment of more women probation officers in Ontario, provision from provincial governments to look into the question of sex and drug addicts, and modification of a law in Quebec to allow women into the notary profession.

A note of sadness was struck as the year closed by Marie Dionne's flower-shop failure in Montreal. Only one of the famous quintuplets to enter business, her shop went on the block after seven months' operation.

Biggest disappointment of the year came to the Federated Women's Institutes, when the biennial conference of the Associated Country Women of the World in Canada, to which they intended sending delegates, was cancelled because of the Middle East crisis.

In the realm of the unusual, 19-year-old red-head Nazza Raels of Victoria said she was offered $1,000 by a Bedouin leader to take his harem. On a trip to Israel last year the Bedouin spotted Miss Raels' red hair and offered to buy her from the tour guide.

ADVICE To The LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

HERE'S A BOOK LIST FOR YOU, REALLY

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

My mother is the old-fashioned type who has never been close enough to me so that I could talk to her about things I should know before I'm married.

I'm planning to be married six months from now, and I recently tried to get her to discuss things with me, but she said I'd find out at the proper time. This I don't think is right. I think I should be better prepared for marriage than I am.

Can you suggest any good books I might read that will give me the information I ought to have in the right way?— Polly

Dear Polly:

It always seems incredible to me that in these modern times there should still be so many mothers with a mid-Victorian philosophy of life.

From the letters that come to my desk, however, I'm well aware that there are a vast number of such parents who are unable to realize how badly they let their children down by such an attitude, and how much they themselves lose in close relationship with their daughters by refusing to accept this type of responsibility.

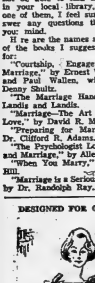
There are many good books you can find in your public library that will help you. Following are the names of seven which—though not, perhaps, the newest in the field—I believe to be excellent discussions of the art of creating a happy and devoted marital partnership. It is possible you may not be able to find all of them in your local library, but even one of them, I feel sure, will answer any questions that are in your mind.

If re are the names and authors of the books I suggest you look for:

"Courtship, Engagement and Marriage," by Emil Brunner and Paul Wallen, with Gladys Denny Shultz.

"The Marriage Handbook," by Landis and Landis.

"Marriage: The Art of Lasting Love," by David R. Mace.



"Preparing for Marriage," by Dr. Clifford R. Adams.

"The Psychologist Looks at Sex and Marriage," by Allen Fromme.

"When You Marry," by Duvall Hill.

"Marriage is a Serious Business," by Dr. Randolph Ray.

DESIGNED FOR GAIETY

Just a bit longer than the usual day length is the skirt of this pretty peau de soie evening dress, perfect for all but the most formal or gala occasion. It is available in red or emerald green, two of the big colors this season for evening wear. The high neck in front terminates in a deep V in back, also in tune with fashion's latest dictates, as are the panels that fall from the waist in a curved line.

COOL SENTENCE

AURORA, Ill. (AP) — Five youths must spend part of the New Year's weekend tossing snowballs across the Fox river as a punishment. Magistrate Bob Robinson Friday ordered the boys to work off their enthusiasm by heaving snowballs across the 75-yard expanse of the river. This was because they used the windshield of a truck in a snowball fight Thursday.

BEAUTY

BEAUTY TIPS FOR GIRLS WHO SKI

A girl on skis cuts a pretty figure—especially if her complexion is given proper care.

Those girls whose major complaint in life seems to be centered about the difficulty of meeting men should consider winter sports —especially skiing. Yes, that's what we hear—that one of little ol' Cupid's favorite hangouts is the ski slope. So why not think about it?

Even if you're not the athletic type, you can have a good time. Maybe some Galahad will come to your rescue as you clamber about the beginner's slope. Then, too, think what a pretty figure you can cut before the lodge fire. place wearing fashionwise slacks and a smart blouse.

Your first problem will be equipment, a rather costly expenditure but worth it if you plan to take up the sport seriously. Most people who start skiing continue because its fun and so delightfully social. Buy good skis and boots! They're an investment that will pay off.

Give some thought to how you look as you glide along. Clothes are no problem, because sportswear designers have a bright-gay touch with ski togs.

Make-up comes next, and there are a few special rules for skiers.

Protection is the No. 1 thing to keep in mind. Those wintry blasts will give you a case of windburn if you're not careful, so before you head for the snow, give your face a light coating of petroleum jelly. True, it will make your face shiny, but remember that the wind will redden cheeks; it adds up to a rosy glow that's not at all unbecoming to the out-door girl.

It's also wise to use a pomade. Chapped lips, which tend to become cracked and scaly, are no beauty bargain. The pomade will ward off this condition and you can top it with a layer of bright lipstick for a glamour effect.

If you're just too weary from after-skiing parties to put up pin-curls before you go to bed, don't worry. You can set your hair in the morning before skiing. Those snug-fitting ski caps are the perfect cover-up for bobby pins.

Remember to bring plenty of lubricating cream with you. Slather it on your face at night as added protection against the drying effects of wind.

This is the skiers' winter beauty ritual. It makes just as much sense as the swimmer's summer routine of heading off to the beach armed with suntan oil, sun specks and an umbrella.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

"IT WAS SO GOOD TO HEAR FROM YOU"... TELL YOUR FRIENDS SO!

Surely one of the most important and endearing things about Christmas is "the friendly recollections" that flash to us so joyously as we open our Christmas cards and greetings. What a treasury of memories of friends and friendliness! How it warms our hearts to hear from friends with whom we have been out of touch, their Christmas card recalling remembered ways of remembered days.

What a chance these messages give us to keep these friendships flourishing! There's a very old and very wise saying that urges "Keep Christmas in January." Why not do just that . . . why not in January (and every mind if it's later, but don't postpone it too long) answer some of these so-welcome friendship-highlights in your Christmas greetings? Your friendly words can and will bring to these friends a reassuring happiness out of all proportion to the few minutes it will take you to bring to light your "fond remembrances hidden deep." Each letter you write can be a strong link in the golden chain of friendship, of precious relationship. Each letter adding your voice to "the glorious song of old," the real meaning of those Christmas friendship-messages that touched you so deeply. Each one a golden handshake from friend-to-friend.

"It was so good to hear from you!" . . . write these magical words that keep friendships alive and brightly flourishing!

PROPER TO SEND BIRTH-ANNOUNCEMENTS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

It has been reported to me that there is the slightest impropriety in sending birth announcements to relatives and friends who had been invited to a stork shower. So today when I was telling my cousin the kind of birth-announcements I am planning to send for the baby who is to arrive shortly, she told me that of course I shouldn't send these to any of the relatives and friends who had been at the two stork showers that have been given for me, because this would look as if the announcements were sent as a bid for another baby present. Is she right about this, and should I cross off from my list the names of relatives and friends who gave shower parties?— Mrs. S.

No, your cousin is not right about this. It is entirely correct for you to send birth-announcements to all relatives and friends who you think will be interested in the happy news, whether or not they attended either of the showers.

Cashmere Treat

By ALICE ALDEN

The fine sweater has figured successfully on the holiday gift list, stores reporting a sell-out of creamy cashmeres. Hadley is the designer responsible for one of the prettiest of the current crop, made so by giving the turtle neck a new look in the little pointed collar underscored by a fine line of fashioned open work. The dainty allover closes in back with two pearl buttons and crocheted button holes. Turned back rib cuffs for sleeve finish. Sweater is to be worn in or out of tailored or dress skirts—which makes it pretty versatile. Nice with a suit, too!

Happy Cooking New Year

By Mary Moore

Last night I heard the young mother of four say that she read somewhere that certain foods have properties which specifically build or nourish certain parts or organs of the body. She seemed to be announcing this as if it were something new.

As I sit at my desk to write this last column of the year I want it to be a summing up of what we have accomplished in the past year.

Day by day, little by little in 1956 have we, like the turtle, made any progress?

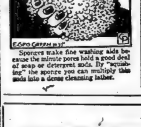
What is progress in our department? We know that we select food for its nutritive qualities don't we? Or is it learning to cook better? Is it learning to make the table and meals more attractive? Is it buying food more efficiently? Is it eating to be healthier?

Of course the questions are all packed. I ask them in that order because I want to shout a resounding "yes" to all of them.

Wives, mothers, and cooks have the most complex of all missions, and I think a great comfort to them is the realization that they are not alone in their dilemma.

To get back to our girl who has just discovered that food does something more than stop being hungry: a food chemist would be a great help to her. Since she is a university graduate she doubtless has been exposed to chemistry and some nutrition during her high school or university life — but it didn't take.

We have high educational standards in Canada and almost all secondary schools teach "domestic science" — but to my question "Is it learning to cook? (that represents progress) I would say that the majority of teenagers that I know can make a few things moderately well, like cake or cookies or fudge, but when it comes to three meals a day and the nutrition therefrom, they are nearly as clueless as my mother of four.



Their mothers are too submerged in their household work to have time to think about training their daughters. The daughters in turn are so busy with their studies (and boy friends, bless them) that they have difficulty sandwiching in any housework beside washing dishes and maybe making their beds. Isn't that so?

Mothers — since to some extent I am lumped with the same brush I am taking the liberty of speaking to you like a Dutch aunt: Take time to teach your daughters to cook. Let them buy groceries. If they make mistakes that is how they learn. I've eaten many a raw roast and muffin loaded with salt instead of baking powder and leather pie, but still live to tell the tale.

If you don't know where to start write to Nutrition Division of Department of Health & Welfare, Ottawa for their Bulletin "Healthful Eating". It contains excellent charts on food values. Also for "Let's Cook It Right" to Nutrition Section, Women's Institute Branch, Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.

Your Christmas greetings overwhelmed me and were more than I deserve. But keep it up girls. I love it. Happy Cooking New Year!

Wife Preservers

Preserve the flavour of fine washing aids because the minute pores hold a good deal of soap or detergent suds. By "cooking" the sponge you can multiply the suds into a dream cleansing lather.

Flattering Headgear

By TRACY ADRIAN

Here is a fascinating after-dark hat that brings added glamor to the most entrancing of evening and dinner clothes and is one that is sure to glean compliments from the man in your life.

Utterly feminine and irresistible, it will catch many an admiring eye by its subtle charm. Clinging comfortably to the head with a mixture of burnt ostrich and peacock feathers on a satin band with rhinestone trim, this little topper has soft puffs of veiling on either side and a face veil to lend added attraction.

Looking ahead to 1957
Good health and prosperity and a great big helping of happiness is what we wish for you in 1957.

Canada's Mining Industry Takes Rapid Strides in '56

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

Announcement of a $175,000,000 nickel-mining industry for northern Manitoba gave a dramatic climax to a record year in Canadian mining.

It confirmed that Canada's mining industry is only now swinging into its full giant stride; it filled in a gap in the country's advance into the north; and it added one more assurance that Canadian prosperity—largely based on development of natural resources—will continue.

The development announced Dec. 5 by International Nickel Company of Canada will be in the Mystery Lake and Moak Lake areas, 400 miles north of Winnipeg and about a hit-way between the Saskatchewan border and Hudson Bay.

SECOND LARGEST

It will be the second largest nickel operation in the free world, second only to International Nickel's long-established operation at Sudbury, Ont. With expansion at Sudbury it will lift company production to about 385,000,000 pounds a year, a Canadian increase of 314 cents a pound in the price of nickel we've also announced, an encouragement for other deep exploration and development.

Canada's production this year too: ped $2,200,000,000, up more than $300,000,000 from 1955 and more about double the dollar value of six years ago.

The 1956 growth oil, uranium and iron ore have become almost household words in speeches on Canadian prosperity.

Ten years ago Canada had its first 90 percent dependent on imported oil. Since then her consumption has quadrupled and her oil is supplying 60 per cent of her needs, mostly from Alberta.

Partly as an offshoot of oil discoveries, natural gas pipelines from Alberta's prolific fields to the Pacific coast, Toronto and Montreal. Within two years nearly every city and town from Vancouver to Montreal can be served by natural gas.

Ten years ago Canada was a uranium producer of any size. This year she produced more than 20,000,000 tons in a fast-ascending production curve.

Current production is centred in Ontario's Blind River area, in Newfoundland, Ontario and British Columbia. Approached from a fairly common across the country. A rich and accessible supply of iron ore was tied up in the nine mine of Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company at Kimberley, B.C.

Uranium production in Northern Ontario and Saskatchewan was this year is valued at about $300,000,000 for the current year's figures—and is expected to reach $500,000,000 or more by 1958.

COPPER, NICKEL

Aside from oil, copper headed all minerals in total production in 1956 at $420,000,000; followed by nickel at $220,000,000; iron ore, primarily from Labrador, $150,000,000; gold, about $135,000,000; asbestos $104,000,000 and zinc $100,000,000. A new finneral production ·is taking two directions. One is an advance in the Sudbury basin, which American Metal Company has an interest of 73 per cent and International Nickel 25 per cent—is building a mill and plans to develop the nickel-copper-PGE operation in the spring. Research is developing ways to process more ore than new Brunswick ores bodies.

Across Quebec from Noranda through Chibougamau and into the Ungava Bay area exploration and drill is being made upon the the southern fringes of a wilderness of unknown wealth.

UNGAVA DEVELOPMENT

The iron ore belt now being mined at Schefferville by Iron Ore Company of Canada extends north to Ungava Bay and apparently westward.

The least two companies are thinking of shipping ore from Ungava Bay to Greenland during the short navigation season from August piling and winter shipment to Europe.

Companies active in northern Quebec and Labrador include Iron Ore Company, Canadian Javelin, Steel Company of Canada, United States Steel Corporation and Jones and Laughlin and Pickands and Mather of the United States.

Ontario, with about one-third of Canada's mineral production, is active across its whole north. Uranium production is expanding in the Blind River area and iron ore at Steep Rock Lake and Michipicoten Bay, Manitouwadge, in northwestern Ontario, Geco Mines is bringing a copper - zinc property into production at a cost of $30,000,000.

Manitoba now has two northern nickel operations and a promising new project at Sherritt-Gordon Mines in Lynn Lake—and the Hudson Bay. Saskatchewan the Hudson Bay mining and smelting complex at Flin Flon.

In southwest Manitoba and across Saskatchewan and Alberta the big emphasis is on oil and gas, but Saskatchewan appears also to be entering upon a major mineral phase.

OTHER RESOURCES

In its north it has uranium. Potash deposits across its midst has described as extremely rich. A 135-mile length along the southern fringe of its Pre - Cambrian shield is being prospected and explored for base metals.

British Columbia has an array of projects, including natural gas at Fort Nelson, iron ore at Kimberley for shipment to Japan and Vancouver Island and Queen Island, copper around Stewart, asbestos in the far north and many others.

The Pacific Great Eastern Railway is expanding from Vancouver to Prince George. When extended into the Peace River country, it will open up a new area of promise for intensified exploration.

The province's largest major mining operation is Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company's giant lead- zinc smelter operation at Kimberley and Trail.

In the Northwest Territories, Pine Point on Great Slave Lake—about 600 miles north of Edmonton—will apparently be a big zinc-lead producer if and when it gets rail transportation.

Americans Move In on French Wine Business

By PRESTON GROVER

BORDEAUX, France (AP) — Americans have moved in on the French wine business, and some local wine men are worried about it.

The making of wine for many Frenchmen is a loving process, almost sacred. To have a band of commercial-minded Americans get into the business shakes them.

Most active of the Americans is Alexis Lichine of New York who owns two vineyards with.

During the part of the grape harvest, this correspondent came down here from Paris to see what the Americans were doing. What are making wine just the way Frenchmen have for years.

Wine harvesting is a pretty sight. Men, women and children wander among the vines, picking the deep purple bunches, which are transferred to a cart carrying two or three huge barrels. The driver of the cart stands in the barrel mashing down the grapes.

WEAR BOOTS

That's true at least not any more—that the boys and girls mash them barefooted. I visited one chateau, Lascombes, where mash the grapes wear rubber boots.

The carts haul the grapes to a central shed where the real wine making begins. Here in huge distillation begins to take hold. I don't know why would I find out—why it matters just how the grapes are stripped off the bunches. But there are masses of opinion.

At Chateau Lascombes the grapes are stripped off with a mechanical device which is adjusted carefully to pluck the grapes and break them open without breaking the seeds. Broken seeds would make the wine bitter, the owner explained to the wine.

At the biggest and perhaps most famous of the Bordeaux vineyards, Chateau Mouton Rothschild, the bunches are hand picked by raked over a wooden grater by hand with wooden rakes.

DELIKEE 1.ETAL

At Chateau Latour, almost as famous as Mouton, most of the grapes bunches are raked over the grater —but by hand; The Comte de Beaumont, one of a long line of men who have owned Chateau Latour, dislikes machine harvesting and doesn't like metal touching his grapes, only wood — and where necessary, rubber boots.

It is hard to measure just how big a stake the Americans have in the wine business, but certainly they are not in with the most Americanized ideas. A big billboard along the road leading to his ownership of Chateau Lascombes.

Over-All Stock Prices Showed Little Change From Year Ago Although Records Established

By RON ANDREWS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

To many Canadian stock market investors 1956 was disappointing.

Although records were established in trading on the first eight months in almost every phase of trading, over - all prices showed little change from the peaks of a year ago.

The major developments — the Middle East Crisis and a tightening of Canadian money policies—were responsible for a sharp, brief decline which sifted through the markets in the last half of November.

Prices were steady during the first 1½ months and President Eisenhower's announcement Feb. 29 that he would run again—which touched off a heavy demand for copper stocks—sparked a rise which lasted to mid-April.

ACTIVITY AT PEAK

Trading records were set day after day and in one week, volume on the Toronto Stock Exchange average more than 10,500,000 shares daily. The biggest trading day in the exchange's 108-year history occurred April 5 when 13,644,000 shares were traded.

Both industrial and mining issues moved ahead briskly until the April mid-point. At the high of the advance, the industrial index of the Toronto Exchange 250.33, a gain of 25 points since the start of the year.

Meanwhile at Montreal, the Montreal and Canadian Stock Exchanges also recorded high activity in stock trading in their histories. On April 4, 2,715,264 shares were traded in set a daily record.

World copper prices began to drop after the end of April, enthusiasm subsided and this was the last of the heavy speculative buying for the year.

At the same time the industrial advance began to slow down when the Bank of Canada boosted the rediscount rate to three per cent, indicating that the country was endeavoring to keep economic growth within bounds.

GRADUAL DECLINE

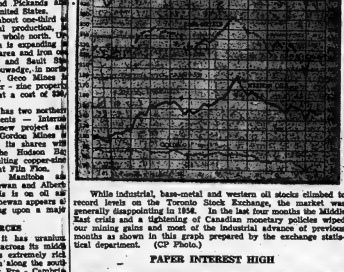
Throughout May prices underwent a gradual decline in all sections as technical factors, such as profit - taking relgned. But the traditional summer rally set in May 25.

The advance, however, was temporarily halted by the second Conference illness June 8. But shortly after, Eisenhower again announced he would be a candidate for the re-election and the summer advance continued, spurred on by an Ottawa announcement forecasting that Canadian business would have a record expenditure.

At the same time corporation reports were good, dividend payments at record levels and industrial indices on the exchange rose to record heights again.



The advance was mildly upset at the end of July when Egypt'nationalized the Suez Canal but a brief drop in prices was followed by a rally.

Prices in Washington in the first week of August to the effect that a premium would be paid by the United States for a total of existing production costs, brought about advances in Canadian uranium producers.

Markets reached their peaks for the year in the second week of August. While industrial, base-metal and western oil stocks climbed to record levels on the Toronto Stock Exchange, the market was generally disappointing in 1956.

In the last four months the Middle East crisis and a tightening of Canadian monetary policies wiped our mining gains and most of the industrial advances of previous months as shown in this graph prepared by the exchange statistical department. (CP Photo.)

PAPER INTEREST HIGH

This graph, prepared by the statistical department of the Toronto Stock Exchange, shows movements of two leading groups on the Montreal Stock Exchange in 1956. Papers climbed to their highest levels in a decade during the first eight months, overrode during the Middle East crisis and rallied towards the year's end. Utilities swung in a moderate range. # Defence Effort Concentrated In Factory and Laboratory

By DAVE McINTOSH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's main defence effort in 1956 was concentrated in the factory and the research laboratory.

Factories poured out a stream of new weapons while in the laboratories the search continued for even more modern ones.

It was still too early to determine the effect of development of new weapons on Canada's armed forces, but the defence department evidently hoped the chief result would be more firepower per serviceman and thus fewer man power needed.

At year's end, External Affairs Minister Pearson, fresh from the annual meeting of the North Atlantic council in Paris, said consolidation of tactical atomic weapons for Canada's forces in Europe has been completed.

But if composition of the forces changed little, their equipment was being modernized.

SERVICES REVIEWED

This was the picture by services:

RCAF home defence squadrons —nine in number, the last of which was equipped with a new version of the CF-100 twin-jet interceptor—were formed in the Canadian north to climb higher than previous models.

The 13-squadron air division in France and West Germany continued to have modern versions of the Sabre jet fighter. One squadron received the CF-100 and three more will do so in 1957. Plans were laid to equip six of the 12 Sabre squadrons at home with the Sabre.

Development continued on the supersonic CF-105 interceptor and began on adaptation of the Bomarc, American surface-to-air guided missile, to Canadian use.

The DEW (Distant Early Warning) radar line in the Canadian Arctic and new mid-Canada radar system to back-stop it continued operation. The Pinetree radar network in southern Canada for control operations of the interceptors — was beefed up with addition of new stations.

The air force considered plans for more squadrons in the air defence system. Electronics would play a bigger jobs now performed by airmen.

The RCAF took delivery of the new Arrow jet and the patrol bomber and awaited completion of development of the new-bow CL-28 long-range Maritime reconnaissance plane.

ARMY EXPANSION MAPS

The navy acquired new Banshee jet fighters and anti - submarine helicopters and the "Bonaventure" of the new aircraft carrier Bonaventure joined the fleet.

Experimental work began on use of helicopters as submarine detectors. Work on the Iroquois jet pursued the highly secret task of developing a supersonic interceptor for submarine detection.

Though the navy declared officially cancelled, it believed to have full knowledge of a new nuclear-powered submarine and development of a new destroyer escorts on order.

Preparations began for the FN (Fabrique Nationale) .300-calibre automatic rifle for the army's standard infantry weapon.

A new armored personnel carrier was under development. Research got under way on a "Bobcat" light armored vehicle and troops in the field and able to take off and land in short distances.

The army both at home and in with standard NATO units. It scheduled to get a new armored regiment so that each of three brigades in the 1st Canadian Infantry division can operate independently if necessary.

The RCAF obtained 42 per cent of the defence budget, or more than $600,000,000. The biggest defence research board was given a 50-per-cent increase in appropriations, a clear indication of the emphasis being placed on development of new weapons. One development announced by the board was a new communicational system using the trails of meteors to transmit signals over long distances.

BURIED IN SEWER

SAGINAW, Mich. (AP) — Two workmen were buried when a sewer they were filled and a third rescued Friday after tons of earth had been shifted them in a new excavation. The victims were Bernard Wolfgram, 42, and Billy Earley, 34.

Curtis Tries to Find Solution To Problem of Crowded Air Space

WASHINGTON (AP)—Maj. Gen. Edward P. Curtis had got out of many tight squeezes while fighting air battles over France against Baron Von Richthofen's "Flying Circus" in the First World War.

Now whirlwind and crowding 60, Curtis is battling a more challenging fight squeezes: finding a solution to the problem of crowded air space.

Since last March, when he became President Eisenhower's aviation adviser, Curtis has been tackling a puzzle that has stumped many folks.

The problem resolves into two major parts:

1. The skyways, beset by a phenomenal upsurge in air traffic and near misses, are fast approaching the saturation point.

2. What will happen, then, when the supersonic jet airliner is ready for service? Curtis says they have indicated that jet airliners scheduled to start operating in 1959 "will not greatly as much a burden on our present facilities as many of us had feared."

Extraordinary runway lengths of 10,000 feet or more will be required for the jet long-range intercontinental flights with full loads, he under extreme conditions.

Aviation facilities have failed to keep pace with steadily increasing air traffic, he said, primarily because the industry grossly underestimated the rate of growth dur-

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

RETROSPECT

The year ending tonight was a fine one in sport in the city and district despite the fact the two major brackets were a disappointment.

Jack Carney's senior baseball club was all ready to go to the wire but circumstances outside of their control caused another washout of the popular sport. There was at one time hope that a Border League consisting of American and Canadian teams would be formed but this fell through when the American teams and Kingston dropped out of the running.

HOCKEY

Senior hockey saw the Belleville Memos playing in the former Eastern Ontario senior "B" league a distinct disappointment. They were ousted from playoff participation, and the Whitby Dunlops went on to win the group and Ontario championships.

Over 800 youngsters took part in organized hockey under the jurisdiction of the Belleville Minor Hockey Association and its president Bill Gault. From a league's point of view the season was a success although the city representatives were all ousted in their first round of OMHA competition by Kingston clubs.

BASEBALL

In baseball the Paul Haggis juveniles brought honor and glory to the city with its all-Ontario championship. The youngsters played in the South Hastings League and entered the OBA playdowns. They downed Oshawa in two straight games, then went on to sweep a double bill from Sarnia after losing the first one away.

Stewart Warner midgets were ousted by a strong Oshawa club in two straight games after beating Cornwall in the first round, two straight.

The Y's Men bantams defeated Cornwall and Oshawa but lost the final series to Chatham. The TPT peewees whipped Peterborough, then played in the Hamilton tournament, losing to Stratford.

Castellan won the South Hastings title in a spectacular comeback, dropping the first three, then winning the next four in the best-of-seven series.

SOFTBALL

Point Anne brought home two softball titles, the Belleville and District League and the OASA intermediate industrial champions, the second for as many times in a row. They defeated the strong Frankford Merchants for the city crown. Frankford went on to win the All-Ontario intermediate "B" title.

Brown's Bread won the first championship of the new City Softball League while Mead Johnson won the playoffs trophy and title.

In OASA intermediate "A" Point Anne was ousted by the mighty Bay Judd and his Lakefield team two games to one in a great series. In Intermediate "AA" Bob Temple's Bobcats, last year's titlists, were defeated in the first round by Peterborough.

In OASA intermediate Industrial the Ox Pointers ousted Oshawa Motors and defeated Toronto Roe Aircraft two of three for the title.

The Kiwanis midgets downed Peterborough 2-1 in the first round but lost to Oshawa 2-1 in the first city series in midget softball.

The Frankford Merchants copped their Intermediate "B" title by sweeping Picton aside in two straight, the same with Cobourg, Otto Jarvis, then won two of three from Malartic for the all-provincial crown.

SOCCER

The RCAF 6 R.D. soccer club won two trophies in season playoffs, taking the Bay of Quinte League title and the Belleville Charity Club. Belleville Northern Electric were the winners of the Trenton Challenge Cup.

GOLF

The Bay of Quinte Golf and Country Club had one of its best links seasons in years. It boasted added membership with a decided upping in the calibre of play. Women and men golfers came home with highly creditable showings on other courses and the annual competitive play on the home links was close and well contested.

Harry Ridley won the club championship for the year with Mrs. Peggy St. John taking the women's title. Gary Bowerman won the club junior championship in the first year of play.

TENNIS

The season was highly successful for the Bay of Quinte Tennis League. The Point Anne club captured the Canada Cement and Corby Distillery trophies. The Six Point racquetteers won their third consecutive playoffs title and celebrated the first time they had finished the season with double honors.

YACHTING

Seasonal light airs prevented the Bay of Quinte Yacht Club from enjoying its usual highly successful season, although several closely contested races were sailed.

Ian Morch won the club championship and the Commander's trophy with Frank Foley runner-up, taking the O. L. Bell cup. Ralph Morton sailing Bill Wirth's craft, copped the centre-board class title with Freeman Burrows with Donald Big Bay race. Bill Greaves won the same [illegible] in his centre-board boat.

Fleming Mackell Scores Trio Fattens Average, Pay Check; Leafs, Chihawks Split Honors

By KEN WELLS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

You may rouse an amateur athlete with dressing-room exhortations, but experience shows the professional is most affected by a plea to his wallet.

The latest proof of that is Fleming Mackell, stocky Boston Bruins centre, who scored three goals Sunday night as Bruins licked the Red Wings 4-2 in Detroit to regain the National Hockey League lead.

Last season Bruins finished fifth. The 27 - year - old Mackell scored only seven goals in 52 games. He took a voluntary pay cut this season and said that the more he scored this season, the more he'd be paid.

Mackell rose to the bait. In 35 games of the 1956-57 campaign he has scored 11 goals.

HARS STILL THIRD

Bruins were the only team to improve its league status appreciably over the weekend. Montreal Canadiens whipped New York Rangers 6-3 in Montreal Saturday but stayed in third place.

Toronto Maple Leafs beat Chicago Black Hawks 6-3 in Toronto Saturday to climb into a tie with Rangers for fourth, but lost the return match Sunday as Al Rollins shut out 3-0.

Sharing the honors with Mackell as the Bruins beat the Wings was goaltender Terry Sawchuk, who stopped 26 shots.

Real Chevrefils scored Boston's fourth goal while Red Kelly and Ted Lindsay tallied for Detroit.

TWO FOR BELIVEAU

At Montreal, Canadiens won their fifth on home ice over the Rangers.

Jean Beliveau, the superlative centre, scored two goals for Montreal Maurice Richard, Claude Provost and Bernie Geoffrion one each and Bernie Geoffrion celebrated his return from a broken jaw layoff by scoring another.

Danny Lewicki, Dean Prentice and Andy Hebenton were the scoring Rangers.

In spite of their 1-1 split, the weekend was a hard one for the Leafs. Ted Kraeger, their top goal-getter and leading centre, suffered a shoulder separation in Chicago Sunday and may be out for three weeks.

Kraeger fell in Toronto Saturday, along with Sid Smith, Bob Pulford, Billy Harris, Gerry McNeil, and Rudy Migay. Glen Skov, Harry Watson and Hec Lalande scored for Hawks.

The Big Seven

Two goals and an assist repaired Jean Beliveau's lead in the National Hockey League scoring race during the weekend. The burly centre's three points in a single game gave him a total of 35 —19 goals and 33 assists — and raised his margin over Detroit's Gordie Howe to four.

Howe went pointless in Detroit's single game played in that period. Lindsay gained one goal for a total of 66 points, four behind Howe whose 33 goals still are the league's tops.

Marlies Clip Bilts' Margin With 1-0 Win

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Toronto Marlboros may finally be ready to challenge Guelph Biltmores for the leadership of the Ontario Hockey Association's Junior A series.

Defending Memorial Cup champions, Marlboros have been struggling along far out of the lead all season. At one point they trailed Biltmores by 11 points.

After two weekend victories, however, the second-place Marlboros have cut the margin to seven points.

Marlboros beat Biltmores 1-0 Sunday, in the second of two games at Toronto, Toronto St. Mikael's Majors defeated St. Catharines Teepees 5-4.

In the only Saturday game Marlboros made it four straight over Teepees, taking a 5-3 verdict.

In Toronto Sunday, Gord Haughton's first period goal gave Marlboros their second win in five starts against Bilts.

Alave Rimstad scored "with 2 seconds remaining" Majors victory. Rimstad's shot had two goals for the winners, Darryl Sly and Leslie Angotti getting the others.

Tim Coshurn and John McKenzie each tallied twice for St. Catharines.

At St. Catharines, Haughton was again Marlboros' top man, with two goals and an assist. Bill Kenaedy, Hank Marczak and Ken Girard were the other Toronto scorers. Rick Neville had two assists for Marlboros.

Bobby Wall tallied two goals for Teepees, the other coming from Ed Hockstra.

Georgia Tech, North, East Win Bowl Tilts

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

North defeated South and West outlasted East while an alert Georgia Tech squad downed the powerful Pittsburgh team in the Dixie NCAA college football games Saturday.

In major post-season action, Georgia Tech and Pittsburgh Panthers 21-14 in the Gator Bowl at Jacksonville, Fla. The Blue turned back the Grey, 14-0, in the North-South game at Montgomery, Ala., and Hardin-Simmons defeated the East, 7-6, in the East-West Shrine game at San Francisco.

Georgia Tech grabbed a 14-0 lead over Pittsburgh in the first half, but Pitt made a strong recovery, led by quarterback Corny Salvaterra who was constantly dangerous with his running and passing.

Tech halfback Paul Rotenberg intercepted a Salvaterra pass to launch the second first down drive down drive and scored the third Georgia touchdown on a five-yard plunge.

Salvaterra was picked as the best. He passed 24 yards to halfback Dick Bowen to score Pitt's first. He passed 42 yards to Dick back Dick Bowen to score Pitt's first major just before the half, and plunged over from two for the second.

The northern all-stars stuck to the ground to defeat the southern squad in the Shrine Grey game. Quarterback Jimmy Hunter of Missouri and fullback Don Vlack of Oklahoma jumped through the southern line for consistent gains. Jim Podlasy, Central Michigan college back, ran 80 yards for a touchdown on a second-quarter punt return. Vicic plunged from the one-yard line to cap a 96-yard march. Tommy Davis' Dawson converted both majors.

The West's victory in San Francisco was regarded as an upset. Quarterback John Brodie of Stanford and halfback Jon Arnett of Southern California spearheaded an 85-yard touchdown drive in the first quarter, capped by Brodie's 28-yard pass to Pete O'Garry of UCLA. Washington's Dean Derby kicked the winning conversion.

Pot of Gold, Untold Glory Await Bowl Games Winners

By ED CORRIGAN
Associated Press Staff Writer

The college football season reaches a ringing crescendo Tuesday when the four major post-season bowl games—the Sugar, Rose, Orange and Orange—are played with a pot of gold and untold glory awaiting the winners.

All four will be televised nationally.

Here is the lineup:

Sugar Bowl at New Orleans—Tennessee (9-0) vs. Baylor (8-2) ABC-TV, 2 p.m. EST.

Rose Bowl at Pasadena, Calif.—Iowa (8-1) vs. Oregon State (7-2-1) NBC-TV, 5 p.m. EST.

Cotton Bowl at Dallas—Syracuse (7-1) vs. Texas Christian (7-3), NBC-TV, 2 p.m. EST.

Orange Bowl at Miami—Colorado (7-2-1 vs. Clemson (7-1-2) CBS-TV, 2 p.m. EST.

LOADS OF OPTIMISM

Most of the coaches of the Big Four spent today making last minute preparations for their games and issuing surprisingly optimistic statements over their chances.

Perhaps the most difficult task will be faced by Baylor, which could do no better than third in the Southwest Conference. The Bears meet Jim Tatum's Tennessee the second - ranked team in the country in the final Associated Press poll, all-victorious Big Seven Majors and a completely unfamiliar foe.

"That's true," admitted Sam Boyd, the Baylor coach. "We've gotten used to playing the single wing formation which Tennessee uses since we were beaten three years' ago by Arkansas. In fact, some of my boys never have seen it, let alone played it."

"But," continued Boyd, "We are no gates and they'll know they have been in a football game."

Tennessee is favored by 7½ points. A capacity crowd of 81,000 is expected.

FIGHTS LETHARGY

Oregon State coach Tommy Prothro not only must keep an anxious eye on the odds — his team is a 7½-point underdog — but he's fighting another battle, that of lethargy.

"The kids just don't seem to be thinking about football," said the coach of the Big Seven Conference champions.

Iowa coach Forest Evashevski, who thinks the teams are about evenly matched, would not hazard a guess, but the club's mental attitude.

"We thought the boys were 'down' for the Notre Dame game," he commented. "We went out and won, 48-8."

As usual, a throng of 100,000 is anticipated for the festivities.

WEATHER PROBLEM

Syracuse coach Ben Schwartzwalder was as much concerned about the weather as he was about the opposition. He is hoping the temperature will be in the 50's.

"There's a wide difference in my first and second teams" he explained, "and I want to leave the first in there as long as possible."

Hot weather, of course, would tire out the first team and work to the Orange's disadvantage.

A crowd of 60,000 is anticipated for the game.

Probably the most confident of all the coaches is Dallas Ward, whose Colorado team is favored by 3 points over Clemson in the Orange Bowl.

"My boys fully expect to bring home Colorado's first bowl victory," he said airily.

Bears Back to Hibernation With Crushing 47-7 Defeat

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Giants were red hot and the Chicago Bears and 58,836 fans were frozen.

That's the story of the 1956 National Football League championship playoff in a nutshell.

The Giants blipped over the frozen turf of Yankee Stadium in their white basketball shoes for six touchdowns Sunday on the way to a shocking 47-7 victory over the Bears, who had gone into the game three-point favorites.

The Giants amassed a 34-7 halftime lead in a fine display of balanced offense and rugged defence. The Bears never were able to get back in the game.

"I never saw a Giant team up as high for a game as this one," Bert Bell, ...

RECORD EARNINGS

Despite the cold and the strong wind, the partisan crowd enjoyed the rout of the mighty Bears. Wally Yo..., the total gate of $317,385 and winning share of $1,779.19 and losers' cut of $1,485.16 were records.

Giant coach Jim Lee Howell was particularly pleased with the fine play of quarterback Charlie Conerly and fullback Mel Triplett.

"To me Triplett looked better than Rick Casares (the Bears' fullback who was the league's leading ball carrier and was held to 43 yards in 14 carries). And I'm not trying to run down Casares."

Howell also praised Frank Gifford, his great halfback and former Mcgrival Aloutte Alex Webster.

TWO FOR WEBSTER

Triplett, who gained 71 yards in 23 carries, smashed through the middle for 17 yards and the first touchdown, bowling over umpire Sam Wilson. Robustelli's recovery of Casares' fumble set up Ben Agajanian's first field goal, a 17-yard kick. That made it 10-0 at 4:59 of the first period.

Agajanian booted a 42-yard field goal later in the first period and Webster scored twice in the second period on short runs.

The Bears picked up their lone touchdown in the second when Casares went nine through the middle. Harry Gilmer's end zone recovery after Ray Beck blocked Brown's punt made it 34-7 at the half.

Conerly threw nine yards to Kyle Rote for a third period score and hit Gifford on a 12-yard play in the final period. In Agajanian added five placements but missed one, his first as a Giant.

Manchester Nips Portsmouth 2-1 To Retain Lead

LONDON (CP)—Depite rain, mud and thaw-melted snow, all but one of the games scheduled for the English and Scottish Socce- Leagues were played Saturday. A third Division match between Plymouth and Newport was cancelled at the half after rain burned the Plymouth field into a bog.

In the English League First Division Manchester United held on to a two-point lead by defeating Portsmouth, 2-1.

But two hard-fighting London teams—Tottenham Hotspur and Arsenal—kept up with the league leaders by winning their matches. The second-place Spurs shut out Bolton Wanderers 4-0 and third-ranking Arsenal outplayed West Bromwich Albion 3-0.

Hearts, which so far has lost but two of its scheduled Scottish League matches, stretched its first-place margin over Motherwell to five points by winning 3-2 at Aberdeen while Motherwell was losing to Falkirk 3-1.

In England, the total crowds Saturday for all league games was 780,582, more than double the attendance of the previous Saturday.

Providence Reds kept their string of home victories intact Sunday night by walloping third-place Cleveland Barons 6-1 in an American Hockey League game.

League - leading Providence, bouncing back from a 3-2 Saturday night loss to Hershey Bears, counted their ninth straight home victory in the win over the Barons.

The up - and - coming Hershey Crew vaulted into second place over the Barons by virtue of two weekend victories. They also beat Buffalo 5-1 Sunday night, Springfield Indians, in last place, burned back Buffalo 8-1 Saturday then beat Rochester Americans 3-1 Sunday. A win Saturday tossed the Plymouth field into a bog.

Jim Bartlett, scrappy left winger, scored two goals in the third period in the Reds' win over the Barons. On one he was assisted by Al Dewsbury and Johnny Bower. The Providence netminder shut out Cleveland on 30 shots.

Hearts, which so far has lost but two of its scheduled Scottish League matches, stretched its first-place margin over Motherwell to five points by winning 3-2 at Aberdeen while Motherwell was losing to Falkirk 3-1.

In England, the total crowds Saturday for all league games was 780,582, more than double the attendance of the previous Saturday.

Puck to defenceman Andy Branigan who fed it to Bartlett.

Harry Pidhirny scored for the Indians midway through the first period. Gary Aldcorn tied the score, before Maurice Collins and Ken Schinkel sewed it up for the Indians in the finale.

Hershey blasted home three goals in three minutes in the first period then coasted to thier win over the Bisons. Hershey scorers were Bob Hassard, Dunc Fisher, Arnie Kullman, Lorne Davis and Al Nicholson. Chuck Blair counted for Buffalo.

Warwick Offers To Take Team To Moscow

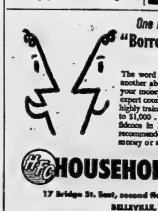
TRAIL, B.C. (CP)—Grant Warwick, playing coach of the Western International Senior League Trail Smoke Eaters, said Sunday he will take the team to the world hockey championships in Moscow next year "if transportation is paid" and if the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association provides added player strength.

Warwick, who was with the Penticton Vs when they won the world title two years ago, said the added player strength would have to include a goaltender.

The CAHA has decided against sending a team to Moscow to try to retrieve for Canada the crown won last year by the Russians.

George Dudley, secretary-manager of the CAHA said Sunday he has not officially heard of an offer by Warwick to take his team to Moscow.



At his Midland, Ont., home Dudley said the CAHA already has decided not to send a team "so such an offer would be pointless."

FORM PLAYER ASSOCIATION

NEW YORK (AP)—Pro football players of the National League have organized a National Football Players Association and retained Creighton Miller, former Notre Dame star, as legal counsel, he new organization appears to be patterned on the same general outline as the Baseball Players Association.

Norm Van Brocklin of Los Angeles and Kyle Rote of New York were selected to join with Miller in presenting their objectives to Commissioner Bert Bell and the others.

Among the objectives are "training camp expenses" which include pay for exhibition games.

Rosewall Signs With Kramer Tennis Troupe

By WILL GRIMSLEY

ADELAIDE (AP) — Australia's famous "tennis twins" who have won the Davis Cup three of the last four years were separated Sunday when Ken Rosewall signed a $62,000 contract to play with Jack Kramer's professional troupe.

The other half of the brilliant tandem, Lewis Hoad, spurned an offer which would have netted him $67,500 tax free at the end of two years to make a new bid for the amateur tennis grand slam which he barely missed during the last year.

"Hoad definitely will not turn pro this year," said a close associate of the bombardier who many regard as the world's best amateur although he lost the last three decisions to Rosewall.

"I would like to get them both and I am still hoping," said Kramer, "but prospects don't look bright."

ADDED ATTRACTIONS

Rosewall, who recently married, assumed himself of grocery money for quite a while when he signed for Kramer.

Besides the $62,000 guarantee for a period covering 13 months, he was promised 25 per cent of all receipts over $500,000 plus a five-per-cent bonus and option on a new $25,000 contract should he beat Pancho Gonzales on the tour and conquer the kingpin of the professionals.

Gonzales, recognized monarch of the pros, will provide a test for the slender boyish-looking Rosewall, who captured the U.S. championship at Forest Hills last September, breaking Hoad's chain of victories.

The Australians took Rosewall's signing in their stride.

Harry Hopman, non - playing Australian captain - coach, simply said: "I hate to lose Kenny. He is a fine boy. But we still will win the Davis Cup. After all, that fellow over there is the best in the world." He pointed at Hoad.

Saturday, Rose and England's Roger Becker eliminated Don Flail of Toronto and Eddie Moylan of Trenton, N.J., from the first round of the doubles competition by a score of 6-1, 6-4.

SIMS BACK IN STRIDE

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Dave Sime, Duke University's flying redhead, returned to track competition Sunday after a tournament absence and equalled the world record in the 100-metre dash with a time of 10.2 seconds.

Sime, the big attraction in the Sugar Bowl track meet here, beat out Bobby Whitden of Texas Tech several strides.

Sime, who pulled a groin muscle six months ago, re-hurt it in England in September and missed the Olympic Games.

Randy Wood Writes Success Story of Record Business in '56

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The success story of 1956 or any other year in the record business has been written by Randy Wood.

His achievement: Parlaying a record store in Gallatin, Tenn., into a company that has outsold the four veteran labels in pop records this year. Now Paramount Pictures is reported to have offered $3,000,000 for the firm.

Randy is head and guiding hand of Dot Records. At any teenager can tell you, Dot Records are the most. Among the best-sellers on the label: Pat Boone, Gale Storm, Johnny Maddox, The Fontane Sisters, the Hilltoppers and now Tab Hunter.

You'd never suspect that Randy is the boss behind all this dynamic music. He's a quiet fellow who can't play an instrument, can't sing worth a hang and never was in show business before.

HE LIKES SOUND

"It's the sound I'm interested in. I like nothing better than to go into a recording session and record out three hours later with something that a million people pay a dollar for.

"I like the money that's important to me. It's creating something that will be heard and enjoyed all over the country."

He began by putting out some records of local Tennessee musicians — not country music, but what he called "middle of the road music."

The road he chose fitted the public's yen exactly. The record buyers, who consist largely of teenagers, were looking for a new kind of music. Dot Records provided what they wanted.

The company started in 1953 and took off immediately. Now it has a top stable of stars, and all of them were built from scratch.

Last July the company got too big, so Randy moved it to Hollywood. Now he has big plans to branch out into all kinds of record fields.

TV Steadily Improves Job Of Covering Football Games

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP) — Tuesday being a day largely devoted to football, with four bowl games occupying six hours or so on the three major American networks, this seems like a good time to assess the job television is doing in covering the sport.

The job admittedly is tough. A football field is 160 yards long. Things often happen fast. An adept T-quarterback, who can fool the opposition right on top of him, can also fool a camera man up in the stands.

But it has been my impression that in general TV is doing an increasingly polished job.

Certainly there are irritating times. In the crucial Chicago Bears-Detroit Lions pro game a couple of weeks ago, for example, the studied manner in which the announcers focused on the crowd, the goal posts and anywhere else while a first-rate brawl was going on in the middle of the field was highly annoying.

But this is the kind of decision the mixer has to make, and he can't always please everybody. The mixer is the man who looks at four or five or six pictures being taken simultaneously by different cameras and picks out the one that goes over the air.

It's always amazing to me that he isn't nuts, or at least wall-eyed, by the middle of the first quarter.

But this viewer lays no claims to being an expert at football broadcasting, so I'll spend no time to call on one—Ted Smits, the general sports editor of The Associated Press and a man who makes watching football a profession.

He concedes that he and others in the press box often have been confused by the razzle-dazzle of modern ball handling, and has found that TV in many cases opens up an entirely new aspect of the game.

"True," he says, "the TV camera men sometimes get confused follow the decoy and not the man carrying the ball. But because of the big crews and the long familiarity with the teams involved they usually manage to do a cracker-jack job—with the result that viewers get a much closer, clearer view of the work in the backfield than do the fans in the stadium.

"TV, of course, can't give the broad picture in a pass play. Also, the patterns of defense along with the fine points of line play are usually subordinated to the simpler task of following the ball. But by and large the job is done so well that the home viewer really has the advantages on the stadium-goer."

BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

In close decisions the best bridge players on earth raise their eyes to the skies. As in deal 26 from the world championship, all the cards of which you see here:

NORTH
♠Q 9 8
♣A K 10 8 4 2

WEST
♠J 10 4
♥K 7 4
♦A 9 8 3
♣6 5 3

EAST
♠9 8 3
♥A Q 10 6 5
♦K Q 10
♣Q 3

SOUTH
♠A K 6 5 2
♦7 6 4

The West and east pair in room one was from the American team. The bidding in that room went like this:

| West | North | East | South |
|---|---|---|---|
| Pass | 1♣ | 1♠ | 2♣ |
| Pass | 3♣ | Pass | Pass |
| 2♥ | 3♠ | 3♥ | All Pass |

The room one east knew his three heart bid might be a trick short in his pair, but west in west told him so by his first pass and later assist; a clear indication of something shy.

The east player in room two did not bid three hearts even when his partner made an immediate assist over an overcall. They must have had some understanding that any assist showed weakness.

Three hearts was defeated one trick when south cashed two top spades and let north ruff a third spade. North then cashed ace and king of clubs for the setting trick.

The room two north at three clubs was just unlucky to go down one. Opponents took four tricks in hearts and diamonds. Declarer later took a trump finesse that fell to the east queen.

You need not feel so bad when you guess wrong at a bridge game. The best of them do it; sometimes more often.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is according to the stars.

For Wednesday, January 2, 1957

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Uniform planning, keen observation among today's top "musts." Think less of others' actions and concentrate on your own. From there on in you can muster better methods for greater success.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — Sharpen up thoughts since today will present situations, problems that may be unusual. Remember, it's easier to get into trouble and entanglements than to get out. Be tactful.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — A somewhat unanimous outlook today but keep on working. Consider others' opinions as well as your own. Remember, we all depend on one another.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Look for new, different things. Select those best suited to your principles and life. Try them sincerely and you could find more happiness, a more contented way of life.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — If not satisfied with results, don't go on regardless. Make changes—perhaps even in your own attitude. Don't put the blame elsewhere.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) — Look for smooth going after the early hours. Success gives a fine exhilarating feeling and it can be gained by trying.

September 24 to October 23 — (Libra) — Liberal advantages for all who will devote time and study to their endeavors. Get to the root of your problems; be wisely determined and you will achieve. Watch diet.

October 24 to November 22 — (Scorpio) — Mastering complicated and intricate problems will be easier than solving little ones now. Use your best judgment, and they will all fade away.

November 23 to December 21—(Sagittarius) — New friends, a better status in your position indicated if you deliberate before acting. Be ready to participate in those things that could prove soundly remunerative.

December 22 to January 20 — (Capricorn) — You may be attracted to certain persons now. Some could mean much to your future affairs; others should be out of them. Be discriminating. Now, happier foundations for the future can be built for home, loved ones.

January 21 to February 19 — (Aquarius) — Success is more enduring when one strives a little harder, analyzes more carefully. Today can be productive as well as personally satisfying, if you work at it.

February 20 to March 20 — (Pisces) — System, efficiency and good humor will make this day's recipe for success. Give your artistic ability a chance.

You born today: The steadiness of your ambition and persistency can just about move that "immovable mountain." Not always shown in affections, you nevertheless love your family deeply, will be faithful, protective. A good friend, you can also be a relentless opponent. You born on this date usually reach success through hard personal effort, by reason of which your attainments are more lasting. Don't be too exacting, and curb any tendency to caustic words and over-sensitiveness.

BIG DETERRENT

VICTORIA (CP) — Because of the fear of atomic war, world peace is almost assured, Dr. D. H. Copp of the University of British Columbia said in an address here. A member of the Canadian delegation to the Geneva conference on atomic power last year, he said deterrents to war should be brought completely under control of the United Nations or some similar body.

FEW APPLES

VICTORIA (CP) — Severe frosts and wintry conditions caused considerable drop in British Columbia's apple crop this year. The yield was estimated at 4,400,000 bushels, about 32 per cent less than in 1955.

BIG EXPANSION

VANCOUVER (CP)—An expansion program costing $40,000,000 has been announced by the British Columbia telephone Company for 1957. It is part of a three-year program started in 1955, costing altogether about $100,000,000.

Plans to Build 2 Penitentiaries Are Postponed

By ALAN DONNELLY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—Plans to build two new federal penitentiaries have been postponed pending a federal-provincial meeting next spring which will bring about sweeping changes in Canada's penal system.

The meeting of Justice Minister Garson and provincial attorneys-general will discuss the latest recommendations made last summer by a four-man committee headed by Justice Gerald Fauteux of the Supreme Court of Canada. No date has been set.

One of the committee's major proposals was that the federal government accept responsibility for keeping prisoners sentenced to terms of more than six months, instead of two years as at present.

It also recommended establishment of a five - man national parole board and creation of special institutions to care for certain types of prisoners.

THREE PLANNED

The committee's report was the product of 2½ years' work. About a year before it was published, the federal government announced plans to build three new penitentiaries.

Preliminary construction on one of these has started at Kingston, Ont., about 15 miles northeast of the present Kingston penitentiary.

But no definite steps have been taken to start the other two. One was to be a women's penitentiary at Prairie province.

The fact that the federal-provincial meeting will be held until spring indicates that the major portions of the Fauteux committee report will not be implemented at the next session of Parliament.

Canada Using Only Quarter Of Water Power

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada boosted her hydroelectric capacity to 18,-256,148 horsepower in 1956 but still was using less than 28 per cent of her undeveloped resources.

That was the highlight of a review of hydroelectric development issued today by the resources department. It forecast the addition of nearly 4,000,000 more horsepower in the next two years as new power plants now under construction begin to hum.

The review said 845,000 new horsepower was added to the national total during the year, 6,000 horsepower more than was brought into service in 1955. More than 500,000 of this was in Quebec alone, 60,000 the rest sprd ad through various other provinces.

Construction work still in progress indicates the addition of more than 3,500,000 horsepower in 1957 and probably another 2,500,-000 horsepower in 1958," the review said.

Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission's principal increase during the year was 74,000 additional horsepower brought into operation at Manitou Falls on the English River in the northern part of the province. But the commission had many other projects under way and also was deeply engaged in the St. Lawrence power project, expected to produce 1,-360,000 horsepower, with initial service scheduled for 1958 and completion by 1960.

WON'T BUY CANADIAN JETS

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—Argentina's naval air force expects to acquire 36 Panther jets from the United States shortly, authoritative sources said Sunday night. They said plans to buy 34 new Sabre jets from Canada have been cancelled because the navy will be able to buy all the Panther jets reconditioned for almost the same price as one new Sabre jet.

SOCIAL LEADER DIES

LOCUST VALLEY, N.Y. (AP)—Mrs. Howard W. Maxwell, a noted social leader and member of one of the wealthiest families on Long Island, died Saturday from a wasp sting. Mrs. Maxwell, 64, was in the conservatory of her mansion watering flowers when stung on the hand. She collapsed and died in a few minutes.

New and Revolutionary Trend In Treating Young Lawbreakers

By ROGER GREENE

ASHLAND, Ky. (AP)—A pretty taffy-haired coed at Ashland Junior College found herself attracting glances at a strangely aloof freshman.

Other students called him Dan. Then they met, Dan spoke politely but never tried to date her. It piqued her vanity. Finally, she asked him to a dance.

"I'm sorry," he apologized, "I can't."

Pressed for an explanation, Dan told her: "You know that federal prison out on the edge of town. I . . . I live there. I'm a prisoner. I robbed a bank."

His story was true. Dan K—, 19, had held up a bank at gunpoint and escaped with $18,000. It was his first offence and he was serving the first few months of a two-year sentence at the federal reformatory here. He was allowed—and attending the local junior college by day. The prison small brook dropped him at the campus in the morning. At night, it picked him back to prison.

NEW TREATMENT

Although far from typical, the case of Dan K— illustrates a new and revolutionary trend in the treatment of young lawbreakers committed to prison under the 1950 Federal Youth Corrections Act.

Basically, the program is designed to separate youngsters from hardened criminals—and to prove that juvenile delinquency needn't lead inevitably to an adult career of crime.

Strange things are happening. On a visit to Ashland, I watched a prison psychiatrist inject inmates with "truth serum"—not to force a confession but to break down psychic barriers and probe deep behind the tough, embittered front of a frightened boy.

Investigation disclosed that federal prison authorities also have recently begun using electro-encephalogram (brain wave) machines and "tranquility" drugs in bold new experiments to find out what makes young criminals tick.

Two hundred miles eastward, at Natural Bridge, Va., nestling in a sunny valley between pine studded peaks of the Blue Ridge Mountains, I found a 15-acre prison without walls or bars. It has no cells, no locks, no armed guards, not even a fence or a sign to brand it as a prison.

The sign at the entrance merely says: National Bridge Boys Camp.

SALVATION IN WORK

Camp director Jack McGowan, a bouncy, fast-talking Scotsman, told how the camp - run. At present, there are about 70 teenage boys (15 to 18), mostly from the city's tenements or orphanages where they were "cuffed and knocked around." The boys get $1 a month as a "meritorious service award," and work like beavers to earn it.

One 17-year-old boy runs the model chicken house where 139 hens lay more than enough eggs to fill the camp's needs. Other youngsters tend the three-acre vegetable garden, shovel coal for the steam boilers, make concrete cinder blocks, work on roads, clear forests and turn out attractive highway signs.

Run on the honor system, the camp had only six individual escape attempts—"taking a run," they call it—in 1956.

"That's a low for a prison without walls," McGowan said. "We count them every 30 minutes. Otherwise there's nothing to stop them from taking off. After a while they learn we'll do anything in the world for them—if they earn it."

Quints Born In South India, All Doing Well

PONDICHERRY, India (Reuters) — A South Indian woman gave birth Saturday to quintuplets, all girls, at a local maternity hospital.

The mother and all five babies were reported Sunday to be "progressing well."

The 35-year-old woman already is mother of five girls.

The quints were naturally delivered.

(The Associated Press said each girl weighed five pounds.)

Only two families of quintuplets are known to have survived. The most famous among them the world are the Dionne quintuplets, one of their number, Emilie, died Aug. 6, 1954 at a Roman Catholic convent near Sto. Agathe, Que. She was 20 years old.

The other quintuplets are the Dilgentis, two boys and three girls, born in Buenos Aires, July 14, to Valleda Dilgenti, wife of G. Franco Dilgenti, president an Argentine textile corporation.

Pope Receives Million Persons In Audiences

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Pius is estimated to have received 1,000,000 persons this year in audiences.

This has been one of the busiest years of the Pope's reign, and the 80-year-old head of the Roman Catholic Church enjoyed his best health in several years.

He has received more than 200 major speeches and radio addresses and held a constant series of general special and private audiences.

Among those received were the presidents of Brazil, Indonesia, Liberia, Costa Rica, the secretary general of the United Nations, ex-President Truman of the United States and Chancellor Konrad Adenauer of Germany.
